RADICAL SLOGANS BY CAMPUS DEMONSTRATORS REPORTED

Seoul HANGUK ILBO in Korean 3 Nov 81 p 11

[Text] The recent series of college student demonstrations on campuses have changed their aspects and are becoming more and more radical, together with violence done by a few radical students. During the past two months from September, there have been on-campus demonstrations staged at Seoul National University, Korea University, Yonsei University, Sogang University, Songgyunkwan University, Kyunghee University, Hankuk University of Foreign Studies, and Ewha Woman's University.

The demonstrations have been staged by an extremely limited number of students, in several scores or at times in several hundreds. They have openly challenged the school authorities and the present government; and masterminds have taken the course of "leftist leaning" or "revolution by force," according to the authorities concerned.

Their slogans invariably say that the present government is "a fascist regime" or declare "the anti-fascist struggles." With these slogans, they have made the student demonstrations similar in nature to what North Korea calls for "overthrowing the power system by a revolution by force." The students have even used the following slogans unhesitatingly; "Down with the Chun regime" and "Away with the present regime."

The slogans negate the school authorities by using invectives. The demonstrators have demanded the arrest of inflation, while calling for a sharp increase in the government's rice purchasing prices. With such an unconvincing logic, they have come to deny the government, and the masterminds are becoming a subversive group of students.

Details of the slogans used in recent major demonstrations are as follows:

Yonsei University (Sept. 30):--"Yankee go home"; "Down with the Chun regime"; "Yankee and Jap, go home."

SNU (Oct. 23):--"Student Defense Corps to pieces"; "Hosting of 1988 Olympics in Seoul is an attempt to exploit the people and avoid international isolation"; "the anti-favoritism campaign is designed to establish the chain of command of the fascist regime."

Sogang University (Sept. 18):--"Ignorant masses, rise for bloody struggles and for a history of blood"; "God of blood, festival of blood, and for the festival"; and "Sogang University people, let us toast, drink blood."

Korea University (Oct. 29):--"By holding the Olympic Games, Korea will gain nothing but the Communist bloc's boycott and financial deficits"; and "Hosting the Olympic Games is political and will produce nothing."

Songgyunkwan University (Oct. 7):--"Education Minister Yi, the fascist tool, destroy yourself"; "Stop immediately sports event TV hook-ups which cost enormous sums of foreign exchange."

Hawkuk University of Foreign Studies and Kyunghee University (Sept. 29) and Ewha Woman's University (Oct. 27):--"We're against hosting the Olympic Games."

SNU PRESIDENT'S VIEWS ON CAMPUS DISTURBANCES

Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 3 Nov 81 p 10

[Interview with Kwon I-hyok, SNU president, by Yi Ch'ang-ho, CHUNGANG ILBO reporter; 2 November 1981 at Mr Kwon's residence]

[Summary] "The recent series of campus disturbances at Seoul National University are intensely distressing in that they have made us feel the dreary reality of rendering it impossible to hold even college festivals properly," SNU President Kwon I-hyok said in an interview made at his official residence late in the night of Nov. 2. At gist of the interview follows:

[Question] Tell us what you have felt while personally experiencing the incident.

[Answer] As the university president, I have nothing to say about when such an incident occurs at the university which boats of the highest intelligence. Moreover, I cannot but feel sorry for the parents. For the faculties, the situation has become so much serious as to be ashamed of even mentioning it.

The student violence which took place on Oct. 23 was certainly shocking. It was not what you usually call a student demonstration staged on the campus.

[Question] In the Oct. 23rd campus turmoil, students resorted to violence, focusing on the campus internal problems. In this respect, it is considered different from the past student demonstrations. How do the school authorities view the nature of the Oct. 23rd demonstrations?

[Answer] Through printed matter scattered whenever there was a campus turmoil, we have felt that there is a problem in the students' maintaining and setting their ideologies. We have noted also that their principles and assertions are extremely political. Their violent demonstrations were too great a shock; and several more successive demonstrations which followed have made us unable to recover our composure. On the fact that students have mobilized violence, we think that it might have been a means employed to induce even more students to join their demonstrations.

[Question] You said that student demonstrators' principles and assertions were too political. Doesn't it mean that there are limits to what you can do about some problem students?

[Answer] In any world colleges, I think there is no student movement devoted solely to political issues. In this respect, our student movement today is different in essential qualities from the Western student movement. However, when a student movement comes to the problem of power system, beyond the level of political power, I think that it is no longer a problem that can be settled by the university itself since the university is also a member of the society as a whole.

The university, of course, cannot rule out its educational consideration in the guidance of problem students. Even in the future, I think that we will guide them leniently and educationally, as we have done so far.

[Question] Many point to that as the reason for chronic student demonstrations on the campus, there is a problem in the students' ability of accommodating a certain ideology. Don't you have any concrete plan to strengthen the critical education of ideologies, which Education Minister Yi Kyu-ho proposed previously?

[Answer] Under the present circumstances, I think that there should absolutely be some critical education in ideologies. But there exist a lot of shortcomings in the educational conditions. At the newly-established National Ethics Department, some sincere studies on this problem are under way. With the support from the school authorities, the department will continue the scholarly review even in the future.

[Question] The last festivals, I think, might be an extreme expression of the fact that today's colleges have lost their own images. What did you feel about the phenomena of becoming increasingly desolate?

[Answer] Colleges are a world of diversity. Students say that they negate what is called black-and-white logic. But I truly regret that they themselves are captivated by such an activity. Student demonstrators denounce vocal groups' performances or other festival events as a "pleasure-loving, decadent, low-quality culture." But aren't these the most democratic events that you can experience only in a democratic society alone?

On that day, we professors told the students that anyone who does not want to listen to the vocal groups, may leave the place. This is the way that the students themselves can give a concrete form to diversity, which we think is the cardinal point of democracy.

They cited the fact that the festivals were sponsored by the Student Defense Corps, as the only reason why they are opposed to the festivals. But that makes no reason. Regarding the student corps as their autonomous body, the school authorities have respected the student intention and precluded any meddling so that the students themselves may make decision through conversations among themselves.

[Question] With the recent incident, there has arisen the question regarding school authority. What are concrete plans and directions, if any, to safeguard the school authority?

[Answer] To put it simply, I think that school authority has two aspects--the professors' authority and right. The safeguarding of school authority means the work of protecting these two rights. Without school authority, the campus autonomy means nothing. Professors block demonstrations for the purpose of protecting both campus order and students.

If students should take their professors who come to dissuade their demonstrations for their enemy and work violence, who in the world can come forth? Taking this opportunity, the professors themselves should also keep their posture steady. They must endeavor to recover their own authority and right through dialogue with students.

[Question] Do the university authorities have any idea to prevent such an untoward campus incident in the future?

[Answer] I hope that the recent incident will mark a certain momentum for the future student guidance policy. Based on affection between teachers and students, we will continue to appeal to the good sense of students. The university authorities' appeal will be posted, and each professor will be asked to exchange talks with as many students as possible.

We will also strengthen dialogues with the parents of students, which actually got under way full-fledgedly at the beginning of this semester. We will send letters to their parents, asking for their cooperation. In particularly, we are scheduled to invite the parents of problem students to the school for consultations. And, we will have to launch even a campaign to stimulate some positive and affirmative spirit within school, probably a drive to do away with indifference, as an initial step.

FESTIVAL ON SNU FOUNDING DAY INTERRUPTED

SK020255 Seoul YONHAP in English 0239 GMT 2 Nov 81

[Text] Seoul, 2 Nov (YONHAP)--The festivities marking the 35th anniversary last week of the founding of Seoul National University (SNU), South Korea's most prestigious state-run institution of higher learning, were interrupted by destructive violent anti-government demonstrations by hundreds of the university's students, eyewitnesses said.

According to the eyewitnesses, the week-long riots started October 23, three days before the start of the annual festivities, when an estimated 300 SNU students gathered at the university library to chant anti-government slogans in a demonstration allegedly incited by a team of six students including Yi Sang-tae, a senior, majoring in biology at the Teachers' College of the university.

At one point during the demonstration, according to the eyewitnesses, the students wielded iron pipes and wooden sticks at faculty members and administrative staff, who were appealing to the students to stop the demonstration. Fifteen faculty and administration staff members were reported to have been injured in the clash. The confrontation developed to a point where students threw stones and bottles containing human excrement to some of the professors, they said.

University authorities said that in leaflets distributed by organizers of the demonstration several "pro-Government" professors were described as "enemies of democratic students," who should be "duly castigated." The October 23 demonstration is seen as a premeditated event. They said those professors and staff members of the Student Council, close to the organizers of the demonstration, had been notified of the event and told to stay away from the scene.

The demonstrations continued throughout the week-long festivities, climaxing on Friday, the eve of the last day of the annual event.

Grand Intervarsity Festival was about to begin on the university's main campus Friday afternoon, when students, boycotting the affair and chanting slogans, sabotaged it and threw stones at faculty members who were trying to disperse the demonstrators, eyewitnesses said. The rioting students stormed the stage and smashed the microphone and other decorations, but were dispersed by the police firing tear gas, they added.

Meanwhile, the SNU authorities have not come up with appropriate actions regarding the demonstrators.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENTS AGREE ON STUDENT PUNISHMENT

SK070550 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 7 Nov 81 p 8

[Text] University presidents in Seoul have broadly agreed on the necessity of intensifying the punishment of students involved in campus disturbances in one way or another in view of seriousness of the recent student activities.

The agreement was reached in a meeting of the presidents of 17 universities located in Seoul, including Seoul National University, at the Education Ministry Thursday to discuss the leftist-leaning trend of some students' violent protest moves on campuses. The meeting was presided over by Education Minister Yi Kyu-ho.

The presidents expressed deep worry about the recent students' wild behavior against professors who tried to calm them down, saying that such unreasonable activities had not been seen in the past.

Those who sympathize with the hard-core protestors should also be punished in the days to come in an effort to effectively eradicate future disturbances, the presidents agreed. The presidents also agreed on the necessity of restructuring the Student Defense Corps in such a way as to have as many students as possible participate in the organization as a possible means to defuse future disturbances.

The recent decision by SNU to punish 71 students in connection with disturbances during the school festival can be said to be an example of punishing the active sympathizers, and other schools will follow suit, according to the ministry officials.

However, the definition of active sympathizers is a matter to be decided by the school authorities themselves, they said.

The participants also decided to reduce the frequency of campus festivals from the current twice in spring and autumn to once from next year and the kind of programs to be performed during the festival will be decided on in consideration of the general opinion of the students.

GOVERNMENT, DJP STUDY EDUCATION TAX LEVY

[Text] A study is being made of scrapping the government plan to impose a tax on the existing property tax as part of the proposed education tax, it was learned yesterday.

According to informed sources, the majority Democratic Justice Party and the government, which proposed the education tax, are trying to revise the government bill in that direction.

Besides, the government and the party were learned to have agreed not to limit the imposition of the new education tax to only five years since educational investment to improve educational conditions would require more than five years.

The sources said the party and the government were racking their brains on how to make up for the setback of 50 billion won that was to be raised in a surtax on the property tax.

Contemplated new tax sources include rearrangement of tax rates imposed on liquors and raising the tax rates on income from stock dividends and bank interest.

Besides, imposing an additional tax on the existing corporate tax is also being considered as a means of making up for the revenue loss.

According to the original version of the education tax bill, about 350 billion won is to be rasied a year by imposing a tax in the form of an addition to the property tax, the liquor tax, and the tax on dividend and interest income.

The DJP has long opposed the imposition of an educational surtax on property, fearing that it would trigger a wave of tax resistance.

Meanwhile, the Democratic Korea Party and the Korea National Party are opposed to the new tax plan entirely, arguing that now is not the time for the government to add to the tax burden of the people although they were fully aware of the necessity for massive educational investments to improve the learning atmosphere at primary, middle and high schools.

The finance committee of the National Assembly, deliberating a host of tax bills, has formed a subcommittee for the close examination beginning tomorrow.

DJP UNHAPPY WITH GOVERNMENT'S HANDLING OF BUDGET

SK310431 Seoul SINMUN in Korean 31 Oct 81 p 2

[From the column: "Stroll on the Political Avenue"]

[Text] The plenary meeting of lawmarkers of the Democratic Justice Party [DJP], which was held on 30 October in the National Assembly building, proceeded in a serious atmosphere, with complaints expressed by some assemblymen about the discord between the party and the government in connection with the issues of designating the lunar new year as a national holiday, the budget settlement committee's approval of this year's supplementary budget bill and so forth.

During the discussion session at the meeting, party spokesman Assemblyman Pong Tu-hwan demanded that the party leaders explain what took place between the Economic Planning Board [EPB] and the Minority Democratic Korea Party [DKP] in the course of passing the supplementary budget bill. He urged that each assemblyman freely express his opinions concerning designation of the lunar new year as a national holiday.

Assemblymen Chong Nam and Pak Kwon-hum raised their voices, saying: The attitudes of the administration officials who offered the glory of slashing 8,600 million won in the supplementary budget to the DKP are a serious and important question which we should not overlook.

Finally, Chairman Yi Chae-hyong, referring to the president's remark that the fifth republic is a government led by the party, said: Let us vigorously advance with the spirit as the leading force of the nation. Thus, he calmed down the heated atmosphere.

This heated debate was caused by the EPB agreeing to slash an additional 1,900 million won after negotiating only with the minority DKP, which made an issue out of the EPB's budget management, despite the fact that the executive secretaries of the three political parties formerly agreed on reducing 6,700 million won during the meeting to adjust the figures of the bill by the budget settlement committee on the morning of 30 October.

The DJP floor leader Yi Chong-chan twice refused to answer phone calls from Deputy Prime Minister Sin Pyong-hyon in order to show his displeasure. He said that Deputy Prime Minister Sin deeply apologized to DJP Secretary General Kwon Chong-tal during their meeting at noon on the same day.

BRIEFS

STUDENT DEMONSTRATORS SENTENCED--Six people, including three college students and a teacher, were sentenced to prison terms ranging from eight months to three years by the Seoul District Criminal Court yesterday for violating the laws on national security, assembly and demonstration. Hwang Il-pong, then a freshman majoring in business administration at Chonnam University, was convicted of failing to report finding a seditious leaflet late last March. Instead, Hwang, 24, passed the leaflet to co-defendant U Yong-chu, 23, and the two discussed a plan to use it for instigating farmers and students to demonstrate, according to a verdict read by the presiding judge, Kim Hong-mu. The judge led a three-man panel. U, the verdict said, handed the same leaflet to co-defendant Kim Chang-chung, 21. It said Kim printed 100 copies of the leaflet and gave them to Kim Tae-yong, then 20 and a freshman at Sogang University, asking him to use them. The Sogang University student was arrested when he scattered some of the copied leaflets at his school May 10, the verdict said. His five co-defendants were also under arrest. He was sentenced to one year in prison. He was also banned from public office and voting in elections for one year. Co-defendants Hwang, U and Chong Kyu-chol, a teacher at the Middle School attached to Chonnam University, were each given identical sentences. Co-defendant Kim Chang-chang, a Catholic farmers movement member assigned to Kwangju, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment and banned from civil rights for the same period. The sixth co-defendant, Chong Chun-kol, 25, a senior and mathematics major at Sogang University, was sentenced to eight months in prison. Yi and four other students Cho Hyon-chong, 25, and Chong Sam-su, 23, seniors at the Liberal Arts and Science College of Chonam National University; and Chong Pyong, 24, and Chong Sok-yun, 20, both freshmen at Kyongsang Junior College--were sentenced to one year of imprisonment suspended for two years. Another student, Pak Chong-yol, 20, junior at the Liberal Arts and Science College of Chonnam National University, was given eight months in jail suspended for two years. Three jobless persons identified as Cho Pong-hun, 27, Chong Chol, 21, and Yi Han-su, 21, were sentenced to one and a half years of imprisonment each with the suspension of their civil rights for one and a half years. SPECIAL PRESIDENTIAL ENVOY LAW--Seoul, 10 Nov (YONHAP)--A cabinet meeting Tuesday approved an amendment to the existing law on the appointment of special presidential envoys, under which cabinet-level envoys will carry the title of deputy prime minister for their overseas missions. The new law also stipulates that the title of an ambassador be conferred on private citizens performing the duties of special presidential envoys. UNIFICATION COUNCIL--In a 27 October steering committee session at the National Assembly, opposition party lawmakers, including representative So Sok-chae of the Democratic Korea Party and Independent Kim Chong-su, discussed the Advisory Council on Peaceful Unification Affairs, expressing concern that the council might become a new version of the old national conference for unification. Representative So Sok-chae said: "There are no opposition figures among members of the Advisory Council on Peaceful Unification Affairs. It appears the advisory council has emerged as a new class." Representative Kim Chong-su discussed the possibility that the Advisory Council on Peaceful Unification Affairs might become a means to preserve political power. Answering these interpellations, the secretary general of the Advisory Council on Peaceful Unification Affairs, Yi Pom-sok, concurrently minister of the unification board, said: "It is our firm position that the Advisory Council on Peaceful Unification Affairs should not be used as a means to maintain political power." Answering Representative Yi Han-tong of the Democratic Justice Party, who interpellated on the treatment of the status of members of the Advisory Council on Peaceful Unification Affairs, Secretary General Yi Pom-sok said: "We have accommodated thos members of the Advisory Council on Peaceful Unification Affairs who had no telephones at their homes by installing telephones, and we will issue official passports to those members of the council who make overseas trips for officials activities related to the advisory council." CRIMINAL PROSECUTION REGULATION--The Supreme Court is going to establish a criminal prosecution regulation, a procedure rule designed to protect the rights and interests of defendants and suspects while issuing warrants or holding criminal court cases and promptly handle the legal proceedings. The Supreme Court will put this regulation into effect beginning next year. The major contents of the draft criminal prosecution regulation, which is currently under review by the court's administrative office, prescribe the adoption of a system for the actual examination of warrants, the banning of the issuance of warrants by junior judges, the expansion of a single judge's jurisdiction, a reporting time for detention and the prior request for reference material when applying for warrants during the detention period. It has been learned that the Supreme Court's effort to establish the criminal prosecution regulation is being accelerated because the issue of the rights of defendants and suspects has emerged as a big social question in connection with a series of incidents including the recent murder of a female college student and corrective measures for this issue are urgently required. It has been noted that considerable portions of the draft criminal prosecution regulation have already been specified in the law. However, they have not been put into effect. Thus consequently, the court is to pay realistic attention to this issue. [Text] [SK281422 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 0300 GMT 28 Oct 81]

'YONHAP' GIVES DETAILS ON SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY PLAN

SK300510 Seoul YONHAP in English 0255 GMT 30 Oct 81

[Text] Seoul, 30 Oct (YONHAP)--Korea is gearing up for "a second industrial revolution," brining its scientific and technological development up to international standard, during this decade.

The fifth five-year science and technology development plan (1982-1986) announced Thursday by the government highlights the industrial application of technology ranging from raw color film, electronic switching boards, microcomputers, optical fibre communications to large scale integration (LSI), at a cost of some 5.4 trillion won (some 7.9 billion U.S. dollars).

The plan, to be carried out beginning next year, envisages a sharp increase of investment in science and technology from an estimated 1.3 percent of the country's gross national product in 1982 to two percent by 1986. The nation's investment in technology development projects in 1979 amounted to 490 million dollars, accounting for a mere 0.3 percent of the world total.

Such an increased investment may reflect the government intention to shift the nation's trade oriented economy to a technology-oriented one during the 1980s or to pursue a sustained economic growth based upon technology development.

The government will inaugurate an interministerial technology promotion council consisting of all ministres, member of state-run research institutes and leading private industrialists next year to help ensure a successful implementation of the five-year technology development plan.

The council will be called into session once every four months to act on matters relating to the training of technological manpower, effective technology development projects in compliance with the country's changing needs, and to the inducement of foreign technologies.

In addition to electric and electronic industries including semiconductors, microcompueters, electronic switching boards and optical fiber communications, the government will intensively develop raw film color, medical supplies and facilities, the dyeing industry, shipbuilding, auto manufacturing, nuclear power plants, oil prospecting technology.

By the target year of 1986, the localization of the production of vehicles and nuclear power generating facilities would hit 90 percent, according to the plan.

The five-year plan aims at raising the share of precision chemistry in the country's chemical industry from the current 21.6 percent to 35 percent by 1986 and at meeting some 4.8 billion dollars' worth of domestic demand while exporting some one billion dollars worth of the expertise by the target year of 1986.

Under the plan, leading private enterprises will be required to set up their own technology research bodies to develop necessary technologies, and research institutes, both private and state-run, will be encouraged to seek technological cooperation from foreign organizations, including the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the U.S. Bell Telephone Co by way of joint research projects.

ROK TO INCREASE INVESTMENT IN SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY

SK300245 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 30 Oct 81 p 1

[Text] The nation is committed to upgrading its technology to be on par with that of industrialized countries by 1986, the target year of the fifth five-year economic and social development plan, the Ministry of Science and Technology announced yesterday.

The science-technology development program announced by the ministry envisages a sharp increase of investment in science and technology from an estimated 1.3 percent of GNP in 1982 to 2 percent by 1986.

In 1979, the nation's investments in technology amounted to $4,900 million, accounting for a mere 0.3 percent of the world total.

The technology promotion program calls for developing large-scale integrated circuit (LSI) semiconductors, communications by fiber optics, microcomputers and raw color film and electronic switching system.

Concerning semiconductors, the program envisages production of bipolar, silicon gate C-MOS and silicon gate N-MOS.

The nation also plans to introduce the latest technology regarding the development of semiconductors from advanced countries.

By 1986, the ministry said, the nation will be able to produce a sufficient number of small-scale office-oriented computers.

The ministry will also have Korea's science and technology institutions seek technological cooperation with foreign organizations, including the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), the U.S. Bell Telephone Co and the International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The plan also calls for training 83,000 scientists and engineers by 1991 from the present 22,000.

Technological exports, now totaling $120 million, will be increased to the level of $1,000 million by 1986. Next year, the government will start a quarterly technology promotion committee meeting. It will be presided over by President Chon Tu-hwan.

KCCI RECOMMENDS MEASURES FOR STIMULATING ECONOMY

[Text] Seoul, 4 Nov (YONHAP)--The Korean Chamber of Commerce and Industry (KCCI) called upon the government Wednesday to lower domestic bank interest rates and supply more money to stimulate the economy which is still in a slump.

In a recommendation to the government, the KCCI said that the country would lose its growth potential unless wide-ranging measures are implemented here and now in preparations for the forthcoming boom.

These days, commodity prices are stabilizing, but despite this, enterprises are suffering serious difficulties stemming chiefly from excessively heavy loan servicing costs. Thus the KCCI recommendation called upon the government to lower bank interest rates to a level comparable with those of countries which are Korea's rivals in trade.

The recommendation also pointed out that many enterprises are going bankrupt due to serious operational fund shortages, and urged the government to operate its money supply policy with flexibility by supplying much more domestic credit to help meet the growing money demand at the end of this year.

In order to stimulate investments in facilities, the government should extend the expiration of the provisional investment tax exemption, which is to end next June, to the end of next year, and increase the tax exemption point from the current eight to 10 percent to 15 to 20 percent, the recommendation said.

The scope of export financing loans should also be expanded and the repayment period for such loans should be extended, the KCCI recommendation said.

ROK'S GNP GROWS 6.2 PERCENT IN THIRD QUARTER

SK120725 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 12 Nov 81 p 3

[Text] Korea's Gross National Product (GNP) during the third quarter of this year grew by 6.2 percent in real terms over the same period last year largely paced by a substantial boost in mining industry exports and agro-fishery production, according to a tentative tally made by the Bank of Korea (BOK) yesterday.

The value of the total output of goods and services produced during the July-September period came to 3,511,600 million won (687 won roughly equals one U.S. dollar) at a 1975 constant price basis, a Central Bank official said.

The third-quarter increase brought the combined total GNP growth rate during the first nine months of this year to 3.7 percent.

Korea recorded a growth rate of 1.1 percent during the first quarter and of 3.5 percent during the second quarter of this year respectively.

The third quarter rate of 6.2 percent was enough to fully compensate for the minus 2.1 percent growth rate recorded in the same period last year, according to the BOK.

Reflecting a solid sign for an economic recovery, the nation's Gross Domestic Products (GDP) showed a growth rate of 7.2 percent during the third-quarter of this year, which is in sharp contrast with the negative 9.1 percent growth during the corresponding period last year, the BOK official explained.

The GDP refers to the total output of goods and services produced in the interior of the national territory except for the overseas sector.

The nation's mining and manufacturing industry chalked up a 10.4 percent growth rate over the same period last year, when a minus 1.6 percent was recorded. Most of the strength in this sector came from a big boost in exports.

The agro-fishery industry also registered a 6.8 percent growth during the third quarter of this year, mainly due to bumper vegetable crop.

There was a minus 2.0 percent growth in this sector during the same period last year, mainly due to a poor performance in the deep-sea fishing operations and livestock industries.

Meanwhile, the nation's social overhead capital and service industry ended up with a relatively small gain of 5.3 and 1.9 percent respectively during the cited period because of shrinking private construction activities and increasing debt servicing, Central Bank officials explained.

Among the key industries which recorded a positive growth were garments (43.9 percent), electric equipment (20.8 percent), transportation equipment (18.7 percent), leather goods (18.3 percent), and glass products (17.4 percent).

Among major industries which were in the red were oil refineries (-5.0 percent) and rubber products (-10.8 percent).

In addition, the nation's total consumption expenditure posted an increase of 5.0 percent over the same period last year.

Private consumption expenditure edged up by 5.8 percent thanks to a substantial gain in outlays of home electric appliances while the consumption in the government sector inched up by a small 0.3 percent primarily owing to consumption control.

Domestic fixed investments showed a decrease of 5.1 percent over the comparable period last year affected by a dull performance in private construction and machinery facility investments.

In the trade sector, total exports during the third quarter of this year represented a gain of 19.5 percent in terms of volume over the same period a year ago on the strength of favorable export achievements in garments, home electric appliances and transportation equipment sectors.

Aggregate imports during the period posted an increase of 14.3 percent over the same period a year ago thanks to high-priced imports of foreign services, the Central Bank revealed.

'YONHAP' REPORTS EPB'S 1981 ECONOMIC WHITE PAPER

[Text] Seoul, 11 Nov (YONHAP)--The Korean Government has taken steps to improve the efficiency of the national economy, and liberalize it to cope with foreseeable economic difficulties in the 1980s, stemming chiefly from intensifying competition with other developing countries, growing protectionism by advanced countries, and the uncertain supply of crude oil.

According to a 1981 economic white paper, released Wednesday by the Economic Planning Board [EPB], the government will push ahead with its economic policies in the direction of maximizing the creativity and autonomy of enterprises in the private sector.

To this end, the government will implement the fair transaction system strongly, reduce loans extended from policy considerations, internationalize the banking business, put the operation of banking institutions under private management, and shift the emphasis of industry support measures for specific enterprises to the enhancement of their competitiveness.

In order to expedite the opening of the national economy to the rest of the world, the government will implement measures to strengthen the competitiveness of Korean-made commodities in other aspects besides price, such as quality and productivity improvement, which will help to sustain export growth, while securing the necessary raw materials through import liberalization.

The government will also considerably reduce restrictions on foreign investments in the country, envigorate the inducement of foreign capital and advanced technology, and liberalize capital transactions, according to the 1981 economic white paper.

ROK DAILY URGES CONSISTENT ECONOMIC POLICY

SK051318 Seoul CHOSEON ILBO in Korean 4 Nov 81 p 2

[Editorial: "Friction Between Economic Stabilization and Its Galvanization--an Unfaltering and Consistent Economic Policy"]

[Excerpts] As yearend approaches, it is clear the economy is becoming more and more sluggish. This has come as a surprise to those who had forecast that the economy would improve in the fourth quarter of this year. Expectations for an economic turnaround are totally shattered. Next year's economic situation is even more uncertain. Government economic analysts and policymakers, once optimistic, are now deeply concerned. This has confused most people. Government economists now say the economy will be in a recession next year.

Policymakers are desperately trying to work out measures to confront this dilemma. They are reportedly studying measures to revive declining purchasing power, solve the financial difficulties of business enterprises and promote exports, undoubtedly suffering in recent days.

We have no choice but to wait and see how effective the measures will be. We are sure the government will adopt tried and true measures to revive dwindling purchasing power and ease financial difficulties of business enterprises, to increase the exchange rate substantially to accelerate exports and to decrease bank interest rates to encourage investment and help business enterprises cope with the tight money situation. But what about the stabilization policy the government set forth some time ago for 1982? This is our question.

We are not saying the abandonment of the stabilization policy is good or bad. Considering the uncertain economic prospects. It is understandable for the government to stress economic expansion rather than economic contraction. What is important is to carry out a consistent policy.

No matter what course the government adopts, government authorities are again urged to proceed steadfastly and unfalteringly.

INTEREST RATE DECLINE CALLED 'DROP IN BUCKET'

SK110127 Seoul CHOSON ILBO in Korean 10 Nov 81 p 2

[Editorial: "Downward Readjustment of Interest Rates"]

[Text] The downward readjustment of interest rates by a margin of 1 percent is viewed in business circles as a drop in the budket as it is expected to relieve them of only 100,000 million won out of more than 5,000,000 million won they have to pay annually in interest.

It seems that the government did not expect that the downward readjustment would do much for business circles suffering from interest payments. When 100,000 million won--the amount business circles are relieved of in interest payments by the 1 percent reduction of interest rates--is viewed as a drop in the bucket, would it make a difference if they are relieved of, say, 200,000 million won or 300,000 million won, by dropping interest rates 2 or 3 percent?

Relieving business circles of 100,000 million won is not conductive to encouraging investments and boosting the economy. This is tantamount to saying that we could not expect anything different if interest rates had been reduced by 2 or 3 percent.

The government's intent in scaling down interest rates seems to be to express its concern for business circles in a financial pinch and pressed by interest payments. Amid pros and cons about lowering interest rates, business circles, as a matter of fact, had worried that the government would act against their wishes. This is why they raised their voices for a downward readjustment of interest rates.

If the interest rate readjustment, though shy of their expectations, could only rid business circles of their concern on this point, the government would have attained what it intended.

The significance of the government decision to lower interest rates is the implication that the government is, albeit slowly, loosening the austerity policy it had pursued, not that it is helping business circles in a financial pinch.

This holds true in view of the fact that the government, while lowering interest rates, has decreased bank payment reserve rates from 5.5 percent to 3.5 percent and that the government has hinted another downward readjustment of interest rates will follow, if it seems proper when price movements are considered.

Affected by the lowering of bank payment reserve rates, 5 commercial banks in the nation will have an additional 270,000 million won at their disposal. There is no question that a decrease in bank payment reserve rates is a typical means of loosening an austerity policy.

Meanwhile, the government has hinted that it would, slowly and "without any announcement," raise foreign exchange rates to market levels. Though it remains to be seen which market levels the government has in mind, this would be a big difference from what it had planned to do--curb the rise of foreign exchange rates by 5 percent this year and 3 percent next year.

Given the current economic performances, we view as inevitable such a cautious policy readjustment of the part of the government. The current economic movements are not vigorous enough for the government to go ahead with its stabilization policy aimed at curbing the rise of prices at a range between 10 to 14 percent next year. The prevailing situation calls on the government to pursue a stabilization policy but not to dampen the economy.

However, the government should not care less about the stabilization policy when seeing a dimmer economic forecast than it had expected. It is never too much to urge that the government come up with effective measures to boost the economy and act prudently in readjusting interest rates and foreign exchange rates.

If the stabilization policy was worked out on the principle that all share the burdens imposed by it, a shift in the policy toward boosting the economy should maintain the same principle so that it will not impose on a certain segment of the people.

BANK LOAN, DEPOSIT INTEREST RATES LOWERED

[Text] The interest rates on bank loans and deposits were lowered by an average of 1.0 percentage point each effective yesterday.

Along with this, the minimum reserve requirement ratio banking institutions must maintain against their deposit liabilities was cut by two percentage points to 3.6 percent from hitherto 5.5 percent from the same day.

Kim Chun-song, governor of the Bank of Korea (BOK), announced yesterday that the interest markdown is primarily aimed at stabilizing the domestic commodity prices and lessening the financial burden of the business interests, now experiencing a serious financial pinch.

As a step to induce more savings, the interest rates on three types of bank deposits --savings deposit, special household time deposit and time deposit with three-month maturity--will remain unchanged at current levels of 14.4 and 14.82 percent respectively, he revealed.

At the same time, the Central Bank will maintain the present interest rate for export supporting loans standing at 12 percent per annum until June 1982, Gov Kim said.

The export supporting loan consists of short-term working fund loans extended by foreign exchange banks to those who produce or process export goods as well as exporters themselves.

Kim observed that the salvation measures will help business interests to save approximately 100,000 million won in interest burden annually.

Under the revised interest program, the interest rates on time deposits, for example, with one-year maturity, was cut by 1.2 percentage point to 20.4 percent from 21.6 percent (for low-income people).

The rate on deposits at notice was pulled down by 1.0 percentage point from 10.5 percent to 9.5 percent.

As for lending, the discount rate on commercial bills was brought down by 1.0 percentage point to 18.5 percent from 19.5 percent (for top-rated companies) and to 19.0 percent from 20.0 percent (for others).

In the case of overdrafts, the rate was scaled down to 19.5 percent from 20.5 percent (for creditworthy companies) and to 20.0 percent from 21.0 percent (for others), according to the BOK.

PRICE STABILIZATION STRESSED FOR EXPORT BOOST

[Text] Seoul, 9 Nov (YONHAP)--High bank interest rates and commodity price hikes are cited as the greatest deterrent to Korea's competitiveness with trade rivals in Asia.

A government report released Monday said that Korea's current preferential rate, equivalent to the U.S. prime rate, is 19.5 percent a year, the highest level in Asian countries, compared with 6.75 percent in Japan, 13.5 percent in Taiwan, 14.4 percent in Singapore, 17 percent in Hong Kong and 18 percent in Thailand.

Korea's interest rate on export financing loans is 12 percent a year, five percentage points higher than that of Thailand and 0.5 percentage points higher than that of Singapore, but 0.25 points lower than that of Taiwan, Korea's most formidable trade rival.

Compared with Japan and Hong Kong, both of which extend no export financing loans to traders, Korea's 12 percent interest rate is 5.25 points higher than Japan's, but five points lower than Hong Kong's.

Differences between prime rates and interest rates on export financing loans are 11 percent for Thailand, 7.5 percent for Korea, 2.9 percent for Singapore and 1.25 percent for Taiwan.

The report also said that while commodity prices rose by an average of 38.9 percent in Korea last year, they increased by 21.5 percent in Taiwan, 19.6 percent in Singapore, 11.6 percent in Hong Kong and 20.1 percent in Thailand.

Such a high commodity price hike deteriorated Korea's price competitiveness, despite its preferential interest rates on export financing loans, the report said.

Therefore, price stabilization measures should be given priority over other steps to boost exports, such as a raise in the won-dollar exchange rate which, the report said, would produce only short-term export-increasing effects.

FKTU CALLS WAGE GUIDELINES 'UNREASONABLE'

[Text] Seoul, 12 Nov (YONHAP)--The Federation of Korean Trade Union (FKTU) Wednesday issued a statement calling for the withdrawal of proposals by some local economic organizations to hold down the wage increase for workers in the next year to 10 percent.

The FKTU statement was intended to counter an announcement at a meeting Tuesday by leaders of the Federation of Korean Industries and the Korea Employers' Association to the effect that they would set up a wage guideline for next year with the maximum wage increase of 10 percent, in a bid to hold down domestic prices during the period.

The statement charged that the wage increase proposal by the employers is far below to the level of the increase in consumer prices this year, which is expected to reach 20 percent at the year's end.

The statement also contended that such a wage guideline would worsen the lives of laborers in the country which are in a bad enough shape due to the low wage increase of 17 percent this year, in contrast to the increase of 34 percent in consumer prices.

"It is unreasonable to finger the wage increase as the prime factor behind the soaring of local prices. The wage increase is a problem to be decided on through a compromise between employers and workers in each industry," the statement added.

GOVERNMENT'S PURCHASE PRICE OF RICE EXAMINED

Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 31 Oct 81 p 3

[Text]

The government's purchase price of rice, the nation's staple grain, was finally decided Thursday after a two-week long tug of war between the Economic Planning Board (EPB) and the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries.

In a nutshell, the government's decision to increase rice purchase price by 14 per cent over last year's level represents its strong determination to stabilize the commodity prices.

The increase rate of 14 per cent this year is comparable to 22.0 per cent in 1979 and 25.0 per cent in 1980.

At face value, 14 per cent seems to be far from the farmers' expectations as overall inflation rate, from November 1980 through October this year, is put at 21 per cent.

Against this backdrop, some lawmakers earlier urged the government to raise the rice purchase price by no less than 40 per cent, arguing that more-than-expected rice crop is anticipated this year after three consecutive years of poor crops.

However, the government is not in a position to mark up the rice purchase price by that much since its top priority in economic policy is placed on stabilization of general commodity prices.

To provide a firm basis for another economic take-off, the government is determined to curb the inflation rate at 18 per cent this year and 10 per cent next year.

In fact the government has so far suffered from a serious inflationary pressure triggered by the snow-balling deficit in the government's "special grain account" under the "two-tire grain price system."

The special account was introduced in 1969 with the implementation of the dual grain pricing formula under which the government buys rice and barley, both of which are staple national grains, from farmers at higher-than-ongoing market prices during the harvest season and sells them to general consumers during the nonharvest time at lower-than-going market prices.

The system is aimed at stabilizing grain prices while boosting the morale of farmers by raising their income and alleviating the cost-of-living of urban workers.

Accordingly, the deficit operation of the account was inevitable from the outset.

According to the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, the rice purchase price of 52,160 won per 80 kg bag this year is some 480 won higher than the present government-released price of 51,680 won a bag.

As shown above, the government cannot steer clear of grain account deficit even this year.

For example, the bulk of this year's rice purchase fund will be financed through borrowings from the Bank of Korea (BOK), the nation's central bank.

The government believes that the benefits shared by farmers and the general public under the two-tire grain pricing formula have been virtually offset by the inflationery pressure stemming from the accumulated grain account deficit.

It expects the combined deficit in grain account to top 1,000,000 million won toward the end of this year.

Reflective of its concerted efforts to slash the grain account deficit, the government has decided to buy back a total of six million sok (one sok equals roughly 144 kg) of rice from farmers this year, about two-thirds of average annual purchase amount of approximately nine million sok.

Though the relatively low level of rice purchase price and volume do not live up to the farmers' immediate expectations, the government explained, the gradual reduction of grain account deficit will surely be in the farmers' interest in the long run as it will serve to bring down the overall commodity inflation.

As a step toward compensating this year's low rice purchase price for farmers nationwide, the government also plans to funnel 200,000 million won in farming fund for farmers' off-farm income boost project between December this year through April 1982.

Initially, the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries was reportedly known to ask at least a 20 per cent increase in rice purchase price this year while the Economic Planning Board (EPB) insisted that it could not approve of an increase of more than 12 per cent.

The former's rationale was based on the fact that farmers' morale plays a decisive role in ensuring self-sufficiency in foodgrains and the latter argued that commodity price control should take precedence over any other factors to be able to see another economic upsurge in the 1980s.

The compromise increase rate of 14 per cent seems to have been worked out against this background.

GRADUAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS INDUSTRY CHANGE URGED

[Text] Soul, 10 Nov (YONHAP)--Representatives of the electronic industry in Korea have called upon the government to implement its five-year telecommunications development plan starting next year gradually and cautiously, so as not to hurt domestic electronic switching system manufacturers.

Business sources here said Tuesday that, as the government has decided to finish the installation of the digital electronic switching system by 1986, five years ahead of original schedule, then it expects to select by the end of this year types of digital electronic switching boards to be imported by 1986.

If the government chooses types which have nothing to do with the country's semiconductor technology development, many domestic electronic product manufacturers, especially makers of stored program control systems, will go bankrupt, the sources said.

At present, five internationally famous telecommunications firms such as ITT of the United States, Northern Telecom of Canada and Siemens of West Germany have submitted bids to the Communications Ministry for the introduction of some three billion U.S. dollars' worth of digital electronic switching boards by 1986.

Under the heavy and chemical industry realignment program, which went into effect in September 1980, the Korea Telecommunications Co was asked to specialize in the production of type one stored program controlled (SPC) electronic switching systems, the Gold Start Semiconductor Co was asked to exclusively produce type two SPC electronic switching systems, and the Oriental Precision Co was asked to produce cross bar private automatic branch exchanges.

These telecommunications makers are already producing SPC electronic switching systems. This is why they are worrying about the hasty implementation of the five-year telecommunications development plan which calls, among other things, for the introduction of digital electronic switching systems by 1986, the sources said.

[Text] Seoul, 12 Nov (YONHAP)--South Korea will establish a vocational training management corporation, capitalized at 36.6 billion Korean won (about 53 million U.S. dollars), for the training of technical manpower, the Labor Affairs Ministry here said Thursday.

A spokesman for the ministry told reporters that the projected Korean Vocational Training Management Corp (KVTMC) would assess each skilled worker's ability, and take charge of his placement, in line with the country's intensive high technology-oriented policy.

The spokesman said that the country will merge the public vocational training institute and the skill testing agency next February, to establish the planned KVTMC under the control of the Labor Affairs Ministry.

He added that the KVTMC will take up all business related to skilled manpower, ranging from vocational training and national technical qualifcation testing, to skilled manpower management, and the introduction of vocational training know-how.

The KVTMC will control the overall affairs of the vocational training competition, the Korea technical qualification testing agency, the Central Vocational Training Institute, 24 other vocational training centers across the country, and Changwon Master College, some 291 km southeast of Seoul.

To this end, his ministry plans to submit a draft bill regarding the setting of the KVTMC, so that the South Korean National Assembly could act on it within the current plenary session, the spokesman said.

'YONHAP' REVIEWS GROWTH IN ROK SHIPPING INDUSTRY

[Text] Seoul, 29 Oct (YONHAP)--Korea has emerged as the 15th largest shipping country in the world, with the total tonnage of its ocean-going vessels and coastal liner exceeding the six million-ton mark as of October 29, 1981.

A Korea Maritime and Port Administration (KMPA) report released Thursday said that the total tonnage of ocean-going ships reached 6,005,000 tons and that of home-waters liners amounted to 770,000 tons as of October.

The total tonnage of the country's oceangoing vessels was only 2.7 million tons in 1976. But the government has poured a total of 1.9 billion U.S. dollars into the building of 737,000 tons of new ships and the importing of 3.7 million tons of foreign-made ships, in an effort to boost the tonnage up to six million tons by the end of 1981, the target year of the fourth five-year economic development plan.

As a result, foreign exchange earnings by the country's ocean-going ships increased, from 43 million dollars in 1976 to 1.9 billion dollars last year. As of the end of August this year, the earnings amounted to 1.6 billion dollars. The KMPA report estimated that the earnings would reach more than 2.1 billion dollars by the end of this year.

The loading rate of the country's ocean-going ships also increased from 38.6 percent of the total cargo shipped out of the country to 49 perdent last year. IT is expected to reach 50 percent this year.

KMPA plans to build five million tons of new ocean-going vessels during the fifth five-year economic development plan which starts next year. If the plan is successfully implemented, the total tonnage of the country's ocean liners will reach 10 million tons by 1986, and Korea will become the 10th largest shipping country in the world.

CONSTRUCTION EXPORTS STEADILY INCREASE--Seoul, 2 Nov (YONHAP)--The performance of South Korea's construction exports has improved steadily this year. The Construction Ministry here reported Monday that the country received nine billion U.S. dollars' worth of overseas construction orders during the first 10 months of this year, up 50 percent over the comparable figure of six billion dollars for the same period last year. According to the ministry report, the January-October construction export performance has already exceeded the annual target of several billion dollars for 1981, by two billion dollars, and the performance of 8.2 billion dollars for 1980, by 800 million dollars. Expecting that the favorable tendency will continue for the time being, government sources predicted that the country should receive 10 billion dollars' worth of overseas construction orders by the end of December. PAY RAISES--Korean companies will keep wage hikes in line with inflation next year in a bid to contribute toward the government's prime goal for less inflation, Chong Chu-yong, chairman of the Federation Korean Industries (FKI) said yesterday. Meeting with the press, the business leader said he welcomed the government's "firm resolution" to stabilize commodity prices at a 10 percent next year and declared that the business circles "will not spare any efforts to keep down production costs." The press meeting was also attended by other influential business leaders such as Kim Yong-chu, president of the Korean Employers' Federation (KEF) and FKI Deputy Chairmen Won Yong-sok, Chong In-uk and Ku Cha-kyong. In recent days, the government has called on businesses to keep pay raises next year below 10 percent. [Text] [SK110550 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 11 Nov 81 p 4]

NO SET WAGE GUIDELINES--The government will not restrict or recommend wage increases in private businesses for next year by setting a uniform guideline, Kwon Chung-ton, minister of labor affairs said yesterday. Enterprises and employees will be advised to set the wage hike level through mutual discussion, he said. Minister Kwon remarked in commenting on the recent statements made by the Federation of Korean Industries and the Federation of Korea Trade Unions (FKTU) regarding wage increases for next year. He said that the wages should be raised through agreements between companies and employees and added that such efforts will be conducive to improving productivity. Even though the government will not set a wage guideline, Kwon said, his ministry plans to advise private firms to increase wages to an appropriate level that will improve the living condition of laborers. OIL EXPENSES--Seoul, 2 Nov (YONHAP)--OPEC's decision last week to maintain a unified pricing system will cost South Korea 14.6 million U.S. dollars in additional oil expenses, for the remainder of this year, sources at the Energy-Resources Ministry said Monday. The sources said the additional amount was based on the total price of the crude oil imported in October from Saudi Arabia, the oil cartel's latest action on its pricing structure raises by two dollars, to 34 dollars per barrel. And sources believe that Saudi Arabia will certainly apply the new oil price retroactively to October. Korea depends entirely on imported oil for its petroleum requirements, of which Saudi Arabia meets 60 percent. [Text] [SK020145 Seoul YONYAP in English 0117 GMT 2 Nov 81]

EXCHANGE RATE WORKS AGAINST EXPORTS--Seoul, 6 Nov (YONHAP)--The dollar's bullishness on the international market has forced the basic exchange rate of the Korean won against the American dollar to rise 4.09 percent during the first ten months of this year. However, the Korean won's rate against other major foreign currencies besides the dollar fell substantially during the same period, according to officials of the Bank of Korea Friday. The American dollar, which was selling at 659.8 won on January 5, was posted at 686.8 won on November 5, an increase of 27 won or 4.09 percent, the officials said. This contrasts with considerable declines in the exchange rates involving the Japanese yen (7.3 percent), the British pound (18.37 percent), the West German mark (7.73 percent), the French franc (15.38 percent), the Italian lira (17.79 percent) and the Hong Kong dollar (7.16 percent). This means that the relative strength of the Korean currency as against the currencies of the country's major trade partners worked as a factor undermining the country's export competitiveness during the January-October period. REV MUN AIDE CALLS U.S. TAX CHARGE 'GROUNDLESS'

[Text] Seoul, 2 Nov (YONHAP)--Rev Mun Son-myong of the Unification Church, who is now under a trial in the United States on charges of tax evasion, flew into Seoul Sunday afternoon.

In a brief arrival statement, Mun said that he had come to Korea to preside over the 10th international conference for the Unification of Sciences slated for November 9-13 here in Seoul, and that he would leave for the United States November 20 to continue his legal struggle.

Pointing out that the United States has two failings--religious prejudice and racial discrimination--Mun said that his Unification Church has been entrusted to lead the struggle against racial discrimination in the United States, a struggle which was carried out by President Lincoln and Rev Martin Luther King.

"A minority peoples' association has been set up in the United States coincidentally with my being indicted for tax evasion, and the human rights movement by the minority peoples will be a force for justice in the United States in the 1980s," Mun said.

Meanwhile, Pak Po-hui, Mun's closest aide who is now accompanying Mun, said that the indictment against Mun's alleged tax evasion was "groundless," and that Mun stood before the U.S. court in order not to cause trouble for the Korean Government and the Korean people, who were much annoyed by the so-called Pak Tong-son affair.

"I think Mun will not lose the trial, and the Unification Church maintains good relations with Jews in the United States," he said.

Pak also described as "groundless" the speculation that the trial means the end of the honeymoon between the Unification Church and the Reagan administration, adding that Mun's trial is an extension of investigations which started in the days of President Carter.

[Editorial: "The Role of Korean and Japanese Journalists"]

[Excerpts] In view of the important issues pending between Korea and Japan and the stalemate in negotiations between the governments of the two neighboring nations, the necessity of further expanding the foundation for mutual dialogue cannot be over-emphasized.

It is for this reason that a seminar on the subject "Improvement of Korea-Japan Cooperation and the Role of Journalists," held between senior journalists of the two countries at the Shilla Hotel on 27 October, attracts special attention.

The Korean keynote speaker pointed out that Japanese newspapers give us the impression that they are devoting their space for manipulating ideologies by reporting the beautification of the streets of Pyongyang while only reporting the shady side of Korea.

On the other hand, the Japanese keynote speaker said that Japan recognized the existence of tension hanging over the Korean peninsula, but they believed that there was no possibility of southward invasion by the North Korean puppets. He further noted that the Japanese side was hoping for the reduction of tension on the Korean peninsula through such means as North-South dialogue, revealing the Japanese position of trying to create an international environment conducive to that end.

However, we feel that it would have been much more beneficial if the leading journalists of the two countries had focused their discussions on what role they could and should play in bilateral relations, rather than merely pointing to what already exists, if they meant to hold a seminar on the role of the journalists.

We are well aware of what the biggest problem is between the two countries.

The Japanese journalists posted Japan's domestic situation as the reason why Japan could not regard the North Korean puppets as an enemy and why the Japanese Government could not respond to Korea's request for security-related economic cooperation involving 6 billion dollars.

Generally speaking, we cannot quite understand their logic when they hide behind the excuse "because of public opinion..." after having driven public opinion in their favor.

It is hoped that the Japanese journalists, who attended the recent seminar, will take a detached look at the difficult situation Korea now faces and more positively and correctly explain to the Japanese people Korea's need for the proposed 6 billion dollars in security-related economic cooperation.

The pending issues between Korea and Japan should be resolved in any way possible for the sake of peace and stability of Northeast Asia as a whole. For this reason, the responsibility of the journalists of the two countries is heavier than ever before. Now is the time for them to ponder seriously the role they can play in ameliorating relations between the two countries.

One of the Japanese participants noted emphatically that, "Japan cannot regard the North as a hostile entity."

We are not asking the Japanese to regard the North Krean puppets as their enemy but just to realize the fact that the North Korean puppets are the potential provokers of a war. It must be noted that should a war be initiated by the North on the Korean peninsula, it would endanger the security of Japan itself. Therefore, we only wish to make it clear to the Japanese people that in order to prevent the recurrence of war on the Korean peninsula, Japan should help Korea bolster its national strength against such eventualities in accordance with Japan's national strength and should even offset the trade imbalances between the two countries.

Whether or not such an event as the recent seminar was fruitful, this kind of meeting is important for the healthy development of relations between the two countries.

We firmly believe that if such meetings are provided for those working in other fields and used actively and widely for to deepen mutual understanding between the authorities of the two countries, and if they are able to help their respective authorities concerned carry out their negotiations smoothly, Korea and Japan will become "the closest countries" in the true sense of the words.

EFFORTS URGED FOR DEVELOPMENT OF AFRICAN MARKETS

[Text] Seoul, 11 Nov (YONHAP)--In their ongoing pursuit of diversified markets overseas, the Korean Government and industry should make concerted efforts to make further inroads into the African market, industry sources said Wednesday.

The sources underscored the importance of African countries as a vast reservoir of resources, such as crude oil, rubber, timber and minerals, and said that Africa, along with the Mideast and Southeast Asia, could be an ideal supplier of such materials for resources-poor Korea.

According to the sources, South Korea has been exporting pharmaceutical products, consumer goods such as soap and plastic products, cement, plywood, iron products, ships, chemical fertilizer and textiles to African nations, but the ratio of the country's exports to African countries against its total exports stands at only 2.7 percent.

The sources said that, in the case of those African countries, with pro-North Korea inclinations, the government should make diplomatic moves to remove such political barriers before attempts are made by industry to increase exports to such countries.

They also said that Korean exporters should be encouraged to work out financial arrangements for those African importers who cannot finance their imports. They added that increased publicity of Korean products would also help boost exports, and that more exhibitions should be staged to introduce Korean merchandise to African countries.

THAILAND SEEKS ROK'S PARTICIPATION IN CONSTRUCTION

[Text] Thailand needs more Korean builders' participation in the South Asian country's construction projects, it was pointed out by a leading Thai builder yesterday.

Chaijudh Karnasuta, president of the International Federationof Asian and West Pacific Contractors' Association (IFAWPCA), noted his country's many envisioned infrastructure projects needing foreign technology and experience.

He made the remarks as he met Construction Minister Kim Cu-nam yesterday morning.

Chaijudh also confirmed that the IFAWPCA's annual general convention will be held in Bangkok May 8-15 next year and hoped the meeting would produce a new momentum to accelerate friendship and cooperation between contractors from member countries.

The Thai builder said: "Our highways are now overcrowded. So we need more highways ahead. Furthermore, we are ready to enter into enormous construction projects to save our capital, Bangkok, from sinking year by year."

However, the Korean side has insisted that Korean construction cooperation with Thailand would remain in the doldrums unless Thailand eases regulations on foreign contractors operating in the Southeast Asian country.

Korean builders have regarded Thailand as the dullest market of the five member countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) including Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore and the Philippines.

But they value Thailand as a beachhead for Korean builders' advances into Thailand-bordered countries such as Burma.

Furthermore, more and more Korean builders have shown interest in using cheap Thai manpower in the Korean construction projects, notably in the Middle East area.

EXPORT SLUMP FACTORS ANALYZED--Seoul, 10 Nov (YONHAP)--The recent trend of decline in the arrival of letters of credit in Korea is expected to last for some time since the recession in the industrialized countries has been pinpointed as a major factor contributing to the trend. An analysis by the Bank of Korea, released Tuesday, showed that decrease in demand from the member nations of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) stemming from a general recession, are largely to blame for the slowness of the arrival of letters of credit. This is in contrast to assertions raised by some quarters that the won-dollar exchange rate must be hiked to help boost the sagging arrival of the letters of credit. Other factors conductive to the trend are the sluggishness in the so-called "Middle East boom" and exhausted export quotas, according to the analysis. There are limits, it went on, to the effect of government measures to increase exports through a raise in the exchange rate. Intensified sales promotion abroad by the Korean exporters themselves are urgently needed. [Text] [SK100307 Seoul YONHAP in English 0232 GMT 10 Nov 81]

CAPITAL GOODS IMPORTS INCREASE--Seoul, 11 Nov (YONHAP)--Korea's importation of capital goods is increasing in recent months, reflecting signs of cautiously rising investments in facilities by domestic enterprises. A Commerce-Industry Ministry tally released Wednesday showed that the country's commodity imports this year amounted to 17.3 billion U.S. dollars as of the end of August, up 17.6 percent over those of the same period last month. Of the total, more than four billion dollars, or 23.3 percent, were spent on capital goods, a rise of 15.1 percent over the amount for the same eight-month period last year. When compared with last year's 18.8-percent drop from 1979, the 15.1-percent rise was quite large, reflecting the gradual increase in investments in facilities since the turn of this year, ministry officials explained. The importation of capital goods increased 68.9 percent in 1978 and 24.3 percent in 1979. [Text] [SK110151 Seoul YONHAP in English 0126 GMT 11 Nov 81]

AFRICAN, LATIN AMERICAN MARKETS SURVEY--The Ministry of Labor will send a survey team to Africa and Latin America next month to look into the possibility of Korean workers employment in those areas, ministry officials said yesterday. The officials said that the survey team, to be composed of officials of the ministry and of the state-run Korea Overseas Development Corp., would visit seven Central and South American countries, including Mexico and Brazil, and six African nations, including Nigeria and Ivory Coast. The ministry plan is part of the government's efforts to seek the diversification of Korea's labor markets overseas, which have so far been centered on the Middle East, with the active participation of Korean firms in the regional construction projects. The on-the-spot mission will report to the government the economic development program of each country, the prospects of Korean labor exports, and foreseeable regulations against employment of Koreans in the region. The officials noted that those countries are in need of high-quality manpower from abroad to develop their natural resources, which represents a good possiblity for Korean manpower exports to those countries. STEPS FOR ECONOMIC DIPLOMACY--Seoul, 6 Nov (YONHAP)--The Commerce-Industry Ministry has decided to launch more positive economic diplomacy beginning next year, dividing Korea's export partners into four categories, and working out four different trade policies corresponding to their unique situations. According to a trade promotion measure released Friday by the ministry, Kora's trade partners are to be divided into four groups--advanced, developing, underdeveloped and special countries. Korea is seeking a balanced bilateral trade with the advanced countries to help ease lopsided trade deficits, and cooperative relation with developing countries, on the basis of the comparative advantage. For this, the country is pursuing joint venture projects with Mexico to construct shipyards and agricultural machine manufacturing factories, and with Venezuela to build factories producing steel skeleton and cement. The comprehensive measure also calls for Seoul to push ahead with capital and technological cooperation with underdeveloped countries, and to place more emphasis on flexible countermeasures to meet the free trade trend in relations with special area nations. Along with this measure, the ministry has decided to increase the number of overseas branches of the state-run Korea Trade Promotion Corp to explore new export markets. TAIWAN ETHYLENE PRICE DECREASE--Seoul, 3 Nov (YONHAP)--Business sources here Tuesday called for measure to cope with the recent Taiwanese decision to decrease its local supply prices of ethylene and other basic naphtha fractions. According to sources, Nationalist China recently decreased the domestic supply price of ethylene from 651.90 U.S. dollars to 593.40 dollar per tons, that of propylene from 520.70 dollars to 506.10 dollars and that of benzene from 565 dollars to 529.80 dollars. Such drops in the domestic supply prices of basic naphtha fractions will result in the considerable weakening of the international competitiveness of Korean-made petrochemical products, especially such items as synthetic resin and textile products, the sources said. At present, the domestic supply prices of ethylene, propylene and benzene in Korea are 79.94 dollars, 78.90 dollars and 78.20 dollars higher per ton respectively than in Taiwan. In view of the vertical industrial structure of petrochemical industries, only policy coordination by the related ministry can correct the situation, the sources pointed out. ROK-TAIWAN ECONOMIC COOPERATION--Taipei, 29 Oct (YONHAP)--The 14th annual joint conference of the Korean-Taiwanese economic cooperation committeee opened here Thursday morning to discuss the boosting of bilateral trade and other forms of economic cooperation. At Thursday's meeting, the Korean delegation asked the Taiwanese side to liberalize the importation of Korean automobiles and to abolish import controls on Korean pig iron, in order to rectify the existing trade imbalance of some 100 million dollars a year in favor of Taiwan. The conferees also discussed forming a joint survey team to expand joint ventures into third countries. JAPANESE SILK IMPORTS--Seoul, 30 Oct (YONHAP)--South Korean officials Friday pressed their Japanese counterparts to make good on Japan's promise to import 11,150 bales of Korean-made raw silk, the quota set for Japan's fiscal year 1980, which ended March 31, 1980. The complaint was raised at the outset of a two-day working-level meeting, which opened at the Foreign Ministry. Japan is said to have imported none of the agreed quota for fiscal 1980, citing surplus of its silk stocks and other reasons. Korean official contend that Japanese failure to import none of the agreed amount of Korean-made raw silk is contributing to Korea's huge deficit in bilateral trade with Japan, now running at around three billion dollars a year. In addition to pushing for Japan's importation of the fiscal 1980 quota, Korean officials will seek to negotiate a new quota for fiscal 1981, comparable to the level of the previous year, the officials said. Japanese officials, however, were reported to be reluctant to comply with the South Koreans' demand for negotiating a quota for the current fiscal year, corresponding to the level of fiscal 1980. ROK-THAI ECONOMIC DISCUSSIONS--Seoul, 10 Nov (YONHAP)--Commerce-Industry Minister So Sok-chun and Thai Industry Minister Chatchai Chunhawan Tuesday discussed Korean participation in Thailand's fifth five-year social and economic development program, and agreed to promote joint ventures in agriculture and the manufacture of diesel engines. Chatchai is accompanying Thai Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon on Prem's official visit here, which ends today. Two-way trade between Thailand and South Korea registered an annual average increase of 43.6 percent from 1975 to 1980. During the first nine months of this year, Korean exports to the Southeast Asian country totaled 102 million U.S. dollars' worth, and its imports from Thailand, 132 million dollars' worth. TRAINING OF WOMEN TERRORISTS REPORTED

Bonn DIE WELT in German 30 Sep 81 p 7

[Article by Rolf Tophoven: "Charm and Kalashnikov in North Korea: A School Trains Women for the Bloody Business of Terrorism, Subversion and Espionage"]

[Text] Israeli counterintelligence struck in Maryayoun. In the village of Israel's ally, militia leader Major Saad Haddad, the army arrested a 25-year old Lebanese woman. This happened about 1 years ago. Hardly any details have become public. But the tale told to the Israelis by the young woman was an eye opener. It provided new and additional details of the worldwide terrorist scenario: the existence of a terrorist school for young women and girls from Western countries in the vicinity of North Korea's capital of Pyongyang.

In this camp, "deserters" from the United States and various European states are training females exclusively from those countries for the bloody business of terrorism, subversion and espionage. Experts in terrorism have become aware of the fact that women are better suited for certain tasks than are their male colleagues in the network of terrorist strategy and tactics. As a rule they evoke less suspicion, can more easily integrate themselves into a society and are less noticeable--their charm and sex frequently serve to keep the counterintelligence services off their guard. Today there is as much demand for the "soft" type of terrorist as there is for the "hard" type.

This fact is the point of departure for the training in Pyongyang's terror camp. Training methods frequently correspond to the Soviet system of so-called "sleeping agents." Training is directed toward patience, often of many years' duration: inconspicuous behavior, life and work inside the "enemy society" until Day X, the first operational order. That is why the curriculum of the school near Pyongyang also contains language instruction and teaching of the habits and mores practiced in the "target objective" concerned.

Among the instructors are Germans, Americans, Norwegians, Englishmen--all communist-leaning or hard-core communists. The potential female terrorists are as a rule being trained by their own countrymen. Another training variant consists of instruction by citizens of the country which they are to infiltrate upon finishing their course of instruction.

The procedures employed show professional thinking and action. In the case of Leila S. from Maryayoun the operation was conducted as follows.

It started in Beirut in 1978. The local YWCA office asked the young woman from southern Lebanon whether she would be interested in working for an oil firm in Japan at a good salary. She was offered a secretarial job. The go-between in Beirut was the manager of the local YWCA. She was a Palestinian sympathizer of the PLO.

When Leila S. agreed, two "Japanese" men entered and confirmed the offer. They were in effect members of the North Korean Trade Mission in the Lebanese capital.

The Eastern secret services in Beirut had cleverly chosen their "objective," the young woman from Maryayoun. Family ties, which are traditionally close in the Arab area, had been loosened in her case. She wanted to make her own way. Prior to her departure from Beirut she met some other young Lebanese women. They were about to embark on the same trip. Their own relations with their families and tribes were poor also.

The group was flown to Greece, then, by way of Yugoslavia, to Prague. The intermediate stops had been well prepared by the invisible managers of the operation. The ladies enjoyed every luxury; good hotels, big meals.

In Prague they met some more Japanese, but these in time turned out to be North Koreans also. One of them was the North Korean military attache. He put an end to the secrecy: he declared openly that the journey would end in North Korea.

The unsuspecting women were dumbfounded. But there could be no thought of escaping -- they were firmly in the hands of the "system." They flew to Pyongyang via Moscow and Irkutsk in a special aircraft. Upon arrival in North Korea each woman was given her own comfortable apartment in a camp and her own servant. A type of brain washing began.

One morning the young Lebanese woman from Maryayoun had a visit from an American from the United States. He had broken with his country and was working as an instructor for the North Korean regime in the training camp for female terrorists. His special task in the case of Leila S." intensive English language training; preparation for living in the United States. Finally the young woman was given her mission.

After a stay of several months in North Korea she was to return to Beirut, to apply at the U.S. Embassy there for a visa to the United States, to visit her sister who was living there. In America she was to await further instructions and orders. In this way, Leila S. almost became another link in the worldwide chain of terrorist cadres, under the guidance of the North Korean Secret Service and its overlord, the KGB.

But at the last moment something went wrong with this well prepared game. The young Lebanese woman's parents were worried because they were receiving no mail from Japan, where they believed their daughter to be. Her sister in the United States made inquiries at the Japanese Embassy. The answer she received was shattering: there was no such Japanese oil firm in Tokyo, nor had her sister ever reached Japan. The family in Maryayoung was mobilized.

Suddenly the southern Lebanese woman reappeared. Her return to Maryayoun, a mere formality as far as the terrorists were concerned, became her final destination. The Israelis had discovered another piece in the puzzle of international terrorism.

North Korea's integration into the system of worldwide organized activities under the sign of politically motivated violence should come as no surprise. In this country, situated between China and the USSR, the KGB is firmly established. Relations between the powers in Pyongyang and the PLO date back a long time. Aid to Arafat's commandos and other Palestinian groups consists mainly of arms deliveries and especially of training support.

According to the Swedish police there are 10 training camps for terrorists in North Korea. The "students" come from 22 countries. Among the training aids is a publication entitled "The Flea." This brochure comes from Algeria. Its contents: the technology, tactics and strategy of guerrilla warfare. Many lines of communications exist between North Korea and Latin America. Western services estimate that $1.6 million have flowed from Pyongyang into the coffers of left-radical groups on the Latin American continent alone.

North Korea provided a safe haven for the defeated members of Japan's "Red Army." North Korean instructors are said to have trained international terrorist cadres in South Yemen also. PFLP (Habbash) terrorists blew up three Western passenger airliners at the Dawson Field desert airport near Amman in 1970. They had acquired the necessary know-how for this act in North Korea. And it was said that North Korea was among the countries which stood ready to grant asylum to Schleyer's kidnapers before he was murdered.

The communist regime in Pyongyang has until now hardly been in the limelight in the search for forces which have been aiding and abetting international terrorism. There was some mention of the country, but hardly any facts or proof. Israeli discoveries about the terrorist school for young women have provided a new insight--that which was formerly represented by the PFLP's "glamour girl," Leila Khaled, namely "charm and Kalashnikov," now exists in an Asian version.

NEW DEPUTY PREMIER KIM HOE-IL

Seoul VANTAGE POINT in English Vol 4 No 10, Oct 81 pp 11-12

[Text] A railway expert who has been a member of the Party Central Committee for 25 years was named a deputy premier recently. He is Kim Hoe-il (김 회 일), 67. His nomination to the post became publicized when north Korean radios announced the list of the Party and government leaders who attended a central reporting session held to mark the 33rd founding anniversary of the Pyongyang regime, September 9, and a banquet given on the occasion. Kim was ranked 42nd in the power hierarchy; he was placed 117th at the sixth congress of the Party held last October.

Kim is one of the four north Korean leaders who enjoyed longtime membership in the PCC. The new deputy premier, together with Choe Hyon, has been full PCC member since the third Party congress held in 1956, while Kim Il-sung and Kim Il have held PCC membership for all the six terms from the inaugural Party congress on.

Kim Hoe-il had also served as transportation minister or railway minister from 1953 to 1966 and from 1970 to 1972.

Kim's appointment did not change the total number (13) of deputy premiers as Lee Gun-mo was reassigned as the responsible Party secretary in charge of Nampo City again recently. The 12 other deputy premiers are Key Ung-tae, Kang Song-san, Ho Dam, Choe Gwang, Cho Se-ung, Choe Jae-u, Kong Jin-tae, Chong Jun-gi, Hong Si-hak, So Gwan-hi, Kim Du-yong and Kim Gyong-ryon. However, Cho Se-ung who was promoted to deputy premier in the early part of 1980 was missing from the "Double Nine Day" meeting and the banquet giving rise to speculation that he might have been deprived of the post.

With Kim's appointment to the cabinet, it has two experts on railway transportation: Deputy Premier Kang Song-san is concurrently holding the post of railway minister. "One of them," according to north Korea watchers in Seoul, "has to take charge of the land and sea transportation ministry. Or both of them have to join hands to solve knotty problems in transportation, especially the railways," they say.

Born in 1914 in North Hamgyong Province, Kim was chief of a locomotive engine office in North Pyongan Province in the early 1940s and became railway minister in 1953. He was elected to the Supreme People's Assembly at the second-term SPA in 1957 and has been holding the seat since. He led railway missions to the Soviet Union and China in 1953, to Bulgaria in 1956, to Czechoslovakia in 1958, to Mongolia in 1962, to the Soviet Union in 1964 and to North Vietnam in 1965.

WORKERS' RIGHTS UNDER LAW REVIEWED

Seoul SINDONGA in Korean Sep 81 pp 143-147

[Article by O Sung-yong, Chief of Planning Division, Federation of Korean Chemical Workers' Union: "Are Workers' Interests Being Protected?"]

[Text] Although our [Korean] economy has successfully achieved a high growth during the past 20 years, there has been negligence in improving the structure of income distribution which should have been in harmony with the speed of economic growth. This was because the nation's overall economic development program was primarily aimed at achieving growth. As a result, the basic rights of workers remained restricted in some areas.

"The Provisional Special Law Concerning the Labor Union of Foreign Invested Business and the Arbitration of Labor Dispute," promulgated on 1 January 1970 and "the Special Law on National Security," promulgated on 27 December 1971, are considered to be actions designed to regulate the labor union activities from the political, economic and national security points of view in order to achieve a high economic growth in the 1970's in tune with the growth of the 1960's.

As new problems emerged from the fragile structure of those businesses which were created under the heavy protection of the government such as the financial support and the support in taxation system, so in the labor-management issue, there has been an increase in the number of cases in which the government is involved in resolving even minor labor disputes without being able to give those businesses a chance to improve in their ability in settling labor disputes because of the government intervention and one-sided attitude toward employers.

All in all, the trouble between labor and management which occured without any autonomous settlement of the labor-management problem has exploded into a serious labor-management dispute after a while.

The various laws related to labor, including the Labor Union Law, the Labor Standard Law, the Labor-Management Negotiation Law, the Labor Dispute Arbitration Law and the Labor Commission Law which were respectively passed by the legislation meeting last year-end are intended to contain labor-management relations within the confines of [specific] businesses and to guide the labor-management issues through administrative controls. However, the observation of the process of implementing the laws during the past 7 months shows that there were frequent unfair labor practices on the part of those employers who abuse the laws. Because of this, there have been concerns over the maintenance of industrial peace.

Unlike in the past, most of the unfair labor practices which took place recently were not intended to cut down the demands and claims made by workers; they seemed to be intended to destroy the labor union itself or to obstruct the labor union activities, thereby raising a serious problem.

No laws can be perfect. The labor laws of our country were not legislated as a response to the worker's movement. They were, more often than not, the results of control in the plane of national policy. Because of this, no sufficient chance was provided to reflect the labor union's opinion, and an allowance must be given for this when we review the laws. However, Section 1, Article 31 of the Constitution provided that "Workers shall have autonomous right to organize unions, the right of collective bargaining and the right of collective action in order to improve work conditions." However, "Right of collective action shall be exercised as specified by the law,: thereby guaranteeing the basic rights of workers, namely, three rights of labor.

Decrease in the Number of Union Members

Under Article 8 of the Labor Union Law, "Workers shall be allowed to organize or participate in the labor union on their own volition. However, government employees come under a separate stipulation of the law."

Thus with the exception of government employees, under the law, all workers are allowed to participate in collective activities to improve their working conditions and protect their interests.

As of July 1980, the number of workers who belong to the labor union totaled 1,119,572. Since the revision of the labor laws, there has been a steady decrease in the number of the labor union members. As of the end of June 1981, the number of the union members totaled 836,318. This shows a very low organization rate, according to statistics compiled by the Federation of Korean Trade Unions (FKTU).

The low organization rate was particularly noteworthy in the small businesses, including the small and medium enterprises and the workshops of collateral enterprises of the giant corporations. On the other hand, the workshops with a small number of workers will find it difficult to engage in labor union activities at their own level. Because of this, it becomes necessary for them to have a united organization on the basis of they type of trade or areas.

Under the Labor Union Operations Guideline, published by the Office of Labor Affairs, the Korean Government, on 20 August 1980, the regional chapters which were the local organizations for various industrial unions were abolished last year. Because of this, there has been a considerable limitation in the efforts to organize labor unions at those workshops where wages and work conditions were far below those of the large businesses.

The reasons for the low rate of organizing labor unions at the companies owned by collateral enterprises are not because workers do not feel it necessary to have collective activities but because there are difficulties in organizing labor unions.

Generally speaking, many employers of our country seem to have a certain prejudice against the activities of labor unions which play the role of a safety pin and contribute to an organic development of the capitalistic society. In many cases they are skeptical about the kind of labor-management relations called for in the modern industrial society and see them with a sense of apprehension: "when a labor union emerges, an enterprise will fall."

After World War II, Japan gave a firm guarantee to labor union activities at the companies owned by financial tycoons. Within a short period of time, the economy of the war-defeated nation was brought up to the level of an advanced nation. Today Japan has established her unique kind of labor-management relations. It is quite a contrast.

In many cases, the workers' thinking toward labor is also pre-modern. There are still many workers who are not aware of the rights, as specified in the Labor Standard Law, in order to get wages worth the hard work and maintain and develop labor power. They still have the concept of master-slave such as "Work as told for whatever wages paid."

Now let's review problems involving labor-management relations primarily based on the laws related to labor.

First, under the revised labor union law, the organizational structure of a labor union is limited to each enterprise (See Article 13 of the Labor Union Law). During the past 20 years, the organizational structure of the labor unions in our country was a mixture of both the labor unions on the basis of each industry (FKTU and 17 Industrial Unions) and the labor unions on the basis of each enterprise. On the part of the government, this type of structure was necessary for the implementation of its labor policy.

Ambiguous Higher Level Organizations

Under the revised Law, it appears that labor unions were reorganized into each enterprise as a unit because the dispute involving the formation of a labor union was not considered desirable. In the past such a dispute occurred because of excessive interference in the labor union of an enterprise level by higher organizations. Due to the organizational weakness of the fragmented unions [under the revised law], chances are great for employers to tie up the labor unions with their own enterprises under the pretext of doing away with the control and command of their higher organizations.

In the case of some foreign countries, the labor union with each enterprise as a unit is often criticized for being a govenment-patronized union due to the fact that it is under the influence of the employer. In reality when a labor union is organized at each enterprise level only, it is impossible to establish reasonable leadership because of dual control by higher organizations such as the FKTU and respective industrial unions. Moreover, it tends to create problems such as extreme inequity in work conditions at these enterprises belonging to the same trade, thus making ways of resolving labor disputes difficult.

As the labor union became a unit with an enterprise as its main core, the industrial labor union was reduced to no more than a league and its role stopped at faithfully fulfilling the obligations set forth in the regulations by the superior organization (Article 7 of the Enforcement Regulations) to help the labor administration systems. Also by requiring to record only the name of affiliated organizations when a union registers its establishment (Section 3, Article 13 of the Labor Union Law), [the law], is intended only to maintain a nominal command channel of the industrial labor union.

Second, (under Section 2, Article 12 of the Labor Union Law) no one except the labor union concerned or persons, who have a rightful authority shall interfere with the admission, the withdrawal and collective bargaining with the employer. The above-described provisions were provided with the aim of preventing any mass disturbance and any labor-management dispute from occuring as a result of the intervention by subversive elements.

However, there is no clear distinction as to who has authority. Even an immediate superior organization is apt to become chary of getting involed in organization and guidance.

In order to rationally coordinate labor-management relations, lawyers, college professors and journalists should cooperate, but this has not been easy.

Third, the abolishment of the union shop system (Proviso, Section 2, Article 39 of the Labor Law) has greatly restricted the activities of labor union. According to the new law, the union shop system was abolished, and instead it adopted a system under which workers can join the labor union at their own discretion.

The union shop system is a device to guarantee labor union activities. Under the system, when more than two-thirds of the workers of a certain work shop have joined the union it becomes mandatory for the rest to join it, and when an employee is newly employed, he is to join the labor union automatically. In the past the union shop provision of our country was patterned after the Taft-Hartly Law. The abovementioned law was legislated based on the spirit that in the labor movement of the United States "a coercive unity is designed for the interest of the people who are coerced, and the coerciveness is a basis of the organized society, and at the same time, without coercion the workers' rights are trampled upon by the powerful influence of employers." As soon as the union shop sytem was abolished in accordance with the new law, some employers openly destroyed the labor union and obstructed the labor union activities. Because of this, the overall activities of the labor union with each enterprise as a unit has mainly devoted itself to safeguarding the organization. The overt oppression and pressure over the labor union annoyed the union leaders thereby obstructing smooth labor-management relations within the work shop.

There are incidences in which some businesses hire people after taking a sworn statement from them to the effect that they will not join the labor union. Recently the Ministry of Labor Affairs filed a law suit against four company executives, including a president. In this case--S. Food Processing Co. which was turned over to the prosecution authorities--the labor-management dispute started when the executives openly persuaded their employees to bolt the labor union, and furthermore they intervened with the management of the labor union.

Subsequently the Federation of Korean Trade Union (FKTU), together with each industrial labor union, decided to establish a special organization called "the Countermeasure Committee for Rooting Out Unfair Labor Practice."

Union's Autonomy and New Procedures for Organizing a Union

Fourth, there are great limitations in the formation of a new union. One of the reasons why the rate of organizing labor unions has been low is because of the limitations imposed on the organization of a new labor union. Since it is necessary to overcome numerous difficulties to organize a new labor union, a considerable number of unions failed in organizing while quite a few others were destroyed by the pressure of the company to which they belong even after the unions had been formed. When this happened, many union organizers were dismissed from their job.

The birth of a labor union is not complete with free registration, but the union is provided with legal personality after a certificate for the establishment of a labor union has been issued. Under Article 8 of the Enforcement Decree of the Labor Law, it is stipulated that the certificate for the establishment of a labor union shall be issued within 30 days after the receipt of application for organizing a labor union. It also stipulates that in the event necessary papers are found incomplete, they may be returned.

Therefore, while undergoing the procedures for filing an application, or before the certificate for the establishment of a labor union is issued, the personal data of the people who spearheaded the formation of a labor union are revealed to the company to which they belong. Beginning at this moment, the inexperienced organizers must face the pressure and persuasion from the company.

They will be strongly pressured to keep their hands off the labor union by those who are related or come from the same home town or those who have referred them to the company. For those who are unaware of the fact that the labor union has been formed, they spread rumors to the effect that subversive elements are attempting to destroy the company.

Meanwhile the labor union leaders must go through the pain of waiting for the application to come through, isolated and without support. It must also be pointed out that the qualifications for becoming labor union leaders are extremely restrictive under the new law.

Fifth, there are limitations to the self-rule of the labor union. Article 12 of the Labor Union Law prohibits political activities on the part of the labor union. Undoubtedly, the labor unions must be primarily engaged in the economic, educational and relief activities for the benefit of the union members. However, I believe special consideration should be given to such political activities as legislation and recommendation of policies for the benefit of the union members so long as such activities are not intended to support any specific individual or any specific political party.

Under the law, "the government agencies may order the dissolution or re-election of leaders through the decision of the Labor Affair Commission if and when they determine that the labor union is feared to violate the labor laws or to harm public interest" (Article 32 of the Labor Law). Yet here too are many problems. In accordance with the operational guidelines of the FKTU issued last year, many full-time staff members of the union were reduced whereby affecting the routing activities of the labor union. From this point of view, it would be highly possible that the self-rule of the labor union is at stake because the law enables the government agencies to order the dissolution of labor union. The abolishment of regional chapters, too, was carried out in accordance with the guidelines of the Office of Labor Affairs, the Koren Government.

So far we have reviewed provisions in the Labor Law which could restrict labor union activities. Matters related to unfair labor practices on the part of employers are to be resolved [under the law] when they stop such practices and turn the situation around to where it was.

Even if the Labor Affairs Commission issued an order to reinstate a person who was fired in an unfair manner, the company would have almost nothing to lose because in such case it takes 2 to 3 months before the case goes through two trials, and the workers involved can hardly sustain themselves during the 2 to 3 month period. Therefore, to root out unfair labor practices, the court decision on unfair labor practices should be accompanies with punitive measures.

In the case of Company "W" in Taejon City, it not only disobeyed the court order to reinstate the person involved but ended up only paying a fine of 300,000 won to the prosecution in order to be completely cleared.

Limitations on Collective Bargaining Rights

The five problems stated in the foregoing concern workers' rights for unity. It would be difficult to expect any guarantee for the collective bargaining rights under the conditions where employers can exercise control over and interfere with the organization and operation of the labor unions. The limitation of collective action rights has already been stipulated under the Constitution. Under the Labor Dispute Arbitration Law, labor disputes in a certain business are prohibited. Compulsory arbitration can be exercised not only at public corporations but also at privately-owned businesses. Also, there are other constraints such as the extention of the cooling period and mediation.

The collective bargaining rights in the labor union means that workers negotiate with employers through their united and organized power, but collective bargaining rights without collective action rights are naturally meaningless and powerless. Of course this does not mean that merely because workers are given collective action rights, they can immediately plunge into such collective action as a strike. But workers must have collective action rights so as to have equal negotiation power, and the negotiation must be based on confidence and sincerity so that they can expect to produce feasible results.

The revised law has adopted a labor union system with the single enterprise as a unit, and in the bargaining rights it adopted a direct party system while largely limiting the delegation of collective bargaining rights to a third party (See Article 33 of the Labor Union Law).

There has been only one case in which collective bargaining rights were delegated to a third party (The Seoul Bus Labor Union has delegated the rights to the Federation of Automobile Labor Unions) up until now, when almost all cases of wage negotiations have been concluded for the year 1981. The limitations on the delegation of collective bargaining rights appeared to have started from the idea that the party involved knows best. Nevertheless the special labor-management relations which resort to generosity of employers do not always seem to work out peacefully. It may be better suggested that the higher labor organizations at the national level can possibly bridge the gap between the labor and management, taking into consideration equilibrium existing between the same kinds of trade as well as the same general areas. The delegation of power is designed to improve necessary authority, but when the delegation of power is limited, it may result in acknowledging power as it is. This is contrary to the idea of forestalling labor-management disputes. The result of negotiations ties down only within the enterprise may seem to be peace and quiet in the beginning, but as time goes by, factors conducive to labor disputes could continue to accrue.

The revised law stipulates that the wage agreement shall be effective for on year as it was in the past. But the effective period of collective bargaining of all conditions of work other than wages shall be extended, the law states, up to 3 years if possible. In view of our reality where we face heavy fluctuation in commodity prices and where the situation could change, this particular provision could contribute to reducing the opportunity to improve work conditions.

As discussed in the foregoing, I reviewed the Labor Law, including the Labor Union Law. We must not overlook the possible danger that the labor-management issue could flare up into social problems from conflicts between workers and employers when there is no functional mechanism [in the law] through which workers' demands and claims could be rationally channelled.

PARTY CENTER DEFINES LITERATURE, ART ROLE

SK150432 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0410 GMT 15 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang, 14 Nov (KCNA)--The literature and art of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea have come into full bloom.

They well meet the noble aesthetic idea and cultural demands of our people for their profound ideological contents and fresh and diverse artistic delineation.

They have made a fast progress after the liberation along the chuche-oriented line of literature and art indicated by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. Particularly, entering the 1970s, the glorious party centre, holding aloft this line, made literature and art true humanics and clearly defined its mission and role, so they might well contribute to the historic cause of modelling the whole society on the chuche idea.

As a result, all categories of art including literature, movie, opera, fine art, drama, music and dance, and circus met their brilliant heyday.

The greatest success achieved in literature and art in the past period is the creation of many monumental masterpieces giving a comprehensive and profound depiction of the glorious and brilliant history of revolutionary activities of the great leader.

Finding enthusiastic response from the people were the cycle of novels "immortal history" successfully representing the history of the revolutionary activities of the great leader, a number of feature films including "Mt Paektu" and fine art works depicting his greatness on epic canvases and musical works singing his exploits, wisdom of leadership and noble communist virtues, and others.

The brilliant revolutionary tradition of our literature and art has become to throw more brilliant rays through generations with the adaptation of "Sea of Blood," "A Flower Girl," "The Fate of a Self-Defence Crops Man," "An Chung-kun Shoots Hirobumi Ito" and "The Mountaing Shrine" and other immortal classic masterpieces created in the period of the anti-Japanese revolutionary struggle organized and led by the great leader to films, operas, novels and a drama.

The thematic scope has largely expanded and many literary and artistic works very high in depictive standards have been created to meet the demand of revolutionizing and working-classizing the whole society.

The glorious party centre has given an all-round innovation to our literature and art, freeing them from the old schemats, and trained a large army of men of literature and art by advancing man-centred literature and art, chuche-oriented theory on literature and art and unique creative method and establishing a new creative system.

In our country where life itself is soil for affluent art, art circle members resembling professionals are found in all factories and villages and even children are acclaimed by audiences in far off foreign countries.

The foreigners who saw performances of the Mansudae art troupe of our country were simply enchanted.

A well-known artist of Italy said:

"As for the height of Korean art, it is higher than the Alps and, as for its depth, it is deeper than the Mediterranean Sea. How can we help saying that Kmyan art is the art of the highest peak?

"It is a great pity that I cannot find a higher admiration than the words art of the highest peak."

INFLUENCE OF INDUSTRIAL AUTOMATION ON ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Pyongyang NODONG SINMUN in Korean 20 Sep 81 p 4

[Article by Chi Ch'ang-song: "Changeover to Remote Control System and the Development of the People's Economy"]

[Text] Under the wise leadership and great consideration of the great leader and glorious party center, the task of automation and the changeover to remote control system is being carried out splendidly today in our country and our people are being set free from harmful labor and highly heated labor and production is ceaselessly increasing.

Accelerating automation and the changeover to the remote control systems in technological production processes in all sectors of the people's economy is an important and honorable task thrust before our party members and workers in the new prospective planning period.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught us as follows:

"We must hasten overall mechanization, automation and changeover to the remote control system in the basic industrial sector including the extraction industry, metal industry, chemical industry, and the construction materials industry, and the construction, transportation and communications sector and put great effort in overall mechanization and chemicalization of the rural economic sector."

Switching in all sectors of the people's economy from outdated technology to developed technology and forcefully accelerating automation and changeover to the remote control system of the technological production process is one of the important tasks in liberating the workers from hard and difficult labor and realizing the modernization of the people's economy.

Simply stated, remote control means automatically controlling individual machines and the entire technological production process from a distance.

The remote control system is a modern scientific technology to control and manage individual machines or an entire technological production process by organically arranging it in one system.

In order to manage a technological production process from a distance, there must be a remote monitoring or measuring system which monitors or measures the operating condition of equipment or production process, circuits to transmit measurements and commands and a remote control system to analyze the measurements and issue appropriate commands.

An overall system of controlling and managing a technological production process with such monitoring and measuring devices, circuits and control systems as described above constitutes a remote control system.

The methods of the changeover to the remote control system can be divided variously according to the characteristics and scope of the work and the development level of the machines and equipment and the technological production process.

For example, in automatic control from a distance of the water level of a reservoir, we only need a remote monitoring and measuring system, but where various materials and means of transporting them converge, as in the materials area of an iron or steel mill, we must not only have remote monitoring and measuring device but also various accompanying equipment such as a remote control device.

In addition, in a chemical process where one process leads to another and where the production is made in complicated conditions of temperature, pressure, quantity, combination ratio, degrees of density, etc, modern remote control means and a remote control system such as various automatic devices and measuring equipment and tools are required.

Thus, the changeover to the remote control system can be simple or complex depending upon the nature of the work.

And depending upon its application, a wire- or radio-control method can be used.

When the changeover to the remote control system of the technological production process is realized with all the machine equipment and technological processes totally automated, a complicated work process is simplified, high heat labor, harmful labor and difficult and hard labor will disappear completely. Recently, since the latest modern scientific and technological accomplishments in the electronics and automation sectors were applied to the production process, remote control technology has been advancing in leaps and bounds.

The sector that has realized the highest level of changeover to the remote control system is electricity.

In the electric power field the changeover to the remote control system has been realized and the central distribution command receives information concerning the condition of the generators, and transmission and distribution network and load, and issues necessary orders to various generating and transformer stations.

Recently, in the electric field individual transformer stations were completely automated making human attendants obsolete, several generating stations--and not just one--were connected to the central distribution the grid and the remote control systems instituted, thereby accelerating a trend toward a centralized control and management of the power generation sector on a national scale.

In the railroad transport sector automation and the changeover to the remote control system has been actualized at major stations and railyards in the areas related to train movement, thereby guaranteeing the safety of train operation, even while smoothly meeting the increasing cargo demands of the people's economy and saving labor.

Today in our country, under the wise leadership and consideration of the great leader and the glorious party center, automation and changeover to the remote control system is forcefully advancing in various sectors of the people's economy including the metal industry, the chemical industry, and the cement industry.

The rapid development of automation of the technological production process and the adoption of the remote control system is opening the bright hope of completely eliminating high heat labor, harmful labor, and difficult labor in our country in the future.

If the automation of the technological production process and the changeover to the remote control system is completely realized, total automation will be completed in all the sectors of the people's economy, and highest stage of automation, an operatorless operation, in which technological production processes are run without human participation will be realized.

With the scale of factories becoming larger, the relation between the sectors becoming more complicated and the production process becoming more diversified, the remote control technology which in the past used to manage one machine one workplace or one factory is now far beyond that stage, coordinating work between workplace and workplace, factory and factory, and sector and sector, thus contributing to the managing of the technological production process.

In recent days, computers are being installed as part of the process of changeover to the remote control system of the technological production process.

Computers for remote control are an exact and reliable remote control means which manage the technological production process in the most rational way by receiving electronic signals from various objects such as blast furnaces, kilns and combining towers, analyzes and calculates and issues appropriate commands. When the computer for remote control receives instruction, it establishes a fixed production plan and issues production orders based upon that plan and it moves the machine equipment automatically according to the specific characteristics and state of the object.

When various sectors of the people's economy such as the metal industry, cement industry and chemical industry, receive computers, they will not only manage the production process scientifically, but also increase productivity and guarantee a high level of quality of goods. For instance, if we install the computer for remote control for the blast furnace that melts the iron ore and picks out the pig iron, it will analyze and calculate and completely control remotely the various physiochemical transformation processes taking place inside the blast furnace when the fuel is burned with such material in the furnace as iron ore, fuel, limestone and the heat blast.

Not only does one computer used in the machine industry sector remotely control the machine tools whose operating speed is very high, but it analyzes at a high speed the operating state of all machines and equipment and automates totally the transportation of materials, the manufacturing and the wrapping of goods, etc. So, people make the programs to be given to the computer or do the work of design and research concerning new manufacturing methods and new goods.

As science and technology advance and the structure of the sectors of the people's economy become subdivided, areas needing automation are increasing endlessly. These include the technological production process, building management, transportation management and warehouse management.

In this connection, semiconductors to be used in various sectors, new remote control devices in stockpile and remote control systems are also incomparably increasing, and the methods of remote control too are diversifying.

Nowadays, automatic machines called robots are being introduced widely in the technological production process.

We are going in the direction of using remotely controlled robots in such difficult and heavy work as at blast furnaces, electric furnaces, the nuclear power sector, mine excavation, undersea resources development, and perilous work in high-rise buildings.

Like the unsung heroes, all party members and workers must equip themselves with intense loyalty toward the great leader and the glorious party center as the unsung heroes have done and under the banner of self-reliance, effectively carry out the modernization and scientification of the people's economy by smoothly solving scientific and technological problems for total mechanization and automation of production and adoption of the remote control system in all sectors of the people's economy, and thus achieve ahead of schedule the magnificent 10 prospective targets of socialist economic construction.

PLANT MODERNIZATION TO IMPROVE CONSUMER GOODS REPORTED

[Article by special correspondent Kim Kwang-sik: "Innovation in People's Consumer Goods Production: At Local Industrial Plants in Sinyang County"]

[Text] Local industrial plants in Sinyang County are improving the quality of people's consumer goods and increasing types of products by modernizing technical processes for production.

The great leader, Comrade Kim Il-song, taught us as follows: "We must modernize technical processes for production in light industry factories, considerably increase types of products, and raise their quality to that of advanced countries by improving the guaranteed supply of raw materials."

One of the leaders of the county party committee earnestly discussed with the workers of the local industrial plants in the country methods of carrying out the teachings of the great leader.

Under the wise leadership of the great leader and the glorious party Central Committee, the people's living standard has improved day by day.

Nowadays, even in the countryside, every family's household has many kinds of necessary furniture. What we need now is better-quality and better-looking furniture.

How can we fulfill the needs of the people?

With due regard for reality, we must modernize the technical production processes in the local industrial plants.

Isn't this the way abundantly to produce better-quality and better-looking consumer goods?

With renewed determination, the functionaries of the local industry branch carried out [their task]. They went to local industrial plants in the county, studied and analyzed the anatomy of production processes, and undertook a series of measures to modernize them.

Each functionary in the county took charge of a plant and vigorously spurred the workers and engineers by explaining and instilling the teachings of the great leader on the modernization of technical processes for production.

The county pushed boldly and ambitiously the modernization of technical processes for production.

The workers and engineers of a factory for daily necessities opened a campaign to bring about changes in the production of furniture.

The workers and engineers of the plant, including loyal members of the "April 15 Assault Squad for Technological Innovations," readjusted and strengthened a 1,000-ton press with the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and arduous struggle. They also opened a campaign to produce decorative plastic sheets using a new method.

They failed many times, but continued the campaign without becoming discouraged. Eventually by themselves they built a furnace for soaking and drying plastics and were able to produce high-quality decorative plastic sheets at the same time reducing their usage of melamine [resin] by more than 60 percent.

Thus, the quality of furniture such as dining tables, bedding cabinets, and dressers, improved immensely, and types of products also increased.

The campaign to modernize technical production processes was also opened boldly at a paper mill.

The workers and engineers of this plant have been campaigning together with the members of the Three Revolutions Team to accept paper production using the heat processing [yolmaswae] method.

Design engineer Yim Song-nyol together with the workers and other engineers of the mill are strengthening their creative cooperation and campaigning to modernize their paper production facilities.

In addition, a campaign is in progress to modernize hot rolling and plating processes in a plant for metallic products for daily necessities and for the production of better-tasting sauce in a soy sauce factory.

The local industrial plants in Sinyang County widely expanded their productivity through the campaign to modernize technical production processes. Also, the quality of people's consumer goods has been raised enormously and types of products have increased immensely.

INDUSTRY UNDERGOES RECONSTRUCTION, EXPANSION

[Text] Pyongyang, 17 Nov (KCNA)--Reconstruction and expansion projects are being energetically accelerated at industrial establishments of Korea. It is a step for beating the targets of the Second Seven-Year Plan (197801984) ahead of time.

The Kimchaek Iron and Steel Works is stepping up at fast speed the reconstruction and expansion of blast furnace No 2 and the remodeling of the sintering furnace, while hastening production. The assembling of the furnace body and the bottom of a hot-blast furnace and the groundwork projects of the ventilation, cooling and separating rooms are going on in full scale, their appearance changing every day.

The Nakwon machine plant manufactured test products of big and small channel excavators, a dredger and a stone-loading machine and is preparing their mass production, while energetically pushing ahead with technical reconstruction to increase the processing capacity 2.5 times and the assembling speed of excavators 2 times next year.

The September 28 Factory has already built a material production base commensurate with the production level envisaged at the end of the Second Seven-Year Plan and the June 4 Rolling Stock Factory has created a new steel casting capacity of 30,000 tons to open a confident prospect of the pre-schedule fulfillment of the Second Seven-Year Plan.

Reconstruction and expansion projects are going on also at the industrial establishments of the power, mining, metal, chemical and textile industries.

The Nakyon Mine has increased the dressing capacity 2.5 times and ore transporting capacity 3 times in a short time and the Pyongyang Textile Combine has successfully carried out the technical reconstruction of the preparing process for doubling the production capacity of high-quality stuff, involving the remodelling of the dyeing machine, expansion of drying facilities and multi-shuttle devices of weaving machines.

NEW DWELLING HOUSES PROVIDED TO FARMERS

[Text] Pyongyang, 16 Nov (KCNA)--"New modern villages have made their appearance" and "the whole village moves into new houses all at once"--such things are not uncommon in the countryside of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea.

An instance of this are new modern villages which made their appearance in Singyemirudung, a tableland of North Hwanghae Province.

There more than 1,240 families moved into new modern houses this autumn. As a result, 13 handsome villages appeared at the sunny foot of hills.

Built in villages with orchards are nurseries, kindergartens, clinics and rooms for dissemination of agricultural, scientific and technical knowledge.

The dwelling houses have been built, each with 2-3 rooms, a kitchen with water-service, storehouse, wardrobe, cupboard and other furniture and kitchen utensils for their owners.

The state has built such modern dwelling houses every year for farmers free of charge. From 1964 to 1980 more than 957,000 dwelling houses were built in the countryside.

Thus, the housing condition of working people has been further improved in the Korean countryside where the housing question was solved after healing the war wounds in less than ten years after the war.

The faces of farmers who moved into new houses after reaping a bumper harvest this year are beaming with joy. They are now hastening autumn thrashing with a redoubled vigor.

Better dwelling houses will be constructed on a more extensive scale in town and country in the future.

Urban and rural working people will receive 200,000-300,000 dwelling houses every year.

FACILITIES AT NAMP'O MEDICAL TECHNICAL SCHOOL DESCRIBED

Pyongyang NODONG SINMUN in Korean 23 Sep 81 p 4

[Article by staff reporter Yi Sun-hui: "At Namp'o Higher Medical Technical School: Promising Growing Medical Technicians"]

[Text] Under the brilliant light of the educational themes made clear by the great leader, our lucky new generation flourishes everywhere with its hope and skill.

Not long ago, we visited the Namp'o Higher Medical Technical School and saw proud figures of the new generation growing gallantly as trustworthy medical scientists.

As we entered the gate of the school, which is located in a beautiful port city, an herb garden with a distinct fragrance came into view.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught us as follows: "We must let the students learn those things that are urgently needed for our revolution. They should be able to use the knowledge and technology they have gained skillfully to carry out the revolution."

As is the case with all schools in our country, this school is organized very well to train reliable Chuch'e medical scientists as the party wants.

According to the principal, Comrade Kim Hong-su, students of the school directly cultivate herbs from all over the country as well as herbs from tropical areas, and expand their knowledge of oriental medicine.

We visited a new laboratory for oriental medicine which was established by the teachers of the school in sincere support of the medical policy of the party.

At every table in the comfortable laboratory, into which the soft morning sun was shining, both male and female students in medical gowns were experimenting with samples of herbs piled high in front of their microscopes.

The laboratories of this school are equipped with various visual aids, including one giving the distribution of herbs in our country. They also have hundreds of samples of herbs and oriental animal medicines neatly classified. These laboratories provide rich knowledge for the students.

The teachers here possess a noble sense of duty and honor, training health workers to protect and extend the lives and health of people, who are the most precious beings on earth. The teachers work very hard to raise the quality of education.

Teacher Ch'a Yu-hwa visits high and low mountains on the west coast, teaches students about the characteristics of Korean herbs, and collects them. He is not alone in visiting many places and collecting precious herbs.

The teachers collect herbs on their business trips to remote places such as Pyongyang, Wonsan, and Chanjin. The herbs are made into examples, enabling the students to obtain profound knowledge.

In this way, in a short period the teachers built a garden for use in teaching so that the students could cultivate all the herbs they wanted. Also, the teachers built, along with an oriental medicine laboratory, a splendid practice laboratory for oriental medicine in which the students could prepare many oriental medicines themselves.

The oriental medical practice laboratory, which was built by the teachers of the Department of Internal Medicine in support of the party policy to blend Oriental and Western medical treatments, was splendid.

The practice laboratory had a teaching aid that indicated, by many colorful light bulbs, acupuncture points along the nerve system throughout the human body. When a pointer touches an acupuncture point, red lights light up in all the internal organs connected to the point, enabling the students to see vividly the connections of almost 200 acupuncture points on an ear. In addition, the laboratory had an orderly array of modern diagnostic equipment that can provide timely and accurate diagnosis on any type of sickness and medical equipment to practice various forms of oriental medicine.

The teachers of the Department of Internal Medicine combined their strength and wisdom and built the practice laboratory in a short period. The laboratory has a detector for general-purpose acupuncture points and another one for points on ears, which guarantee the superb accuracy of oriental medical treatment.

We were particularly pleased with the trustworthy students, who gain their knowledge in a well-equipped school and increase their ability to practice medicine.

We went to the dental correction [kugang chonghyong] laboratory through the dental treatment laboratory. Students of both sexes, dressed smartly in medical gowns, were making various prosthetics in a well-equipped laboratory.

The students learned advanced methods based on standardized operations through tens of hours of practice. Starting in the third year of their laboratory class, they make not models but various prosthetics for real patients. Their products were as good as those made in hospitals.

There is more to this.

Throughout their courses, the students of the Department of Oral Medicine gain knowledge through lectures, and combine their profound theoretical knowledge with extensive practical capability through practice in many laboratories such as the dental treatment laboratory. They are directly responsible for the examination and preventive dental care of the teachers and students.

The students of the Department of Oral Medicine also actively carry out preventive treatment to improve the health of children in nurseries and kindergartens near the school.

The students are well aware of the importance and significance of the dental work they must carry out. They even detect minute symptoms in the children and work hard to apply correct treatment.

They are not the only ones who work in this manner.

As described above, the school trains all students to become able technical people with profound scientific knowledge and extensive practical capability. They are solidly armed with the Chuch'e medical ideology of our party under the brilliant light of the socialist educational themes put forward by the great leader.

ANGOLAN VISITOR PRAISES KIM CHONG-IL

[Text] Pyongyang, 14 Nov (KCNA)--Ricardo Manuel Costa, director of the "Lallo Library" of Angola, who had been on a visit to Korea met reporters at the Peoples Palace of Culture in Pyongyang on November 9 prior to his departure for home.

Hanging on a wall of the press conference hall was a portrait of the great leader of our party and our people Comrade Kim Il-song.

At the press conference Ricardo Manuel Costa extended wholehearted thanks to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il for having provided him with an opportunity to visit Korea. It is the greatest honour for me to have visited beautiful and developed Korea, he noted.

He said that he visited Mangyongdae called by the world people the native place dear to their hearts and was deeply impressed while inspecting the Korean revolution museum, factories, cooperative farms and educational and cultural institutions.

What impressed me most, he noted, is the fact that in your country there are neither beggars nor jobless people and a great change has taken place in all realms of social life and all people are enjoying a harmonious and happy life like members of one family.

Noting that the method of education and upbringing of children in Korea is the best one, the director gave the impressions he got while inspecting the Pyongyang students and childrens palace.

He said: What I want to say is that I have never seen or read at any place of the world or in any book of the world that such a beautiful and grand palace was built for children.

Children in many countries of the world are now forsaken, going in rags and hungry and wandering about streets. But the children of your country are happy. Bringing their talent into full bloom without any worry at the students and childrens palaces built by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song.

I became convinced that all the changes and wonderful successes in your country are attributable to the energetic and wise guidance of the great leader Comrade

Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il who give on-the-spot guidance without letup to factories, rural villages, schools and all other places where people live and work.

Saying that he was deeply impressed by the rapid development of literature and arts of Korea, the guest stressed that the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il is a great man possessed of distinguished talent and quality in literature, arts and music, too.

Today the Korean people have become the most dignified, happiest people in the world as they follow and are guided by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song who founded the immortal chuche idea for the working masses and has brought about great changes by thoroughly applying it in all fields of social life and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il who carries forward his great revolutionary cause to completion, the director said.

While touring Panmunjom and seeing the concrete wall, I could not repress indignation and resentment, he said, and declared: The U.S. imperialist aggressors who divided Korea and are trying to keep her divided forever into "two Koreas" must go back to their den as early as possible.

He stressed: To put an end to the tragedy of the Korean people at the earliest date, the divided country should be reunified independently and peacefully on a democratic principle.

The Korean people who are under the wise guidance of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il will certainly bring earlier the day.

He sincerely wished good health and a long life to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il.

At the press conference he recited poems "Ode to President Kim Il-song," "To Korea of President Kim Il-song" and "Song of Hope" written by himself.

Brezhnev, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR,to the West German magazine DER SPIEGEL was recently carried in Soviet papers, according to a TASS report.

In his talk he said that the Soviet Union would not use nuclear weapons under whatever conditions against those countries which refused to produce or acquire them and have not such weapons in their territories.

Pointing to the claim of some Western strategists and statesmen that a "restricted" nuclear war may be pardonable, he noted: Those who want to kindle nuclear weapons and sit aside and remain an onlooker must not be prepossessed with a delusion.

Noting that the problem of nuclear means in Europe can and must be settled in the interests of the European people, he said: The Soviet Union will be ready to decrease the total number of her rockets only when the U.S. gives up a new program for the missile equipment of NATO.

Referring to the problem of establishing a nuclear-free zone in Northern Europe, he recalled that the Soviet Union has already expressed her readiness to assume the obligation not to use nuclear weapons against Northern Europe.

'VRPR' ON ARMED RESISTANCE STRUGGLE IN LATIN AMERICA

[From "Today's Feature": "Armed Resistance Struggle Is Intensifying"--dialogue between station commentator Yun and announcer (Kim Chang-min)]

[Text] [Yun] Hello, how are you?

[Kim] Hello, how are you?

[Yun] People often say that the flames of a resistance struggle spread like a brushfire on a plain. This is not necessarily only in nature, and many times we have seen the flames of struggle spread in human society. We can say the same thing about the antifascist democratization struggle which is quickly expanding in the Central and South American dictatorial countries.

[Kim] True. As for Latin America, countries in this region have long been liberated from colonial rule. But not a few still maintain fascist dictatorial systems because of rule by pro-U.S. fascist elements who are supported by the U.S. imperialists.

However, 2 years ago, the entire people of Nicaragua rose to overthrow the Somoza dictatorial regime. Following this, the pro-U.S. and pro-British dictatorial rulers of Grenada and Dominica have fallen one after another. Encouraged by this, the flames of struggle against dictatorial rule are wildly spreading throughout the neighboring countries.

[Yun] I consider armed guerrilla fighting as the basis of the anti-dictatorial struggle which is spreading in the whole area of Central and South America. How do you view this?

[Kim] True. In other words, this means that only when violence is dealt with by violence can the dictatorial forces be overthrown and democratization be achieved.

Not long ago, a leader of the (Farabundo Marti) Liberation Front, a united guerrilla organization of El Salvador, answered a reporter's question about the status of the guerrilla struggle. He said that the fascist groups crush even slight democratization in its incipient stage and trample underfoot democratic human rights. He said:

If we sit with our arms folded, we cannot retain even the rights to exist, nor can achieve democratization. The only way to escape violence and ensure human rights is to wage resistance struggle resorting to violence thus, he made clear his determination to further strengthen the armed struggle.

[Yun] That indeed teaches us a lesson. The dictators in fact never step down from power on their own and use violence to maintain their fascist systems. If we sit and do nothing, what will happen to us? It means we will merely suffer poverty, lack of rights and slave-like discrimination. How can a people who value independence and freedom go on living like that?

[Kim] That is the reason why the patriotic masses of all strata in the dictatorial countries of Central and South America are staging a bloody, death-defying armed struggle. Particularly, guerrilla fighting is being expanded and strengthened in countries like El Salvador, Guatemala, Colombia and Chile. Guerrilla organizations in these countries, which used to stage sporadic guerrilla activities, have recently united, forming a military united front. Under unified operation and command they have intensified attacks through ambushes and surprise attacks and have succeeded in these operations, dealing heavy blows to the fascist military elements.

[Yun] Indeed, various guerrilla organizations in El Salvador have unified, forming the (Farabundo Marti) National Liberation Front, and they have strengthened their might, growing larger.

Units of the (Farabundo Marti) Liberational Front have occupied various areas in the country and are daily staging offensives. According to monthly announcements by the government of El Salvador, the guerrillas staged operations 181 times last March and killed 1,099 government soldiers, and in April alone they reportedly killed 411.

On 17 August, a high-ranking Salvadoran military officer confessed that the guerrillas occupy a large portion of the country's eastern sector and have established a provincial government and that the government troops are on the defensive with each passing day.

Hinton, U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, in an interview with an AFP reporter on 31 July, said that the guerrilla units had occupied many places in El Salvador and that some 1,600 government soldiers had been killed during the last 6 months. He screamed that some 10 helicopters supplied by the United States are all inoperable after being hit by the guerrilla gunfire.

From these facts we can easily guess how much damage has been done to the United States and the military government by the fearless attacks staged by the (Farabundo Marti) Liberation Front.

[Kim] In addition to El Salvador, the four guerrilla units in Guatemala, including the Popular Armed Organization and the [word indistinct] guerrilla force, formed a coalition. They have raided military bases and police stations, blown up oil pipelines and occupied broadcasting stations. They have killed some 100 to 150 reactionary troops this year by waging large-scale actions.

The guerrilla units, including the May 19 Movement and the workers' resistance group, are very active in Colombia. In Central America, a guerrilla unit called the People's Resistance Volunteer Army is also active. In particular, the 19 May Movement in Colombia in March last year waged the most severe assault in recent years. It seized the capital city and killed many people, including the police chief.

The Chilean people's antifascist volunteer army occupied the radio station in Santiago and broadcast an antidictatorship declaration, thus drawing the attention of international society.

[Yun] It has been learned that the operations carried out by such guerrilla units are very successful and of large scale.

[Kim] Foreign news reports indicate that the troops of the guerrillas in El Salvador number some 5,000 to 7,000 and in Guatemala some 2,000. Although we are unable to confirm these reports, we believe their forces are very large. In particular, the popular liberation force in El Salvador even carries out the struggle with guns and heavy weapons. What is more important is the fact that these guerrilla units are supported by the people, and their struggle is being waged in close connection with the mass struggle by people of all walks of life. Thus, their troops are very mighty.

[Yun] You are right. Some 200,000 workers from all sectors of metal, textile, transportation, commerce and finance in El Salvador went on a general strike in support of the troops of the popular liberation force when they launched an all-out offensive. Even government officials in domains of education, legislation and foreign affairs joined the general strike, thus flustering the Gutierrez military regime. The junta requested the support of the United States, screaming that it could no longer hold out unless it had help. The Reagan administration in the United States increased military aid and sent more military advisors. It sent even the notorious combat force called the Green Berets. However, the situation has not improved and the United States has been denounced by the international society.

[Kim] As proved by the Sandinista revolution in Nicaragua, if all the people rise in unity, no dictator can remain in power, no matter how atrocious he may be. This is a truth the peoples in Central and South America witnessed in Nicaragua. They are now trying to apply this through various methods of struggle. This will greatly contribute to the movement for democratization of Central and South America.

[Yun] Today, the dictators in Central and South America are frantically running amok to maintain the fascist systems with the support of the United States. However, history shows that dictatorship does not last long and that the downfall of dictators is inevitable, so long as the masses wage a decisive struggle to overthrow them.

'MINJU CHOSON': S. KOREA ENEMY OF THIRD WORLD

[Text] Pyongyang 14 November (KCNA)--Minju Choson 13 November published a signed article titled "South Korean Puppet Clique is Heinous Enemy of Peoples of New-Emerging Forces."

Noting that now the Chon Tu-hwan puppet clique is trying hard to disguise itself as a "friend" of the countries of the new-emerging forces and approach to these countries, prattling about the development of "amity and friendship" and "cooperative relations," the article says:

It is unthinkable that the South Korean military fascist clique should become a friend of the third world people.

The dirty nature of the puppet clique, a vicious foe of the peoples of the new-emerging forces, was clearly disclosed by the fact that it has desperately obstructed the anti-imperialist national-liberation struggle of the peoples of the new-emerging forces in Asia and their building of a new society and played an active role in disturbing peace and security in this area.

When the U.S. imperialists started the armed intervention against Kampuchea, the South Korean puppets raised shouts of "support," saying that it was "just," and did their best to stifle the righteous struggle of the people by hurling into Kampuchea some of the puppet troops which had already been dispatched to her neighbouring countries.

The South Korean puppets also grossly insulted the aspirations of the Burmese people for independence and zealously committed a criminal act to save the Iranian peoples enemy who was severely punished and thrown overboard by the people.

The South Korean puppets are a heinous enemy who has long opposed the Arab peoples, joining hands with the zionists.

When the imperialists and the zionists started the second Middle East war, they not only heaped all sorts of slanders upon the Arab peoples but also hatched a plot to send "volunteers" to the zionists, challenging fair public opinion of the world.

Later, they established "state relations" with Israel in disregard of the protest and denunciation of the progressive people of the world, fabricated even an "association for friendship" with them. And, on the eve of the third Middle East war, they actively helped the zionists in their preparations for the war of aggression by frequently exchanging "military missions" with them.

When the zionists unleashed the fourth Middle East war by surprise in 1973, the South Korean puppets, reversing black and white, conducted a false propaganda that "the Arab side started the war first" and dispatched even puppet pilots to fight against the Arab peoples.

They also viciously slandered and insulted the African people who have risen for national liberation, the consolidation of independence and social progress and resorted to all kinds of despicable means to bar their struggle.

The puppets intensified the military tie-up with the white racists in Africa and actively defended their racist policy.

When the Zimbabwean people were waging an arduous armed struggle, it was the South Korean puppets who sent "military advisers" to the white racists and insulted the just struggle of the Zimbabwean people, saying that it was an "audacious one."

The South Korean puppets have supported overtly and covertly the apartheid of the white racists of South Africa and zealously backed their sanguinary massacre and are now further tightening close relations with them.

Besides, the South Korean puppets committed without hesitation the criminal act of sending "military advisers" and combat forces to the Somoza dictatorial "regime" when it was faced with ruin in the flames of the national salvation resistance raised high by the Nicaraguan people.

As shown by these facts, the South Korean puppets are the dirty stooges of the imperialists and the common enemy of the peoples of the new-emerging forces who value justice.

'MINJU CHOSON' DENOUNCES U.S. AIRCRAFT CARRIER'S CALL AT PUSAN

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 November (KCNA)--The aircraft carrier "Midway," together with four warships of the U.S. Seventh Fleet, anchored at the Pusan port of South Korea on 12 November, according to a report. The U.S. imperialists announced that over 6,000 men on board the "Midway" and the four warships landed in South Korea to "tour" Pusan and other areas of South Kyongsang Province for 6 days till 17 November.

Commenting on this MINJU CHOSON 15 November notes that the real purpose of the "Midway's" call at the South Korean port is not "tourism" but to step up the policy of aggression and war. The author of the commentary titled "What Does Midway's Call at South Korean Port Show?" says:

Clamouring that a point where a war may break out in Asia is Korea, the U.S. imperialists now ship a large quantity of nuclear and other destructive weapons into South Korea and keep extensively reinforcing aggression forces.

The "Midway's" portcall is part of the preparations for a new war in Korea frantically stepped up by the U.S. imperialists.

The "Midway's" portcall is also intended to give a shot in the arm to the Chon Tu-hwan clique forsaken and rejected within and without and threaten and intimidate the South Korean people who have risen up in the struggle against fascism and for democracy.

The U.S. imperialist aggressors have made a practice of holding an armed demonstration by bringing in their aggression forces each time a crisis grew serious in South Korea.

The struggle of South Korean students against fascism and for democracy which is gaining momentum in the teeth of the brutal fascist suppression has driven the Chon Tu-hwan clique into a quandary. This is a heavy blow at the U.S. imperialists trying to enforce a colonial fascist rule in South Korea and carry into effect the "two Koreas" policy by putting up the puppets.

This is why the U.S. imperialists hurriedly sent the pirate ship "Midway" to South Korea to boost the morale of the Chon Tu-hwan clique floundering in a quagmire and to threaten and browbeat the South Korean people.

Facts eloquently tell that the danger of a war is daily increasing in Korea and the U.S. imperialist aggressors are to blame for this and clearly show once again that they are criminals egging the traitor Chon Tu-hwan on to a fratricide.

Our people are closely watching the reckless war manoeuvres of the U.S. imperialists and will not tolerate any act against us.

The U.S. imperialists must face the reality squarely, stop running riot and get out of South Korea at once, taking along all their armed forces of aggression.

'MINJU CHOSON' COMMENTS ON U.S.-JAPAN PLANNING

[Text] Pyongyang 17 November (KCNA)--The commander of the U.S. army in Japan, speaking at a recent press conference, declared that "U.S.-Japan joint study of an emergency case in the Far East" would be conducted within January next year and "it is desirable" that the U.S. forces should use airfields and harbour facilities of Japan and bases of the Japan "self-defence forces" "in case of a conflict in the Korean peninsula." In this connection Minju Choson today prints a signed commentary titled "dangerous war plan."

It says: Donnellys utterances openly revealed that the U.S. imperialists and the Japanese reactionaries are hatching an aggressive plot against the Korean people and patently proved that the military tie-up between the United States and Japan has entered a very grave stage.

"An emergency case in the Far East" mentioned by Donnelly means the provocation of a war by the U.S. imperialists in the Korean peninsula and its "study" is for discussing how the U.S. and Japanese forces should cooperate in wartime.

It is a vicious challenge to and an unpardonable provocation against our people that the U.S. imperialists and the Japanese reactionaries are going to work out scrupulously in advance a joint operational plan on the assumption of the provocation of a war in Korea.

The U.S. imperialists try to easily attain their wisked design by drawing Japan deeper into a war of aggression against the Korean people and the Japanese reactionaries scheme to regain the old position of colonial ruler by actively joining and cooperating with the U.S. imperialists in their war of aggression in Korea and stretching their claws of aggression to our country.

We will not tolerate the aggressive military tie-up of the U.S. imperialists and the Japanese reactionaries.

The U.S. imperialists must stop threatening the Korean people with their policy of "strength" and withdraw at once from South Korea, taking along nuclear and all other destructive weapons, as demanded by our people and the peaceloving people of the world.

The Japanese reactionaries must give up the aggressive machinations against our country and discontinue hostile acts obstructing the reunification of Korea.

'KCNA': CHON RING ARRESTS MORE STUDENTS

OK161615 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1532 GMT 16 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang 16 November (KCNA)--The military fascist clique is more viciously suppressing South Korean students these days.

Fearful of the massive anti-"government" action of the students more than anything else, the military fascist clique planted its cats-paws in the universities and colleges of South Korea to watch every move of students, and each time the student struggle broke out, it sent the riot police to brutally crack down upon it and arrested and jailed a large number of students.

On 23 October when a massive demonstration took place at the Seoul University, the fascist gang sent a large riot police force to suppress it, brandishing bayonets and firing tear-bombs, and arrested 38 students. When a struggle broke out on 29 October at the Koryo University, it arrested 7-8 students on the spot.

The military blackguards committed such brutal suppression at the Sogang University, the university of foreign studies and the Songgyungwan University in Seoul and all other universities and colleges where it stretched out its claws.

The Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique not only arrested many demonstrating students on the spot but continues to arrest and detain a large number of students on charges of "agitating for and leading demonstrations" in various universities.

The military fascist clique persecuted them by all means and inflicted harsh penalties upon them through murderous trial on charges of violation of the notorious "law on assembly and demonstration."

Recently the fascist clique repeatedly held trials in Seoul and Kwangju and passed prison terms upon students and personages of various strata whom they had arrested and persecuted for their participation in the struggle against fascism and for democracy.

It also expelled patriotic students from the campus.

The fascist clique expelled two students of the Koryo University and suspended from school four others on charges of involvement in the "anti-government" demonstration which was held at the university.

It also unreasonably expelled six students from the Seoul University on charges of "leading the demonstration" which took place at the university on 23 October and expelled or suspended from school 65 more students on charges of involvement in the righteous struggle against a "government"-sponsored "festival" which was held on the new school-term day at the university.

The military rogues scheme to discipline a large number of students of other universities and colleges, too, in accordance with disciplinary steps similar to those taken at the Seoul University.

Meanwhile, the Chon Tu-hwan clique let its running dogs insult the righteous struggle of the students, raving about "strong sanctions" and adopted "measures to counter campus disturbances" for harsh penalization of students to openly threaten and intimidate them.

All facts show how desperately the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique, upset by the massive anti-"government" struggle of students, is trying to block their righteous action.

'NODONG SINMUN' ASSAILS CHON RING'S 'TORTURES'

[Text] Pyongyang, 16 November (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN 14 November printed a signed article titled "We Denounce Brutal Murderous Tortures of South Korean Puppets."

The article says: The fascist clique of the murderer Chon Tu-hwan, having seized power by plunging thousands of, tens of thousands of, fellow countrymen into a sea of blood, has set up murderous torture chambers in the notorious puppet Army Security Command, "National Security Planning Agency," police stations, prisons and reformatories in all parts of South Korea where patriotic people, students and democratic figures arrested and detained indiscriminately for their call for the democratisation of society and the reunification of the country are put to all sorts of brutal tortures.

The Chon Tu-hwan fascist cliques tortures are unprecedentedly brutal in their method. To give psychological pains to the arrested persons, the murderous clique gives no sleep to them, torments them with glow lamps and loudspeakers and tortures their wives or kinsmen before them. To give physical pains, the gangsters apply scores of torture methods, such as the fire torture, electric torture, narcotic torture, water torture, snake torture, gas torture and Genghis Khan cook torture.

The hangmen locked up Chong Tong-nyon, a student of the Chonnam University, in a small white-painted room lit by hundreds of watt glow lamps and tortured him and did not allow him to sleep, forcing him to "confess" that Kim Tae-chung "manipulated behind the scene" the Kwangju popular uprising.

The fascist clique cut off the heels of Han Su-san, a writer, because he insulted the traitor Chon Tu-hwan in his novel and applied electric torture till his eyes bled and put his six colleagues to harsh tortures for four consecutive days.

Noted democratic figure Kim Tae-chung who had stood for the puppet "president" was detained in a dark underground chamber for 60 days and brutally tortured for 18 hours every day because he called for the democratisation of South Korean society and the reunification of the country. He is still cruelly persecuted and tortured.

The Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique arrested 80 year old democratic figure Ham Sok-non and drove a rubber hose into his anus and blew air into it and then stamped his swollen abdomen with jackboots, and pulled out his moustache and toes.

The fascist butchers set up even an institute specialised in the study of torture methods.

At the puppet army hospital and prisons the fascist clique secretly studied the methods of killing people without leaving a trace by applying hallucinogenic drugs, chemicals and radioactive matters to manipulate the action of people at will and applies these methods in torture.

It sent hangmen to the United States and Israel to study technique of murderous torture and keeps introducing latest instruments of torture.

The fascist clique has built a "special prison" to accommodate over 7,000 people in a solitary island secluded from human society and put them to mur'erous tortures.

In the last one year alone the fascist gang arrested as many as 753,500 guiltless people and harshly tortured and penalized them.

All those taken to the torture chambers by the fascist murderers were either deformed or killed without exception. This is why the South Korean people call the torture chambers of the fascist clique the "manufactory of the deformed" and the "factory of corpses."

The reality of South Korea clearly tells once again that as long as the murderous gang is left intact the people cannot maintain even their life, far from enjoying democratic liberties and rights.

VRPR SCORES CHON'S SPY RING 'FABRICATION'

SK172254 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 1000 GMT 17 Nov 81

[Station commentary]

[Text] The Chon Tu-hwan ring recently announced the so-called incident of an indigenous spy ring and the incident of a spy ring of Korean students from Japan studying in South Korea. On 6 November the National Security Planning Agency fabricated and announced three espionage incidents involving U.S. and Japanese operations bases. It atrociously arrested and jailed nine innocent persons, alleging they were involved in these incidents.

As has been reported, on 4 November the Chon Tu-hwan ring held a trial of the fabricated incident of a spy ring on Chindo Island and sentenced many persons to death and prison terms, perpetrating all sorts of atrocities against the people. The so-called incident of a spy ring whose operation bases were allegedly in the United States and Japan was, as in the case of the incident of the spy ring on Chindo Island, a premediated anticommunist commotion designed to incite a confrontation between the north and the south, to stifle the antigovernment movement of the people and to create an excuse for suppression. It was a clear fabrication.

Fabricating various incidents and connecting them with the north so as to threaten the people and mislead public opinion whenever the antigovernment struggle becomes stronger and a political crisis is imminent is a hackneyed method of the fascist dictators.

In March 1980 when the antifascist struggle for democracy escalated, the Chon Tu-hwan ring triggered a large-scale anticommunist commotion by fabricating an armed agents infiltration incident.

At the time of the Kwangju resistance, the Chon Tu-hwan ring connected the resistance with the north, describing it as a maneuver behind the scenes by some impure elements. Thus, it tried to mislead public opinion. The so-called U.S. and Japan-based spy ring incident the Chon Tu-hwan ring announced recently is another example of this. Even a child knows that the spy ring incident is an out-and-out fabrication.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring's announcement of the spy ring incident alleged that Korean compatriots and students residing mainly in the United States and Japan were involved. This draws our attention. This spy ring incident is a fabricated political drama concocted by the National Security Planning Agency. This can be proved.

Announcing the spy ring incident, the Chon Tu-hwan ring alleged that the Korean compatriots involved in the incident were espionage agents because they had visited the north and received directives there. This is a lie.

Even if they had visited the north, this is no crime. It is only natural for the compatriots abroad to visit their country and to meet their parents, brothers and sisters, relatives and friends. From a patriotic and humanitarian point of view, such a visit should be actively encouraged and welcomed. The visit of the Korean compatriots to the north to visit their families and relatives is a basic right which cannot be infringed on by anyone for any reason.

If they are to be arrested for conducting espionage activities under the directives of the north simply because they had visited the north, what about Yi Hu-rak and Yi Pom-sok, who also visited the north? They, too, should be punished for spying.

These people struggle in South Korea for democracy and reunification to seek the truth and out of love for the nation--not because they are following someone's directive.

It is unpardonable for the Chon Tu-hwan ring to accuse and to punish them for conducting espionage activities. Moreover, the Chon Tu-hwan ring charges the overseas compatriots' praise of the north is the cause for the charges of spy activities. This is outrageous sophistry.

In the north a famous socialist system of the people allows everyone to live an affluent life without worry about food, clothing and shelter. It is not by chance that the overseas compatriots who visited the north and the foreigners who visited the north praise the north by saying that the north is a paradise on earth. It is a pride and endless honor of our nation that the people in the north who are our blood brothers display the prestige of the nation through rapid economic growth.

Why should they be charged for conducting espionage activities and arrested simply because they discussed the development of the north. In connection with their tours of hometowns in South Korea, the Chon Tu-hwan ring charged the Japan-resident compatriots as being spies because they were checking the location and status of army-police checkpoints and collecting information on military bases.

As to South Korea, a colony of the United States dominated by fascism and dictatorship, military bases are everywhere. Everything in sight is army-police checkpoints. On the way to their hometowns, the overseas compatriots had to pass through countless checkpoints and could not avoid seeing countless military bases. If they are not blind, deaf or dumb, how can they avoid seeing, hearing and discussing their trip.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring even charged them with spying because they took pictures with the people, their brothers and sisters and friends in hometowns whom they met again after a long time. This is, indeed, an outrageous act that could be committed only by the Chon Tu-hwan military clique, which has no sense of morality.

The charges which the Chon Tu-hwan ring brought against the Japan-resident compatriots are unjustifiable and a complete fraud. Why does the Chon Tu-hwan ring ceaselessly fabricate such incidents and continue their commotions? The Chon Tu-hwan ring is seeking an excuse for suppressing the antigovernment struggle which the students and people of all strata are waging everywhere in South Korea. The resentment of Chon Tu-hwan's military rule is growing stronger at campuses, plants and elsewhere. The antifascism democratization struggle of the students, which has persisted since 17 September, is the largest since the Chon Tu-hwan ring seized power. Crying that murderer and traitor Chon Tu-hwan, who stained his hands with the blood of people, must be killed, the students are prepared to continue the struggle for campus liberation and the democratization of South Korea. They are carrying on the antigovernment struggle.

It is in these circumstances that the Chon Tu-hwan ring fabricates all kinds of incidents to overcome the political crisis and desperately tries to thwart the just struggle of the students by using felentless suppression and fabricated incidents.

Even with such a foolish trick, the Chon Tu-hwan ring cannot stop the growing struggle of the students; nor can it overcome the political crisis. The Chon Tu-hwan ring's fabrication of the incidents is aimed at curbing the admiration of the north by the overseas compatriots and their denunciation of the fascist military system of South Korea. Among the overseas compatriots residing in Japan, the United States, Canada, West Germany and other foreign countries, admiration of the north is growing stronger. When they visit the north, they are amazed at the marvelous development of the north. They all say that their fatherland is, indeed, a model to be emulated by the weak nations and developing countries of the world.

Even Choe Tok-sin, who used to be an anticommunist and the foreign minister of South Korea and is now chairman of the Paedal National Association; Kim Song-nak, former president of the Sungjon University of South Korea and now chairman of the Council for the Promotion of the Reunification of the Fatherland and adviser to the Union of the Korean Churches; and Choe Hong-hui, former commander of a South Korean army corps and now publisher of the PAEDAL SINBO and president of the International Taekwondo Federation, all were amazed at the development of the north. They have all joined the anti-U.S., antifascism struggle.

The overseas compatriots all say that the north's proposal for the establishment of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo is the only way to achieve reunification and are struggling to overthrow the Chon Tu-hwan ring and to achieve the democratization of South Korean society and the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland.

The sentiment of the anti-U.S., antifascism struggle has now become an unstoppable trend of the times among the overseas compatriots. This is what scares the Chon Tu-hwan ring. It is nothing more than a desperate scheme to curb the overseas compatriots admiration for the north, their antifascism and anti-Chon sentiment and their desire for the reunification of the fatherland and to sustain the fascist military system that the Chon Tu-hwan ring schemes to punish the U.S.-resident and Japan-resident compatriots through fabricated spy cases.

However, the Chon Tu-hwan ring's schemes to intensify the repression through the fabrication of the spy ring cases and to overcome the political crisis are nothing but a foolish dream. The more the Chon Tu-hwan ring intensifies its repression, the stronger the antifascism democratization struggle will become and the more the overseas compatriots will inteisfy their patriotic movement.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring must immediately stop such dirty fabrications of spy ring cases, unconditionally release arrested overseas compatriots and South Korean people and resign at once in accordance with the will of all people at home and abroad.

PAPERS MARK ANNIVERSARY OF UN RESOLUTION ON KOREA

[Text] Pyongyang, 18 Nov (KCNA)--Papers here today carry signed articles on the lapse of 6 years since a just resolution on the Korean question was adopted at the 30th session of the UN General Assembly.

The signed article of NODONG SINMUN titled "U.S. Imperialists Must Take Hands of Aggression and Interference Off Korea in Accordance With the UN Resolution" says: The content of the resolution on the Korean question which was adopted at the 30th session of the UN General Assembly is that the "UN command" in South Korea should be disbanded and the U.S. troops waring the "UN forces" berets be withdrawn from South Korea, the Korean armistice agreement should be replaced with a peace agreement, the north and the south of Korea should take practical measures to abide by the principles of the 4 July North-South joint statement and remove the military confrontation between them for preserving and consolidating peace in Korea and promoting her independent and peaceful reunification.

The adoption of the fair resolution on the Korean question at the 30th UN General Assembly session was a great demonstration of the justness of the policy for national reunification and independent foreign policy of our party and the government of the DPRK embodying the immrotal chuche idea and a big common victory of the Korean people and the worlds peaceloving people against the splittists within and without.

The UN resolution on the Korean question fully accords with the unanimous desire and aspiration of the entire Korean people and the world's people for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea; it was a just resolution reflecting the essential demand for the solution of the question of Korean reunification.

Six years have passed since the just resolution on the Korean question was adopted at the UN General Assembly session and the Korean people and the world's peaceloving people have demanded its implementation. However, none of its provisions has been carried into effect, the article notes, and says: This is entirely due to the unjust stand of the U.S. imperialists and their machinations for perpetuating the division.

Openly challenging the just resolution on the Korean question adopted at the UN General Assembly session, they have resorted to all sorts of manoeuvres to maintain their military occupation of and domination over South Korea indefinitely.

They set it as the basic strategy of their policy towards Korea to create "two Koreas," brought forward "simultaneous entry into the United Nations," "separate entry" and "cross recognition" in a vicious attempt to have "two Koreas" legalized internationally and sought only a showdown of "strength," turning a deaf ear to our repeated proposals for concluding a peace agreement.

Further, since the appearance of the present government in the United States, its policy towards Korea has become all the more bellicose.

The present rulers of the United States, talking about "the rebuilding of the powerful United States" and "superiority of strength," are trying to realize their wild ambition for world domination with military "strength" and to use South Korea as a permanent military forward base in executing this aggressive global strategy.

All facts show that the U.S. imperialists are the very one disturbing peace and heightening tensions in Korea, pursuing the brigandish policy of "strength," the chieftain of fascism strangling human rights and democracy in South Korea and the basic obstacle to the reunification of our country seeking its permanent division.

Saying that it is a main link for the solution of the Korean question to force the U.S. troops to withdraw from South Korea, the article stresses:

The U.S. imperialists must look straight at the iron will of the Korean people and at the trend of the times, give up the "two Koreas" plot, discontinue interfering in the internal affairs of our country and refrain from encouraging the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique to fascism, war and division.

They must come out to Korea-U.S. negotiation as early as possible, responding to the proposal of the DPRK Government for replacing the Korean armistice agreement with a peace agreement, and withdraw from South Korea without delay, taking along all their aggression troops and destructive weapons including nuclear weapons, as called for by the UN resolution.

They must take hands of aggression and interference off Korea in accordance with the UN resolution.

MINJU CHOSON also carries an article titled "United States Must Implement UN Resolution."

'NODONG SINMUN' RIDICULES CHON'S IDEA OF DEMOCRACY

[Text] Pyongyang, 18 Nov (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN, 17 November carried an article titled "Democracy on Grave" hitting at traitor Chon Tu-hwan who is noisily advertising "freedom" and "democracy," making as if to bring them to the people, under the hypocritic slogan of "society of justice."

Ridiculing the foolish jargon of traitor Chon Tu-hwan about "adaptation of democracy to South Korea," the author of the article says: Traitor Chon Tu-hwan who appeared on the scene as the chieftain of the "Yusin" remnants is a truculent foe of democracy who, from the beginning, made the entire people desirous of democracy his enemy.

The ferocious gangster Chon Tu-hwan openly launched a wholesale fascist offensive against democracy in a terror-ridden atmosphere after proclaiming a martial law all over South Korea with the brigandish 17 May action.

He closed campuses and press organs, dissolved not only democratic political parties and organisations but also the puppet national assembly and conservative parties and banned all political activities.

Massive surprise attacks, arrest and slaughter operations were perpetrated against the patriotic students and democrats demanding democracy.

Having wrecked even the nominal democratic order, the fascist blood-sucker massacred the patriotic citizens of Kwangju who turned out in a peaceful demonstration in demand of the democratisation of society and the reunification of the country by brutal methods surpassing imagination with the mobilization of murderers of the paratrooper unit under the cover of tanks, armored cars and aircraft, plunging the city into a shuddering sea of blood.

In South Korea where the law and order are substituted by the bayonet, not only the democratic freedom of the people, but also their right to existence are totally violated and obliterated.

What the "democracy" vaunted by traitor Chon Tu-hwan is like is well illustrated by all brands of evil laws binding the South Korean people hand and foot, which are too many to count.

The "law on assembly and demonstration" which strictly bans all assemblies and demonstrations under the pretext of "maintenance of order," "prevention of social unrest" and so forth, is invoked to crudely violate the rights of the people by cracking down upon those going against the grain with the fascist gang, branding them as demonstrators, if a few of them are found walking through the street together, and arresting mates having a conversation in a room, charging them with "breach of the law."

Under the "basic law of the press" and other evil laws concerning the press which tramples upon the right of speech and the press, one of the basic rights of the people, the freedom of reporting truth is totally obliterated and the people are utterly denied the freedom of seeing, hearing and speaking.

Now, in South Korea, anyone who calls for democracy, be he a conservative politician or a Christian or a democrat or a student, not to speak of a patriot, is made a victim of fascist dictatorship without mercy, branded as a "plotter of rebellion," a "communist," or a "communist sympathizer," under the "national security law."

All the facts indicate that the "democracy" advertised by traitor Chon Tu-hwan is fascism of reversed form.

Nevertheless, he never let a chance pass by without crying for "adaptation of democracy to South Korea" today. This is a crafty ruse to deceive the people by veiling his heinous military fascist dictatorship with democracy and maintain the dictatorial rule indefinitely.

The South Korean people will not be deceived, but will overthrow the Chon Tu-hwan fascist dictatorship and set up a genuine democratic regime.

PYONGYANG MEETING FOR S. KOREAN ARMY DEFECTOR

[Text] Pyongyang, 18 Nov (KCNA)--A Pyongyang mass meeting was held at the Moranbong Theatre on 17 November to welcome Yi Pil-u, a South Korean puppet army soldier who came over to the northern half of the republic. Placed on the platform was a portrait of the great leader of our party and our people Comrade Kim Il-song.

Present at the meeting were Hong Ki-mun, vice-chairman of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland, Hyon Sok, vice-chairman of the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea, and other personages concerned and working people in the city.

Order of national flag third class was conferred upon Yi Pil-u, former soldier of the South Korean puppet army, after a decree of the Central People's Committee of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea was read out. Then a prize of 10,000 won was awarded to him following the reading of an order of the Ministry of Peoples Armed Forces.

Paek Hak-yon made a welcoming speech at the meeting. Highly praising the coming over to the north of Yi Pil-u as a very dignified act whereby he carved out his destiny by himself, the speaker warmly welcomed him who had entered a road of a new life on behalf of the Pyongyang citizens.

Souvenirs from the Pyongyang Municipal People's Committee were conveyed to Yi Pil-u.

Yi Pil-u spoke in reply. He said that to begin with, he extended highest honour and warmest thanks to the great leader Marshal Kim Il-song and the dear leader Mr Kim Chong-il who gave him the joy of rebirth.

He said he came over to the northern half of the republic, crossing the death line, because he could no longer live in the society of the south where the poor are maltreated and looked down upon.

He continued: In the south, when like-minded people and soldiers of the "ROK Army" get together, they talk legendary stories about the great leader General Kim Il-song and the dear leader Mr Kim Chong-il who is carrying forward the cause of the general.

The expression of such deep reverence of the people in the south today is manifestation of their ardent desire to live in the bosom of the great leader General Kim Il-song and the sagacious leader Mr Kim Chong-il.

I chose to come to the bosom of the socialist homeland, deeply convinced that to come to the north where there are General Kim Il-song, the great leader of our nation, and the dear leader Mr Kim Chong-il, is the only road of rebirth and the true road for the country and nation.

He said he was deeply moved by the development of Pyongyang while visiting Mangyongdae and going round various places of the city.

He further said: Here I feel boundless national pride and honour, witnessing that a great many people of the world boundlessly respect and revere the great leader Marshal Kim Il-song and the dear leader Mr Kim Chong-il.

In conclusion I wholeheartedly wish the respected and beloved leader Marshal Kim Il-song and the dear leader Mr Kim Chong-il good health and a long life for the reunification of the country and the prosperity of the generations to come.

COMPATRIOTS GROUP SCORES CHON'S HOME-VISIT POLICY

[Text] Pyongyang, 19 Nov (KCNA)--The Korean Committee for Aiding Overseas Compatriots on 18 November published a statement denouncing the vicious manoeuvres of the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique these days to stem the tendency of visit to the homeland among the compatriots abroad.

The statement says: As is known, the Chon Tu-hwan group, by manipulating its faithful servants, is trying to dissuade compatriots abroad intending to visit the homeland, spreading the rumours that anyone who goes to the north "turns red," "falls an easy prey to propaganda" or "becomes a spy," while viciously vilifying and suppressing the compatriots who have returned from their visit to the homeland.

The Chon Tu-hwan group, who was caught red-handed in its abortive firing at Mr Choe Hong-hui, publisher of PAEDAL SINBO and president of the International Federation of Taegwondo, is now framing a plot to have Messrs Choe Tok-sin and Choe Hong-hui "expelled" from the present residence.

Moreover, at the end of a smear campaign against Mr Kim Song-nak, chairman of the "Society for Promotion of Unification" in the United States, after his trip to the homeland, it elbowed him out of the post of the advisor to the "South Korean Federation of Churchmen" by setting in motion the local servants. And, in an attempt to isolate Yi Yong-pin, head of the editorial section of the "Council of Christians Overseas for National Unification" in West Germany, in the community of compatriots, it staged the buffoonery of publishing a "statement of denunciation" through their subsidized organisation.

Earlier, in July, in "retaliation" for the trip of Mr Choe Tok-sin, chairman of the "Paedal National Council," to the DPRK, it committed the fascist outrage of imprisoning his son in South Korea under unwarrantable charges, and harshly persecuting even his daughters.

When Hong Song-kil, a Korean resident in the United States, went to South Korea to meet his relatives, it illegally detained him on the preposterous charge that he had been given "spy mission" and "instructions" while visiting our republic, and committed the dastardly act of circulating groundless rumours of the "Hong Song-kil spy case" abroad.

As for the overseas compatriots who are made objects of suppression by the fascist clique, they mostly hail from the northern half of the republic. They sought refuge or emigrated overseas, unable to live any longer in the South Korean society where the human rights and democratic civil rights are obliterated.

It is only too natural that they come to the homeland where the remains of their forefathers lie buried and meet their parents and brothers and sisters, recount their past stories, pay homage to their ancestral graves, see much longed-for landscape and beauty spots and historical monuments in the homeland and, on those occasions, discuss with personages concerned in the homeland the question of the country's reunification, the important affair of the nation. This is an act deserving active encouragement and welcome in humanitarian point of view or national point of view.

Nevertheless, the Chon Tu-hwan group is attempting to block the route of home-visit of the compatriots overseas. This self-exposes that its call for "finding out separated families" under the cloak of "humanitarianism" and its loud talk about "peaceful unification" are sheer hypocrisy.

The Korean Committee for Aiding Overseas Compatriots sternly denounces with bitter national resentment the attempt of the Chon Tu-hwan group to block the road of home-visit of overseas compatriots, regarding it as an inhumane, anti-national barbaric act for trampling upon the human rights of the overseas compatriots and even their national conscience and a splittist folly going against the trend of the times towards national unity and the country's reunification.

Hidden behind this attempt is the sinister aim to dampen the longing for the northern half of the republic ever growing among the compatriots overseas and break the spirit of alliance and collaboration with communism and reunification of the fatherland.

The Chon-Tu-hwan group should act with discretion, looking straight at the realities, and promptly give up its obstructions to the home-visit of the compatriots overseas and step down from power without delay as demanded by all the South Korean people and compatriots overseas.

The Korean Committee for Aiding Overseas Compatriots will as in the past, so in the future, too, steadfastly defend the national rights of the compatriots overseas, warmly welcome their home-visit and support and encourage with might and main their patriotic movement for democracy and peaceful reunification.

GROUP DENOUNCES SOUTH FOR BLOCKING VISITS

[Text] Pyongyang, 24 Nov (KCNA)--The Central Committee of the Korean Christians Federation on 23 November published a statement denouncing the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique for maliciously scheming to block the route of home-visit of overseas compatriots.

The statement says: Korean Christians residing in American, European and other countries of the world visited the northern half of the DPRK one after another and had emotional meetings with their families, relatives and friends. They were struck with admiration for the brilliant reality of the homeland which has changed beyond recognition under the deep care of the great President Kim Il-song, the sun of the nation, and discussed the issues of the nation's future and national reunification in an open-hearted way with our Christians in the northern half of the DPRK, while enjoying warm compatriotic hospitality wherever they went.

It is a matter of hearty welcome from a compatriotic point of view and a humanitarian point of view that overseas Christians of the same blood who are living in foreign lands far away across the oceans and continents visited the homeland to meet their close kinsmen. It is only too natural from the viewpoint of national idea and Christianity preaching love, reconciliation and justice that they should discuss the reunification question to do away with the national misfortunes and sufferings caused by the country's division as early as possible.

Noting that the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique is resorting to every means to block the route of home-visit of overseas compatriots, the statement refers to the fact that it is persecuting by all despicable means overseas Korean Christians and compatriots who have already visited the homeland.

It goes on: Considering that the dastardly moves of the Chon Tu-hwan group to block the route of home-visit of overseas compatriots are a crude violation of humanitarianism and the idea of Christianity and a criminal challenge to national unity and the country's peaceful reunification, the Central Committee of the Korean Christians Federation vehemently denounces them with surging national indignation.

It is not without reason that Chon Tu-hwan and company are making desperate efforts to lay hurdles in the way of home-visit of compatriots abroad.

It is because they are afraid that the overseas compatriots home-visit should bring to light the deceptive nature of their anti-communist propaganda and that a climate of great national unity and a desire for national reunification should grow with each passing day at home and abroad. They also seek a criminal aim to prevent at all costs the fall of the anti-communist fascist system, a support for the military fascist rule, in South Korea.

In conclusion, the statement expresses the expectation that Christian organizations and fellow Christians in all countries of the world who set store by justice and humabitarianism will resolutely oppose the criminal scheme of the Chon Tu-hwan group to block the route of home-visit of overseas Korean Christians and continually express full support and solidarity for the cause of independent and peaceful reunification of the country, the greatest desire of our nation.

S. KOREAN ARMY DIRECTOR HOLDS PRESS CONFERENCE IN PYONGYANG

[Text] Pyongyang 13 November (KCNA)--South Korean puppet army soldier Yi Pil-u who came over to the north some time ago met home and foreign reporters at the peoples palace of culture on 12 November.

Hanging on a wall of the press conference hall was a portrait of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song.

Yi Pil-u earnestly appealed to the entire soldiers of the "ROK Army" not to be taken in by the deceptive anti-communist propaganda of the Chon Tu-hwan group but turn their guns leveled at brothers on the yankees and the Chon Tu-hwan clique of traitors and take the road of patriotism for the nation.

He said:

It is none other than the traitor Chon Tu-hwan who is making preparations for a war in our country and seeks its permenent division.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I ardently call upon all the compatriots in the south who love the country and the nation and desire national reunification to unite firmly and valiantly turn out to the road of the sacred struggle against the yankees and the Chon Tu-hwan group and for the early peaceful reunification of the country.

Yi Pil-u, PFC of the third squad, second platoon, fifth company, second battalion, 55th regiment, 88th division of the east sea guard command of the South Korean "ROK Army," came over to the northern half of the DPRK in October.

Noting that the Chon Tu-hwan group is enforcing a more brutal rule with bayonet and prison than Pak Chong-hui's rule, Yi Pil-u said:

Chon Tu-hwan who seized power and stifled human rights and democracy with the bayonet is a ferocious murderer and a truculent fascist tyrant.

The traitor Chon Tu-hwan will be shot to death by someone some day or will be made to pay dearly for his murderous atrocities by the peoples resistance against dictatorship and for democracy.

Saying that though he had served in the army less than one year, he had undergone all kinds of hardships in this period, Yi Pil-u continued:

Not a day passed without soldiers suffering from whipping and "corporal punishment" from the first day of my enrollment in the "training centre" to the day when I came over to the north.

Clamouring about the "threat of southward invasion" more often than not, the Chon Tu-hwan group issued an "alert order" and "emergency mobilization order" and drove out the soldiers to war exercises to start a fratricidal war.

The rulers in the south are zealously stepping up war preparations, introducing various types of weapons and even "F-16" fighter-bombers from the United States.

I did not want to commit a crime against the nation as a bullet shield in a war against the fellow countrymen. It was painful for me to serve in the "ROW army" as a private soldier of Chon Tu-hwan.

This thought made me turn to the north with greater longing.

Watching secretly television broadcast from the north after I was posted at a front-line unit, I clearly realized that respected and beloved General Kim Il-song finds himself among the people and excellently administers state affairs for them.

I was convinced that both the future of Korea and a truly worthy life of the people are in the north and the people in the south can live a happy life like the people in the north and the reunification of our country and its future development and prosperity be assured only under the government of the great general.

With this conviction I sang and learned in my heart "song of General Kim Il-song" broadcast by the north.

The people in the south not only look up to and revere General Kim Il-song but also tell among themselves legend-like stories about the dear leader Kim Chong-il who is carrying forward the cause of the general.

I saw the dear leader on a TV screen when I was at the frontline unit.

He looked simple and modest in his personal appearance and was bright with intelligence.

The people in the south should also be guided by the great General Kim Il-song and the sagaciousleader Kim Chong-il.

They are now eagerly waiting for the day when they will enjoy happiness under the independent government and warm loving care of respected and beloved General Kim Il-song and the sagacious dear leader Kim Chong-il.

This ardent desire of the people in the south hardened my faith that the road of coming over to the north where there is the great leader of our nation General Kim Il-song and the dear leader Kim Ching-il is the only road of regeneration and a genuine road for the country and the nation and urged me to take the road of coming over to the north to be embraced in the bosom of the socialist fatherland.

Everything I saw in the north is new, wonderful and amazing, Yi Pil-u said, and continued:

What I admired most here is that the north under the independent government of the great leader and the dear leader is a land of the working masses, a land of anthropocentricism where man is regarded as the most precious being and everything is made to serve him.

All the miraculous development and happy life of the people in the north today are attributable entirely to the wonderful policy and wise leadership of the great General Kim Il-song and the dear leader Kim Chong-il for the people, I think.

It is the highest honour and greatest pride of our nation to hold in high esteem the great General Kim Il-song, the genuine leader of the people, and the dear leader Kim Chong-il, whom all people revere and look up to.

If the people in the south are to live well like the compatriots in the north, the country should be reunified at an early date.

The people in the north are making all sincere efforts to reunify the divided country by means of founding the democratic confederal republic of Koryo while leaving the ideas and systems in the north and the south as they are, as proposed by respected and beloved President Kim Il-song.

I firmly resolve to study assiduously and work sincerely to become a worker faithful to the great General Kim Il-song and the sagacious leader Kim Chong-il and devote my all to the work for accelerating the reunification of the country.

Long live the great leader General Kim Il-song, the sun of the nation!

Long live the dear leader Kim Chong-il.

S. KOREAN CLAIM OF RURAL PROGRESS DENOUNCED

SK140420 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0400 GMT 14 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang 14 November (KCNA)--Speaking at a meeting of the world food and agriculture organisation on 10 November which opened in Rome, the puppet minister of agriculture and fisheries of South Korea babbled that South Korea was ready to pass on to other countries its "experience of the new village movement" which has turned poor rural villages into "rich" ones and brought about "stable development."

He also prattled that the "new village movement" is a "movement for all-round development of the countryside."

Nodong Sinmun on 14 November carries a signed commentary headlined "abundance ballad of beggar carrying alms bag."

The commentary says:

There is no one in the world who does not know that the South Korean countryside, once a granary, has been now reduced to a barren land and South Korea has to import a large quantity of grain every year and its countryside has been devastated more rapidly since the Chon Tu-Hwan group installed itself in power.

After importing 5.84 million tons of rice last year and 6.9 million tons this year, the puppets are now busy making trips to the United States and other countries for food mendicancy for next year.

The puppets who have to make mendicant trips carrying an empty rice bag from South Korea, which had once exported 10 million som of rice, are clamouring about "abundance" and "development." This is indeed an act lost to shame.

The puppet minister of agriculture and fisheries bragged that the "new village movement" is a "movement for rural development." But he failed to give a convincing explanation why they wrest rice produced by the peasants at a price less than the production cost, forcibly sell unmarketable goods imported from the United States and Japan to the peasants at a monopoly price and release some amount of rice to the peasants in the lean spring season and recover it plus an onerous interest from peasants in autumn, while conducting the "movement for rural development."

To be frank, the "movement" has produced in South Korea only an increasing number of foodless peasants, uprooted peasants and onerous usury debts.

If the South Korean puppets are not blind fools who cannot tell things as they are, they cannot deny the stark reality or tell a lie that the South Korean countryside has become "rich" and "achieved stable development," even if they have ten mouths.

It is clear that the puppets are playing a trick reversing black and white in an attempt to mislead public opinion and conceal the evil consequences of their misrule and justify their military terror rule by hook or by crook. They also intend to make their way into the third world which is growing into a mighty force and deliver themselves from the position of an international orphan.

The South Korean students and people are now giving a deserving answer to the brutal rule and deceptive moves of the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique.

Even if the puppets hit at home conduct a false propaganda abroad to make it appear as if things were going on well in South Korea, their lie will not work in the bright world and no one will accept their talk at a face value.

The Chon Tu-hwan group had better discontinue to stage a shameful drama which invites only the derision of others in a foreign land and mind its own business.

SPORTS LEADERS OF NORTH, SOUTH MEET IN BANGKOK

SK171138 Seoul KYONGHYANG SINMUN in Korean 12 Nov 81 p 2

[Text] Yonhap report from Bangkok--The two leaders of the North and South Korean soccer delegations sat side by side in box seats in Bangkok on 9 November to watch the opening ceremony of the 14th King's Cup soccer games in which the north and south will confront each other in the sports sector for the first time since the ROK's inducement of the 1988 Olympics.

Clad in blue pants and an ivory-colored coat, Yun Tae-Kyun, leader of the ROK's Chungui soccer team, happened to sit beside Kang Tok-Chun, leader of the North Korean soccer delegation, who was clad in a black suit.

Watching the first soccer game after the opening ceremony between the best Thai soccer team and the singapore soccer team, Chungui soccer team leader Yun talked for more than an hour with Kwang, who was wearing a Kim Il-Song badge:

Yun: I think you have a hard life.

Kang: Which team do you belong to?

Yun: I am the leader of the ROK soccer team. Do you have any difficulties in leading your team?

Kang: I am quite all right as long as food and lodging are concerned.

Yun: We have no trouble whatsoever because we are staying in a hotel run by a Korean. Do you have Kimchi?

Kang: Don't worry about us. What is your job title?

Yun: I am an executive member of the ROK Soccer Association. What about yours?

Kang: I am the operational chairman of the secretariat of the sports guidance committee.

Yun: Is it cold in the north?

Kang: Don't you hear news from us?

Yun: Because of its being a closed society, how do I know if it is cold or warm there and if you are getting on well? How old are you?

Kang: I am 45 years old.

Yun: I am 50 years old. So, I am your senior. What do you think about the formation of a single team for the olympics in 1988? President Chon has already proposed sports exchanges. Who will succeed Kim Il-song?

Kang: Kim Chong-il will.

Yun: How do you pay homage to your ancestors?

Kang: What have they left to us?

Yun: Don't you know our 5,000-year long history--the Taeguk flag bequeathed by our ancestors and the history of our country?

At this moment, the Taeguk flag was being lowered at the stadium. Kang was mute.

Yun: We would like to invite your team to Seoul. Will you accept our invitation? If you cannot, we will go to North Korea. I would like to invite your team members to a dinner.

Kang: I cannot accept your invitation until I get permission from the representative's office.

By this office he meant the North Korean trade representative's office in Bangkok.

Whenever photographers appeared before him, Kang became restless and clumsy.

PROPOSAL FOR ARCHEOLOGICAL EXCHANGE WITH NORTH

SK161332 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 1000 GMT 16 Nov 81

[Text] Yi Kwang-pyo, government spokesman and minister of culture and public information, today proposed to the North Korean authorities to have exchanges between the north and south in the sector of archeological research and exhibitions on ancient Korean culture.

Addressing the first national meeting of Yonhap subscribers, which was sponsored by the Yonhap News Agency, Minister Yi said that archeological materials indicate that oriental cultures on the Korean peninsula and in China and Japan are interwined. The following is the recorded version of his speech in which he advanced the aforementioned proposal:

[Begin recording] Stressing the need for joint archeological research by the scholars of North and South Korea and Red China and Japan, I clarify the open-door policy of our government for rendering cooperation in conducting joint academic research on oriental culture and in exchanging archeological materials. On this occasion, I propose to the North Korean authorities the mutual exchange and joint exhibition of archeological materials and joint research on these materials.

In the 32 years since the division of the national territory, there have been no cultural contacts between North and South Korea because of differences in ideologies and systems. I think that the field of ancient history is one in which we can achieve exchanges between the north and south more easily than in other fields because, transcending differences in ideologies and systems, we can hold dialogue and exchange materials from a purely archeological point of view.

If possible, we can exhibit at the Pyongyang museum for a specific period the already unearthed relics from a royal tomb of the Paekje Dynasty in Kongju, South Chungchong Province; from the tent village of the Silla Dynasty in Kyongju, North Kyongsang Province; and from Anap Lake of the Silla Dynasty. In return for this, the North Korean authorities will exhibit newly unearthed relics of the Koguryo Dynasty at the National Central Museum in Seoul.

I believe that this is a most urgent project to restore the homegeneity of a people who have the same history and culture.

I propose to North Korea the joint overseas exhibition of our archeological materials. We have recently held an exhibition of ancient Korean fine art works in the United States and Japan, thus demonstrating the unique nature of Korean culture as an oriental culture and attracting attention from academic circles in these countries. However, I am very sorry because, if North Korea had participated in this function, we would have demonstrated the cultural wisdom and creativity of the Korean people by exhibiting more outstanding fine art works.

The aim of this proposal of our government is not merely to achieve dialogue between North and South Korea but also to reaffirm national homogeneity through cultural exchange, maintain and develop our people's cultural tradition and contribute to developing world culture. [End recording]

'YONHAP'VIEWS SOUTH-NORTH ARCHEOLOGICAL EXCHANGE PROPOSAL

[Text] Seoul, 17 Nov (YONHAP)--Culture and Information Minister Yi Kwang-Pyo's proposal Monday, calling for inter-Korean exchanges in archeology is seen as a concrete step forward for the inter-Korean dialogue in nonpolitical fields, which has been long advocated by South Korea but has gone unheeded by North Korea.

As recently as last 5 June, President Chon Tu-hwan renewed the appeal for inter-Korean exchanges in all possible areas when he again called for a summit meeting between Seoul and Pyongyang. "If the North Korean side finds it difficult to open up its society all at once, we could begin with gradual exchanges in sports, culture, sciences, mail and economics...," Chon said.

In his address at the annual convention of the YONHAP News Agency's subscribers, Yi, South Korea's top spokesman on cultural affairs, singled out archeological exchanges as "the most feasible form of inter-Korean exchanges," and proposed that South and North Korea exchange research data and conduct joint exhibitions and academic research on ancient Korean culture.

Yi noted that differences in political ideologies have prevented South and North Korea from having any cultural contact since the peninsula was divided more than 3 decades ago, and argued that since ancient history is something which the two Koreas share, this is one area which transcends present ideology and political systems.

At the same time, Yi also invited Japanese and mainland Chinese scholars to participate in this exploration of a common cultural heritage, and stressed that political barriers should not stand in the way of the historic endeavor.

Observers are sceptical, however, about the forthcoming response, if any, to Yi's offer by the North Korean authorities. They say it would be more interesting to see how mainland China will react, because, in case it accepts the South Korean proposal out of its own considerations, cultural or otherwise, this would put North Korea in a very awkward position.

CHON PUNISHES 9 KWANGJU STUDENTS--Pyongyang 13 November (KONA)--The South Korean military fascist clique on 11 November passed jail terms ranging from 8 months to one and a half years upon nine students at the "Kwangju District Criminal Court" in South Cholla Province, according to a foreign press report from Seoul. The fascist clique arrested and detained these students on charges of violation of the notorious "law on assembly and demonstration" because they scattered anti-"government" leaflets in downtown and university areas of the city of Kwangju from December last year until March this year and persecuted them. The harsh penalties inflicted upon these students by the fascist gangsters are part of the suppression further intensified as the students anti-"government" struggle is gaining momentum these days. The Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique arrests a large number of students and holds trials one after another, inflicting penalties upon them in an attempt to put down the ever mounting righteous struggle of the students. Touching upon the Korean question, the joint statement stressed: Romania and Yugoslavia expressed solidarity with the Korean people in their just struggle to force the foreign troops to withdraw from South Korea and realise their national desire for reunifying the country independently and peacefully in a democratic way by their own efforts on the basis of the constructive proposals of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea, for the interests of the Korean nation and for peace and stability in Asia and the world. S. KOREAN STUDENTS OPPOSE REGIME--Pyongyang 18 November (KCNA)--The 11 November issue of "Minjok Sibo," a Korean newspaper under the influence of the "ROK residents association in Japan" ("Mindan") published in Japan, carried a leaflet scattered by students of the Suwon Institute of Songgyungwan University, South Korea, in their anti-"government" struggle on 6 October. Noting that the fascist group, becoming more ferocious today, is trying to distort and obliterate even the campus idea which the students have defended at the cost of their blood, the leaflet exposed the fact that the puppet clique and the comprador enterprise glued to it divided Songgyungwan University into Seoul and Suwon to put down the democratic desire of the students by all intrigues, while seeking a commercial aim. After clarifying the demand for campus democracy, the leaflet declared: We will no longer be dazzled by the fascist groups rash utterances distorting our just movement and sowing discord among us. Fellow students, let us give vent to our long pent-up resentment, and let us loudly shout: Down with the fascist "regime"! Let us win campus democracy! SEOUL DAILY COMMENTS ON OATH FOR CIVIL SERVANTS

[Editorial: "Oath of Civil Service"]

[Text] An unprecedented event that took place at Chongwadae Friday marks a new turn in the clean government drive now in progress. The entire cabinet, led by Prime Minister Nam Tuk-u, took a five-point oath of service in the presence of President Chon Tu-hwan, and all civil servants are to follow suit at their respective agencies by the end of this month.

What is particularly distinctive about the oath is not so much the pledged honest and sincere performance of duties as the promised posture for carrying them out "from the standpoint of the people." This part of the service oath indicates that the government's campaign for clean officialdom is moving on to a new phase in which the administration may achieve a true status of "civil service."

It is understandable and has been necessary that past endeavors had to be centered on removing corrupt officials on the one hand and, on the other, on reducing red tape as a means of preventing irregularities in administration. Now that such efforts have made considerable progress, a more positive stance of public servants has to be sought to enhance administrative efficiency and increase popular confidence in the government. If anything, the series of anticorruption measures taken by the government tended to keep most civil servants quite passive in doing their job. They would hardly go beyond doing what they are told by higher authorities to do. This way would be much safer for them, for responsibility would always rest with those who ordered something if things went wrong.

Those who suffer most from such an easy-going attitude of public servants are, of course, the people, especially those seeking government permits of one kind or another against this backdrop, that part of the service oath which directs government employees to do their work from the viewpoint of the people is an enterprising move. Such a stance, in effect, is a basic requirement of civil service under all circumstances.

What is more important, needless to say, is for the government officials to transform the oath into reality. In this respect, President Chon's call for the cabinet ministers to "create a climate in which the oath will not end up as a mere formality" merits deep thought. A new, wholesome atmosphere in officialdom is essential to realize any behavioral change in the civil service, and establishment of such a climate will be best assured when higher-echelon officials take the lead and set an example.

A fresh image of the government to be achieved through the current cleanup drive, in turn, will accelerate the pace of social reform launched by the present administration. It is imperative therefore that what is going to be sworn by the public servants throughout the country this time be brought into reality without fail even if it were to take a considerable period of time.

This task, indeed, is of a long-range nature as it involved a behavioral change. Its difficulty may be as great as that of the anticorruption drive. The two jobs make up an inseparable condition for the government and, for that matter, the nation to meet for future development.

'OPEN COLLEGE' SYSTEM TO BE ESTABLISHED

[Text] Education Minister Yi Kyu-ho testified before the national assembly yesterday that the government would establish an "open college" system to help all the people adapt themselves to industrial society as a part of lifelong education.

Briefing the second subpanel of the assembly's budget-settlement committee on his ministry's budget bill for next year, the minister also said that the government was determined to expand drastically opportunities for the re-education for specialized job holders through short-term courses at vocational colleges.

Minister Yi went on to say that the government was planning to set up a Korean school in Los Angeles shortly, and his ministry had never considered abolishing the current entrance examination system for high schools.

Stressing the necessity for the enactment of the education tax, the minister revealed that "if the tax is imposed, the government will be able to build 94 primary schools and 3,236 classrooms next year."

All five subpanels of the budget-settlement committee ended interpellation of the concerned ministries yesterday about their respective budget bills for 1982.

Each subpanel will adjust the budget-figures of the concerned ministries today and tomorrow, and the budget-settlement committee will deliberate the budget comprehensively from Friday until Wednesday next week based on the results of the subpanels' figure adjustments.

In the third subpanel, energy-resources Minister Pak Pong-hwan said, "The government will try to keep a reserve oil for 60 day use by strengthening resource diplomacy."

He also said that his ministry planned to stabilize the supply of coal in the next year by importing a total of 3.8 million tons, while producing 19.7 million tons in local mines.

He also said that the government was planning to rewrite the labor standard law during the period of the fifth five-year plan to protect workers and to improve their welfare.

DIPLOMATIC RESHUFFLE EXPECTED--The government which reshuffled 118 low-ranking diplomats yesterday now plans to reshuffle chiefs of diplomatic missions abroad in the middle of next month. Informed sources said that the forthcoming action has been necessitated by the recent restructuring of the government organization. The upcoming change is expected to affect more than 20 high-ranking envoys including six consuls general, three directors-general at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and senior diplomats who have served overseas for a long time. The source said ambassador-level diplomats faced reshuffle in February or March each year, but this time it will be advanced in line with relevant regulations and in consideration of the education of foreign servicemen's children. Winter vacation starts in December in Korea. [Text] [SK190233 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 19 Nov 81 p 1]

COMMENTS ON PROPERTY REGISTRATION--The government said yesterday it would be "unreasonable" to make it mandatory for all public servants to register their properties with the authorities concerned. In a letter to the National Assembly Home Affairs Committee, the Ministry of Government Administration demanded the public servant ethics bill be approved as proposed, saying it would be difficult to ensure the registration by all public servants. The original version calls for the registration by senior public servants, but the house panel has virtually decided to extend registration to cover all public servants. The ministry observed it would be technically impossible to have all public employees register their properties. It also said the government draft is reasonable because it clearly defines those who should register their properties and the registration may be expanded at any time if necessary. The ministry also objected to the committee's decision to have ethics panels created at pertinent organizations to see that properties will be properly registered. PARTIES ASK FOR POLITICAL FUNDS--Rep Kwon Chong-tal, secretary-general of the majority Democratic Justice Party, said yesterday he requested the government to provide political funds out of the government budget to help political parties extricate themselves from financial difficulties. He said the request followed the hope of the minority parties, saying that he has held a meeting with the secretary-generals of the Democratic Korea Party and the Korea National Party yesterday. However, Kwon did not reveal how much money he had requested in government subsidies to political parties. Political observers said the amount would be about 400 million won, the same amount of the first government subsidies extended in May this year. When and if the request is realized, the funds will be distributed to all of the political parties according to their respective parliamentary strengths. STUDENTS SENTENCED FOR INSTIGATING DEMONSTRATIONS--Two college students in Seoul, arrested recently for instigating demonstrations on their campus, were sentenced yesterday to prison terms of 10 months and 1 year respectively. The Seoul district court passed the sentences on Mun Pyong-u and Yi Dok-chae, both of them Sogang University students, on conviction of charges stemming from two separate demonstrations on the campus in mid-September. Judge Choe Pyong-hak found the pair guilty of violating the law banning illegal assembly and demonstration for playing leading roles in the two demonstrations which occurred 13 September and 20 September on the campus. COURT SENTENCES THREE STUDENTS--On 13 November, the fifth department of the Seoul District Criminal Court presided over by Judge No Sung-tu rejected appeals by the accused and the prosecutor in the trial of three Seoul National University [SNU] students who were arrested and indicated on charges of selling impure publications and participating in a demonstration in violation of the anticommunist law in May 1980. They are: Pak Ki-sang, 22, a sophomore in the economics department; Ki Chun, 22, a junior in the political science department; and Sin Kun-su, 20, a junior in the economics department. The court sentenced Pak to 1 year in prison and suspension of public rights for 1 year and the two others to 8-month prison terms and suspension of public rights for 8 months, with a 2-year probationary period. Pak was arrested and indicted in December 1979 for asking Ki and others to sell the SNU students 800 photocopies of the impure publications "The Materialistic Conception of History and the Modern Age" and "The World of Capital," which praise the communist society. He had borrowed the two books. In the meantime, Ki and Sin were arrested and indicted for selling 125 copies of the book to the students. LEGISLATOR CRITICIZED RE PARTY RESHUFFLE--Supporters of Kim Chong-chol, president of the Korea National Party, have been on the defensive in the debate over a controversial intraparty reshuffle. On 17 November, the party president's supporters appeared to be angry with legislator Kim Han-son. Earlier he had proposed a collective party leadership system and said he was considering resigning from the party. Legislator Cho Pyong-pong, chief of the party presidential secretariat, who under pressure from the antiparty president faction, has hinted he is willing to resign from his post, said: "I cannot understand Kim's remarks on changing the party leadership to a collective one; however, he may have become unhappy with the intraparty personnel reshuffle. Legislator Kim should assume responsibility for his remarks." Legislator Kim Yu-pok said: "We are trying to confirm whether his remarks on quitting the party are true. If so, it would be important." Party vice president Yun Sok-min also expressed a hardline stance, saying: "We should not fail to make an issue of legislator Kim's radical remarks." In the meantime, party floor leader Yi Tong-chin visited party President Kim Chong-chol on the afternoon of 16 November. To cope with the intraparty crisis, he met with the 11 legislators who have opposed the intraparty personnel reshuffle undertaken by party President Kim Chong-chol. FOREIGN PRESS RESTRICTIONS--Yi Kwang-pyo, minister of culture and public information, said today the government will not restrict the import and distribution of foreign publications unless they carry reports and commentaries openly praising the North Korean puppets or openly criticizing government policies. At a meeting of the National Assembly Culture and Public Information Committee, Minister Yi answered the questions of national assemblymen on the government's policy on banning the import and distribution of foreign publications critical of the government. He promised to review foreign publications using a different standard than was used in the past even if such publications carry articles which criticize government policies--unless they are specifically aimed at overthrowing the government. The National Assembly Culture and Public Information Committee today approved a bill to revise the law on the import and distribution of foreign publications which was submitted by national assemblymen. CONVICTED SPY RECEIVES DEATH SENTENCE--Seoul, 17 Nov (YONHAP)--The Seoul District Court Tuesday passed a death sentence on Sin Yu-hyong, 52, a Korean resident in Osaka, Japan, on charges of espionage activities against South Korea. A Japanese Communist Party member, Sin visited Seoul 25 times from 1971 through the end of last June and organized clandestine espionage networks. While disguising himself as the operator of six phony firms, Sin collected information about military moves, the campus situation and political circles in South Korea, and passed the information onto North Korea from time to time, through espionage agents in Japan, according to the court ruling. The court also pronounced prison terms, ranging from one to two years with the suspension of civil rights for one and two years, to Sin's son, Chong-kyu, and two others who were engineered by Sin into his espionage activities against South Korea. DEPUTY PREMIER SAYS ECONOMY ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

[Text] The government will not adopt any pump-priming policy to stimulate the economy, Deputy Premier-Economic Planning Minister Sin Pyong-hyon said yesterday.

Drawing a rosy picture of the national economy, Sin stressed that the economy would be put on the right track next year.

The nation's top economic policymaker also disclosed that the government would not set a wage increase-limit guideline for private companies next year.

Sin made the remarks on a "dialogue with the deputy premier" TV program which was televised across the country on the Korea Broadcasting System (KBS) last night.

Participating in the free-debate program were six panelists: Hyun Yong-jin, an editorial writer for the Chungang ILBO DAILY; Pak Chae-yun a professor at Seoul National University; Kim Pyong-chu, a professor at Sogang University; Kim Chang-sung, president of the Chonbang Co; Son Sang-mo, president of the Kukje Corporation; and Yi Yong-chun, secretary general of the Federation of Korea Trade Unions.

During the one-hour program, Sin said the government did not think the economy was facing a slump at present.

Judging from overall conditions, Sin said the economy had turned for the better this year.

Sin forecast that economic growth would surpass the 7 percent level this year.

"In consideration of the international balance of payments," Sin said, "the economy does not need a comprehensive revitalization program."

This year's commodity price increase is likely to be under the 20-25 percent level which was anticipated early this year, Sin said.

Sin said, "I am convinced that price rise can be arrested if wage earners, consumers and farmers cooperate in price control."

Sin said he believed that commodity prices would be stabilized next year. However, he stressed that price stabilization depended on the "people's attitude and recognition of prices."

Pinpointing the nation's "superior labor force and enterprises creativeness," Sin said, prospects for the national economy were good.

First of all, Sin said, the government, workers and enterprises should share the pains the economy is suffering in order to cope with the current difficulties.

Sin made it clear that the government would readjust public rates to reasonable levels, by helping public companies improve their productivity and rationalize management.

Sin told the free-debate session that a scheme to rationalize public business management was under study by the Korea Development Institute, a think tank of the government.

Sin said the government had no intention to set a guideline for controlling wages for private company workers next year.

The government policy of limiting government officials' wage increase to 9 percent next year had the purpose of "setting an example to others," Sin said.

NEW INTEREST RATES POLICY--Seoul, 19 Nov (YONHAP)--The government plans to abandon its practice of adjusting interest rates by a substantial margin at one time and to adopt the policy of making smaller adjustments as the need arises. Government sources said Thursday under the planned shift in its interest policy, the Bank of Korea would be allowed to cope "elastically" with the control of the interest rates in accordance with changes in the financial market. The Central Bank, rather than the government, would be in charge of handling interest rates on the basis of domestic prices, international money rates, the country's balance of international payment position and the business situation, the sources said. So far, both the economic stabilization and anti-recession policies have been dominant factors in controlling the interest rates. [Text] [SK190116 Seoul YONHAP in English 0114 GMT 19 Nov 81]

OPENING OF BEIJING-TOKYO AIR ROUTE VIEWED

[Editorial: "The Meaning of Air Diplomacy on the Korean Peninsula"]

[Excerpts] By issuing the 23 June declaration, our country has adopted an open-door policy toward all communist countries. South Korea will seek to develop relations with these countries on the principle of reciprocity and equality. The government's support for the opening of an airline linking Beijing, Seoul and Tokyo--proposed by the International Civil Aviation Organization [ICAO]--reflects this position--a practical and friendly attitude toward these four countries in the Northeast Asian region.

North Korea's announcement that it has agreed to open an airline linking Beijing, Pyongyang and Tokyo in compliance iwth the ICAO proposal, which appears to have ulterior political motives, can be construed as an adaptation to the situation on the Korean Peninsula. We can say North Korea is not so influential as to reject the ICAO proposal and that it has pretended to accept this proposal in an attempt to compensate for its awkward position created by the decision to hold the OLympics in Seoul in 1988.

We notice that North Korea's reaction to the opening of an airline and its political adaptation to the situation reflects a change in international political relations between Red China and North Korea. This issue is not a simple matter of opening an air route but a political issue--North Korea's strategy concerning its relations with China and the Soviet Union.

Our government's positive attitude toward opening an air route--the first "nonpolitical" issue among these Northeast Asia countries since World War II--means that it has been successful in adapting to a changing situation. This attitude is important in terms of international politics and in making preparations for overtures to the communist bloc, especially the People's Republic of China. This will provide an opportunity for diplomatic dialogue with neighboring countries to discuss seabed resources near our country.

We believe that our view of the opening of an air route should be toward positively adapting to new international trends and strengthening our security posture and pan-national diplomacy.

CHON RECEIVES REPORT ON ROK ECONOMY

[Text] Seoul, 24 Nov (YONHAP)--Despite a deteriorating balance in the invisible sector, a surplus of 271 million U.S. dollars was registered in South Korea's current account balance in October, as the nation's merchandise trade recorded 266 million dollars in the black, Deputy Premier-Economic Planning Minister Sin Pyong-hyon said Tuesday. It was the first surplus registered in the country's current account this year.

In a monthly report on the state of the Korean economy to President Chon Tu-hwan, South Korea's top economic official predicted that the country's current account would register a deficit of 5,000 million dollars by the end of the year, 500 million dollars less than originally projected. Sin based his forecast largely on an increase in the total value of the letters of credit (l/c), which arrived in October. He said the l/c arrivals last month totaled 1,361 million dollars, up 147 million dollars over the amount in the previous month.

Sin said, however, that the country's economic recovery was still sluggish with industrial production and delivery slightly decreasing.

The deputy premier said that the nation's total money supply increased by 27.3 percent during the one-year period, which ended 31 October, and that a surplus of 165,900 million won (some 242 million dollars) was registered in fiscal revenues, thanks to an increase in tax revenues.

On inflation, Sin said that the country's wholesale and consumer prices increased by 12.2 percent and 13.7 percent, respectively, by the end of October, and added that the "moderate" rates of inflation were the result of the government's price stabilization policy.

Sin added that the construction sector was still in the doldrums with the total area for which construction permits were issued decreasing by 22.8 percent as of 30 September over a year ago.

EXPORTS TO SURPASS TARGET--Seoul, 18 Nov (YONHAP)--Korea's exports for this year are expected to reach 21.2 billion U.S. dollars, far exceeding the year's original target of 20.5 billion dollars, thanks largely to the good performance of textile and machinery exports. A Commerce-Industry Ministry tally released Wednesday said that despite the slow increase in letter of credit arrivals since last September, it would not be difficult for the country to export 3.6 billion dollars' worth of commodities in November and December. During the first 10 months of this year, Korea's exports amounted to 17.6 billion dollars. The report also predicted that during the first half of next year, the country's exports would reach 11 billion dollars, accounting for 44.3 percent of the 1982 export target of 25.3 billion dollars. Meanwhile, during the first 16 days of this month, Korea exported 548.9 million dollars' worth of commodities, up 5.3 percent from the figure for the same period last year, while L/c arrivals amounted to 726 million dollars, down 3.8 percent from the figure for the comparable period last year. MEDICAL TEAM CLAIMS CANCER REMEDY

[Text] Seoul, 14 Nov (YONHAP)--A Korean medical team has recently developed a new effective remedy against cancer.

This is a combined dose of CCNU, DDP and 5PU, already recognized as an effective anti-cancer drug against lymphatic brain, testicle, bladder ovarian, breast, and stomach-related cancers.

The cancer research team of Seoul's Inche Medical College, led by Dr Kim Ye-hoe, claimed Saturday that it had administered combined doses of the three drugs to 10 patients suffering from incurable stomach cancer and that it was found that the cancerous cells were destroyed in the nine of the 10 patients.

Six of the 10 were in such a serious state, that they had been given no hope for recovery even after operations, and four were suffering from a second recurrence of the disease.

A certain Yang, a 25-year-old female stomach cancer patient, who had been turned away by other hospitals, was hospitalized at the medical college and given two doses of the medicines a week as prescribed by Dr Kim. As a result, the cancerous clods in her body were completely disolved, and she is now recuperating at her home, the medical research team claimed.

Dr Kim has been devoting himself to the development of a new remedy against cancer since 1975.

He has so far treated some 80 patients suffering from various types of progressive cancer, and he claims to have found no better medicinal therapy against cancer than the combined dose of CCNU, DDP and 5PU.

INCREASED TREE PLANTING WORK URGED

Pyongyang NODONG CHONGNYON in Korean 20 Sep 81 p 2

[Article: "Chuche Thought Indoctrination Classroom" Column: "An Attitude Becoming of Master Expanding the Fatherland's Resources"]

[Excerpts] Not long ago, we visited Yongha Forestry Station in Kim Chong-suk County, Yangyang Province, after hearing news that members of the Socialist Working Youth League (SWYL) and other young people at the Yongha Forestry Station are continuing to do well in tree planting as well as log production.

Every single valley of the logging area is seen with the forest of trees in a terraced field thereby promising an opulent tomorrow to be filled with huge logs as a testimony to the ardent loyalty and patriotism displayed by the SWYL members and young people who have been waging a vigorous struggle so as to thoroughly live up to the programmatic instruction by the great leader Marshal, Kim Il-song to plant 10 trees for each tree cut down in the logging area."

They plan to plant trees in an area of 1,500 chongbo [chongbo equals 2.45 acres] just this year and have already planted trees in an area of 4,200 chongbo, thus exceeding the goal. They have been successful in growing more than 98 percent of the total number of evergreen trees planted.

Their brilliant achievement is a clear display of patriotism to continually increase the assets of the fatherland and also is a valuable fruit stemming from an attitude of becoming master based on chuche thought and ardent loyalty on the part of the SWYL members and the young people who have been upholding and fulfilling the lofty idea of the great leader intended to secure sufficient log resources by planting more trees while cutting trees on a rotating basis.

The great leader Marshal Kim Il-song instructed as follows:

"We must develop a broad campaign for tree planting among the youth so as to fill every mountain and field in our country with a thriving green."

The fatherly leader's programmatic instruction concerning planting more trees and making the mountain of the fatherland filled with green forests, contains a far-reaching scheme to make our socialist fatherland the people's paradise, a better place to live, by better cultivating nature in the fatherland, as required by chuche, and also bears a great confidence and love intended to raise the new generation as a true and reliable master in the remaking of nature.

As the immortal chuche thought taught us, man is the master of all things in this world and is also the primary factor in making a decision on everything.

Man is not governed by the natural environment but is an independent and creative being who governs nature and is capable of remolding nature to fit his will and needs.

If we are merely to utilize nature as it is, it would not be a position and attitude which the genuine master of nature ought to take.

We must take a proper attitude as the master of nature and must positively remold nature. Only by doing so would we be able to make the entire environment of nature around us useful to our people's life and to convert our fatherland into a paradise more beautiful and a better place to live. To plant and properly care for more trees on the mountains of the fatherland is one of the meaningful remaking nature projects.

This project, in particular, is entirely devoted to our youth who will be living in the future and is glorious and worthwhile work specifically for our new generation to spearhead in carrying out.

The SWYL members and young workers of the Yongha Forestry Station wholeheartedly upheld the fatherly leader's far-reaching scheme and lofty idea and devoted themselves to planting trees thus continuing to produce successful results.

Through various proud tales of the thriving green forests, we could easily tell how deep their warm loyalty and patriotism to thoroughly and unconditionally carry out the great leader's instructions was and how high their standard of masterly attitude was in trying to take good care of the mountains and fields of historical interest of revolution imprinted with the footsteps of the revolutionary martyrs, including the indomitable, anti-Japanese, communist revolutionary fighter Comrade Kim Chong-suk.

Then how did their masterly attitude based on infinite loyalty to the great leader and the glorious party manifest itself in the rewarding work of protecting nature by planting more trees?

First it was manifested itself when they developed the tree planting and raising project as a social movement by firmly upholding the respected and beloved leader's teaching on how to plant more trees, and when everyone alike voluntarily rushed forth for this work.

The young workers of the forestry station here, including the SWYL members of the Sinhung work site have accomplished their logging work, exceeding their quotos, and also pushed the tree planting work as a social movement using their days off and rest periods. In this way they all rushed forth and feverishly tried to plant more trees.

Second, their masterly attitude based on their loyalty to the great leader and the party has been demonstrated in fully displaying their initiative in tree planting.

In planting trees, they have not only used seedlings provided by the forestation workshop; more than 10 percent of the saplings used in planting trees during the past 3 years up to now were from natural sources. They also adopted the humos pot method with thin vinyl wrap as taught by the great leader, and planted trees not only in spring and autumn but also in summer, a difficult season to plant and nurture trees, and achieved a success rate of over 98 percent. The trees they had planted lived because they cared for each tree with great attention to watering and fertilizing. In addition to planting trees, they also paid attention to the passage and the direction when they cut and dragged logs so that they could reduce damage to young trees.

Such a creative struggle was spearheaded by Comrade Kim Ch'ol-su, primary SWYL committee chairman, comrades Kim Song-il, U Chong-sun; comrades Yi Young-sik, Kang Chong-ho and Kim Yong-ok, primary SWYL functionaries at the Sinhung work site; and SWYL members comrades Yi Hwa-sun, Yang Yong-sun and Kim Hung-ch'un.

Comrade Yi Yong-sik, chairman of the Sinhung work site SWYL, had sternly admonished and indoctrinated his younger brother for cutting two young trees. This story is a remarkable example in that the mentality of the SWYL members here can be read.

Third, their masterly attitude based on their loyalty to the fatherly leader and the glorious party was also demonstrated when they persistently and vigorously pushed forward their work to accomplish the respected and beloved leader's instructions concerning tree planting.

If they hesitated or quit because of difficulties, without working to the end, it would not be an attitude of becoming master.

The tree planting is work that is not for only 1 or 2 years but must be carried out strongly and continuously.

The SWYL members and young workers in this area have planted many trees every year ever since they started logging specific areas on a rotating basis. This is an indication that their lofty loyalty and their masteryly attitude have been displayed not only once but continuously and vigorously.

Instead of being complacent, they have been successfully yielding results with their loyal determination to plant more trees in the future.

Their experience shows that greater pleasure and satisfaction can be given to the fatherly leader and the glorious party when they wage their struggle with a conviction of becoming the nation's master while thinking and acting as required by Chuche thought.

'NODONG SINMUN' LAUDS NONALIGNED MOVEMENT

[Text] Pyongyang, 24 Nov (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN today prints a signed article titled "Nonaligned Movement Is Progressive Movement for Independence."

The article says: Today the Nonaligned Movement is making a positive contribution to opposing all forms of domination, intervention, subjugation and inequality, preserving world peace and security, accelerating the anti-imperialist liberation struggle of the oppressed nations and solving international problems to suit the demand of the world people.

This movement has been constantly strengthened and developed with a great vitality and attraction since its emergence in the arena of history because it is a progressive movement against all forms of domination and subjugation and for independence.

This movement is a progressive movement because, first of all, it correctly reflects the basic trend of our time and embodies the lofty idea of anti-imperialism and independence.

The Nonaligned Movement reflects the demand and trend of our era, the era of independence, because it is, in essence, a movement for independence and an independent movement.

The Nonaligned Movement which takes anti-imperialism and independence as its noble idea and purpose is a new political force and movement that appeared, reflecting the demand and trend of the times.

It is a progressive movement also because it is a powerful movement opposing all the reactionary forces including imperialism and colonialism which stand in the way of the advance of the times and vigorously pushing ahead the development of history.

The Nonaligned Movement is a powerful movement against the imperialist and colonialist aggression and plunder, and the nonaligned countries are a mighty revolutionary force standing opposed to the imperialist reactionary forces.

Today the Nonaligned Movement has become an independent political force with a large scale and powerful organisation as never before and is vigorously struggling against all the manoeuvres of the imperialist reactionary forces.

Indeed, this movement has become a powerful force impelling human history as it is a progressive movement correctly reflecting the basic trend of the present time and opposing the imperialist and colonialist reactionary forces.

At present all the nonaligned countries are confronted with an important task to check and frustrate the imperialists policy of aggression and war and defend world peace and security and accelerate the building of an independent, new world free from all manner of domination and subjugation, the article notes, and continues: It is the fundamental demand for the expansion and development of this movement for all the nonaligned countries to firmly abide by the basic principle of the Nonaligned Movement.

The basic principle of the Nonaligned Movement demands that all the nonaligned countries do not join any bloc but firmly uphold independence and advance along an independent road.

It is also important for the expansion and development of this movement that the nonaligned countries abide by the principles of complete equality and non-interference in others' internal affairs and strengthen unity and cooperation.

Today the nonaligned countries should counter, with the strategy of unity, the machinations of the imperialists to split and alienate them from each other and crush them one by one. This is a problem of principle not only in overcoming a number of difficulties facing the Nonaligned Movement but also in successfully building an independent, new world free from all manner of domination and subjugation.

The joint action of the Nonaligned Movement alone can successfully solve many problems, such as the problem of checking and frustrating the imperialists policy of aggression and war and preserving and consolidating peace, realising universal and complete disarmament, withdrawing imperialist aggression forces and dismantling military bases in others territories, creating nuclear-free and peace zones in various parts of the world and establishing a new international economic order.

Today the nonaligned countries are vigorously advancing holding higher the banner of independence, the banner of nonalignment. No force on earth can stem this powerful advance.

DPRK DAILY FLAYS 'CHON CLIQUE' FOR SHOOTING PROVOCATION

[Text] Pyongyang 3 November (KCNA)--Minju Choson 3 November prints a signed commentary denouncing the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist cliques grave armed provocation of firing tens of thousands of large-calibre machinegun bullets into the area of our side in the demilitarized zone southeast of Kamsubong in the central sector of the front on 31 October.

The commentary headlined "dangerous military provocation" says: the continued reckless military provocations of the Chon Tu-hwan clique are premeditated criminal acts to lead the situation of our country to the brink of war. They show that the new war provocation manoeuvres of the fascist clique against us have entered a very dangerous stage.

Noting that the repeated military provocations of the South Korean puppets along the military demarcation line are fraught with the extremely serious danger of igniting a new war, the commentary continues:

The Chon Tu-hwan clique which machinegunned into the area of our side in the demilitarized zone let a spokesman of the pupped defence ministry slander us. This despicable base act reminds one of a thief calling others thief. This is a trick to veil its dirty nature as a warmaniac and mislead public opinion at home and abroad at any cost.

The aim pursued by the Chon Tu-hwan clique in repeatedly perpetrating hostile provocations against us is clear.

It is to create a war atmosphere, disturb peace and lay more hurdles in the way of reunification to perpetuate the division and remain in "power" indefinitely. In deliberately aggravating the situation the puppets also try to divert elsewhere the attention of the South Korean people, put down their mounting struggle against fascism and for democracy and bolster up the shaking military fascist dictatorial "regime."

This is an unpardonable treacherous act challenging the trend of the times and the desire of the nation.

If the puppets persist in reckless acts in defiance of our repeated warnings, we will have no alternative but to take a due counter-measure.

The puppets must ponder over the possible consequences of their military provocations, stop running riot and discontinue hostile provocations against us at once.

Saying that today our fellow countrymen are standing at a historical turning point in the long history of national division, he declared: From the beginning of the dialogue, the barriers in our hearts have been pulled down and the door of reunification opened. Noting that those who do not want national reunification are actually no one but the foreign forces and dictatorial and comprador forces in South Korea, he exposed their splitting manoeuvres. He gave a detailed account of the fact that some Christians of South Korea are taking the anti-national road, following the anti-communist policy of the United States and the South Korean authorities.

He called for accelerating national reunification by pushing aside the foreign forces and the South Korean dictatorial and comprador forces, the obstacles to the reunification of the country, and achieving unity of the forces for reunification.

His opening address was followed by congratulatory speeches.

Ho Chong-suk, director of the Secretariat of the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, made a congratulatory speech. She began with warmly congratulating the personages of various circles and compatriots overseas participating in the dialogue and emphatically said that the dialogue would be a landmark of a new turn in promoting national unity and accelerating the independent and peaceful reunification of the country. They denounced in unison the splitting manoeuvres of outside forces and South Korean dictatorial and comprador forces obstructing the reunification of our country and unanimously held that reunification by confederation is the only way out for our nation.

At the end of each congratulatory speech, thunderous applause swept the hall for a long while and representatives rushed out and warmly hugged the speakers.

A congratulatory message sent in the name of Comrade Kim Il, vice-president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and chairman of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland, and the Korean Committee for Aiding Overseas Compatriots was read out. Also conveyed were many other congratulatory messages or letters from Yim Chang-yon, Yi Po-pae, Chi Chang-po and Kim Song-nak residing in the United States and the Council of South Korean Christian Students for the Promotion of Unification and other organisations of overseas Koreans.

Keynote speeches were made by Kang Wi-cho residing in the United States on the subject "Responsibility of Christians in the History of Division"; Yom Kuk-yol, vice-chairman of the Central Committee of the Korean Christians Federation, on the subject "National Reunification and Foreign Forces"; Yi Yong-pin, director of the editorial department of the Society of Korean Christians Overseas for the Unification of the Country, on the subject "Tasks of Christians for Unification"; and Chon Kum-chol, vice-chairman of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland, on the subject "Proposal for Founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo and National Tasks for its Implementation." Ko Ki-chun, secretary general of the Central Committee of the Korean Christians Federation, gave a lecture on Christianity in the northern half of the DPRK.

The keynote speeches and lecture were followed by questions and answers and supplementary speeches of representatives on a wide range of problems to deepen mutual understanding and reach a complete unanimity of views on the problems raised.

Reflecting the unanimous will of the entire participants, the four-day dialogue unanimously adopted a joint statement manifesting a will for reunification, an appeal to the entire compatriots at home and abroad and letters to the U.S. president and the Japanese prime minister.

During the dialogue a welcome banquet was arranged by overseas compatriots and a farewell banquet by compatriots from the homeland. The banquets proceeded all along in an atmosphere of warm compatriotic sentiments and national unity. The participants raised glasses to the good health and long life of the great leader President Kim Il-song, the sun of the nation and lodestar of national reunification, and to national unity and the accomplishment of the cause of reunification. Speeches and souvenirs were exchanged at the banquets. The attendants there sang and danced together, unable to repress the joy of reunion of the separated compatriots and compatriotic feelings. They sang in chorus the imortal paean "Long Life and Good Health to the Leader."

During the dialogue an "evening of culture" was also arranged. The "evening of culture" where well known artists of the homeland and compatriots overseas, Taekwondo players of the homeland and instructors of Taekwondo overseas gave a joint performance, left unforgettable impressions on the participants of the dialogue.

On the morning of 6 November, a press conference was called at the Vienna International Press Club upon the successful conclusion of the dialogue for national reunification among compatriots and Christians in the North and abroad. Present there were Korean reporters from the homeland and various countries who came to cover the dialogue, Austrian news agency, newspaper, radio and television reporters, a delegate of the Third World journalists and television reporters of West Germany.

The press conference was addressed by Yom Kuk-yol, Chon Kum-chol, Ko Ki-chun, Yi Yong-pin, Sonu Hak-won, Kang Wi-cho, Choe Chong-yol and four others. Answering questions put by reporters, they unanimously pointed to the success and significance of the dialogue. They also roundly exposed the base obstructive manoeuvres of the South Korean puppets against the dialogue and the aggressive Korean policy of the United States.

Expressed at the press conference was the conviction that all the Koreans can achieve national unity, transcending the differences in ideology and idea, social system and religious belief, frustrate all the manoeuvres of the domestic and foreign splittists and certainly reunify the country with the united efforts of our nation.

The dialogue for national reunification among compatriots and Christians in the North and abroad was held in an acute struggle against the South Korean splittists. The Chon Tu-hwan group resorted to every conceivable obstruction to frustrate the dialogue. They attempted to kidnap representatives, while framing plots by mobilizing all their "diplomats" in Switzerland and Austria and, as if it were not enough, bribing members of the action party of the vicious "Unification Church" in West Germany. And they committed such base acts as phoning threateningly to the lodgings of the representatives at dead of night and put pressure upon the owner of the building of the dialogue hall and raised a row in the hall of the press conference.

Such criminal acts of the Chon Tu-hwan group exposed that the so-called "dialogue" and "unification" cried for by them are all fraud and how deadly they are afraid of reunification.

The dialogue for national reunification among compatriots and Christians at home and abroad which closed with the victory of the forces for reunification over the splittist forces is an event which will hold a shining chapter in the history of our nations movement for reunification.

'VRPR' SCORES PLAN TO LIFT CURFEW IN SOUTH KOREA

SK231226 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 0300 GMT 23 Nov 81

[Text] In this hour, we will talk about the lifting of the curfew clamored about by the Chon Tu-hwan ring--a brazen, double-faced act.

The Chon Tu-hwan ruling circles are babbling about the lifting of the curfew in connection with their hosting of the 1988 summer Olympics in Seoul. They are raving that they will greatly increase investigative personnel and police equipment to achieve this end. Answering questions at the National Assembly sometime ago, Home Affairs Minister So Chong-hwa said that he would provide conditions to lift the curfew prior to hosting the 1988 Olympics in Seoul by strengthening the anti-communist posture. At a press conference on 22 November, he clamorously stressed the need for an increase of police manpower and equipment in order to lift the curfew and said that the number of police should increase by at least 16,000.

The National Police headquarters has decided to increase investigative personnel next year by 1,927. The Seoul police authorities have said it was necessary to increase the manpower strength of police boxes and the number of nighttime traffic-control personnel by more than 30 percent to maintain law and order after midnight. Using beautiful, coaxing words, they raved that these measures were intended for the convenience of the people and at respecting their desires.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring's wild, absurd remarks on lifting the curfew reveals the wisked, hidden intention of further strengthening their suppression of the people while giving an impression to our people and to international society that the fascist system has been eased.

Since the 15 August liberation, the U.S. military government and the successive rulers in South Korea have enforced the curfew to cruelly suppress our people, patriots and revolutionaries under the pretext of maintaining order. The fascist Chon Tu-hwan ring has continued to maintain the curfew--the product of its U.S. masters--increased suppressive forces and frantically run wild to suppress the people.

Speaking of the police force, the main force of the repressive apparatus, it is a massive police force, consisting of some 487,000 policemen, including some 56,000 ordinary policemen, some 22,000 combat policemen, some 2,400 national maritime policemen, some 6,500 security guards and some 400,000 assistant policemen. It takes up positions on every corner of the nation, surrounding the whole of the nation with a harsh repressive apparatus.

Also the army security command, which has some 10,000 cadre members and some 220,000 intelligence personnel, along with [several words unheard], serves the dictatorial power as a shock brigade, running amock to suppress the people.

Thus, South Korea has been turned into a giant military prison with the fascist murderer Chon Tu-hwan as its supreme warden and into a grisly and terror-stricken place where the entire people are subjected to violence and massacre.

Still dissatisfied with the current state of South Korea which, for its long-term power, it has turned into a place where the fascist bayonets run rampant, the Chon Tu-hwan ring is trying to further consolidate its fascist ruling system by taking advantage of the sacred Olympics. The Chon Tu-hwan ring's aim at inducing the 1988 Olympics to Seoul is not only to further strengthen the current military fascist system and ensure its power but also to perpetuate division and fabricate two Koreans.

As is widely known to the world, in a meeting on 6 October with the delegation assigned to win the Olympics, the traitorous Chon Tu-hwan said the government and the people of all strata should establish a climate of orderliness and that we should use the Olympics as a means to further consolidate our system, thus revealing his wicked nature as a fascist dictatorial maniac.

He also revealed his nature as a splittist by sending Foreign Minister No Sin-yong to the secretary general of the United Nations to beg for cooperation for South Korea's UN admission, saying that South Korea is going to host the Olympics in 1988 and that something is wrong with the UN for not yet admitting South Korea.

The fact that the Chon Tu-hwan ring is attempting to strengthen the so-called anticommunist posture and drastically augment the police force while clamoring about the lifting of the nightly crufew in connection with the Olympics to be held in Seoul once again shows that its schemes for strengthening fascism and for division stage.

The schemes on the part of the Chon Tu-hwan ring are intolerable criminal acts against our poeple who are yearning for social democratization and national reunification and a mockery of the international community which respects the Olympic spirit. Our people will never tolerate the criminal machinations of the Chon Tu-hwan ring, which is attempting to further strengthen fascism, division and the schemes for war under the sacred Olympic flag.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring should immediately abandon its criminal schemes to use the Olympics as a means to suppress people and ensure power and step down from power without delay as unanimously demanded by the masses at home and abroad.

S. KOREAN PEOPLE BACK DCRK PROPOSAL

[Text] Pyongyang 23 November (KCNA)--People of all walks of life in our Korea are fully supporting the new proposal for the establishment of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo [DCRK] advanced by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song.

A certain Kim residing in Songdong District, Seoul, said: When I heard a new proposal for national reunification put forward by the great leader at the sixth congress of the Workers Party of Korea, I felt once again that General Kim Il-song is, indeed, the lodestar of national reunification and the great leader who indicates the way to achieve reunification. The proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo is one crystallizing his patriotic will to realize reunification with great national unity, transcending the differences of the north and the south in social system and idea.

A pressman surnamed Han in Chunchon city said: For reunification confrontation with the North should be avoided and a unified state be established with concerted efforts. He went on:

I support President Kim Il-song's proposal for founding the DCRK.

In the ten-point programme of the Confederal Republic I found a way out for the nation and see the future of a prosperous fatherland.

It is only President Kim Il-song who will rejoin the severed blood vein of the nation and bring a unified land of bliss to the entire fellow countrymen.

A professor Kim in Kwangju, South Cholla Province, said that the great leaders proposal for the founding of the DCRK is a great programme of national salvation which most correctly reflects the desire and aspiration of the nation.

This is a fair and aboveboard reunification proposal acceptable to anyone who desires reunification despite differences in political view and religious belief, he stressed.

Some time ago, a certain Pak residing in Tobong District, Seoul, explained the content of the proposal for founding the DCRK to his neighbours and said with firm confidence: The realization of the reunification proposal advanced by General Kim Il-song will put an end to the nations history of misfortunes and hardships and bring the beginning of the new history of a reunified country. Then our nation will be able to lead a happy life in the bosom of the general.

The South Korean people who see their future in the proposal for national reunification advanced by the great leader are determined to struggle with all devotion on the road of patriotism for the acceleration of national reunification.

A religionist Kim in Pusan said before his colleagues:

National reunification will be achieved only when we advance along the road indicated by General Kim Il-song, the sun for the salvation of the nation, I am determined to devote my body and soul to the struggle for national reunification on the road indicated by the general.

A student Ho in Seoul declared:

To realize the new national reunification proposal put forward by the great leader is a sacred task facing the whole nation and our students.

I pledge myself to devote my life to the sacred struggle to overthrow the Chon Tu-hwan group and establish the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo as early as possible.

DPRK RED CROSS SCORES CHON'S HOME-VISIT POLICY

[Text] Pyongyang 23 November (KCNA)--The Central Committee of the Red Cross society of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea in a statement released on 22 November scathingly denounced the Chon Tu-hwan groups machination to lay hurdles on the road of home-visit of overseas compatriots as a violation of human rights and humanitarianism, as a challenge to national unity and the countrys peaceful reunification.

The statement noted that the Chon Tu-hwan group is threatening and blackmailing, appeasing and deceiving those compatriots who desire to visit the homeland, and is persecuting and plotting to kidnap or assassinate compatriots who had already visited the homeland.

Pointing out that the Chon Tu-hwan gang invented the "Hong Song-kil spy case" to throw a wet blanket over the ardent desire of Koreans abroad to visit the homeland, it continued:

By cooking up the fictitious "hong Song-kil spy case" the Chon Tu-hwan group vividly revealed that its talk about "humanitarianism," "finding out of separated families" and "peaceful unification" following the suit of the preceding dictator is a deceptive trick merely designed to win public favour.

As made clear by the "Hong Song-kil spy case" faked up by the military rogues, the life or death of separated kinsmen cannot be ascertained nor can there be any freedom of travel between the North and the South and visits between separated families and relatives as long as the present anticommunist fascist repressive system is left intact in South Korea.

They persecute compatriots who went abroad, unable to live any longer in South Korea, merely because they visited their native places in the northern half of the DPRK, which they had longed for even in dreams, to meet their families and relatives, and gave their impressions of the visit. They even charged the crime of "spying activity" on those compatriots who, while visiting South Korea to meet their relatives, told them about their families and relatives in the North. How can we say that these bandits have the idea of lessening the sufferings of separated fellow countrymen in a humanitarian way and have any will to realize national unity and the countrys reunification?

The reality eloquently tells that only when the anticommunist fascist system is smashed and collaboration with communism and democratisation of society are realized in South Korea, can the question of national reunification and humanitarian problems arising between the North and the South be correctly solved.

The Chon Tu-hwan clique is persistently trying to block the route of home-visit of compatriots even abroad, discarding the mask of "humanitarianism," lest the true superiority of the chuche-based socialist system of the northern half of the DPRK and its brilliant reality should be made known among overseas compatriots and the true colour and treacherous crimes of its deceptive anticommunist propaganda be brought to light. It is also aimed to prevent the desire for national unity and peaceful reunification from growing stronger among overseas compatriots.

Chon Tu-hwan and Co had better cool their overheated heads, immediately stop foolhardy acts and step down from "power" without delay, as demanded by the South Korean people and overseas compatriots.

DPRK DAILY CONDEMNS 'CHON CLIQUE' FOR SUPPRESSING PRESS

SK261520 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1505 GMT 26 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang, 26 November (KCNA)--MINJU CHOSON Wednesday carried a signed article headlined "no bayonet can break the pen of justice" denouncing the high-handed suppression of the press by the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique, which reads:

One year ago, they took an unheard-of repressive step against the press, merging and closing down newspapers, news agencies and radios of South Korea under the cloak of "structural reorganisation of the press."

They put out of existence SINA ILBO, ILGANNAEOE KYONGJE and other papers in Seoul and made the morning papers carry news offered by them in dealing with reports and the evening papers reprint it, in order to simplify the publication system. On the other hand, the puppet clique closed all newspapers but one in each province.

In case of news agencies, they merged TONGYANG TONGSIN, KYONGJE TONGSIN and other news agencies into one "government"-run news agency called YONHAP TONGSIN.

They also merged the radios into "Radio Chungang" controlled by them, and the military fascist clique totally banned news coverage related to political affair by newspapers, news agencies and radios, abolished the system of resident reporters and brought under their complete control the orientation and contents of newspaper, news agency and radio reports.

The "structural reorganisation" of the South Korean press organs by the military fascist clique was part of the overall political repression for hastening the fascistization of socio-political life; it was a strangulation of the press previously unknown in the history of the press.

Since the [illegible]rabbed power at the point of the bayonet through intrigues, the Chon Tu-hwan c[illegible]e have constantly cracked down on the press, while hastening the fascistization of socio-political life.

They, to begin with, faked up bundles of fascist evil laws to obliterate the liberties and rights of the press and stipulate the suppression of the press by "law."

In December last year, the fascist clique manufactured the notorious fascist evil law "basic bill on the press" to bind the pressmen hand and foot dually and trebly.

Thus, the freedom of the press is wholly caught in the meshes of the "law" and the gag on the press is legalized by "law" in South Korea today.

While supervising and controlling all the processes of publication, the Chon Tu-hwan puppet clique have arrested, jailed, penalized and murdered progressive and conscientious men of the press without mercy.

From July to November last year, in their fascist action, they expelled from the press organs 3,360 or more reporters and editors under the pretext of "lack of anti-communist consciousness" and "protest against press censorship."

Crying for "security" and "anti-communism," they closed all the press organs of anti-"government" tendency.

In July last year, the fascist clique put out of existence 172 periodicals and 617 publishing houses on charges of "agitation of foul political aim" and so forth. On 20 November last year they closed 395 magazines and 19 publishing houses.

On the other hand, the fascist clique filled the press organs with hackwriters meekly obeying them and installed their vassals at important posts to place the press under a tighter "government" control.

All the facts prove that the Chon Tu-hwan clique are a truculent fascist thug, the most vicious splittist and war-maniac and a brutal strangler of democracy totally trampling underfoot liberties and rights of the South Korean people.

Noting that the bayonet cannot break the pen of justice, the paper stresses:

The harsher the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique gag the press and suppress the people, the fiercer the flames of resistance against it will rage to drive them to destruction eventually.

MOSCOW MEETING HEARS REPORT ON KOREA

SK272248 Pyongyang KCNA in English 2207 GMT 27 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang 27 November (KCNA)--Gatinot Gerard Rene, vice-president of the International Organization of Journalists and secretary general of the Trade Union of Journalists of the General Confederation of Labour of France, made a keynote report titled "It is the Greatest National Desire of the Korean People and a Common Task of the World People to Terminate the Division of Korea and Achieve Her Reunification" at the world conference of journalists for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea recently held in Moscow, according to a report.

He said: The U.S. imperialists have turned South Korea into a base of aggression and established there a "regime" faithful to them.

The puppet regime set up by the United States is a tool designed to beautify and embellish the military occupation by the U.S. troops.

The Chon Tu-hwan clique under the aegis of the U.S. troops has established a bloody terror rule in South Korea.

It is not accidental that no sooner had puppet Chon Tu-hwan been seated in "power" than he toured the United States and met Reagan.

Reagan declared to Chon Tu-hwan that he was rescinding the "U.S. troops pullout plan" worked out by the former president.

Reagan also made clear that he would increase military aid to South Korea, talking about fictitious "aggressive threat from the North."

By expanding and intensifying military exercises against the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea on the ground and sea and in the air, the United States and the South Korean puppets have constantly led the situation to the brink of war and hastened the formation of the U.S.-Japan-South Korea aggressive military alliance.

But, the independent and peaceloving DPRK has put forward many a time proposals for reunifying the country independently on a democratic principle and is making persevering efforts towards this end.

I had an opportunity to visit the DPRK in may with a delegation of the international organization of journalists.

I could see at first hand what modern looks Pyongyang had assumed together with historical monuments, the city which had been considered to be difficult to be built again for its severe destruction in the barbarous bombings of the U.S. imperialists.

We inspected the maternity hospital equipped with flawless facilities for mothers and their babies, the Changgwangwon health complex with update facilities including a swimming pool of Olympic level and an orderly and clean metro with artistically executed wall paintings and latest technical successes.

These successes are an envy even of the Western countries developed in industry and proud of "civilization."

After visiting Korea, we could see in Japan that the Koreans there also cherished the desire for the reunification of the homeland, the desire for the peaceful development of Korea, and they were filled with the determination not to suffer encroachment by anyone.

But, in South Korea, we witnessed the harsh suppression of people by the police and troops of Chon Tu-hwan.

One year ago, at the sixth congress of the Workers Party of Korea Comrade Kim Il-song, the respected and beloved leader of the Korean people and president of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea, put forward the proposal for the founding of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo and the ten-point policy of the confederal state.

This proposal envisages reunifying the country by founding a confederal republic through the establishment of a unified national government in which the North and the South are represented on an equal footing and under which they exercise regional autonomy respectively with equal rights and duties.

Generally speaking, this proposal reflects the present situation in which there exist different systems and ideas in the North and the South.

This means to achieve national unity and national reunification on condition that one partys idea or system is not absolutized.

This proposal is a clear answer to those who suppose that the "North intends to impose the communist regime."

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught: "We will never force our ideas and social system upon South Korea but will subordinate everything to the interests of national union and reunification."

The proposal for founding the DCRK is a solution to save the Korean nation from the tragedy of permanent division and achieve national reunification.

The founding of a confederal state will not only but an end to the division of Korea but also prevent a new war and consolidate peace and security in Asia and the rest of the world.

The situation obtaining in Korea today makes it incumbent upon the progressive journalists and all the journalists organizations of the world to introduce truth and express solidarity with the people and journalists in the North and South of Korea struggling for national reunification.

The proposal for founding the DCRK and the ten-point policy of the unified state advanced by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song is a most fair one for solving the problems arising in that area.

Our journalists are under obligation to widely introduce this proposal.

We are convinced that the struggle of the Korean people for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country is just and the day will surely come when the Korean people will live a happy life in a reunified and independent country.

MOSCOW MEETING ADOPTS APPEAL TO WORLD JOURNALISTS

[Text] Pyongyang 27 November (KCNA)--An appeal to the world progressive journalists and pressmen was adopted at the World Conference of Journalists for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea which was held recently in Moscow, according to a report.

The appeal says:

Today the revunification of Korea is the greatest national desire of the Korean people and one of the pressing tasks of the world.

The division of Korea has brought great national sufferings and hardships to the Korean people and further aggravated the situation in this region and gravely jeopardizes peace in Asia and the world.

Reflecting the interests of the entire Korean people and the unanimous desire of the peace-loving people of the world, the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea clarified the basic policy of achieving the independent and peaceful reunification of the country and has made all sincere efforts for its realisation.

But, none of the fair and aboveboard proposals for reunification advanced by the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea has been carried into effect due to the "two Koreas" policy and the new war provocation manoeuvres of the United States and the South Korean authorities, and dark clouds of fascism and war are heavily hanging over the South Korean people.

The situation prevailing in Korea demands more urgently than ever before the relaxation of tension and the elimination of causes of conflict there.

We present at the World Conference of Journalists for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea, after deeply analysing the prevailing situation and considering that the reunification of Korea is the only way of removing the danger of war in this region and consolidating world peace, hold as follows:

--to accelerate the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea, the tension in Korea must be relaxed, the "two Koreas" plot of the domesitc and foreign splittists frustrated and U.S. Interference in the internal affairs of Korea terminated.

The question of easing the tension and removing the danger of war in Korea can be solved only by replacing the Korean armistice agreement with a peace agreement. In accordance with the resolution of the 30th session of the UN General Assembly, the U.S. authorities must withdraw aggression forces from South Korea and respond to Korea-U.S. talks for concluding a peace agreement.

The United States must renounce the "two Koreas" policy, terminate all manner of interference in the internal affairs of Korea and help create a favourable climate for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea.

--To accelerate the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea, the present fascist ruling system of South Korea must be liquidated and democracy realised in South Korean society.

National reconciliation and unity cannot be achieved as long as the South Korean military fascists removing political rivals, sowing the seed of discord and inciting antagonism and confrontation within the nation are left intact.

In South Korea all the fascist evil laws and suppressive machines must be abolished, illegally arrested and imprisoned journalists and democratic figures and patriotic people set free and forcibly closed newspapers and magazines restored and the free political activity of all the political parties, public organisations and individual personages ensured.

--For the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea the new proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo which the respected and beloved leader of the Korean people President Kim Il-song advanced, embodying the three principles of independence, peaceful reunification and great national unity, must be realised.

This proposal envisages reunifying the country by establishing a unified national government represented by the North and the South on an equal footing on condition that the two sides recognize and tolerate the ideas and systems existing in the two parts.

This proposal, wholly reflecting the fundamental interests and demands of the Korean nation and fairly taking into consideration the interests of the North and the South, is a most realistic proposal for reunification which accords with the desires and aspirations of the peace-loving people of the world who oppose a war.

Considering that this proposal is fair and reasonable one for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea, we fully support it and warmly welcome the convocation of a conference for the promotion of national reunification to realise the proposal for the founding of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo.

The present situation of Korea makes it incumbent upon the journalist organisations and progressive journalists of all countries who value peace and truth to hold high their pen of justice and further lift up voices of international solidarity with the Korean people and journalists in the struggle for reunification.

We appeal to all the progressive journalists of the world to resolutely denounce the criminal "two Koreas" policy and the new war provocation manoeuvres of the United States and the South Korean fascists and support the struggle of the South Korean people and journalists for the reunification of the country and the democratisation of society through newspapers, news agencies, radios and other mass media and more widely conduct press activities and solidarity movement for carrying into effect the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo, a great programme of reunification.

The reunification of Korea will certainly be realised in accordance with the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo based on the three principles of independence, peaceful reunification and great national unity.

Long live the reunified Korean people!

MOSCOW MEETING ADOPTS LETTER TO KIM IL-SONG

SK271040 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0821 GMT 27 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang 27 November (KCNA)--A letter to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song was adopted at the World Conference of Journalists for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea which was held recently in Moscow, according to a report.

Noting that today the Korean question is a focal point of world political affairs and the realisation of Korean reunification is an urgent demand which brooks not a moments delay, the letter says:

Owing to the "two Koreas" policy and war manoeuvres of the foreign imperialists and their stooges, the Korean people have undergone the bitter tragedy of national division for 36 years and dark clouds of war are constantly hanging over the Korean Peninsula.

The division of Korea must no longer be delayed and Korea must be reunified at an early date. This is the unanimous demand of the Korean people and the requirement of our time.

We know well that your excellency president put forward in each period fair and reasonable policies and proposals for the peaceful reunification of Korea from the first days of her division and has wisely led the government and people of the DPRK in the struggle for their realisation.

Particularly, the new proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo advanced by your excellency on the principles of independence, peaceful reunification and great national unity at the 6th congress of the Workers Party of Korea in October last year is a most realistic and only just program of reunification which takes into consideration the situation obtaining in the Korean Peninsula and in the surrounding areas, the interests of the countries concerned and the demands and desires of the Korean people and the world people, we express full support to this.

We hold that the question of Korean reunification can and should be solved only in accordance with this proposal to found the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo.

We vehemently condemned the present U.S. Government's policy of aggression and war to reinforce the colonial fascist rule while encouraging the henchmen forsaken by the people in South Korea to aggravate the tension in the Korean Peninsula and perpetuate the division of Korea. We unanimously demanded that the United States withdraw its troops from South Korea, stop obstructing the reunification of Korea and take measures for maintaining a durable peace in Korea.

We pungently denounced the Chon Tu-hwan clique of South Korea for its brutal suppression of the press, Sanguinary fascist tyrannical policy, criminal "two Koreas" plot and new war provocation manoeuvres under the patronage and manipulation of the U.S. master and demanded that in South Korea the military fascist regime be replaced and the democratization of society be realised.

At the same time, we expressed firm solidarity with men of the press and people of all strata in South Korea in their just struggle against the fascist terrorist rule and for freedom of the press, speech, assembly, association and demonstration, democratic rights and the peaceful reunification of the country.

We will in the future too, as in the past, hold firmly the pen of justice and, standing on the side of the Korean people, lift up higher the voice of solidarity demanding the withdrawal of the U.S. troops from South Korea and the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea and, through this, make it an irresistible trend of our time to support the Korean peoples sacred cause of reunification.

The letter sincerely wishes the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song good health and a long life.

MOSCOW MEETING CONDEMNS U.S. TWO KOREAS POLICY

SK281600 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1536 GMT 28 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang 28 November (KCNA)--Personages of various circles spoke at the world conference of journalists for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea which was recently held in Moscow, according to a report.

Francisco Guzman, vice-president of the Latin American Federation of Journalists and general secretary of the Salvadorian Journalists Union, said:

One of the most dangerous hotbeds of war in the world today is South Korea under the military occupation of the United States.

The U.S. imperialists totally revoked their "troop pullout commitments" in disregard of the UN resolution and the demand of the world people for the withdrawal of the U.S. troops from South Korea and are steadily reinforcing their forces present in South Korea.

The U.S. Defense Department is now up to new plot to deploy in South Korea, too, medium-range nuclear missiles and neutron bombs which it intends to deploy in Europe.

This tells us that the U.S. imperialists are going to turn South Korea into the largest nuclear base in the Far East and Asia, into a most dangerous powder keg of nuclear war.

The United States is not only building up its forces occupying South Korea and perfecting the attacking posture of the U.S. troops but also giving a colossal amount of military aid to the South Korean puppets to help hasten "modernization" of the puppet army.

Owing to the war manoeuvres of the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets, the situation on the Korean Peninsula is growing more strained and there constantly hovers the danger of a war breaking out any moment.

If a war broke out in Korea, it will not only impose a scourge upon the Korean people but also be converted into a big global war and induce a nuclear war.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I hold that our progressive journalists and pressmen who set store by justice and truth and love peace should sternly denounce the war moves of the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets in Korea and demand the withdrawal of the U.S. imperialist aggression forces from South Korea.

At the same time, I call upon you to support the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo put forward by the respected and beloved leader of the Korean people His Excellency President Kim Il-song and lift up the voice that Korea must be reunified in accordance with this proposal.

United States, give up the "two Koreas" policy and war moves and immediately take hands off Korea!

Kurt Vogel, international secretary of the Journalists Union of the German Democratic Republic, said:

The U.S. imperialists aggressors brazenfacedly raved that Korea would not be able to completely cure the war wounds even in 100 years.

But, Pyongyang has risen up with a new beautiful appearance in a historically very short period of time, clearing the war ruins, and Korea has turned into a prosperous socialist country playing a big role in the struggle to convert the Asian continent into a continent of durable peace.

We support the struggle of the Korean friends and comrades for the countrys peaceful reunification and their demand for the withdrawal of all the foreign troops from South Korea.

MOSCOW MEETING HEARS REPORTS ON REUNIFICATION

SK280817 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0801 GMT 28 Nov 81

[Text] Pyongyang 28 November (KCNA)--The president of the International Organization of Journalists made an opening address and many personages spoke at the world conference of journalists for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea which was recently held in Moscow, according to a report.

Kaarle Nordenstreng, president of the International Organization of Journalists, said in his opening address:

Our friends of Korea enjoy the full support of many friends in political affairs.

Accordingly, we have long desired to arrange this special meeting for the Korean friends, a member of the International Organization of Journalists, and gathered today at this special meeting of solidarity in this spirit.

The voices of Korean journalists are true voices of the fighting Korean people and we will unite with them till their victorious struggle comes to an end.

Cheik Moctari Diarra, secretary general of the African Journalists Union, said:

The Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea has consistently made all efforts for Koreas reunification under the wise leadership of President Kim Il-song.

At the sixth congress of the Workers Party of Korea President Kim Il-song advanced a proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo, a proposal that the two sides of Korea, while leaving the ideas and systems existing in the two parties as they are, establish a unified national government and found the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo under which they will respectively enforce regional autonomy, and the ten-point policy of the confederal state.

This just proposal and policy indicate the most correct way of achieving the countrys reunification in a peaceful way without alien interference.

We must check and prostrate the "two Koreas" plot and support the Korean peoples desire for the realization of the just proposal for the establishment of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo. This is a lofty duty of the worlds democratic journalists and all the democrats.

Hiroshi Nukui, chief editor of SHAKAI SHIMPO, the organ of the Japan Socialist Party, pointed out:

The U.S. and Japanese Governments are harping on the fictitious "threat of aggression from the North," taking a hostile attitude towards the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea. Under the pretext of "threat of the North" the U.S. and Japanese Governments increase military assistance and economic aid to South Korea.

Another obstacle in the way of Korean reunification is the fascist suppression of democratic forces in South Korea. The Sanguinary suppression of participants in the Kwangju uprising in May 1980 showed to the whole world the true nature of the South Korean military dictatorship.

It is very important in realizing the reunification of Korea to express solidarity and support for the struggle of democratic forces against the South Korean fascist "regime."

We reaffirm our solidarity and support for the Korean peoples struggle to reunify their country.

Diaz Rangel, president of the Latin American Federation of Journalists, said:

We Latin American people recognize the legitimacy of the Korean peoples desire to live in a reunified country and express solidarity with the Korean people struggling for reunification.

Considering that the proposal for founding the DCRK is a firm basis for Koreas reunification. We extend our unshakable support in the name of the Latin American Federation of Journalists.

'VRPR' HITS STUDENT SUPPRESSION AT KOREA UNIVERSITY

SK301002 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 0300 GMT 28 Nov 81

[Excerpts] The fascist Chon Tu-hwan military clique's outrageous reactionary offensive against the RPR and patriotic democratic personages is becoming more ferocious. On 11 November the defense security command cooked up an incident involving the RPR organization at Korea University by arresting Comrade Yi Chu-kwang, a member of the organization, charging he was a spy, and others--innocent students and residents--accusing them of being accomplices.

Taking advantage of this incident, the enemy has committed himself to fraudulent anticommunist propaganda and is trying to punish Comrade Yi and others in accordance with the national security law. That the fascist Chon Tu-hwan military clique charged our RPR members were spies and is trying to impose harsh penalties on them is an unbearable insult to and an intolerable crime against all RPR members. Our party members and patriotic personages from all walks of life are indignant at the enemy's fraudulent propaganda and repression. That the enemy portrays our party members as spies--a distortion of the truth--is a wicked ruse to weaken the influence of the RPR and supress democratic forces.

As reorganized at home and abroad, our RPR is a proud vanguard of the South Korean people which, for several decades, has been conducting an arduous underground struggle for democracy and reunification, holding high the banner of the great Chuche idea.

The RPR organization at Korea University is a chapter of our party composed of patriotic fighters and marches on the single road of the revolution for reunification as directed by the Chuche idea. No one is this organization is entitled to be a spy. Comrade Yi Chu-kwang is a member of the organization. He is not a spy. This true in view of the proud course of struggle traversed by the organization and its members.

Denouncing and condemning the fascist Chon Tu-hwan military clique's anticommunist frenzy and fascist repressive actions, the editorial department of Hyongmyong Chonson publicizes at home and abroad a detailed report on struggle of the RPR organization of Korea University, which is based on a report from our party's Seoul chapter.

With the formation of our party's Central Committee, the RPR organization of Korea University made a vigorous step forward. However, the course on which the organization and its members carried out activities was not smooth. The enemy fabricated a spy incident in April 1971 and an insurgency incident involving Korea University students in November 1973 and arrested, imprisoned and punished many students. The enemy suppressed progressive students in 1975 in connection with a series of campus espionage ring incidents it cooked up.

Despite the fact that the enemy's repression continued and the situation turned difficult, the RPR organization of Korea University and its members did not take a step backward on the course of sturggle. That they were able to continue their march forward, undaunted and high-spirited, was thanks to the presence of Comrade Kim Il-song, the great sun of the nation, and thanks to the brilliant rays of Kim Il-songism illuminated by dear comrade leader Kim Chong-il, the successor to the great leader.

It is an important duty of our RPR to strengthen the party organizationally and ideologically under the banner of Chuche and awaken the masses and rally them into a struggle force. Proceeding from this, the RPR organizations at Korea University made it a principle that it awakens and organizes Korea University students and rallies them into a powerful democratic force.

It is an urgent demand of the development of national history to achieve the democratization of South Korean society and the independent reunification of the country. In response to this demand, members of the RPR organization of Korea University struggled hard, holding high the banner of democracy and reunification. The patriotic struggle they carried out unyieldingly has contributed to expanding and developing the national salvation movement for democracy and against the dictatorship--a movement aimed at opposing campus fascization and militarization and removing the fascist military dictatorship.

The RPR, a Chuche-type revolutionary party, is invincible; for it has organizations and members that continue to struggle and advance despite of repression. No force in the world can deter the advance of the RPR, an invincible column marching under the banner of great Chuche.

DPRK PAPERS MARK SOLIDARITY WITH PALESTINIAN PEOPLE

[Text] Pyongyang 29 November (KCNA)--Papers here today dedicate signed articles to the third anniversary of "day of international solidarity with the Palestine people."

A Nodong Sinmun article titled "We Express Firm Solidarity With Just Cause of Palestine People" says:

On this anniversary the Korean people extend militant greetings to the Palestine people and resistance fighters.

It continues:

The Palestine people and resistance fighters under the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization are waging an arduous struggle against the occupationists for the liberation and independence of their country and territorial integrity with arms in hand.

The Palestine peoples sacred resistance for national salvation is a just struggle to retake the lost territory and achieve liberation and constitutes part of the struggle of the worlds revolutionary people against imperialism and for independence.

Their liberation struggle enjoys unanimous support and solidarity in the United Nations and other international bodies and among the worlds people.

Noting that it is entirely due to the aggressive and belligerent manoeuvres of the U.S. imperialists and Israeli aggressors that the Palestine question has not yet been solved, the article says:

The Zionists, backed by the U.S. imperialists, are intensifying aggressive manoeuvres, brutally suppressing the Palestine peoples struggle and building Jewish "settlements" in the Arab lands they occupied.

The Korean people vehemently denounce the U.S. imperialists and Israeli aggressors for their moves against the Palestine and other Arab peoples and express firm solidarity with their just cause of safeguarding the national independence and dignity, retaking the lost Arab lands and realizing the cause of liberation of Palestine.

The Korean and Palestine peoples have long fought on the common front against imperialism and its lackeys and for the restoration of their lost territories.

The Korean people have always expressed firm support to the Palestine peoples struggle, regarding it as their internationalist duty to support it.

The militant friendship between the Korean and Palestine peoples is growing stronger and developing with each passing day in the course of the struggle against the common enemy.

The Korean people will always stand firmly on the side of the Palestine people till they have won final victory.

If the Middle East issue is to be solved fairly, the aggressive and interventionist manoeuvres of the imperialists and zionists in this region should be brought to an end and the Israeli aggressors be withdrawn from the Arab lands they occupied.

Minju Choson in an article headed "militant solidarity with just cause" says:

The Korean people wish the Palestine people greater success in their struggle against imperialism and zionism and for the retaking of their homeland.

MOSCOW MEETING SUPPORTS DCRK PROPOSAL

[Text] Pyongyang 28 November (KCNA)--Personages of various circles spoke at the world conference of journalists for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea which was held recently in Moscow, according to a report.

Elton Mutasa, president of Media Workers Union of Zimbabwe, said:

The reunification of Korea is an important question for dispelling the misfortunes and sufferings forced upon a nation by outside forces, rooting out the source of war in this region and guaranteeing world peace and security.

Chon Tu-hwan, a stooge of the U.S. imperialists, can neither represent anyone, nor keep Korea split into two nor deceive anyone.

The fascist murder committed by the Chon Tu-hwan clique far surpasses that by all other fascist dictators in history in brutality and ferocity.

From the developments in South Korea we draw the conclusion that neither the problem of freeing the South Korean people from their unhappy lot nor the problem of eradicating the source of war in this region and achieving peaceful reunification of Korea can be solved with the Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique left alone.

I call upon the progressive journalists and men of the press the world over to further intensify the press activities for thoroughly exptsing and denouncing with unanimous voice the Chon Tu-hwan clique, the brutal fascist hangman, warmaniac and national splittist.

President Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people, advanced a proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo, the most practical and just one for the reunification of the country, at the sixth congress of the Workers Party of Korea.

I declare our unconditional support to the proposal for instituting the Confederal Republic reflecting the excellent spirit of independence, peaceful reunification and great national unity which enjoys absolute support and recognition of the world people and the idea of the non-aligned movement.

Long live the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song!

Long live the dear leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Chong-il!

Chittaranjan Alva, secretary of the Indian Federation of Workers Journalists, said:

The cause of the reunification of Korea is not only the supreme national task of the entire Korean people, but it is also the unanimous desire of the worlds peace-loving people.

The great leader of the Korean people President Kim Il-song, reflecting the fundamental interests of the nation and the unanimous desire of the world people, advanced a proposal on establishing the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo at the sixth congress of the Workers Party of Korea.

Today it is this proposal alone that can be the only correct solution to terminate the calamities of division of the Korean nation.

Recently, the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique talked of "mutual visits." This is nothing but a crafty ruse to cover up their treacherous manoeuvres of keeping Korea divided.

Such traitors as Chon Tu-hwan can not be allowed to participate in establishing the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo.

Korea will surely be reunited under the banner of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo.

'RPR' SPOKESMAN SCORES STUDENT SUPPRESSION IN SOUTH

SK040402 (Clandestine) Voice of the Revolutionary Party for Reunification in Korean to South Korea 0300 GMT 29 Nov 81

[Text of RPR spokesman's statement issued on 26 November in Seoul]

[Text] Mobilizing hundreds of heavily armed policemen, the Chon Tu-hwan Ring--a group of atrocious, devilish murderers--on 25 November committed a fascist, tyrannical act of bestially suppressing the just and righteous uprising of the students of Yonsei and Seoul Universities for freedom and democracy and of arresting 15 of them. The bloodythirsty fascist jackals have inhumanely persecuted and tortured these arrested students. They have confined in a solitary cell Miss Yang Kyong-hui, Yonsei University student, who sustained a serious injury when she jumped from the third floor of a student hall, shouting for the overthrow of fascist dictatorship.

The fascist Chon Tu-hwan Ring's matchlessly cruel, barbarous fascist tyranny is part of its heinous suppressive maneuvers to thwart the students' fighting spirit which has spread like a prairie fire. Dreading promotion of the students' revolutionary fighting spirit, the Chon Tu-hwan ring has recently committed tyrannical acts of arresting and imprisoning more than 100 students on charges of joining struggles. It has cruelly punished them at trials being staged daily. It has also forced hundreds of students to leave school.

Every fact clearly shows how eagerly and frantically the fascist Chon Tu-hwan ring is running wild to strangle the democratic forces, including students. The thunderous shouts for a democratic struggle which have recently echoed on campuses throughout the country reflect resolute resistance against the cruel, tyrannical military rule and the eruption of rancor and resentment against traitor Chon Tu-hwan--a dictatorial ringleader.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring has killed scores of thousands of its fellow countrymen under a plan masterminded by the U.S. imperialists and established a fascist military system on the sea of blood shed in the process of this slaughter. In the short period of a year or so since its seizure of power, the crimes it has committed far surpass those of the dictatorial maniac Pak Chong-hui--a target of the people's rancor.

Because of traitor Chon Tu-hwan's treachery and betrayal of the nation, South Korea has been converted into a perpetual colony and tributary state of the U.S. imperial-ists. The policy of introducing foreign funds without limit and encouraging the investment of U.S. capital has resulted in unprecedented minus economic growth. Because of reckless preparations for northward invasion, tension has been extremely heightened on the Korean Peninsula and a wider barrier of division has been laid before the people. Because of the Chon Tu-hwan ring's barbarous terrorist rule, the South Korean people, denied their rights, have been forced to suffer unprecedented subservience. Patriots and democrats have been dragged to prisons and gallows on charges of demanding independence, democracy and reunification. They have shed blood there. Conscientious professors and students have been expelled from the campuses. The press has been degraded to the prostitute of those in power. The campuses have been converted into a military drill ground swarming with armed soldiers and policemen. The people are starving and groaning. This is the suffocating situation in South Korea.

The just and patriotic youths and students could not sit idle before the grim situation in South Korea. They resolutely raised the torch of resistance, breaking the chains of fascist oppression.

The youths and students are urging one another to fight till they shed the last drop of their blood to overthrow the Chon Tu-hwan fascist dictatorship and to achieve campus freedom and democratization of society. They are carrying on the severe bloody battle. This is a manifestation of the students' firm will to overthrow the fascist military dictatorship and to achieve democratization of society.

The anti-fascist democratization struggle of the youths and students is indeed a just and patriotic struggle reflecting the desire and demand of our masses. Nevertheless, the Chon Tu-hwan fascist ring is continuing the bestial repression of the youths and students who have turned out in the sacred struggle for democratization. This is an atrocious challenge to the youths, students and people demanding campus freedom, democracy and reunification of the fatherland and is an unpardonable crime endangering the future of the nation.

The RPR, together with all patriotic people, firmly denounces the Chon Tu-hwan ring's oppression and atrocity being imposed on the youths and students and demands the immediate release of those arrested and sent to prison.

By the bestial repression of youths and students the Chon Tu-hwan ring is attempting to intimidate the students and democratic forces and to hold on to power. However, this is a foolish dream. The fascists' atrocious oppression of the students and people will only expedite the explosion of the time bomb of the revolution which will put an end to their rule. For his high treason, traitor Chon Tu-hwan will face an end much more miserable than that of the former dictator.

The Chon Tu-hwan fascist ring must squarely look at the trend of the times and abandon fascist oppression in accorddance with the unanimous demand of the people. It must unconditionally and immediately release the arrested and detained youths, students and patriots and step down from power at once.

The youths and students who love justice and truth must rise up in the antifascist democratization struggle to avenge the spirit of those young fallen fighters who sacrificed their adolescent lives for democracy and reunification, and to realize the desire of the students and masses. The joint struggle between colleges and between regions must be intensified to overthrow the Chon Tu-hwan fascist dictatorship. The patriotic masses of all strata must thwart the fiendish murderer Chon Tu-hwan' bestial oppression of the youths and students and turn out in the struggle to release the detained youths and students and to abolish the fascist rule.

With the masses of all strata, the RPR will further intensify the antifascist democratization struggle to overthrow the Chon Tu-hwan fascist ring. We will certainly build a new democratic world without foreign forces and fascism.

The minister of information and communications of Mali signed his name on behalf of the Malian Government in the signature document carrying the words "we actively support and welcome the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo and ten-point policy of the Unified State advanced by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the sixth congress of the Workers Party of Korea" at a meeting sponsored by the Mali-Korea Friendship Association.

The chairman of the Nepal-Korea Friendship Association at a meeting attended by more than 1,000 people appealed to the attendants to launch an extensive signature campaign supporting the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo and signed his name in the signature document.

The general secretary of the Somali Supreme Revolutionary Council who had participated in a signature campaign said: we have supported and are supporting only the DPRK and do not recognize South Korea.

The chairman of the control commission of the Peoples National Party of Ghana and the chairman of the foreign relations committee of the parliament of Ghana jointly signed the document.

The signature campaign was participated in by government officials, soldiers, entrepreneurs, pastors, chiefs of tribes, professors, students and people of other section, in Zaire.

The Danish Committee for Supporting Koreas Reunification made public an information on the signature campaign and dispatched it to newspaper offices, magazine offices, radio and TV broadcasting stations, news agencies and political parties and social organizations.

The information pointed to the process of the signature campaign in Denmark and called upon many more people to take an active part in the campaign in the days ahead.

The Gambian paper THE WORKERS in an article headed "Korean Reunification is Worlds Desire" said that the international signature campaign supporting the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo and the ten-point policy of the unified state advanced by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song was waged in scores of countries, participated in by party and state leaders and heads of state and government, ministers, members of parliament, mayors, personages of political parties and public organizations, individual personnel, international organizations, peoples from all walks of life, hundreds of millions all told.

The signature campaign continues.

UN DELEGATES SCORE RIGHTS VIOLATIONS IN SOUTH

SK040434 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0330 GMT 4 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang 4 December (KCNA)--Delegates of many countries exposed the wanton infringement upon human rights in South Korea at the third committee of the UN General Assembly, according to a report.

The Soviet delegate said:

The constant wholesale repression of the people by the South Korean dictatorial "regime" depending on the support of its patron across the ocean must be resolutely condemned.

It is necessary to have a wide range of debate at the United Nations on the continued massive terrorist policy of the Chilean, Salvadorian and South Korean military "regimes" against the people.

The Hungarian delegate said:

On the Asian continent South Korea is a theatre of massive and wanton violation of human rights.

The Kwangju massacre in which the army brutally murdered a great number of people last year came as a shock to the world public.

The overall situation of South Korea has not imporved at all, the so-called "purge" continues.

People are subjected to assaults and particularly those suspected as sympathizers of communism are tortured in prison where physical assaults are perpetrated every day.

Had Korea been reunified, such problem would not have been raised.

The Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea proposed time and again a talk for the country reunification.

A fair reunification must be realised in accordance with the free will of the North and South Korean people after the U.S. troops are withdrawn from South Korea.

The delegate of the German Democratic Republic said:

Such aid as given by imperialist states to the inhumane regimes in Latin America is not confined to that region.

They give such "aid" to the South Korean "regime."

We fully support the stand of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea demanding an immediate restoration of human rights in South Korea.

The Yugoslav delegate said:

South Korea is the place which causes apprehensions because of infringement upon human rights.

Even according to insufficient data obtained by us, tens of thousands of people are imprisoned. Specially the students are under the terrible pressure and threat of the police agents who have wormed their way into campus.

The Czechoslovak delegate said:

The infringement upon human rights by the South Korean "regime" is shocking, as in Chile and El Salvador. The South Korean "regime" violates the human rights of a large number of people with all-out practical foreign support.

CHON'S REMARKS ON SOCIAL PURIFICATION CRITICIZED

[Text] Pyongyang 4 December (KCNA)--A few days ago traitor Chon Tu-hwan set the stage for a "conference of the National Movement for Social Purification" and let out a torrent of rubbish about "realisation of social justice."

He brought together the balderdash that it was the aim of the "movement for social purification" to do away with "social evils" and promote "democracy" and build a "welfare society" and some "changes" were taking place in the South Korean society through this movement.

Commenting on this, Nodong Sinmun 4 December says:

The tirade of traitor Chon Tu-hwan about the "movement for social purification" was run through with phraseology for embellishing the corrupt South Korean society where the military hooligans strut about and for appeasing and deceiving the people.

The "movement for social purification" is a fascist movement for reinforcing the new military fascist system under the specious slogans of "social justice" and "democracy."

What traitor Chon Tu-hwan was done after starting this "movement" was to expand the fascist repressive tools and intensify his suppression of the people, viciously strangle justice and democracy, foster new corruption, plunder the people more harshly and impose greater misery upon the people.

It is the height of folly for traitor Chon Tu-hwan who grew on the heap of dirty compost of "yusin," sucking its dark juice to blare that he would "administer" a "clean government" committed to "removing" "injustice and corruption," "irrationality and social vices," the offsprings of the "yusin system," and become an "upright president."

How can this fascist hangman who has strangled democracy and massacred people, wielding the gun and iron rod, build a "democratic society" and how can this burglar who piled a fabulous fortune overnight by plunder and exploitation "clean up injustice and corruption" and fill up the "material want" of the people.

The eloquence waxed by traitor Chon Tu-hwan about the "movement for social purification," in a nutshell, reveals his intention to build the political foundation of fascism by cracking down upon the people all the harsher under the cloak of "democracy," build the material foundation of the fascist system by intensifying the plunder of the people under the name of a "welfare society" and stay in "power" by establishing a fascist ruling order under the cloak of "social justice."

Claiming that the "movement for social purification" is not a "temporary movement" but a "long-term movement," traitor Chon Tu-hwan cried that this "movement" must be waged also for the Asian games and the Olympiad expected in Seoul. In this he disclosed his sinister intention to abuse international games to gratify his desire for long-term office. This suggests that the fascist repression by the puppet clique will be further intensified in the future under the name of the "movement for social purification."

Unless the fascist rule is liquidated in South Korea, a genuine social justice, true social justice for the popular masses, cannot be realised.

'NODONG SINMUN' ON SOUTH KOREAN PEOPLE'S STRUGGLE

SK041035 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1018 GMT 4 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang 4 December (KCNA)--Nodong Sinmun on 3 December carried an article headlined "struggle of South Korean people for existence will grow fiercer."

Noting that today the South Korean people are at the bottom of destitution where they find it hard to keep themselves alive, not to speak of freedom and rights, under the anti-popular misrule of traitor Chon Tu-hwan, the paper says:

The struggle of South Korean workers for solving such urgent vital problems as wage hike, payment of wages in arrears, employment and improvement of working conditions and position is going on vigorously every day in a terror-ridden atmosphere in which fascist repression shadows the people each step.

In September, 150 workers of the Sinchang Industrial Company in Pusan waged a sit-down at the company pressing the puppet authorities to pay them the wages kept in arrears for several months and find out the employer who had fled.

Earlier, more than 300 female workers hired at a pleasure ground in Kwangju County, Kyonggi Province, waged a sit-down in demand of the payment of back wages and improvement of boarding conditions, enraged at exploitation by the comprador capitalist.

More than 500 drivers of a truck company in Seoul staged a demonstration and a sit-down, refusing to drive the trucks for 4 days in protest against brigandish acts of the employer.

The South Korean workers are also waging a staunch struggle against the illegal dismissal and violation of human rights.

In August upwards of 800 stevedores in Pusan strongly protested against the unwarrantable scheme of the puppet clique to discharge them under the pretext of a dock project and demanded a step for their continued employment.

The fierce struggle for existence is going on among peasants and fishermen.

Recently, more than 300 peasants in Kwangju County, Kyonggi Province, rose in a protest struggle in demand of compensation for damages, enraged at the misdeed of a vicious factory owner who had spoilt their years farming by letting waste water flow into fields. Meanwhile, inhabitants of Kwangju, South Cholla Province, waged a protest struggle, bringing in a lawsuit demanding compensation to the tune of 15,000 million won from the puppet authorities who had pulled down their houses and robbed them of 152,000 pyong of land for the construction of a military road.

Fishermen of 12 fishing villages in Ulju and Ulsan, South Kyongsang Province, recently wrested a promise from a local company through their vigorous struggle from mid-August in protest against the flow of petroleum into the fishing ground and tangle farm from a cargo vessel belonging to the company, which had made a mess of them.

More than 2,200 fishermen of 42 fisheries companies in Pusan launched on 21 September a powerful solidarity struggle in demand of the raise of their wages and allowances.

Dwelling on the struggle of South Korean people for existence, the paper stresses.

The South Korean people are demanding freedom and the right to existence, as long as this basic problem remains unsolved, the struggle of the people will continue and grow in scope to erupt like a volcano to destroy the fascist dictatorship.

ARREST OF S. KOREAN STUDENTS--Pyongyang 2 December (KCNA)--The Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique on 30 November arrested three students of Seoul University and one woman student of Yonsei University who had participated in anti-"government" demonstrations, according to a foreign press report from Seoul. They committed this outrage against those students on charges that they had taken the van in anti-'"government" demonstrations at the universities on 25 November, scattering handbills. Recalling that anti-"government" demonstrations have been held in an unbroken chain at major South Korean universities this year, the report says that the students arrested by the fascist clique on charges of involvement in them total 86. S. KOREAN CONSULATE CRITICIZED--Pyongyang 7 December (KCNA)--The 21 November issue of the NEW KOREA TIMES, a newspaper of Koreans in Canada, carried an editorial headlined "Consulate-General Should Stop Operation Against Koreans Overseas and Intelligence Activity." The editorial criticized the puppet consulate-general of South Korea in Toronto, Canada, for neglecting its original mission of consular business and engaging in intelligence activity and operation against Koreans abroad, acting as a branch of the "Central Intelligence Agency" or the "Army Security Command" and for issuing even "warnings" sometimes to threaten overseas compatriots. Noting that as overseas compatriots of north origin began to visit the north to meet their kinsfolk whom they had missed for over 30 years, the "consulate-general" is employing all sorts of machinations to prevent their visit to the north, the editorial went on: It is natural for everyone to long for his parents and brothers and sisters and desire to meet them. This is in the very nature of man transcending the law. Upset by the movement of overseas compatriots for finding out their dispersed families and their visit to the north, the Chon Tu-hwan "regime" is leaving no stone unturned to prevent them and threatening overseas Koreans by rigging up even "spy cases" whose fabrication is clear to everyone. But it is obvious that no matter what vivacious schemes the Chon Tu-hwan "regim " and its diplomatic offices in foreign countries may resort to, the desire of the compatriots of north origin to find out their kinsfolk will and cannot be put down. 'HANGUK ILBO' REPORTS CABINET RESHUFFLE RUMOR

SK010528 Seoul HANGUK ILBO in Korean 1 Dec 81 p 2

[From the column: "Political Scene"]

[Text] As the deadline for National Assembly deliberation of next year's government budget draws near, a rumor of a cabinet reshuffle has started to spread in government offices as it does every year. The rumor seems to be based on the following facts: The present cabinet was formed more than a year ago and, almost without exception, the government has reshuffled the cabinet in early December, always after the National Assembly completes deliberation of the new year budget, and there is presently a need to improve the atmosphere via a cabinet reshuffle.

In the stock market as well as in government offices, some personages are being mentioned as new ministers, and a lively rumor about the scale of the reshuffle is spreading. As for the timing of the reshuffle, they say it may take place this weekend when the National Assembly finishes deliberation of the new budget, or possibly in mid-December.

Meanwhile, regarding the cabinet reshuffle rumor, the Democratic Justice Party, stressing "politics of responsibility," seems to want some party figures to be appointed cabinet members. However, a high-ranking official of the party just says: "Only one person knows all."

DJP DECISION TO PROVIDE FUNDS TO DISTRICT ORGANIZATIONS DISCUSSED

[Article by Staff Reporter Ch'oe Kyu-ch'ol: "The Rich and Poor--Political Funds." For related article see JPRS 79097, 29 September 1981, No 160 of this series, pp 1-3]

[Text] The Democratic Justice Party (DJP) decision to provide each local district party organization, beginning in June, with 2 million won to cover operating expenses has attracted attention among those in political circles, who are concerned with the workings of Korean political parties.

Depending on one's point of view, the DJP's decision is a move which "displays the power of the party." But, on the other hand, compared to the situation of the Democratic Korea Party (DKP), which is having to eliminate some of its local party organizations and of the Korean National Citizens' Party (KNCP) which has operating difficulties, it can be viewed as a "North-South" situation with regard to party finances.

In addition, if one understands a political party to be a self-generated group with similar political views, then it is desirable to heighten the sense of adherence to the party by having financially self-sustaining district organizations, whether the funds come from central apparatus or from local party sources. From this standpoint, the DJP decision is clearly a useful one.

In the final analysis, Korean political parties as a general rule are still in the "fostering stage" of development because they have limited financial resources.

At the outset, when the DJP decision to provide funds to district organizations was taken, it was considered that, depending on the size of the organization, it would get a minimum of 1.8 million won to a maximum of 2.3 million won. But in order to avoid any untoward side-effects that this system might produce, it was finally decided to give each district the sum of 2 million won.

Party officials explained that the 2 million won per month would be divided among four major categories, each category getting 500,000 won. These categories are: the district party secretariat leaders (the organizations section chief, the youth section chief, the women's section chief, and the general section chief on the average of four persons); rent and related operating costs; postage, electricity and other utility expenditures; the party's funeral and condolence expenses.

For those district chairmen who are at the same time members of the National Assembly and have an annual allowance of 1.5 million won, the support they will receive from the central party organization is like "rain in the midst of a drought." Some, on the other hand, are saying that "2 million won is still insufficient." One party official has stated that "if there are those who claim that this sum is not enough, we will have to ask them whether they think party management is simply a matter of money. Two million won, after all, is not an insignificant amount for the operations of a district organizations."

The DJP decision to provide district organizations with operating funds marks, first of all, the first time that the financial relationship between the central party and the district organs have been formalized.

First Implementation, Then Audit

Until recently, political funds were transmitted to district party organizations from the center by the so-called "duck foot" system. The money was given sub rosa and instead of going to the party organization itself, it went to the district party chairman personally as "encouragement money" or in the form of a "reward."

According to the DJP decision to distribute funds to the district organizations, the process is supposed to have the approval of the local party chairman. In fact, however, this approval is rendered by the party secretary general. After the money is distributed, he endeavors to have the finances audited, and the disposition of the funds is made publicly known.

In the final analysis, the method of distributing these funds is also said to afford a subtle way of formalizing party organization and strengthening the control of the central party apparatus. Until recently, the local party chairman depended on his own private resources. Now, since the central party apparatus can inject funds directly into the heretofore unsteady economy of the district party organization, there is a strong likelihood that the personal influence of the district chairman will be reduced. Based on this fact, the distribution of funds is not so much a matter as reducing the burdens of the district organization as strengthening control over them.

Party officials see another purpose behind providing funds to the district chapters: avoiding political corruptions. Until now, district party funds consisted of the chairman's personal resources and money collected by the district organization support association. Under this system, more often than not, a "donation" to the coffers of the district organization was at the same time a request for a political favor and involved an accompanying benefit for the donor. As a result, the recent decision will undoubtedly have the beneficial effect of abolishing the situation whereby political connections are made only on the basis of money.

The DJP will have fixed monthly expenses of about 700 million won--184 million for local party expenses, a significant amount for city branch offices, and, presumably, about 500 million for the central party apparatus. Out of its necessity to maintain openness in party financing, the DJP thus became a party with a bloated expenditure of 8.4 billion won in a year. An urgent problem that the DJP must face now is to set up some institutionalized means [of raising money] in addition to the party coffer which hitherto met the expenses, such as support organizations and contributions.

For the Opposition It Would Be a Dream

Compared with this situation, the case of the DKP and the KNCP is entirely different.

Officials of the KDP and the KNCP say that the unprecedented support the DJP is giving to its district organizations is "like a dream. We have no choice but to rely entirely on our own local resources." In fact, the DKP, since the March 25 general election has closed more than half of its 34 offices in those districts from which it did not elect a National Assembly member. This means that in those districts the party has, in effect, suspended organized activity because it cannot take on the burden of providing financial support.

One party leader said, "To run the central party apparatus properly over the next year would require more than 500 million won." The last outlay we received from the national budget was 190 million won, an amount that will barely cover the expenses of the main personnel in the secretariat.

Given a situation in which party membership dues do not cover even the expenses of the central party organization, and where the party cannot receive support from its support associations or other sources, then there is little hope that the party can begin to finance its district organizations.

The DKP on the 16th of this month, for the first time since the general election gave each district organization 200,000 won. One party official said despondently that this was not the beginning but the end of such support.

Even District Organizations Which Have Completely Shut Down

The situation of the KNCP is the same. Nationwide, out of 78 district offices, 38 have been closed. In some cases, the sign boards have been moved to private houses, and there have been many areas where the organizations have shut down completely.

A high party official said, "In the case of the KNCP, we need a minimum of 1 million won per month for each district organization, but because there is no support from the central party, the districts which have no resources of their own cannot operate." One official said that on the 19th of the month, those districts which were still in operation were discreetly given "pocket money" of 300,000 won each, but no one knows when similar distributions can be made.

PROPOSED TAX REFORMS ANALYZED

Seoul HANGUK ILBO in Korean 19 Sep 81 p 2

[Article by Reporter Ch'oe Sang-tae: "A Sweeping Reform in Tax System in 5 Years."]

[Text] The government's present tax reforms are the initial indication that it intends to adhere to the principle of equal taxation while meeting its own fiscal needs during the course of the fifth 5-Year Plan for Economic and Social Development, which begins next year.

During the 1970's, since our tax system emphasized economic development and the mobilization of limited domestic capital, equality in taxation became clouded over and there were many difficulties in meeting fiscal requirements. In particular, through continued tax reductions in support of growth in strategic industires such as heavy chemicals, tax reductions became chronic and expected as inviolable rights, thereby weakening the industrial structure. Furthermore, [the tax system] was absurd because it gave the fales impression of a high tax rate, while, in reality, its collection was not practicable.

Additionally, because tax relief is normally applied in the area of direct taxes, the weight of indirect taxes, particularly the value added tax, has risen correspondingly to make up for the resultant inadequate tax revenues. In 1980, for instance, the relative weights of direct and indirect taxes were 36.7 percent to 63.3 percent; therefrom showing a good contrast to Japan's 67.3 to 32.7 percent or the U.S.'s 90.5 to 9.5 percent. It is more undesirable for the indirect tax burden to increase because of its direct effect on prices.

Owing to the yearly increase in the amount of the basic deduction in such as the personal deduction, the number of income tax payers is gradually decreasing; and the size of the increase in exemptions is still insufficient to make up for the reduction in real income which was caused by price increases. Of all of the 7,258,000 wage earners in 1980, only 2,322,000, or 32.1 percent, paid any income tax, while the remaining 67.9 percent paid none.

In the case of Japan, only 17.2 percent of workers go untaxed on account of their low income. In our country, those workers earning monthly salaries between 300,000 and 700,000 won, who constitute 6.8 percent of the total work force, have to pay 38.7 percent of the total personal income taxes due.

From this basis, the Ministry of Finance has proposed a reform bill after setting up four basic goals of levying fair taxes, establishing reasonable tax rates, lending functional support to taxing policy, and doing away with irrational tax collection procedures and regulations.

In the area of fair taxation, the Ministry has completely reexamined the tax relief system which was once one of the larger enterprises' special proveleges; eliminated direct reductions and exemptions; and reduced and adjusted the types of large businesses eligible for reductions and exemptions. Also, by the introduction of the minimum taxation system, those cases in which enterprises had made profits but did not pay taxes were eliminated. Even government corporations were made to pay the minimum tax of 5 percent, despite their special status as juvidical persons. Taking last year as the norm, the amount of relief enterprises received from direct taxes amounted to 335.8 billion won in direct relief and 77.9 billion won in actual taxes, or 25 percent of the direct taxes due.

The Ministry of Finance is trying to do away with such direct tax relief or change it to the form of indirect aids such as special refunds or investors' reserve funds. From the business point of view, since the present pace of business recovery is slow, there are charges that the elimination of relief priveleges like these all at once is a great blow; but, because of special refunds and reserve systems, the actual tax burden increase is delayed 3 to 5 years.

So, from outward appearances, it seems they wield a large knife with the amendment of the tax relief regulatory law, but it does provide a leeway to catch up the pace of business recovery, and the tax receipt increase which follows the reduction in deductions and exemptions is expected to bring in an additional 20 billion won only after 1983.

In adjusting income taxes, which is a matter of the greatest general concern, the Ministry of Finance has done away with the method used up to now of increasing the personal exemption and concentrated on reducing the real tax burden. From the standpoint of inducing popular taxation, the Ministry maintained there be no adjustments in personal exemptions until almost 50 percent of workers pay taxes, and this will be substituted by income exemptions according to a fixed-rate system.

However, after 1980, whereas the amount of exemption has not risen, prices have risen sharply during the same period; as a result, the comparison of actual levels shows that the size of exemptions does not even equal that of 1979.

This is insufficient to relieve the disadvantage to wage earners. In wage exemptions, [the Ministry] is suggesting that, aside from the 820,000-won basic exemption, there will be a 20 percent fixed rate deduction for workers earning less than 300,000 won per month, and a 10 percent fixed rate deduction for workers earning over 300,000 won per month; but, since the exemption limit is fixed at 1.5 million won, only workers earning less than 300,000 won per month get a slight benefit.

The adoption of the fixed-rate system increased exemptions for workers earning 300,000 won per month to 38.2 percent, and for those earning 200,000 won per month to 47.3 percent; but, when one earns more than 302,000 won, the exemption rate falls from 25 to 6.3 percent because the 1.5 million won exemption limit applies. If one belongs to the middle class, the median income is presently in excess of 500,000 won per month, and these people spend a greater part of their income for living expenses than do the lower income people, and it is unfortunate that this cannot be reflected in the current revision of the tax laws.

Likewise is the adjustment of income taxes. The current tax rates have 17 levels from 6 to 62 percent; but, because this time the highest rate is decreased to 58 percent and the highest wage class also was lowered to 55 million won per annum from 60 million, those with salaries less than 300,000 won get a comparatively greater benefit. By adjusting income tax deduction rates, reducing tax rates, and giving exemption to wage earners earning less than 300,000 won per month, the taxes paid by wage earners earning less than 200,000 won will be reduced by 43 percent of present levels, 36.5 percent for wage earners earning 300,000 won per month; but, for those earning 500,000 won, this stops at 28.5 percent and, at 700,000 won, at 25.1 percent.

With this adjustment in wage earners' taxes, based on 1980 levels, total income tax receipts will be reduced by a total of 109.5 billion won. This also reduces the burden on wage earners, but 48 percent is to the benefit of wage earners earning less than 300,000 won per month. In this regard, there have been complaints that concern is lacking for the wage earners in the 500,000 to 700,000 won bracket, the real middle class.

One can cite government's guaranteed tax revenues as the reason, but public opinion has it that we take one more look at the idea that all of the social welfare responsibility must be assumed exclusively by the government while it worries about financial demands at this time in history when the economic system is coming uncreasingly under private leadership.

In this revision of the tax laws, no effort has been spared to prevent tax evasions by setting appropriate rates. In particular, to eliminate the evasion of inheritance taxes, which are entirely dependent on the statements of the persons taxes, the maximum tax rate was lowered, and a new system of inheritance exemptions for houses and agricultural lands was adopted.

But, although it has an appearance of giving 40 to 50 million won exemptions for house and farmland inheritance, it actually comes down to 100 to 200 thousand won after the personal deduction owing to the exemption limit. One, therefore, wonders if the government isn't worried only about its image.

In the current tax law revision, the government emphasizes tax equality, but no less than the direct taxes paid by businesses and wage earners, the indirect taxes, which all the people unwittingly bear the brunt of, should be the object of concern.

In the case of special excise taxes, although special tax rates are applied to a number of items under guidelines to restrain extravagance through a tax system based on value-added taxes, there are numerous examples of inequality between lists of subject items.

In the case of TVs and refrigerators, for example, both are considered luxury goods; whereas an automobile, which still is a luxury item, is taxed only at a 10 percent rate; one piece or one suite of luxury furniture costing 200,000 won is assessed at 20 percent.

There is no tax system which is satisfactory to all, but the taxpayers hope for the tax administration which causes the least damage to everyone.

NEW STUDENT ORGANIZATION AT SNU EXAMINED

Seoul TONGA ILBO in Korean 17 Nov 81 p 3

[Article by Reporter Kim Ch'ung-sik: "Reporter's Eyes: SNU's Electoral College System"]

[Summary] In order to upgrade the student sympathy with the Student Defense Corps, the Seoul National University has established a new election system for the Corps' student president. In the past, the Corps president was elected by 15 student leaders of colleges. The student president will now be elected by a total of 131 student leaders including student representatives at the department levels.

This step by the SNU authorities draws our attention because it follows an analysis that a series of on-campus disturbances which occurred toward the end of October were fomented by frictions between the student corps and study groups called "student circles."

Why did the corps bring about frictions with study groups and yet fail to attract attention from majority students? The fact is that quite a few students do not believe that the corps is a representative body of students outside the university and gathers opinions of students and put them into practice on the campus.

In other words, the corps has been unable to discard an impression that it has been a government-controlled organization with an extremely flimsy legitimacy. The school authorities are also aware of this point.

Such a weak point of the corps has demoralized students in the corps executive part, made them lose self-confidence, and left them estranged from majority students, arousing rebuttals from some minority students.

Such incredulity of the corps in colleges did not begin lately. There was already a dispute over its legitimacy when the corps was inaugurated six years ago. Nevertheless, the corps were planted in the then existing student organizations; and in a number of colleges and universities, they have taken root to some extent. In some universities, the election of their student staff has been quite well contested, not departing far from the original objective of the corps.

Yet, there appeared a lot of problems with the corps, such as the students' general indifference toward their staff elections and opposition raised to some campus events sponsored by the corps. It may have been unavoidable, therefore, that during the series of campus turmoils in the spring of last year, the Student Defense Corps had been the very target.

Then former Education Minister Kim Ok-kil changed the corps organization and the designation of the corps leaders from "division commanders" to "student presidents"; and changed the corps function into that of a student body for self-governing activities. In addition, she performed a "major-operation" on its structure by removing professors and general school officials from the student corps.

Before that, all student staff of the corps had been appointed. The minister also changed that system into one for direct election of student presidents, in part. The reform work had been carried out as far as the then realities allowed.

What has resulted from that? In their "frank" opinion, school authorities say that nothing has been changed of the students' response to the corps. Students continued to bring out only "grounds" and legitimacy of the corps for debate; but they failed to come closer intimacy toward the corps.

School authorities hold the view that the more the student defense corps is estranged, the greater the chances for the campus issues to be controlled by outside forces and not by the students themselves. In conclusion, it is true that the student corps has failed to play a pivotal role of college, but they say that it is urgently necessary for the corps to play its part.

Today, the Student Defense Corps seem to have fallen into a dilemma with the students' demand for autonomy and the school authorities' doubt about the students' self-governing ability.

The SNU's electoral body for student president draws our attention since it is the first attempt made to narrow the existing gap between the two.

FOREIGN MINISTRY INTENSIFIES LANGUAGE TRAINING

SK230856 Seoul CHOSON ILBO in Korean 22 Nov 81 p 2

[From the column: "News Behind the News"]

[Text] Under a special directive of Foreign Minister No Sin-yong, some 50 core officials of the Foreign Ministry above the division chief-level are going to begin compulsory study of Chinese and Russian for an hour from 0730 every morning. The ministry has also intensified various other training and education programs. All this is being conducted in accordance with the foreign service law and its enforcement ordinance which came into effect as of 5 November. This law has systematized "the life-time education" for all ministry officials from newly-employed to senior ambassador-level officials.

The ministry is going to send high-ranking diplomats above the level of chief and deputy chief of foreign missions to domestic education and research institutes for training for 1 or 2 years, under the provision of the foreign service law which prohibits overseas service for more than 8 years. The Foreign Ministry has already recalled eight mission chiefs, including ambassador to Qatar So Kyong-sok, ambassador to Lebanon So Chin-chol, consul general in Sapporo U Chong and consul general in K[illegible] Kim Ki-chun, to headquarters. It is also to recall 10 more officials abo[illegible] deputy bureau chief grade, including some mission chiefs, in early December.

It is compulsory for Foreign Ministry officials to have a good command of more than two foreign languages, with English and French as the basic language and one from Spanish, German, Chinese, Russian, Japanese, Portuguese and Italian languages. The courses in Chinese and Russian, which began in July this year to prepare the diplomatic service for the communist and nonaligned blocs, have now advanced to mid-level training. The ministry plans to send those who show good progress to well-known colleges in the United States, England and other countries for study for 2 or 3 years, in order to foster them as specialists on the communist bloc.

PAC DECIDES ON CRITERIA FOR PRESS GUIDANCE

[Text] When the Press Arbitration Commission [PAC], in a meeting held on the afternoon of 30 November, decided on five criteria by which it can make recommendations to persons concerned regarding wrongdoings on the part of the press, it provided a detailed basis for implementing Item 8, Article 50 of the Basic Press Law, which states, "if necessary, the PAC can recommend that persons concerned, such as publishers or broadcast station managers rectify incorrect press behavior."

The five criteria are:

--when the press has made public items that are prohibited by law from being made public;

--when the press has, obviously and conspicuously, violated the dignity and rights of others specified in Item 2, Article 20 of the Constitution;

--when the press has, obviously and conspicuously, violated public morals and social ethics;

--when the press has, obviously and conspicuously, slighted the human dignity and pride and basic democratic order specified in Article 3 of the Basic Press Law;

--and when the press has, obviously and conspicuously, encouraged and praised violence and other actions disturbing public order.

The meeting also decided that when a recommendation is made, it requires approval by a majority of PAC members in a plenary meeting.

Meanwhile, as to concern over whether this action of making recommendations, in certain cases, might function as a factor restricting the press' editorial rights, a PAC official said, "Recommendations by the PAC are not binding. They are just 'recommendations' in the true sense of the word. Accordingly, they have nothing to do with either trespassing on press freedom or diminishing the press."

CONCERN OVER PRESS FREEDOM VIOLATION REPORTED

[Editorial: "The Role of the Press Arbitration Committee--An Arbitrary Recommendation for Rectification Exceeds the Role of Arbitration"]

[Excerpts] Can the Press Arbitration Committee [PAC], established to arbitrate between a press organ and the victim of its wrongdoings, arbitrarily recommend that the press organ concerned correct its erroneous news coverage and critical activities when no victim has applied for arbitration? Wouldn't such a move by PAC portend the danger of being employed as a tool to violate freedom of the press? These are questions which have been raised since the PAC approved five criteria on 30 November concerning press violation of the rights of persons concerned due to its erroneous behavior.

According to Item 1, Article 50 of the Basic Press Law, which was adopted amidst much criticism from various social segments, the aim of the PAC is to conduct arbitration when it receives an application for correction of an erroneous press report and to review cases of press infringement of the rights of persons concerned. It seems that the PAC has decided on these five criteria on the legal basis of, implementation of the second role specified in Item 1, Article 50 of the Basic Press Law. The PAC sees no problem in adopting these criteria on the ground that they comply with Article 20 of the Constitution on freedom of the press and Article 3 of the Basic Press Law delineating the public responsibility of the press and that the PAC's recommendation is not binding but is a mere exhortation in the true sense of the word.

However, we believe that the PAC's arbitrary recommendation for correction obviously constitutes an act of arrogance exceeding the sphere of arbitration between parties involved in a dispute; it assumes the nature of preliminary censorship, violates the grand principle of press freedom and contradicts the spirit of Item 3, Article 3 of the Basic Press Law which says that censorship is permitted only in certain instances outlined in the Constitution. It is easy to understand that, in light of the semijudicial nature of the PAC--unlike many private and autonomous arbitration agencies in foreign countries--the PAC's role will be different. This becomes more evident when we look at the current status of the press in our country.

Many people say the Basic Press Law places more emphasis on the public responsibility of the press than on its freedom. Like all freedoms, freedom of the press should not be indifferent to its social responsibility while demanding freedom. It should respect human dignity and values; it should not infringe citizens' rights and honor. However, freedom of the press has been regarded as one which transcends all other freedoms because it is prerequisite to the survival of democracy. Generally accepted in a democratic society is the idea that there is a distinct, specific boundary even when laws limit the press.

Allowing the PAC to arbitrarily recommend that the press correct its erroneous infringement of the rights of persons concerned not only violates the grand principle of freedom of the press, but also portends a danger of abusing it. We reiterate that the PAC can only engage in arbitration between the press and the victim of its erroneous behavior.

ECONOMIC 'MISERY INDEX' DISCUSSED

[The "Jargon" column]

[Text] The more one is strapped for money, the colder one feels. The so-called discomfort index is not only related to the weather but also with the situation of the purse. The expression "economic discomfort index" has recently come to our attention. Some economic scholars call it the "misery index," which we can translate into "depression index." The method for computing it is very simple. The rate of the commodity price rise added to the rate of unemployment equals the economic discomfort index. When the sum of the price increase and unemployment rate--what is called "the misery index"--rises to over 20 percent, it seems to be evaluated as "a miserable state." When the index is at 10 to 20 percent, it is "a middling state," and when below 10 percent, it is "a good state."

Among the seven countries that took part in the July summit talks between advanced nations, the nation whose misery index was the highest--at over 27 percent--was Italy. England was nearly as high, at 22 percent. Even though they are called advanced countries, it seems they cannot easily free themselves from this miserable state.

It is taken for granted that the state of the economy has something to do with political and social stability. This is why the causes of instability in Italy and England are sought in such economic misery. This is not a time for us to talk idly about the situation of others. Our own economic situation now is also tight enough. The current price rise has already reached a level of 14 percent. This is expected to go up further, to 17 percent by the end of this year. In addition, the current unemployment rate is estimated at nearly 5 percent.

According to the misery index, our economy is also on the verge of a miserable state. This explains why popular concern is now focused on the national assembly's interpellation of the government. However, replies given by government ministers are not satisfactory; they leave something to be desired. Even some parliamentarians were critical of the shilly-shallying attitude of economic ministers.

"You cannot find a trace of self-confidence in what economic ministers say in their replies to our questions; they all seem worried only about what others will think about their revelations," some say. Citizens hear this with heavy hearts.

It is, of course, difficult to know about the self-confidence of the economic ministers on the basis of a few words from a national assemblyman. If our knowledge were based on an assemblyman's simple remarks, it would be like the blind men and the elephant.

However, the desire to seek a lamp in the darkness is but natural to human nature. Such perfunctory economic, political and social policies cannot serve as a lamp to light the dark. It would be useless for them to try to shirk their responsibility through eyewash. What the people really want to see is not eyewash but a definite blueprint for tomorrow.

FKTU ACTIVITIES--The Federation of Korean Trade Unions (FKTU) pointed out in a statement released on 11 November that "The decision by the nation's major business organizations to set a limit on increases in wages for workers at a 10-percent level next year is far below a 13-percent increase rate of consumers' price and barely stands at a half of 20 percent price increase rate projected by the end of this year." The nation's top labor union charged that "It is a cruel act that they have even intended not to reflect an increased portion of commodity prices in wage hikes." The FKTU said, "It is quite unfair that wage increase guidelines have been uniformally set," arguing that with the wage guidelines set in advance the desire of workers to produce more would be discouraged. The union further demanded that the wage problem be left by all means possible to voluntary agreement between labor and management. [Seoul CHOSON ILBO in Korean 12 Nov 81 p 11]

WAGES IN ARREARS--Wages in arrears which have accumulated at various workshops across the country as of 16 November amount to some ₩7.5 billion. The amount represents an increase of 34.3 percent over the ₩5.51 billion (involving 159 workshops and 29,794 employees) registered during the January-October period last year. This information was disclosed by Labor Affairs Minister Kwon Chung-tong, who presided over a meeting of responsible labor officials held on 16 November. Minister Kwon instructed his subordinate officials to help clear away overdue wages by 10 December and to initiate stringent legal actions, including physical detention, against those evil-minded entrepreneurs who have habitually delayed the payment of wages for workers, with their findings to be reported to the ministry by 15 December. The nation's top labor official directed the participants to encourage industrial firms to complete their Labor-Management Council meetings by 20 December. Emphasis in the council meetings, the minister asserted, should be placed on the formulation of workable measures aimed at eliminating factors contributing to labor disputes in advance. Minister Kwon reiterated that "No guidelines will be set for the implementation of the government's wage policy for FY 1982." [Seoul HANGUK KYONGJE SINMUN in Korean 17 Nov 81 p 2]

LABOR DISPUTES--Collective petitions lodged for settlement of labor disputes as of the end of September this year numbered a total of 1,758 cases, according to a statistical data released by the Labor Affairs Ministry on 16 November. Of them, 18 cases or only 1 percent of the total were settled through official intervention, while the remaining 1,740 cases were settled through accord between labor and management before official mediation. The collective petitions are supposed to be settled through official mediation in accordance with the Special Law on Defense and Security, which has been put into force since 1972. The figures sharply contrast with 122 cases (6.7 percent) settled through official mediation and 1,699 cases (93.3 percent) settled through agreement between labor and management before official intervention registered during the same period last year. The region that suffered most from labor disputes was Seoul with 405 cases, followed by Pusan with 364 cases, South Kyongsang Province with 157 cases and Inch'on with 30 cases. FIRST YEAR OF PUBLIC BROADCASTING REVIEWED

[Roundtable talk with participants Yi Sang-hoe, professor at Yonsei University; Choe Chang-sop, professor at Sogang University; Han Pun-sun, poet; Yi Kyong-un, housewife; and In Un-sop, director of the KBS Program Compilation Bureau--date and place not given]

[Excerpts] It is nearly a year since the introduction of public management of broadcasting, an epochal event, and the start of color transmissions. To what degree have the principles of the public management of broadcasting, which are to ensure interesting, dignified and profitable programs, been embodied and to what degree have the evils of commercial broadcasting been reduced? It will be beneficial to the management of public broadcasting for the Korean Broadcasting System [KBS] to have an exchange of views with several people concerning such issues, since audiences rarely have an opportunity to make sound criticism.

Choe Chang-sop: One of the purposes of the public management of broadcasting is to eliminate the dysfunctions of commercial broadcasting. However, we are still going through the stage of trial and error in introducing good programs into this system.

Yi Kyong-sun: The introduction of color television and of the KBS' advertisement programs are the greatest reforms during the past year. However, the audience is not fully aware of the meaning of the public management of broadcasting. They think this system means only the introduction of color television and of advertisement programs. Anyway, the elimination of evil factors from the commercial broadcasts is good. On the other hand, however, the diversity of programs has been reduced.

In Un-sop: I do not agree diversity has been reduced. KBS has made every effort to diversify the programs for the last year. First we broadened the range of programs so that the audience could choose its favorite program. We have not carried the same programs on different channels at the same time, in an attempt to diversify the programs.

Second, we have specialized the programs. In the past, we stressed programs which could be enjoyed by anyone, regarding the audience merely as an undifferentiated mass. However, we are developing special programs for various classes of the audience. Lastly, I think public management has greatly contributed to technical development and personnel management.

Yi Sang-hoe: The public broadcasting system should be capable in its programming of realizing the will of the public by reflecting the hopes of the audience. The audience in our country is still fond of comedies, home drama and sports. However, carrying programs only in accord with audience demand is a vestige of commercial broadcasting. The public broadcasting system should offer what is needed rather than what is demanded. I think that only if we are not excessively conscious of audience ratings can more trial and error be avoided.

Yi Sang-hoe: As for the quality of the programs, it is wrong simply to regard interesting programs as being just of low quality. Those who work at their offices or work sites need more light programs, instead of cultural programs, to get rid of stress. However, we should try to improve the quality of entertainment programs step by step. For instance, in anticommunist dramas, developing the stories simply in the standard pattern will reduce the entertainment provided to the audience. Educational programs are also desirable. However, dramas for cultivating aesthetic education and promotion of a sense of justice should be introduced. In the past, our education was conducted in ways which merely conveyed knowledge. I think educational television programs should not follow this practice.

Yi Kyong-un: I think the relaying of the second launching of the U.S. space shuttle Columbia was sort of unseemly. It was not necessary to carry the program. It had nothing to do with us nor was it the first launching. So I think it was not necessary for the two broadcasting stations to relay the event at the same time.

In Un-sop: Stations should not interfere in each other's program planning. The relay of the Columbia's launching should be viewed from the standpoint of making people more conscious of science, rather than as competition by the stations. The Broadcasting Advisory Council is playing an important role. KBS is ready to accept the frank views and opinions of people from all walks of life generated over the past year since it was launched.

Choe Chang-sop: Over the past year, KBS has a record of many successes and failures. I think it should now assume the attitude of serving the audience through acts instead of merely giving lip-service.

'CHRISTIAN RADIO' FACES FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES

SK221000 Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 20 Nov 81 p 8

[Column by reporter Chon Song-hwan: "Broadcasting World"]

[Text] The Christian Broadcasting System [CBS], whose president is Kim Kwan-sok, will mark its 27th anniversary on 15 December. However, it is confronted with serious management difficulties due to its lack of funds.

This year, CBS has been operating at a deficit--more than 50 million won per month--and is expected to suffer a loss of 600 million won by the end of the year.

Since the broadcasting merger at the end of last year, CBS has raised operational funds through two channels: 1) the collection of money by churches which have participated in broadcasting programs; and 2) regular membership fees from religious believers and churches that have joined a missionary supporters' society.

The collection money CBS had received as of the end of October from a total of 8 million Christian believers or from churches totaled a little more than 1 billion won. This roughly accounts for half of the 2 billion won in current expenditures earmarked for this year. As a desperate measure, CBS has shortened its broadcasting hours from 21 hours to 19 hours daily since May. Furthermore, it has stopped paying bonuses to its employees at its four regional network stations in Pusan, Taegu, Kwangju and Iri.

To find a solution to its financial difficulties, in October CBS organized the Pan-Christian Broadcasting Committee in which 17 Christian orders are participating. Of the six religious orders making up the Korean National Council of Churches [KNCC], CBS has allocated directorships to four of them. However, it has also given directorships to orders that are not members of the KNCC--two Jesus Presbyterian church orders, the Holiness Church and Lutheran Church.

Virtually from the time it started broadcasting advertisements in 1963, CBS depended for all of its operational funds on its income from advertisements. Since the broadcasting merger, CBS has aired purely missionary or other programs: 46 percent missionary work programs, 31.6 percent cultural programs and 22.4 percent musical programs. Thus, it has lost any source of income.

Presently, CBS has a total of 165 employees--85 at the Seoul station and 80 at the four regional stations.

At the end of last year, as part of a station reduction in staff, a total of 170 employees were let go. They were transferred to the Korea Broadcasting System.

In 1980, before the merger, current expenditures by CBS amounted to 4.5 billion won. However, CBS has set current expenditures for this year at 2 billion won. Nevertheless, it has lost financial resources.

This year, 12 religious orders have participated in collecting money for CBS. Among others, the two Presbyterian church orders and the Full Gospel Church have made the largest contributions. Collection money for this years amounts to 1 billion won.

With its limited financial resources, CBS has had to curtail its missionary work programs. In this connection, President Kim Kwan-sok has issued an appeal to each religious order and all believers on the occasion of the 27th anniversary of the station's founding.

He said: "Under any circumstances, we cannot abandon our mission of propagating the word of God. CBS is for all Christians, not just those of a certain order. Christians should not hesitate to propagate the word of God via this medium."

President Kim also stressed that Korea's churches should more positively participate in the church integration movement.

Meanwhile, he deplored the fact that the country's churches tend to ignore broadcasting missionary work, which is more important than each church's own expansion, and that they concentrate on their own expansion.

Church circles have put forth a proposal to wage a collection campaign--to get 1,000 won each from a total of 8 billion believers--to revive CBS. However, prospects are still dim.

MBC SHAREHOLDERS MEETING--Next week the Korean Broadcasting System [KBS] will exercise its role as a large shareholder in the Munhwa Broadcasting Company [MBC]. MBC will convene an extraordinary general meeting of its shareholders 7 December to appoint an additional auditor and organize a three-man committee--a management advisory body. In this connection, KBC will participate in budget planning for MBC through consultations of the committee composed of the director general of the Public Information Bureau of the Ministry of Culture and Information, an MBC executive director and a KBC director. It has been learned that the auditor will have an auditing and inspecting function--as stipulated in the commercial code--and that the committee will be in charge of business operations and new investments. It has also been learned that they will not directly participate in personnel management or broadcast planning. No personnel shakeup of MBC executives will be made at the general shareholders meeting. Last December KBC received 65 percent of MBC shares in accordance with the government's measure to place the broadcasting system under public management. It took over the shares of the Seoul Miwon Company in July, thereby becoming a 70-percent shareholder in MBC. [Text] [SK070234 Seoul TONG-A ILBO in Korean 5 Dec 81 p 7]

STUDY ON KOREAN 'AWARENESS STRUCTURE' REPORTED

Seoul CHOSON ILBO in Korean 24 Nov 81 p 10

[Text] Koreans in general still think that "you can only lose by abiding by law and order." They also believe that "the way of the world is swayed by people with money and in power." This has been revealed by a study conducted by Prof. Yi Yong-ho of Ewha Woman's University.

His study was intended to present a report to a seminar scheduled to be held on the anniversary of founding of the Contemporary Society Research Center (president, Ko Yong-pok). The study entitled "Korean Sense of Value and Awareness Structure," has been conducted through questionnaires distributed to a total of 6,300 adults throughout the country, over the 3-month period from last July.

On an item which read, "In Korea, one can succeed in life only when he has good connections and strong backers," 71 percent of the respondents said, "Yes." And the number of respondents who gave a negative answer barely accounted for 22.1 percent of the total.

Even in the case of "backing," one's hometown appears to have a great influence. On the item, "In Korea, one's hometown counts most in making his way in the world," 48 percent accepted it as true. The percentage is far more than 36 percent who refused to say that is true.

"In our society, anything can be done if you have money," is believed as true by 52 percent of the respondents, while 43 percent said, "that is not so."

Sixty one percent agreet that "the way of the world is swayed by people with money and in power." Their number is about two times the 33 percent who denied it.

The sense that you can do anything if you are in power, leads to another consciousness that "in our society, anyone with power can be better off, with a clear conscience, even after having violated the law." On this question, 56 percent said, "Yes." This is construed as representing their distrust of the ruling classes in the Korean society.

REPORT ON WORKING CLASS UPHOLDING PARTY LEADERSHIP

[Text] Pyongyang November 27 (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN November 26 carried an article titled "Working Class Is Vanguard Detachment Upholding Leadership of Our Party."

Today our revolution is dynamically advancing along the road of chuche because our working class has been firmly built up as a detachment of revolutionaries upholding the party's leadership.

As our working class upholds the leadership of the party, a constant upsurge is being brought about in our socialist construction under the banner of the three revolutions, ideological, technical and cultural.

CEMENT LAB TECHNICIANS INNOVATIONS, SPIRIT PRAISED

[Article by Kim Chun-ha: "A Life Shining With Conviction: Story of Comrade Kim Song-chuk, Who Was a Laboratory Technician at the 2.8 Cement Plant"]

[Text] The respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught as follows:

"Our workers, in whatever workplace of socialist construction, in whatever they do, work not for their own glory or reward, but only for the benefit of the party and the revolution, diligently work and give their all for the benefit of society and the people whether anyone observes them or not, and thoroughly exhibit revolutionary fervor and creative positiveness in the struggle to carry out the policies of the party."

Comrade Kim Song-chuk, a technician in the laboratory of the 8 February Cement Plant, was one of those who, upholding the high aspirations of our great leader and the glorious party center, gave their lives in the rewarding struggle to strengthen the independence and chuche quality of our country's cement industry.

The glorious party center valued very highly the valuable fruit gathered by the workers and engineers of the 8 February Cement Plant, beginning with Comrade Kim Song-chuk.

The conviction that he himself should take the lead to solve the problems targeted by the party and by the great leader was a belief that was firmly rooted in the deepest part of Comrade Kim Song-chuk's heart.

One day late in 1973, Comrade Kim Song-chuk came across the instruction by the great leader on the protection and management of cultivated land and started to think seriously about the method of cement production.

If we continue to produce cement the way we are now, won't valuable farm land continually be consumed?

Is there no other way?

This was, in the end, a problem of finding a new raw material for production.

A few days later, Comrade Kim Song-chuk went up to the place where the raw materials were produced and could not take his eyes away from the stone fragments that were being discarded as useless.

Suddenly, the thought entered his mind that if those rocks were used, cement could be produced without taking over farm land. He picked up the rocks and took them back to the plant, and from that day he poured out his heart and soul on them in experiments.

Various opinions about his experiments were brought forward, but he did not turn away from the path that was pointed out to him by his rock-solid belief that he must solve the problem targeted by the great leader.

Comrade Kim Song-chuk, who was in charge of the raw materials work place and technical leadership, saw the rocks he had found mixed with the raw materials, and gained a conviction, and proposed that industrial experiments be conducted.

He was nailed to his work place and did not leave it.

Then it happened when experimental production started in earnest.

A girl experimental worker ran up to him and said that many deposits were forming in the mixture with the new raw material. Comrade Kim Song-chuk went into the room with the horizontal tank, and then stopped when he heard a voice from amidst the milling crowd.

"Cement has a history to it, and it cannot be made of just anything. These deposits are serious. There is no reason to expect that that mixture will be satisfactory as it is."

He heard those words and he decided that no matter what happened, he would discover the cause of those deposits.

With firm steps he pushed his way out from among the people and climbed over the wall of the tank.

"Don't do that! Come out!"

Here and there, all at once yelling broke out. In the horizontal tank, which was almost 10 meters in diameter and which had a depth more than 10 times the height of a person, Comrade Kim Song-chuk also was not unaware what it meant to go into the churning cement mixture.

But at that moment he did not know whether he was being led to success in producing cement from a new raw material or whether he was being turned away when he was half-way there, and he did not want to spare himself.

Barely managing to control himself in the cold mixture which froze him to the bone, he scrubbed every nook and cranny of the bottom of the tank, and also carefully examined the condition of the agitator. The result was that he was able to ascertain that if all of the wings of the agitator were able to move as they were supposed to and if air were pumped in well, deposits would not form.

Because of such a self-sacrificing struggle, at last high quality cement could be made from raw materials which are plentifully buried everywhere but which have been discarded as useless, and a large contribution was made to the positive protection and management of an enormous area of farmland.

That is what happened a few years ago in a factory as research progressed to find a new mineral to use in cement production.

When the industrial experiment failed several times, some of the people tentatively concluded the mineral should be mixed at a certain ratio with the raw material that had been used up until that time and tended to sit back.

But Comrade Kim Song-chuk was not going to agree with that view.

He decided to postpone the research task which he himself had advanced.

Since he was at the last stage of the task assigned to him, there were some who advised him to complete it. Others became a bit argumentative, upset that he had put aside his own experiment and was getting into other comrade's research.

No matter what anyone said, he did not care. He could never think only of his own work and sit still when the pending research to accomplish the great leader's instructions is met with an obstacle and would not progress.

It was sometime after the research project again began to make vigorous progress after briefly pausing. One day, after carefully examining the ore and being engrossed in his own thoughts, he began washing the ore.

But as he washed the red dish rocks their color changed to blue and an unexpected phenomenon appeared.

This was the phenomenon for which they had so anxiously and agonizingly searched.

As the knot was untied and the first step to success was captured, he worked even more ferociously. It was the night of the day in which the 150th experiment failed. A meeting of technicians was held to determine the cause of failure.

The people who were dissatisfied with him throwing himself into this research project brought forth their opinions, which they had held from the beginning, and indirectly tried to stop Comrade Kim Song-chuk, urging him back to his properly assigned research.

Comrade Kim Song-chuk restrained his excitement and slowly rose from his seat.

"To acquire the ability to use this ore, which is so abundant in our country, as a raw material in cement production, is part of the struggle to strengthen the chuche quality of our cement industry. I have no right to withdraw from this struggle."

Comrade Kim Song-chuk resolutely left that place and walked towards the work place. At the moment he reached the work place he suddenly stopped in surprise. The workers, whom he had expected to be discouraged and sitting down, were indeed sticking to their preparations for another experiment.

The unchanging fervor of the workers who had always wordlessly supported him and encouraged him gave him strength.

They were helped by the strong belief that if one does according to the teachings of the great leader there is no task that cannot be done, and the firm intention that the great leader's instructions be completely carried out to the end unconditionally.

So, after no fewer than 230 failures, at last they were able to introduce the new mineral into cement production.

When the great leader gave the task concerning the new production of cement to be sent to the construction site of a power plant, and when the difficult technical problems involved with improving the quality of cement produced with our own raw materials arose, Comrade Kim Song-chuk with this unchanging attitude of respect for the party, unfailingly carried out the task.

It was one day last year in April, when an all-out assault of loyalty was launched to hail the glorious Sixth Party Congress as a celebration of victors.

Comrade Kim Song-chuk went to the factory primary level party committee and proposed that the research project concerning the new cement be assigned him.

It was such an exotic research project that no one could tell how long it would take or if for certain it would be successful.

But Comrade Kim Song-chuk was deeply conscious of the duty and responsibility he had to the party and the revolution as a technician, and while nobody else readily volunteered, he requested that it be entrusted to him.

Comrade Kim Song-chuk received the research assignment.

He scheduled his time until October and made a watertight battle plan.

Under the aggressive assistance of the party organization, a few days before the October celebration, he achieved a breakthrough to success, and drilled through the last difficult part of the research.

However, the illness that had already been plaguing him, at this time spread deeply throughout his body, but he did not show any expression of pain on his face. Without changing even for one day, he kept his problem to himself and traveled back and forth on a road of several tens of li. But his health became unceasingly worse.

He knew that in his once-strong body an uncommon disease was growing more serious, but the strength of his spirit did not diminish.

As the saying goes, utmost sincerity will make flowers bloom on a rock so at last his day of success came.

But as he saw the fruits of success before his eyes, he felt the unendurable pain of his illness throughout his whole body and collapsed.

He was taken to a hospital.

He had been inflicted with an incurable disease. Despite the efforts of the medical personnel, his condition became worse daily.

One day he grabbed the hand of the chief doctor and spoke earnestly.

"Please extend my life for just 2 more months. Also, please let me be at the factory with my comrades for those 2 months. I have many things to finish."

That was an earnest request that could not be refused.

So, in the end he went home, and he did the work of 10 days every day.

When he could no longer write with his own hand, he asked his wife.

"I must finish this report no matter what happens.

"Though I may die tomorrow, I must complete this by tonight. Please write what I say."

His wife held back her tears and wrote what he told her.

The glorious party center highly regarded the fruits of the research by Comrade Kim Song-chuk and the factory workers and technicians in the successful new cement production. A smile of unending happiness showed on his face when he received this moving news.

Comrade Kim Song-chuk was a faithful son of the party.

The sublime belief and will of our party members and workers is that working on great tasks for the party and the great leader, for the fatherland and the people, happily devoting one's whole life on this road without boasting is an unequalled glory and happiness.

TOUR OF KIM CHONG-SUK COUNTY HISTORICAL PLACES DESCRIBED

Pyongyang NODONG SINMUN in Korean 22 Oct 81 p 2

[Article by Staff Reporter Yun Kye-kun: "Shine! The Land of Glory: Kim Chong-suk County, Where the Imperishable Historic Relics of Comrade Kim Chong-suk, the Anti-Japanese Heroine, are Preserved"]

[Text] No sooner had we passed through the land of Samsu, the bus carrying us moved vigorously toward the ridge of Yongsongnyong, some 1,100 meters above the sea level. Outside the windows, bhe beautiful rural landscape of autumn moved away endlessly.

"Kim Chong-suk County begins here." So saying, a county party functionary who had gotton on the bus at Hyesan pointed to the county border marker as soon as we reached the ridge.

"Kim Chong-suk County!" The moment we looked at the inscriptions on the marker, we could hardly contain our emotions because it brought back our memories of how moved we were to receive the Central People's Committee decree some time ago.

It is a memorable land where one cannot look at a blade of grass or a single tree without overwhelming emotions and longing. We who were visiting Kim Chong-suk County, the glorious land, on the occasion of the 32nd anniversary of the death of Comrade Kim Chong-suk, the indomitable communist revolutionary and anti-Japanese heroine, were deeply moved.

After descending the ridge of Yongsongnyong, our bus was moving along the Amnok [Yalu] River, ablaze with the fall foilage.

The Amnok River, flowing as ever with no change.

Just how many of our revolutionists crossed those undulating blue waters of the Amnok for the sake of liberation and independence of Fatherland!

Looking at the blue water of the Amnok, which moved us to the solemn feeling that the blowing breeze and flowing water were telling us of the memorable days of the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk, we kept moving in this historic land, with our hearts beating fast in anticipation.

Finally, the bus stopped in front of a large picture board carrying the immortal image of the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk standing on the burning hills of Taesaha 40 years ago, and we got off excitedly.

The beautiful sight of the historic Kim Chong-suk township unrolled before our eyes.

Along the straight boulevard with swaying trees stand the Research Office for the Revolutionary Thought of Comrade Kim Il-sung, the Sinp'a Hall of Revolutionary History, the Cultural Hall, and the Visitors Lodging Center and rows of nice high-rise residential buildings and such service facilities as inns, stores, and restaurants.

This area, once known as the land os Samsu and Kapsan [renowned for isolation and backwardness], has now gone through an amazing transformation, and the visitors are struck with wonderment from the outset.

Recalling with emotions the history of brilliant changes in the land of Sinp'a which bloomed under the ray of the graceful party, we, together with other visitors, first of all visited the statue of the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk on the hill of Nansan with reverence and adoration.

Comrade Kim Chong-suk, the anti-Japanese heroine, in a military uniform which she wore in the rugged Mt. Paektu and ferocious snow storm in the plain and with a bright smile and a military cap, with a bright star on it, in her hand as if presently greeting the people of fatherland!

Looking up the statue of the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk who, as a model communist revolutionary fighter of chuch'e, who had accumulated immortal achievements while casting eternal light on the liberation and revolution of the fatherland, her whole life which was filled with the glory of dedicating her loyalty to the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Il-sung.

On 24 December 1917, when our people were in the depth of darkness and misfortune, a period of national suffering, the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk was born to a patriotic and revolutionary family. Embracing the ray of chuch'e shined by the Great Leader, she took part in the revolutionary struggle at a young age. Starting as the first female member of the Communist Youth League (CYL), from Puam Village, she made heroic achievement in the work of children's groups and in the battle defending the guerrilla district, and safeguarded the headquarters by participating in the Fusong battle, the Hangji River battle, and the Taesahach'igi [phonetic] battle. Through "the arduous march" the day-to-day trial involving in carrying out underground operational missions and at the secret camp of Ch'ongbong, the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk devoted her entire life defending the great leader's revolutionary thought at the Wushan district. As a ray of the great sun, she succeeded in uniting the people closely around the leader. How great was the contribution of the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Chong-suk in dedicating herself to the building of the new fatherland under the sagacious leadership of the respected leader after the liberation?

In front of the statue symbolizing an everlasting figure on the land of history, an immortal image emitting the ray of loyalty into our heart, we were overwhelmed by warmth in our hearts, recollecting the brillian life of the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk who dedicated her whole life to the path of loyalty.

With a boiling passion, we descended the Namsan hill. Touring around the well-preserved historic site, we traced back with deep emotion the political operations the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk conducted in the entire area of Sinp'a during the period from spring to autumn of 1937.

Tracing back the significant events, we vividly recall the great leader's instructive remarks which were made on the day of history.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song dispatched Comrade Kim Chong-suk as a political operations agent, and he made the following instructive remarks:

"At present, the Simp'a district of Samsu County is considered a very important location in our effort to develop the revolutionary organization within the country.

"Because this not only enables us for a timely contact with other domestic revolutionary organizations but also is geographically located near northern Korea's industrial zone, including the Hamhung area with a heavy concentration of the advanced working class of our country.

"Therefore, with the Sinp'a area as its stepping stone, we must bring the people from all walks of life including superior working youth and a wide range of farming youth into the anti-Japanese revolutionary organizations such as the Fatherland Liberation Society and the Anti-Japanese Youth League, and build the organizational and ideological foundation for the construction of the party."

Sinp'a, a district seat of Samsu County at the time, was a small border town. Yet, there were frequent visits to the town by many people. It is a very useful place in expanding domestic revolutionary organizations because roads for vehicular traffic are connected with Hyesan, Kanggye, and Changjin. In addition, this area was an assembly area for lumber businessmen and merchants. So it was also a convenient place for buying materials.

Receiving underground operations missions from the great leader, Comrade Kim Chong-suk advanced to Daochuan [phonetic] in Jangbai County and thence across the Amnok and vigorously engaged in expanding organizations for the fatherland liberation in the Sinp'a area.

The Japanese imperialists who seized Sinp'a as a major military base established many batteries and pillboxes and maintained strict security all along the border.

Nevertheless, the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk would cross the Amnok river without any fear or hesitation by breaking through the Japanese border security and implanted the flame of struggle in the hearts of the people within the country.

Touring the sites of clandestine operations where Comrade Kim Chong-suk had been, leaving warm footsteps behind her, we felt even more deeply of her energetic struggles and immortal achievements.

The respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk used to set up clandestine operations and secret meeting places in such places as "New Fountain Noodle House," "Bowl Store," "Sokchon Tailor Shop," and "Light Beam Photo Studio." With these places as the bases, she directed the work of underground operations, revolutionalized the masses from the various walks of life, and expanded the organization of the Fatherland Restoration Society. As a result, the Sinp'a branch of the Fatherland Liberation Society became active and started to move with vigor. Under the Sinp'a Chapter, there emerged many lower organizations such as Hachanggu subbranch, Kangandong subbranch, and Sangchanggu subbranch. A great number of the masses, including workers and farmers, joined these organizations. The respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk indoctrinated those among such "civic leaders" as merchants, businessmen, and religious people who had a strong anti-Japanese sentiment and brought them into new subbranches of the Fatherland Liberation Society.

Thanks to such an energetic effort, the entire Sinp'a area had been solidified as being a revolutionary bulwark as well as a strong base for expanding the network of the Fatherland Liberation Society throughout the nation.

As we listened to the guide in front of the building with a signboard, "Reconnaissance", used by the Japanese military police, we were profoundly moved by the great achievements of respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk who had organized and mobilized members of the Fatherland Liberation Society to detect the disposition and movement of the Japanese military on a timely basis, and also personally conducted reconnaissance to determine the military installations to include the military police detachment, the security unit, the police station, the district office, ammunition storages, and other enemy organizations. Anticipating operations into the country, she picked out the routes for both the inflitration and withdrawal across the Amnok.

By mobilizing the revolutionary networks within the nation, the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk had successfully obtained information on the 74th Regiment in Hamhung and made a timely report to the headquarters resulting in a brilliant victory in the Kansambong Battle.

With a heart-warming sensation, we proceeded to the clothing materials store, the general store, and the grocery store in which the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk staged struggles to procure logistic supplies such as cotton cloth, footwear, gun oil, and salt.

As we stepped into a large open space where the Sinp'a market used to be held, the first thing we noticed was a two-story building. The building is the Light Beam Photo Studio that was used by the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk as a base for clandestine operations for the Sinkalp'a branch of the Fatherland Liberation Society.

We followed the guide to the staircase to the second floor. We felt as if her sublime revolutionary aspiration was flowing into our hearts. We came near the window sill of the photo studio after walking through the photo touching room which was used as a secret meeting place and the dark room, uses as print shop for leaflets and propaganda materials.

The remarks made by the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk on the historic day at this window still rang in our ears.

"Our fatherland which is trampled by the Japanese imperialists is as dark as a moonless night. However, the day is not too far when the dark clouds in the sky of the fatherland will go away and the bright sun will shine.

"In order to bring an early arrival of the day, we should fight harder."

Overwhelmed by a sublime feeling, we took another look at the neat streets of Kim Chong-suk township for a long time.

The radiant sun rays poured down onto the roof of highrise apartment buildings. People coming and going carried a bright smile on their faces.

This land, once known as the worst place to live, has now emerged as a bright paradise under the benevolent ray of our party.

In the new, changed scene of Sinp'a, we could witness the fruitful realization of the sublime aspiration of the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk, communist revolutionary fighter and the anti-Japanese heroine.

"In reality, the old land of Sinp'a had gone through a total change. No one here used to know what a factory was, but now there are all kinds of factories producing all the daily necessities for the county's self-sufficiency."

So saying, a responsible county functionary took us to a textile mill.

The textile mill located by the Amnok River in front of Samsu Village in the 13th District started initially with several old hemp looms and now has developed into a cloth manufacturing base with modern equipment.

It can really be called the opening of Heaven and Earth since such an excellent clothing materials production base emerged from the very spot of a traveler's inn from which about everything one could hear was a sound of a traveler heaving a sigh.

It has been a long time since the pitiful story of a coarse clothing being shared by a father and two sons became an old tale.

By no means is the local industry all this land has.

In this area where people used to cultivate land with worn-out hoes, vehicles and tractors are running in succession. What a brilliant change has all this brought to this rural area.

Oats and millets were about all they farmed in this area. Today rice and corn are making noise, growing. This year's rice crop in P'ungyang-ri and Sinsang-ri is as good as in the plains. The potato farming in Chopung-ri and hops in Kangha-ri saw unusual bumper crops this year.

When we visited the home of the senior citizen, Ch'oe P'al-yong in the 21st Pan, Kim Chong-suk Township, the old man, who was watching a television in his room, said this knowing why we were there:

"It's really like a dream. Before the liberation, I was mistreated here like an ox or horse. Today, I am watching television like this. What more can I ask?"

The land of Samsu and Kapsan, in the past, was a land desolate with the sighs of the banished. Now this land is blooming with happiness of the people. How has this great history of change been achieved?

It is not only the people who live in Kim Chong-suk County, the land of glory, but also every one who visits this land who is filled with endless pride and self-confidence, expressing their warm gratitude for the great leader's magnanimous grace and the party center's sagacious leadership and warm care, and burning in their hearts with infinite adoration for the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk who had engraved imperishable traces in this land for today's happiness.

Right about the sunset, we came to a ferry.

The Singalp'a ferry where the blue water of Amnok river flows serenely, carrying the burning evening glow!

We read every single word of the inscriptions on the monument at the ferry, once again tracing back her eternal, immortal achievements in the hills rich with history.

While gazing at the flow of Amnok River, we pictured the solemn and serene image of the respected Comrade Kim Chong-suk, we could wholeheartedly recall the most noble, brilliant, and revolutionary career of the Chuch'e-oriented revolutionary who devoted her entire life to the great leader for the sake of the prosperity of the fatherland and the happiness of the people in the long and arduous road of struggle after she joined the path of revolution bearing the ray of the sun in early age.

Beautiful autumn flowers swayed endlessly in and around the ferry as if to reflect the mind of our people who wish to eternally cherish the imperishable achievements and revolutionary career of Comrade Kim Chong-suk who was an untiring communist revolutionary fighter and anti-Japanese heroine.

The song of the visitors, including students of Kim Chong-suk Teachers' College, echoed high in the blue sky.

"Embracing the rays of the sun, you have treaded the revolutionary road of tens of thousands of li. Your wholehearted dedication to the general is calling us to loyalty."

'NODONG SINMUN' EMPHASIZES ECONOMIC INDEPENDENCE

[Text] Pyongyang, November 25 (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN Tuesday carried an article headlined "Economic Independence Is Material Basis Firmly Guaranteeing Independence of the Country," which reads in part:

Economic independence is an important requirement for defence and realization of the independence of the masses of the working people.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song put forward the principle of economic independence on the basis of the chuche idea and expounded that it is the material basis of independence.

The respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught:

> "Self-reliance in the economy is the material basis of independence, failing economic independence, subordination to another country is unavoidable and freedom from colonial slavery is impossible. Economic dependence leads to political subordination, and economic inequality leads to political inequality."

Economic independence is what makes the material basis of independence, whether one attains economic independence or not concerns whether one fully realises independence or not.

Economic independence is one of the basic principles which a working class party in power must maintain in guiding the building of a new society and is a material guarantee making each people the true master of their destiny.

Economic independence is the material basis of independence, above all, because it materially guarantees the stand of the popular masses as the master of the state and society.

To guarantee an independent and creative life to the popular masses, each country must have its own strong economic potential. Each national state building its own economy, it can fully satisfy the material demand of the people only when it is independent in economy.

If a country fails to build its economy by its own efforts and does not have things to its name, it inevitably depends on others and such a country cannot practically guarantee a happy life to its people.

Economic independence is also an important question in heightening the consciousness of the popular masses as the master of the state and society, their consciousness of independence.

If the economy depend on others, failing to stand on its own feet, the pride of the people and their sense of independence cannot be heightened and there might grow flunkeyism and tendency of dependence on others among them.

The principle of economic independence helps people enhance their consciousness as the master and their national pride by producing material wealth and achieving the prosperity of the country by their own efforts.

Economic independence is the material basis of independence also because it helps consolidate the political independence of a country and its sovereignty.

Political independence and sovereignty can be consolidated only when they have a material guarantee. If a country fails to stand on its own feet in economy, it cannot avoid dependence on others nor can free itself from slavery.

Only when a nation attains self-sustenance in economy can it depend the political independence of country.

Only when it becomes independent economically can it shape the line and policy in conformity with the interests of its people and the conditions of its country on the basis of powerful material strength and maintain principle and consistency in their implementation and soundly develop its political and economic relations with other countries.

Economic independence is the material basis of independence also because it helps do away with national inequality and achieve the independent development of the nation.

Only when a nation attains independence in economy can it get rid of economic backwardness and become a powerful and developed nation and proudly proceed into the international arena with equal rights with all countries of the world, big and small.

The idea that economic independence is the material basis of independence, which was propounded by the chuche idea, is the guiding principle that enables a working class party lead the cause of socialism and communism to victory.

This idea enables a working class party to lead economic construction along a correct path by scientifically expounding the position and role of economic self-sustenance in achieving independence.

This idea is also a guiding principle which must be adhered to in building solid material and technical foundations of socialism and successfully accelerating socialist and communist construction.

As it correctly reflects the lawful demand of the revolutionary development of our era and the desire of the popular masses, this idea serves as a powerful weapon in the struggle for accomplishing the cause of independence and its validity and invincible vitality is proved more clearly as time flows.

At the farm rice transplantation, sowing, weeding, harvesting and all other farm work are done by machines.

All the farmers embraced in the study team for tractor driving which has been formed to suit the conditions of the farm have acquired qualifications of tractor driver through 8 examinations by raising their skill level by means of combining theoretical study with practical operation.

As a result, the utility rate of the tractor has been raised higher and the scientific and technical requirements of the chuche farming method have been fully met to increase grain output year after year at the farm.

With the energetic progress of the comprehensive mechanization of agriculture in Korea, a plenty of tractors, trucks, rice transplanting machines and other modern farm machines are supplied to the countryside.

Brisk, therefore, among our farmers is a drive to skilfully operate modern farm machines.

COAL OUTPUT INCREASES 10,000 TONS

SK021115 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1032 GMT 2 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, December 2 (KCNA)--Coal mines under the provincial committees for economic guidance have lifted their daily coal output by 10,000 tons above the daily average three months ago.

This success has come after the provincial committees for economic guidance were set up to more thoroughly implement the Taean work system and the guidance of production was deepened in our country.

In August the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, with his deep insight into the actual demand of the developing national economy, took the signal step of setting up the provincial committees for economic guidance and, through them, strengthening the states centralistic guidance of factories and enterprises and bringing economic guidance closer to the working units.

This industrial guidance system is one under which the provincial committees for economic guidance under the unitary guidance of the centre grasp the overall industry and construction in the provinces and control them.

The South Pyongan Provincial Committee for Economic Guidance keeps itself thoroughly informed of the actual conditions of the coal mines in the province and solved knotty problems in time, while skilfully commanding production and conducting meticulous economic organization such as technical guidance and supply of materials, thus effecting innovations in production.

The Anju District Coal Mining Complex, one of the biggest coal production bases of the nation, has boosted production 1.3 times, capital tunnelling 1.5 times and pit construction two times.

The Choyang Coal Mine of the Kaechon District Coal Mining Complex upped output 1.9 times and its Pongchon Coal Mine 1.3 times.

Other provincial committees for economic guidance are also bringing guidance closer to the lower units and substantially guaranteeing scientific guidance of production.

A sharp rise in coal output is noticed at the coal mines under the northern district general bureau of coal industry and many other coal mines.

GAINS IN RAILWAY TRANSPORTATION SCORED

SK021555 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1519 GMT 2 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, December 2 (KCNA)--The Ministry of Railways announced that about 2.56 million more tons of load than the traction capacity was carried in the recent one month or so.

The ministry is energetically pushing ahead with a drive to make every train pull more than one 50 ton-wagon in excess of the traction capacity.

The ministry and railway administrations effectively organized the formation of trains according to different directions so as to carry materials and equipment without delay to the sites of grand nature-remaking projects and industrial establishments.

The West Pyongyang Locomotive Corps is overshooting by 30 per cent its capacity for the transport of iron and steel, timber, cement and other goods to the construction sites of the Nampo lock gate and the Taechon power station.

By actively introducing various methods of transport, such as specialized and centralized transport, circulating centralized transport and direct transport, other locomotive corps have also made the extra-haulage movement more successful.

With means of transport being modernized and heavy and train operation made high-speed, more successes have been recorded in transport.

Today in our country the circle railway lines linking the eastern and western parts have been formed and branch lines are being further stretched to link the western coast areas.

Railway electrification is also progressing.

All the major trunk lines have already been electrified. Electric traction accounts for 87.5 per cent of the total railway haulage. A unified system of haulage by electric engines has been established in major railway sections, branch lines and sidings.

The transport control system is modernized and railways made heavy.

Our country has several modern rolling stock factories which produce a large number of electric locomotives, 60-ton heavy wagons, refrigerator cars, tankers and various other vehicles.

Today our railways carry in only 11 days as much as was carried in the whole year of 1946.

SUPPORT FOR NATURE REMAKING PROGRAM DESCRIBED

[Text] Pyongyang, December 4 (KCNA)--In the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea the whole party, the whole country and the entire people have turned out to powerfully assist the reclamation of 300,000 hectares of tideland, the acquirement of 200,000 hectares of new land, and the construction of the Nampo lockgate and the Taechon power station.

The Songsan Mine in South Pyongan Province, having fulfilled its yearly assignments more than one month ahead of schedule, decided to build one dike by going out to a site of tideland construction with much manpower and many excavators, heavy duty lorries and other machines and appealed to the factories and enterprises in the province to give active help in tideland reclamation.

In response to this call, industrial establishments in the province have already sent upwards of 150 construction machines, quantities of accessories, building materials and daily necessaries to the sites of tideland reclamation and continue increasing their assistance.

The Kangson Steel Works in the province has sent more than 150 tons of rails, lots of wirerope and rolled steel through an increased production drive, the Sungri General Automobile Factory and the Anju Tractor Accessories Factory many trucks and quantities of tractor accessories and the Sunchon Coal Mining Machine Plant tens of ore cars to the construction sites.

Industrial establishments in North Pyongan Province have already sent there tens of machines, more than 12,000 pieces of machine parts and tools of over 100 kinds and more than 10,000 pieces of daily necessaries.

The Nakwon Machine Plant in the province has supplied many excavators by hastening the production of various excavators for the grand nature-remaking.

The Sariwon Mining Machine Plant in North Hwanghae Province has sent hundreds of ore cars to the construction site of the Nampo lockgate. It is now hastening production with a goal to send 1,000 ore cars, more than 70 belt-conveyers with a total length of 7 kilometres to the sites of grand nature-remaking by next spring.

The four major tasks of construction--reclamation of 300,000 hectares of tideland, the acquirement of 200,000 hectares of new land and the construction of the Nampo lockgate and the Taechon power station--are making a successful progress with the powerful support of the whole party, the whole country and the entire people.

These four major construction tasks involve a grand undertaking of socialist construction for providing an independent and creative life to our people and a grand nature-remaking under a far-reaching plan for the prosperity and development of the country and the happiness of the generations to come.

WORKING PEOPLE GET SUFFICIENT VEGETABLES SUPPLY

[Text] Pyongyang, December 4 (KCNA)--This year all the households in cities and rural villages, workers districts and mountainous areas of our country were supplied with sufficient vegetables for the winter.

In Pyongyang autumn vegetable cultivation was unusually successful this year, producing tens of thousands of more tons of vegetables than last year.

In accordance with the party's policy, this year all the cooperative farms organized well the stage-by-stage cultivation of vegetables and planted humus-potted vegetable seedlings after bringing in wheat, barley and maize to produce more vegetables in all seasons, while decreasing the acreage of fields specialized in vegetable cultivation.

With the rapid growth of their production in Korea in recent years, sufficient vegetables are provided to the people and some of them exported.

In Korea the supply of vegetables per capita is more than 300 kilograms on an annual average. This means that everyone consumes over 800 grams of vegetables every day.

In our country there are farms and branch farms specialized in vegetable cultivation and vegetable workteams at all cooperative farms where a solid foundation has been laid for the production of vegetables.

The water-jetting system has been completely introduced and comprehensive mechanization is pushed ahead in the vegetable cultivation at cooperative farms in towns and workers districts.

Now brisk is a drive to make vegetable cultivation highly intensive and specialize and modernize it.

Vegetable growing has become highly intensive through the introduction of multi-cropping and stage-by-stage cultivation and the level of modernisation is also rising along with the promotion of irrigation, mechanization and chemicalisation and wide introduction of vegetable growing in hotbeds and hothouses and under vinyl.

The production of vegetables has been diversified to make their variety richer and produce various vegetables in all seasons.

Thus our people are provided with fresh vegetables all the year round.

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR COMPULSORY HIGHER EDUCATION

[Text] Pyongyang, November 26 (KCNA)--Long-term preparations for the enforcement of compulsory higher education are going on in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

Putting forward the policy of intellectualisation of the whole of society in his report at the sixth congress of the Workers Party of Korea, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught that long-term preparations for the enforcement of the compulsory higher education should be made.

For this purpose, the state will build more colleges and universities and higher specialized schools and increase the number of their students systematically.

The Pyongyang agricultural college and several other new colleges and a number of higher specialized schools have been opened this year, too.

The number of the collegians increased by tens of thousands in recent two years.

Institutions of higher learning on the study-while-working system as well as regular colleges and universities and higher specialized schools will be constantly increased on a large scale in the future.

Factory colleges and factory higher specialized schools based on the study-while-working system will be newly set up or expanded and the country will be covered with denser higher educational networks in keeping with the rapid development of the national economy and building of new factories and enterprises.

With the energetic promotion of the intellectualization of all members of society, farm and fishermen's colleges are being organized in our country where a large number of factory colleges have been operating from long ago.

Already last year a fishermen's college made its appearance in Sinpo, a fishing base, at which fishermen receive higher education while working. A vigorous preparation for founding a farm college is under way in Chongsan-ni. It will be opened before long.

Farm and fishermen's colleges will be set up step by step in all regions in the future.

Working people who find it hard to attend such factory, farm and fishermen's colleges and higher specialized schools are widely enrolled in correspondence courses. They attend lectures at the colleges and schools several times a year.

Many members of youth sub-work teams who have proceeded to farms after graduating from senior middle schools receive specially organised on-spot lectures of agricultural colleges or higher agricultural schools.

A college on T.V. will start.

In order to make substantial preparations for the enforcement of compulsory higher education, the state will meet the demand for able teachers by actively carrying on the work of training college teachers and largely expanding the postgraduate courses of universities and doctoral institutes.

The compulsory higher education is in the offing in our country where the universal compulsory primary school education was introduced on debris after the war, which was followed by the enforcement of universal compulsory middle school education, compulsory nine-year technical education and compulsory 11-year education now in force.

FIRST FARM COLLEGE APPEARS

[Text] Pyongyang, December 5 (KCNA)--The first farm college on a study-while-working system opened on December 1 in Chongsan-ru, a land of glory.

A large number of farmers of the Chongsan cooperative farm and neighbouring farms are enrolled in the newly opened college called the Chongsan Agricultural College.

Along with the factory colleges set up in the industrial districts, the farm college in the rural district where agricultural working people can receive systematic education while on the job, will yield big results.

The founding of the farm college is attributable to the wise guidance and deep care of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the glorious party centre.

Several years ago the great leader formulated the wise policy of founding farm colleges in the countryside to give higher education to the agricultural working people, without divorcing them from work.

The glorious party centre saw to it that a farm college was founded first in Chongsan-ri where the rural technical revolution has reached a high level and a reliable guiding force for the management and operation of a college has been built up and explained in a concrete way how to solve all problems--selection of teachers, organisation of classes, the guidence, management and running of the college and creation of conditions for the study of students.

Enrolled in the college are young farmers who have graduated from senior middle schools and other agricultural working people on farms.

With the expansion of the higher educational network to the countryside, Korea came to have a bright prospect for the realisation of intellectualization of the whole of society.

More farm colleges will be set up in farm villages in the future.

Vice-Chairman Yom Kuk-yol made a report at the meeting.

Over the past 35 years since its formation the Korean Christians Federation under the wise guidance of the respected and beloved leader President Kim Il-song, the great sun of the nation, has actively struggled for the building of a new society and the country's independent reunification, ensuring the rights and interests of the members of the federation and believers, he said, and noted: it is entirely thanks to the wise guidance and warm care of the great leader President Kim Il-song that all the Christians in the northern half of the DPRK could make a contribution, humble as it is, to the sacred cause of the country and the people, while enjoying to their hearts content a happy life free from exploitation and oppression which they had longed for.

Today the Workers' Party of Korea has set it forth as the general task of the Korean revolution to model the whole society on the chuche idea and is wisely leading its fulfilment, the paper remarked, and went on:

The modelling of the whole society on the chuche idea is the continuation of the revolutionary cause of chuche started by President Kim Il-song and a revolutionary struggle of a new, higher stage to carry it through to accomplishment.

The dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il formulated the revolutionary ideas of the respected and beloved leader President Kim Il-song as an integral system of the idea, theory and method of chuche and is applying them to all domains in an allround way.

[Text] Pyongyang, December 1 (KCNA)--World revolutionary people deeply revere and praise the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il as the successor to the cause of chuche started by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, according to reports.

UGANDAN PRESIDENT ADDRESSES KIM IL-SONG'S PARTY

[Text] Pyongyang December 1 (KCNA)--His Excellency A. Milton Obote, president of the Uganda People's Congress and president of the Republic of Uganda, who is heading the Ugandan party and government delegation, made a speech at a grand banquet arranged this evening at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea and president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, in honour of the delegation on an official goodwill visit to our country.

He said in his speech: I thank you dear president most sincerely for the very warm welcome extended to me and my delegation since my arrival in your country and particularly in your beautiful city of Pyongyang.

This very warm welcome accorded to me and my delegation is a testimony to the deep and fraternal bond of friendship and brotherhood that exists between our two countries and our peoples. I bring to you, comrade president, and through you to the government and people of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, warm and fraternal greetings from my party, the government and the people of Uganda.

It is my sincere hope that during my stay in your country, the contacts and talks I shall hold with you and your government will further result in the strengthening and deepening of the cordial relationship that already exists between our two countries and peoples.

Mr. President, since my party won the general elections in December of last year, your country is one of the only two countries outside Africa that I have visited. I have chosen to visit your country, first because we share many common ideals and objectives within the context of the nonaligned movement and secondly because of the great strides your country has made to develop for the benefit of the masses of the people of Korea.

Uganda, comrade president, is bound to learn a lot from your experience particularly now when Uganda is engaged in the task of rehabilitation and reconstruction.

We believe that the economic achievement and peace that your country now enjoys under your enlightened and progressive leadership are a shining example of true and dedicated leadership, deserving of the support of the masses. We come to your country to see for ourselves these achievements with a hope that we can benefit from your experience.

Comrade president, both your government and the government of the Republic of Uganda are committed to the principles of nonalignment and self reliance. It is in this context that we view favourably the cardinal principles of chuche that is designed to ensure the independence, economic and social development of your people. We are also happy that the policy of unification of Korea that you proposed was endorsed at the 6th congress of the Workers' Party of Korea in October last year.

Uganda supports the peaceful unification of Korea. It is our hope and wish that unity will finally prevail in the Korean Peninsula. Uganda looks forward to the day when the Korean people will be united as one nation, under one leadership and one government. We support all your efforts in the search of this unity through peaceful means.

Mr. President, permit me to refer to a problem that concerns the liberation movements in southern Africa, which problem has both international and regional dimensions. In southern Africa, the racist regime in South Africa continues to occupy the territory of Namibia illegally, while within South Africa itself, the regime practices the policy of apartheid. Both policies constitute a serious threat to international peace and security. Moreover, South Africa has launched an all-out effort to destabilise the entire southern African region and particularly the Frontline States through acts of sabotage, and actual military invasions of the various independent states of the region, as witnessed recently in Angola and only this week in the case of Seychelles.

Today, South Africa rejects the only peaceful plan for Namibia's independence as envisaged by the United Nationsl Security Council Resolution No 435.

We note with satisfaction the positive policy of your country in the matter of the independence of African nations. On this question of independence, we hope to benefit further from your own wealth of experience in the maintenance of international peace and security, and in the decolonisation issue as a whole.

Mr. President, let me turn briefly on the situation in Uganda. Since the liberation of Uganda in 1979, your country has been one of the few nations that came to our aid in a positive and effective way. You, comrade president, have, in a meaningful manner appreciated not only the sufferings but also the efforts of the people of Uganda to establish a new era of development. I take this opportunity to register here the highest appreciation of my party, the Ugandan People's Congress, the government and the people of Uganda for the assistance that you have rendered to us.

In conclusion, comrade president, I wish once again to thank you, your party, and through you the people of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for the very warm welcome accorded to me and my delegation. I look forward to the talks that I shall hold with you. It is my sincere hope that these talks will contribute to the deepening of the cordial relationship that already exists between us.

It is to that happy relationship and your comrade president's continued personal good health, prosperity and unity of the Korean people as a whole that I give the toast.

Long live Comrade President Kim Il-song.

Long live Uganda-Korean Friendship and Long live the Nonaligned Movement.

Dear Comrade President,

My visit to the Democratic People's Republic of Korea which has now drawn to an end has been most rewarding and enjoyable. My delegation and I have been deeply touched by the warm reception you Comrade President bestowed upon us.

My delegation came at a time when the weather of cold winter is beginning in your country. We depart to return home without any memory of the winter weather. Instead, we return to Uganda with the memory of friendship between our two peoples and the warm heart with which you Comrade President have given to our visit. The rays of your warm heart towards us, spread to your comrades in the Workers' Party of Korea and to the Government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

My delegation has held very fruitful discussions in this great and modern city of Pyongyang. We have tried during our visit to see, as much as we could, practical schemes through which the people of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea have recorded miraculous achievements.

Comrade President, we go to Uganda with the knowledge that your chuche idea to the people of Korea to do things themselves and with their own strength, is the foundation of the great strides which the people of Korea have made in all fields of human endeavour.

What your leadership has achieved in this country constitutes a pillar of strength within the Non-Aligned Movement. I take this oppportunity to congratulate you for all the achievements recorded by the people of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

We have signed agreements for co-operation between the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the Republic of Uganda. The core of these agreements is the personal contact I have established with you, and the personal contact the ministers of our two countries have established between themselves. Comrade president, it is the personal contact which in my view, is the fountain to water and give strength to the protocols, agreements and memoranda of understanding which have been signed.

Comrade president, we have been looked after extremely well, and the traditional Korean hospitality has been extended to us in abundance.

Finally, comrade president, let me conclude by saying this: Let there be as much contact between our two nations, let there be much contact between the leaders of our two countries. Please accept, comrade president, the assurances of my highest esteem.

DRIVE FOR NEW ARABLE LAND DESCRIBED

[Text] Pyongyang, November 23 (KCNA)--A mass drive for obtaining new land is gaining momentum in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea to further expand the area under cultivation.

Over 6,740 hectares of new land was obtained throughout the country under the far-reaching plan of grand nature-remaking unfolded by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the fourth plenary meeting of the sixth Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea.

In recent 10 days alone South Pyongan Province acquired 1,000 hectares of new arable land and North Pyongan Province and Kangwon Province over 800 hectares each.

Kangwon Province has set itself the goal of bringing under cultivation 2,000 hectares of more land within this year and 1,000 hectares more before the spring sowing next year.

North and South Hwanghae provinces which set it a goal to acquire 2,700 hectares more land each this year have registered big successes by concentrically mobilizing machines in this project.

Unpa and Pyongsan counties of North Hwanghae Province have already obtained hundreds of hectares of new land and Ongjin County of South Hwanghae Province over 100 hectares of land and finished the irrigation project in over 50 hectares of tideland in the recent 10 days or so.

Big efforts are continuously directed to the work for obtaining more arable land in North and South Hamgyong provinces which have already acquired over 1,000 and 700 hectares more land respectively.

Sinhung County of South Hamgyong Province which has brought 150 hectares of more land under cultivation is striving to obtain 50 more hectares of land before the spring sowing next year.

In Korea where the area of arable land is limited and the per hectare grain output has reached a high level, an important reserve for the increased production of grain lies in the acquirement of new land and the reclamation of tideland.

In Korea 300,000 hectares of tideland will be reclaimed and 200,000 hectares of new land be acquired in the 1980's.

AFRICAN STRUGGLE AGAINST 'IMPERIALISM' HAILED

SK020059 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1514 GMT 1 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, December 1 (KCNA)--Papers here today dedicate articles to the "day of the struggle for the withdrawal of imperialism from Africa."

NODONG SINMUN in a signed article titled "The Day of Complete Liberation of Africa Is Sure To Come" says:

On this occasion the Korean people express militant solidarity with the African people struggling against imperialism, colonialism and racism and for the complete liberation of the continent.

It continues:

After many countries achieved independence amid the fierce flames of the anti-imperialist national-liberation struggle the Zimbabwean people who had been subjected to all sorts of misfortunes and sufferings under the colonial rule and the racial discrimination for more than 80 years attained their independence in April last year.

Africa which had been called a "colonial continent" and a "dark continent" in the past has today turned into a continent of light.

But the African peoples cause of anti-imperialism and national liberation has not yet been accomplished. The peoples of some southern African countries are still groaning under the racist rule.

With the active support of the imperialists the South African racists are enforcing a brutal racist policy to harshly suppress the just struggle of the people and wantonly violating the dignity and independence of the neighbouring countries, continuously intensifying provocative acts of aggression against these countries.

But this is the last-ditch effort of the doomed.

Today the African people are vigorously struggling for the complete liberation and unity of the continent, smashing the aggressive manoeuvres of the imperialists, colonialists and racists.

The struggle for expelling imperialism from Africa and achieving the complete liberation of this continent is the sacred cause of the African people to become the master of their destiny and part of the struggle to cut the lifeline of imperialism on the globe.

Our people will as ever express active support to and firm solidarity with the African people in their struggle.

The day of the complete liberation of Africa is sure to come riding on the crest of the rising tide of the national-liberation struggle.

MINJU CHOSON carries an article headlined "The Just Struggle of the African People Will Certainly Be Crowned With Victory."

SEOUL HOME STRUCK BY NORTH KOREAN BALLOON DEBRIS

SK082326 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 1000 GMT 8 Dec 81

[Text] A bundle of drycell batteries, believed to have been attached to a balloon launched southward by the North Korean puppets, fell through the roof and ceiling of a private house in Seoul and landed on the floor. Institutions concerned are investigating this incident. Reporter Kim Chong-yul of the metropolitan area desk has a report:

A bundle of dry batteries truck the house of Kim Kwan-sik, 41, located at 6, No 3 Hongje-dong, Sodaemun-ku, Seoul. The drycells are believed to have been attached to a balloon launched by the North Korean puppets.

Kim and six members of his family were watching television in their living room at about 2130 when they suddenly heard a crashing sound coming from the family grandmother's room.

[Begin recording of unidentified woman] We were watching television in the living room last night. It was a little after 2100 when we heard a crashing sound in grandmother's room and we went to investigate. The found something like a bunch of batteries on the floor and the room was filled with dust and debris. We could not even breathe. We found a hole in the ceiling. We were very surprised. [End recording]

This bundle of batteries is 20 cm long, 14 cm wide and 5 cm high and weights about 1 kg. It contains 34 silver-colored drycells, each 1.5 cm in diameter and 5 cm long, bound together with coal tar. A 4-meter-long string, resembling the lacing on sports shoes, was tied at one end of the bundle to the neck of a milk-colored rubber balloon. A piece of thick wrapping paper bearing the written slogan "Expel the U.S. imperialists," about 15 cm long and 20 cm wide, was found attached to one side of the bundle.

Police theorize that the bundle of batteries was used to blow up a time bomb placed in a large balloon containing propaganda materials which the North Korean puppets must have launched to take advantage of the northerly winds.

Police appealed to the people to immediately report to nearby police stations or military units as soon as they find any sedition propaganda leaflets.

MEETING IN FRG BACKS IDEA OF ANTI-CHON TRIBUNAL

SK091032 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1013 GMT 9 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, 9 Dec (KCNA)--A "forum on human rights, independence and peace in South Korea" was recently held in Essen, West Germany, according to a report.

It was sponsored by the Committee for Rescuing Kim Tae-chung headed by Rolf Stolz, executive member of the Central Committee of the Party of Green of West Germany and member of its secretariat.

Present at the forum were representatives of the West German-Korean Committee, the West German-Korean Friendship Association, the Union of Young Socialists of the Social Democratic Party of Germany, the Young Democrats Union of Germany, the West German General Trade Union Federation, the West German branch of the Amnesty International and other public organisations of West Germany and more than 10 organisations of overseas Koreans including the "Council of Christians Overseas for National Unification," the "Korean Womens Council in Germany" and the "Union of Korean Workers in Germany" in West Germany.

Invited to the forum were Guy Dupre, secretary general of the International Liaison Committee for the Independent and Peaceful Reunification of Korea, Robert Charvin, secretary general of the International Committee of Jurists for Democracy and Human Rights in South Korea, and Friedebert Kollmann, chairman of the Austrian Jurists Union for the Defense of Democracy and Human Rights in South Korea.

Rolf Stolz made a report on the present South Korean situation.

A magic lantern film showing the violation of human rights and the Kwangju popular uprising in South Korea was screened at the forum.

The forum took place, divided into two committees. A debate was held at the committees on the violation of human rights and the people's struggle against the military dictatorship in South Korea and the foreign forces military and economic interference in South Korea.

After seeing the documentary film "The Kwangju Popular Uprising Against the Military Fascist Clique," the participants discussed the results of the committee meetings and heard speeches of Guy Dupre, Robert Charvin and Friedebert Kollmann.

They also saw round a photo exhibition on the Kwangju incident and exchanged views on the situation prevailing in South Korea, the question of Korean reunification, the danger of a new war in Korea and the question of preserving peace in Asia.

The forum adopted a resolution calling for further isolating the Chon Tu-hwan puppet clique in the international arena and intensifying the international movement of solidarity with the South Korean people fighting for the democratisation of society and the reunification of the country.

Noting that the Chon Tu-hwan "regime" is trying to wear a "mask of freedom" with the backing of foreign forces, the resolution says: This situation puts forward the following tasks:

It is imperative to assist the democratic resistance fighters in South Korea by collecting aid funds and expose the truth of the South Korean situation.

It should be demanded that Kim Tae-chung and all other political prisoners be set free and an end be put to tortures and solitary confinement imposed upon them.

Bundeswehr should immediately stop giving education to South Korean "army officers" and no military aid be given to South Korea.

Korea should be turned into a nuclear-free zone.

Human rights, freedom of association and freedom of activities should be ensured and peace be brought about in South Korea.

The South Korean forum welcomes the proposal of French friends for forming an international tribunal to denounce the Chon Tu-hwan clique.

Let us collect aid funds for the South Korean forum.

DAILY SCORES S. KOREAN TRIAL OF WORKERS

SK090542 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0427 GMT 9 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, 9 Dec (KCNA)--A murderous trial of persons involved in the "case of the National Federation of Democratic Workers" is now on in Seoul.

According to an announcement of the puppets, this is a case of underground movement in which Yi Tae-pok, director of the "Kwangmin Publishing House," together with his colleagues, organised the "National Federation of Democratic Workers" and the "Federation of Democratic Students" to lead the struggle of students and workers.

Last summer, the puppets raided the "Kwangmin Publishing House" all of a sudden to arrest Yi Tae-pok and then apprehended 400 people involved in the "case of the Federation of Democratic Students" and 50 others involved in the "case of the National Federation of Democratic Workers," 15 persons of whom were prosecuted after being interrogated for several months by the puppets.

In this connection NODONG SINMUN today carries a signed commentary titled "Irresistable Demand of Development of South Korean Working Class Movement." It says: The military hooligans trial of those involved in the "case of the National Federation of Democratic Workers" on preposterous charges fully reveals the truculent nature of these fascist hangmen and human butchers.

The birth and development of a democratic movement of the working class in South Korea is an inevitable outcome of the realities of the South Korean society.

"The National Federation of Democratic Workers" appeared reflecting the urgent demand of the South Korean workers and other working people and it was entirely just in view of the development of the South Korean society.

The arrest and trial of those involved in "The National Federation of Democratic Workers" by the South Korean military fascists is a crude violation of democratic freedom of the people and their right to existence and is entirely illegal. It is nothing but a military gangsters rowdyism.

As seen in the case of "The National Federation of Democratic Workers," the puppet cliques suppressive act of arresting at a time and putting to murderous trial hundreds of workers and students who demanded only elementary democratic rights is a vicious attempt to eradicate the democratic forces and totally stamp out democracy in South Korea.

"Liberation from political suppression" and "liberation from poverty" much vaunted by the Chon Tu-hwan clique are a sheer lie and no more than a camouflage to cover its fascist dictatorial rule and criminal extortion of the people. The ever intensified fascist suppression by the puppet clique is an expression of the desperate frenzy of those faced with a serious ruling crisis.

The commentary stresses: The cases of "The National Federation of Democratic Workers" and "The Federation of Democratic Students" show the desire of the South Korean workers and people of all strata for democracy and their will not to tolerate the military fascist rule. No fascist suppression can break their desire and will. Even under brutal suppression the struggle of the South Korean people against fascism and for democracy will be waged vigorously and genuine democratic organisations will appear in the thick of the struggle.

Suppression will bring about nothing.

The traitor [Chon Tu-hwan must step down from "power"] before he is got rid of by the people for his more towering crimes.

As demanded by the people, a democratic government should be established, all the illegally arrested people including those workers and students who were arrested and referred to trial in the recent cases be unconditionally and immediately released and the freedom of democratic activity be ensured in South Korea.

TOKYO RALLY HITS S. KOREAN POLITICAL PRISONERS SUPPRESSION

[Text] Tokyo, 7 Dec (KNS-KCNA)--A "meeting of Santama citizens for denouncing the murder of Yi Chae-mun in prison and rescuing persons suppressed in the case of the South Korean National Liberation Front" was held in Tokyo on 3 December under the sponsorship of the "Santama Society for Rescuing Persons Suppressed in the Case of the South Korean National Liberation Front."

At the meeting the reporter vehemently denounced the South Korean puppet clique for its baseless fabrication of the so-called "case of the National Liberation Front" in South Korea and its murderous "trial" of political offenders.

Pointing to the brutal tortures imposed upon Yi Chae-mun who was murdered in prison by the South Korean puppet clique, he said that the death of Yi Chae-mun in prison was a result of the barbarous suppression committed to threaten the South Korean people desirous of democracy in society.

Noting that the South Korean puppet clique's barbarous suppression of political prisoners is committed in "close liaison" with the Japanese reactionaries, he called for widely informing the broad segments of Japanese people of this and further expanding and strengthening the movement for rescuing the political prisoners.

At the meeting a lecture was given on the subject "the South Korean situation surrounding the suppression of those involved in the case of the South Korean National Liberation Front," and speeches were made by members of various rescue organisations.

The meeting adopted a declaration expressing the determination to fight till all the political prisoners are released in South Korea.

MEETING SCORES S. KOREAN CAMPUS SUPPRESSION

SK080406 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0332 GMT 8 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, 8 Dec (KCNA)--A meeting of university and college students in Pyongyang for denouncing the South Korean military fascist clique's suppression of campus was held on 6 December at the Central Hall of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea.

The meeting was attended by a large number of students in the city burning with resentment at the South Korean military fascist clique hell bent on suppressing the campus.

The platform of the meeting was taken by Hong-mun, vice-chairman of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland, Chong Tu-hwan, Presidium member of the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, Chi Chang-ik, president of Kim Il-song University, Yo Yon-ku, vice-director of the secretariat of the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland, and other personages concerned and presidents and rectors of universities and colleges in the city.

Yi Yong-su, chairman of the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea, made a speech at the meeting. Recalling that South Korean students ablaze with the sense of justice and patriotism waged a daring anti-U.S., anti-Chon Tu-hwan struggle ceaselessly under the uplifted banner of resistance against fascism and for democracy in October and November following April, May, July and September, he dwelt on a powerful struggle against fascism and for democracy waged by students of University for Foreign Studies in Seoul, Chonnam University in Kwangju, Seoul University and Yonse University.

He said: The Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique is not only harshly cracking down upon the growing movement of students against fascism and for democracy but also staging trials and penalizing many patriotic students without hesitation by faking up groundless "cases."

The Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique illegally arrests and detains without legal procedures tens of thousands of guiltless students and people and brutally persecutes and massively murders them and, furthermore, constantly puts them to barbaric tortures, he said.

All these facts, the speaker went on, prove that the Chon Tu-hwan group is lording it over as a fascist dictator more ferocious, brutal and cruel than the successive rulers of South Korea, particularly Pak Chong-hui, who won himself an ill fame for his military fascist dictatorship for 18 years.

The U.S. imperialists are entirely to blame for the establishment of the most brutal military fascist dictatorship worst in history in South Korea today, whereby the Chon Tu-hwan group is pursuing fascism and war, treacheries and splitting manoeuvres.

Saying that nothing can justify the criminal campus suppression by the Chon Tu-hwan group in South Korea, the speaker continued: Though the South Korean military fascist clique is scheming to maintain its dictatorship and gratify its desire for long-term office by cracking down upon the students with bayonets, it is a foolish act of those digging their own graves.

The Chon Tu-hwan group should draw a proper lesson from the miserable end of the preceding dictator and promptly discontinue the fascist suppression of the campus, unconditionally release all the illegally arrested students and people, apologize to the nation for its never-to-be-condoned crimes in having established the military fascist "regime" on the corpses of fellow countrymen, murdered fellow countrymen by fascism, rendered the situation strained by anti-communism and confrontation, trampled underfoot the dignity of the nation with treacheries and increased national misfortunes by division, and step down from "power" as early as possible as demanded by the South Korean students and people.

The U.S. imperialists should give up the foolish scheme to dominate South Korea by manipulating such despicable human rubbish as Chon Tu-hwan and withdraw from South Korea without delay, taking along their troops and all aggression armed forces including nuclear weapons, he demanded.

We students in the northern half of the republic, always regarding it as their noble national duty to support the just patriotic struggle of the South Korean students and people, will actively support and encourage their struggle with might and main, declared the speaker.

The meeting was addressed by students of Kim Il-song University, Kim Hyong-chik Normal University and Pyongyang Machine College.

Introduced at the meeting were declarations of anti-fascist struggle made public by South Korean students.

STUDENTS RALLY DENOUNCES CHON'S SUPPRESSION

SK101522 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1500 GMT 10 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongsong, 10 Dec (KCNA)--An indignation meeting of students in Pyongsong City, South Pyongan Province, was held on 8 December in denunciation of the crackdown on campus by the South Korean military fascist clique.

Speeches were made at the meeting by Yi Yong-sik, chairman of the South Pyongan Provincial Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea, and students of Pyongsong Medical College, the Pyongsong Teachers College and the Pyongnam Coal Industry College.

Noting that the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique is these days brutally suppressing the just struggle of the South Korean students for campus freedom and the democratisation of society, illegally arresting and jailing many students and penalizing them in murderous court and murdering them in prisons, the speakers said: Such fascist brutalities are an extention of the hideous suppression for breaking the spirit of struggle of the students against fascism and for democracy.

They said that the anti-"government" struggle waged at many universities and colleges in South Korea is an eruption of their pent-up grievances and resentment against traitor Chon Tu-hwan, the rare fascist murderer.

Declaring that the brutal crackdown on campus by the Chon Tu-hwan group in South Korea today cannot be justified with anything, they said it is foolish of the South Korean military fascist clique to attempt to maintain its dictatorial power by suppressing students with the bayonet.

They said that the Chon Tu-hwan group, drawing a proper lesson from the miserable end of the preceding dictator, must immediately stop the fascist suppression of campus and unconditionally release all students and people who have been illegally imprisoned.

They demanded that the Chon Tu-hwan clique apologize to the nation for their indelible crimes in having established a military fascist "regime" on the corpses of fellow countrymen, murdered fellow countrymen with fascism, heightened tension with anti-communist confrontation, violated the dignity of the nation with treachery and added to the national misfortunes with division and step down from "power" at an early date as demanded by the South Korean students and people.

The speakers declared that our youth and students will actively support and encourage the just patriotic struggle of the South Korean students and people with might and main.

Introduced at the meeting were declarations of anti-fascist struggle of the South Korean students.

DAILY SCORES CHON CLIQUE SUPPRESSION

[Text] Pyongyang, 11 Dec (KCNA)--The Chon Tu-hwan clique in mid-June arrested and jailed Yi Tae-pok, director of the "Kwangminsa," and over 50 persons connected with the labour movement and over 400 students of 10 universities and colleges including Seoul University, on charges of involvement in the "case of National Federation of Democratic Workers" and the "case of Federation of Democratic Students," and has since put them to murderous trials.

This is the topic of a signed commentary of MINJU CHOSON Friday. The commentary says: According to the "indictment" made public by the puppet Seoul District Public Procurators Office, Yi Tae-pok, after graduating a university, opened the "Kwangminsa" Publishing House and brought out publications on foreign labour problems and collections of articles by specialists of labour problems in South Korea, conducting a theoretical activity on the labour movement. He read progressive books and studied realities of South Korea and labour movement and, after the Kwangju popular uprising, groped for a road of the development of a democratic labour movement while working as an apprentice at a work site.

After making active preparations for the development of a democratic labour movement and for the formation of a new workers organisation, together with his colleagues, he convened the inaugural meeting of the "National Federation of Democratic Workers" at which the "Central Committee of the Federation" was elected and the character of the "Federation" and its organisational form, system and organisational principle, its immediate fighting task and fighting slogans were discussed, and its rules were discussed and adopted.

The rules defined that the purpose of the "National Federation of Democratic Workers" was to defend the national interest from the domination of advanced monopoly and free people from domestic comprador capital and its regime, and raised it as an immediate fighting task to rally workers into the organisation and democratise the existing trade unions. And they also brought it forward as immediate fighint slogans to guarantee the three rights of labour, and enforce an 8-hour working day and set the minimum wages.

On the basis of already announced "indictment," the Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique brands the formation of the "Federation" and activities of its members as crimes and is brandishing the "national security law," the "martial law," the "martial law decrees," the "criminal law" and so on. This is a heinous fascist outrage against justice and democracy.

Noting that the members of the "National Federation of Democratic Workers" did not do any act liable to penalty, the commentary goes on: They set it as the purpose of the organisation to defend the national interests and guarantee the rights and interests of broad strata of workers and other toiling masses. It is a patriotic act to be praised by the nation.

It reminds us of a thief crying "stop thief!" that the group of traitors selling the interests of the nation, feather and all, brands those who were active to defend the national interests as criminals.

The murderous trials of the members of the "Federation" staged by the Chon Tu-hwan clique on preposterous charges are a high-handed fascist arbitrariness challenging the aspiration of the people and demand of the times.

The Chon Tu-hwan clique must immediately release the illegally arrested persons involved in the "case of the National Federation of Democratic Workers" and step down from power as demanded by all the South Korean people.

FOREIGN SEAMEN SUPPORT KOREAN REUNIFICATION

[Text] Pyongyang, 14 Dec (KCNA)--A joint meeting of crewmen of foreign ships was held at Haeju Port on 11 December in support of the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea.

The meeting was attended by the crewmen of the Greek ship "Medlock," the Panamanian ship "Hachiman" and the Japanese ship "Takashiromaru-No. 31."

Placed on the platform of the meeting was a portrait of the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song.

Michel Filipakopulous, master of the Greek ship "Medlock," spoke first at the meeting. Noting that the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo advanced by the great leader His Excellency President Kim Il-song is the most realistic and fair one, he ardently hoped that the Korean people would enjoy happiness and peace be guaranteed on the Korean peninsula with Korea reunified independently and peacefully. And he expressed full support to the proposal for founding the DCRK.

Speaking next were E. G. Dairo, master of the Panamanian ship "Hachiman," and Akihiko Joko, master of the Japanese ship "Takashiromaru-No. 31."

A letter to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and a letter to the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il were adopted at the meeting.

A joint resolution was adopted at the meeting, which says:

Firstly, we warmly support and hail the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo put forward by the great leader of the Korean people President Kim Il-song, considering it to be the most fair, reasonable and realistic one, and express the conviction that the reunification of Korea would be achieved in accordance with the three principles of independence, peaceful reunification and great national unity put forward by him.

Secondly, we hope that a conference for the promotion of national reunification will be convened at an early date, considering that the joint statement of the political parties and public organisations of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea is a practical step for realising the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo.

Thirdly, the occupation of South Korea by the U.S. imperialists is the source of the division of Korea and a constant threat to world peace.

We demand an immediate and unconditional withdrawal of the U.S. troops from South Korea.

Fourthly, the "proposal for mutual visits" of Chon Tu-hwan is a product of his sinister and vicious scheme to suppress the sentiments and movement for national reunification growing among the South Korean people and get out of the fix.

We strongly denounce this insidious political intrigue and demand an immediate resignation of the South Korean military fascist clique.

Fifthly, we will conduct versatile activities practically helpful to the Korean reunification such as propaganda activities, solidarity movement and signature campaign, deeply conscious that the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea fully accords with our desire to live a peaceful and democratic life, freed from all manner of oppression.

MEETING IN FRANCE NOTES BOOK ON KOREAN QUESTION

[Text] Pyongyang, 11 Dec (KCNA)--A meeting was recently held at the building of the Senate of the French Parliament on the occasion of the publication of a book containing documents of the world conference for the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea, according to a report.

The meeting cosponsored by the International Liaison Committee for the Independent and Peaceful Reunification of Korea and the French Action Committee to Support the Independent and Peaceful Reunification of Korea was attended by the chairman of the group of communist senators, the chairman of the European Parliament from the Socialist Party and members of the parliament from various political parties, representatives of political parties and public organisations, officials of foreign embassies and foreign correspondents in France.

The meeting was addressed by Guy Dupre, secretary general of the International Liaison Committee for the Independent and Peaceful Reunification of Korea.

The world people can never be indifferent to the fact that the Korean people, a homogeneous nation with a 5,000 year long civilization have been undergoing the tragedy of division for 36 years due to the outside forces, he said, and stressed: The world conference held in Algeria clearly showed that the Korean question is one of the most urgent problems to prevent a new war and defend peace and security in Asia.

He continued: Since the conference the solidarity movement for supporting the reunification of Korea has become more brisk in all parts of the world. Although the Korean question was not put on the agenda of the current U.N. General Assembly, delegates of many countries in their speeches supported the proposal for the reunification of Korea. This well shows that the world public is directing deep attention to the Korean question.

He vehemently denounced the United States and the South Korean puppets for further increasing tension by intensifying military provocations against the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and for scheming to block the home visit of Koreans overseas.

The proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo put forward by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song is the most fair and realistic way of putting an end to the division of the country and reunifying it, he emphasized. He called upon all the progressive forces of the world to support with might and main the struggle of the Korean people for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country.

KAESONG STUDENTS DENOUNCE REPRESSION IN SOUTH

[Text] Kaesong, 11 Dec (KCNA)--An indignation meeting of college students in Kaesong denouncing the South Korean military fascist clique's suppression of the campus was held at the House of Culture in the city on 10 December. It was attended by personages concerned and students of the colleges in the city.

Chairman of the Kaesong Municipal Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea Kim Chong-yong and many students took the floor at the meeting. Referring to the grave situation prevailing in South Korea where numerous students are now illegally arrested, penalised and murdered due to the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique's brutal suppression of the campus, they said: The hearts of youth and students of Kaesong are burning with surging indignation at the fascist clique. The valiant struggle of the South Korean students for campus freedom and democracy in society is a manifestation of their patriotic will to build a democratic, new society free from aggressors and dictatorship and an expression of their desire to win back their lost freedom and rights to learning in the campus, they noted.

Owing to the Chon Tu-hwan group's suppression of the campus, over 150 students of more than 20 universities and colleges in South Korea have been illegally arrested and jailed since last September, they pointed out, and continued: With no pretext can the Chon Tu-hwan clique justify its criminal suppression of the campus in South Korea nor can it shirk its responsibility. The Chon Tu-hwan clique must look straight at the situation, stop its suppression of the campus at once, immediately set free the illegally arrested students and people and step down from "power" without delay.

They stressed: The U.S. imperialists must immediately discontinue encouraging the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique and withdraw from South Korea without delay, taking along all aggression forces including the U.S. troops and nuclear weapons. The youth and students in Kaesong extend full support and encouragement to the South Korean students who are valiantly struggling for campus freedom, democracy in society and national reunification, fearing neither prison nor gallows, they declared.

Declarations of anti-fascist struggle of the South Korean students were read out at the meeting.

It was attended by Pak Su-tong and other personages concerned, directors of colleges and their students in the city.

Chairman of the South Hwanghae Provincial Committee of the League of the Socialist Working Youth of Korea Yi Song-sop and many students took the floor at the meeting.

Pointing out that recently the Chon Tu-hwan clique which has established the dictatorship by military power arrested, detained and brutally tortured numerous students who rose in struggle against fascism and for democracy, the speakers said: No matter how hard they may try, they cannot hold in check the just struggle of the South Korean students and people.

Saying that the South Korean puppets suppression is unthinkable apart from the instigation of the U.S. imperialists, they declared: The U.S. imperialists are our people's sworn enemy manipulating behind the scene all the barbarous criminal acts of the Chon Tu-hwan clique.

Traitor Chon Tu-hwan must discontinue the unpardonable criminal act of murdering fellow countrymen and serving its masters with division and treachery, apologize to the nation and step down from "power" without delay, they stressed.

They declared: The youth and students in the northern half of the DPRK will more actively support the struggle of the South Korean students and people against fascism and for democracy.

Declarations of the anti-fascist struggle issued by South Korean students were read out at the meeting.

HAMHUNG STUDENTS DENOUNCE SUPPRESSION IN SOUTH

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--College students in Hamhung held an indignation meeting on 13 December, at which they bitterly denounced the South Korean military fascist clique's suppression of the campus. The meeting was attended by Kim Hyong-chong and other personages concerned and rectors and students of colleges in the city.

Speeches were made at the meeting. The speakers said that the traitor Chon Tu-hwan, regarding students as the most dangerous "anti-government forces," faked up the "case of the Federation of Democratic Students," arrested hundreds of students and intellectuals, put them to brutal tortures and then staged the farce of formally setting free some students unable to impose "crimes" upon "those involved in the case" and conscripted them into the puppet army.

They also pointed out that the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique expelled from the campus or disciplined under the pretext of "poor school records" a large number of students who had participated in the struggle against fascism and for democracy and rigged up the "system of fixing the number of graduates" to arbitrarily deal with those students who fall out of its favour.

Saying that the Chon Tu-hwan military fascist clique is harshly cracking down upon the struggle of patriotic students against fascism and for democracy, jailing, brutally torturing and murdering them, the speakers declared: No brutalities, however, can break their fighting spirit in the struggle for freedom and democracy.

They demanded that the Chon Tu-hwan group immediately discontinue the fascist suppression of the campus, unconditionally release all the illegally arrested and imprisoned students and people and step down from "power" at an early date as demanded by the South Korean students and people.

Declarations of the anti-fascist struggle issued by the South Korean students were read out at the indignation meeting.

OVERSEAS KOREAN SPEAKS AT VIENNA CONFERENCE

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--In his congratulatory speech at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna, Kang Won-chin, chairman of the Institute of Democracy, Nation and Unification, said: Thirty-five years have passed since the outside forces pretending to be "liberator" partitioned our land and split the nation, and occupied one half of the territory to take the place of the Japanese imperialists. Under the slogans of cold war, anti-communism and "defence of free world" going against the reunification, the desire of our nation, the outside forces have deployed over 700 nuclear warheads at important points of the south. This is precisely due to their aggressive nature.

For the purpose of securing their permanent military base, the outside forces actively supported the military fascists in the south to commit the Kwangju massacre, brutal atrocities of the 20th century never to be condoned down through generations, and are now in a quandary, unable to shift the responsibility onto anyone.

Noting that only national unity and independent reunification would ensure the future of our nation, he said that this meeting participated in by representatives of Christians, personages of various circles in the north and abroad desirous of national reunification, would be a grand occasion in founding an ideal confederal state for repulsing foreign forces which go against the trend of human history and guaranteeing independence, peace and neutrality.

He expressed the sincere hope that in the future, too, such meeting of representatives at home and abroad would be arranged frequently and further, a conference for the promotion of national reunification to discuss the problem concerning the future of our nation among us Koreans be convened.

U.S. RESIDENT KOREAN SPEAKS AT VIENNA MEETING

[Text] Pyongyang, 12 Dec (KCNA)--Dr Kang Hui-cho, professor of the Walesburg Theological College, the United States, made a keynote speech on the title "Responsibility of Christians in History of Division" at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna, Austria. He said: In the past the U.S. missionaries supported Japan's invasion of our country though they knew full well that if foreign forces invade a country, it would lose an opportunity to make independent development. At that time many Christians of our country followed their assertion.

The division of our country began when the United States bisected it into north and south with the 38th parallel, which had been a military and administrative boundary line of Japan, as a new military boundary line, after the defeat of Japan in the Second World War.

Even at an important historic stage created by Japan's surrender, our Christians did not seek the way of reunification, independence, sovereignty and prosperity but were unfortunately subservient to a too exclusive and pro-American foreign policy and anti-communist policy and became a new cats-paw of foreign forces. We consider that we should be held responsible for this.

The United States of America where people of different races gathered and formed a unified state is the very one that keeps divided our nation which has one and the same language, history, culture and race.

The United States should no longer put a stopper on the patriotic political movement of all the democratic figures who desire reunification and fighters for reunification. To check the obstructionist machinations of the United States is a heavy responsibility which we Christians have to assume in this historic stage, I think.

The recurrence of war is always possible as long as the country is divided into north and the south and is in a state of confrontation.

Reunification can never be achieved by taking an exclusive and hostile attitude towards the political system embodying the chuche idea which has been established in one half of the country. We should be mindful that anti-communism is no more than a political means of those who chant "reunification" only in words, not desirous of it.

For reunification the foreign forces and treacherous forces should be rejected.

I am convinced that when we present at this dialog between north and overseas Christians shoulder a heavy burden self-sacrificingly for the reunification of our nation and world peace, the division at the present historic stage will not be continued and when the history of division comes to an end we overseas Christians will have discharged our responsibility.

U.S. RESIDENT KOREAN ADDRESSES VIENNA MEETING

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--Kang Tae-il, chairman of the "Saegil Committee" in Chicago, the United States, made a congratulatory speech at the dialog between the north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna. He said: It is clear that if the division is continued, it will endanger peace in Asia and the world, let alone the sufferings of our fellow countrymen caused by the division.

If a war breaks out again in our country, it will expand into a world war, a nuclear war, which will impose irrevocable disasters upon mankind on the globe. But, if our nation closely unite with a single-hearted desire to save the nation, we will surely be able to achieve a peaceful reunification, build a model of an independent unified state in the world and make a great contribution to world peace.

The reunification of our country is delayed because the United States has occupied the south and reduced it to a colony, and tries to fish in troubled waters by egging its stooges on to a fratricidal war to swallow up even the north, while pursuing a policy of freezing the division.

Due to the 36-year long colonial policy of the United States, the national division has been deepened and the south has turned into a dark society where the haves get richer and the have-nots poorer, murder and robbery are prevalent and suicide cases take place almost everyday and a bitter slavish life is forced on people and, at last, the Kwangju bloodbath was staged.

Despite the continuation of such national tragedy, the majority of South Korean Christians are chiming in with the anti-communist din of the dictator following the outside forces, while turning their faces away from the suffering popular masses and forcing blind submission upon believers who call on them, unable to endure their sufferings, and robbing them of their little money, merely, chanting "amen" and "amen" telling that they would go to heaven after they die. Heaven is not in the sky above clouds. A human society where justice and truth, peace and love are realized is precisely heaven, I think.

The speaker expressed his belief that the peaceful reunification of the country would be realized and the consistent efforts for justice and truth bear fruit.

CHOE TO-SIK SPEAKS AT VIENNA MEETING ON KOREA

SK151048 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1008 GMT 15 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--Dr Choe To-sik, a Korean resident in the United States, made a congratulatory speech at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification which was held in Vienna. He said: It was the spring of 1971, that is, 10 years ago from now. The fifth session of the Fourth Supreme People's Assembly of the north set forth an eight-point reunification proposal on the basis of the proposal for the independent reunification of the country advanced by respected President Kim Il-song.

At that time I went round New York, calling for the convocation of a conference of overseas compatriots for the peaceful reunification of the homeland in accordance with the eight-point reunification proposal. But I could not attain my purpose due to obstructions of the splittists at home and abroad, and the forces for reunification were not so strong as today in those days.

I am deeply moved to see that our forces for national reunification have grown into a great strength as compared with what they were 10 years ago and a thousand emotions crowd upon my mind when I see this dialogue for reunification here today, which I desired 10 years ago.

The most important problem for us today is to achieve the sovereignty of the nation, I think. As the United States encroaches upon the sovereignty of our nation, the democratization of the South Korean society has not been realised nor the reunification of the country achieved.

The Chon Tu-hwan group following the United States has left South Korea saddled with debts to the tune of more than $30,000 million and wantonly suppresses the people with fascism, intelligence and the mailed first policy, indulging in anti-nation, anti-democracy and anti-reunification acts. Under such conditions, I think, we should wage a broader patriotic movement for democracy, nation and reunification abroad.

We should expand in the future this meeting today into a broad dialogue for reunification represented not only by Christians but also by all believers and various circles. Thus we should prove with facts that the communists and non-communists can unite with each other and live together. By expanding the reunification movement abroad, we should show that no one can break the will of our Korean nation to achieve reunification, and no more allow the traitors to abuse the word of national reunification, the great word on which the destiny of the nation depends.

CHOE CHONG-YOL SPEAKS AT VIENNA MEETING ON KOREA

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--Delivering a congratulatory speech at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna, Choe Chong-yol, former chairman of the Democratic Koreans United in the Americas, said: It is owing to the outside forces that our nation has suffered ordeals unprecedented in history in long 36 years. Down through history outside forces invaded our country in league with the traitorous forces within our nation.

After the 15 August liberation of our country, the traitors to the nation, pro-Japanese quislings, far from repenting their crimes against the nation, have executed the anti-communist policy of the United States in the southern half of the country divided by outside forces.

Originally, the Suzerain State of Christianity is the United States. The Christians have regarded the United States as the "liberator" and the "saviour." But, what is the United States committing in our territory at present? It is a dyed-in-the-wool aggressor who supports the dictator in massacring students and citizens crying for freedom and democracy. Kwangju was plunged into a sea of blood with the approval of Wickham, the U.S. Army commander.

Some leading forces of Christianity, however, offer prayers at breakfast for these villains and, acting marionettes of the dictatorial "regime," pitifully say their prayers against our compatriots in the north at the Yoido Square, crying "anti-communism, anti-communism."

Today Christianity should not escape from the present sufferings of the nation for a world of sanctuary nor should compromise with the vices of that reality. The only truth lies in resistance for emancipation from the miserable reality, I believe. If the Christians disobey this order of truth, Christianity will be reduced to a religion justifying the evil reality and keeping company with vices and church will be expelled for good and all by the students who are shedding blood in their struggle for freedom and liberation.

Noting that reunification is a cherished desire of the 50 million Koreans, Choe Chong-yol stressed: Reunification is not for a certain individuals and the debate on reunification is not a possession of a certain privileged group. This is a possession of all of us. Reunification is a way out for our nation.

VIENNA CHRISTIAN MEETING APPEALS TO KOREANS

[Text] Pyongyang, 12 Dec (KCNA)--An appeal to the entire compatriots at home and abroad was adopted at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna, Austria.

Noting that to open the road to national reunification, it is necessary above all to eliminate the interference of outside forces in the internal affairs of our country, the appeal says: In pursuance of its selfish, anti-communist Asian policy, the United States keeps occupying one half of the homeland, patronizes the military dictatorship of Chon Tu-hwan, the strangler of democracy and butcher of fellow countrym en, and zealously instigates it to suppression, north-south confrontation and perpetuation of national division.

The entire compatriots at home and abroad should denounce and reject the unjust U.S. policy of aggression and intervention and powerfully arouse international solidarity with our nation's sacred cause of independent reunification.

The Chon Tu-hwan military dictatorial "regime" must be eliminated and all the repressive laws and repressive tools be abolished. The illegally arrested and imprisoned democratic figures, rlligious men, youth and students and patriotic people must be released unconditionally at once and a genuine democratic government led by democratic forces be established.

All the compatriots at home and abroad should more valiantly wage a just struggle for realizing the cause of democracy in the south and further lift up their voices of solidarity within and without.

Noting that the reasonable way of achieving national reunification is to establish a confederal state through a coalition of the north and south on an equal footing, the appeal stresses that the compatriots at home and abroad desirous of the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland should all turn out to the road of reunification and national-salvation for the establishment of a confederal state, the only way out for the nation.

What is most urgently needed for us who should make a dynamic advance for the nation's common cause of reunification is a great unity, the appeal points out, and says: Anyone who values the nation and aspires after reunification should take the patriotic stand of placing the vital interests of the nation above his idea, ideal and principle. People who embrace either Christianity, nationalism or communism should all join hands in perfect harmony.

Broad-range contacts and dialogs between compatriots of various circles should be conducted to realise the cause of reunification.

Broad contacts and open-hearted dialogs between compatriots of different circles at home and abroad will help remove misunderstanding and mistrust and deepen mutual understanding and trust and promote harmony and unity.

This was clearly born out by the recent dialog between Korean Christians at home and abroad.

All the compatriots at home and abroad desirous of national reunification should make all efforts to further widen the arena of such dialog. When the entire compatriots at home and abroad unite for patriotism and advance as a united force, all the obstacles lying in the way of reunification will be surmounted and the cause of national reunification be accomplished without fail.

YOM KUK-YOL KEYNOTES REUNIFICATION MEETING

[Text] Pyongyang, 12 Dec (KCNA)--Yom Kuk-yol, vice-chairman of the Central Committee of the Korean Christians Federation, made a keynote speech titled "Korean Reunification and Outside Forces" at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification which was held in Vienna, Austria.

Proving on the basis of historic facts that the cause of the division of the country lay in the U.S. troops occupation of South Korea, he said: It is the main task for national reunification to remove the U.S. domination and interference in South Korea.

He further said: The distress of the Korean people from the division of the country is evidently the sacrifice of Korea for the interests of the United States. Then why must we put up with such sufferings of national division forced upon us by the United States? Korea will not serve another country and she must never fall a prey to others. We must pave the way for reunification at any cost.

Firstly, we must force the U.S. troops to withdraw and, at the same time, thwart the U.S. interference in the Korean affairs. To this end, we must force the United States to abandon its "two Koreas" policy and refrain from backing the Chon Tu-hwan "regime" politically, militarily and economically or egging it on to north-south confrontation in defiance of the will of the South Korean people.

Secondly, the state of armistice in our country must be converted into a durable peace through talks between the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the United States of America. If the armistice agreement is replaced by a peace agreement, a basic condition will be created for the peaceful reunification of the country and peace in Korea and in Asia will be made durable.

Saying that the cause of national reunification depends, after all, on the stance and efforts of us Koreans, he continued: What is most urgent for us from this point of view is to guide all the Koreans at home and abroad to reject the idea of dependence on outside forces and possess unshakable consciousness of national independence.

The historical experience of our country testifies to the fact that dependence on outside forces leads one to ruin and national division.

That the country was divided after the 15 August liberation and the whole nation has since been subjected to the sufferings of division is, in the final analysis, an inevitable, grave consequence of foreign interference and the policy of dependence on outside forces pursued by the successive South Korean flunkeyist-traitor rulers who regarded the United States as the saviour.

Only when we have unswerving consciousness of national independence can we establish the chuche-based stand of [our] nation in seeing and judging all problems and display great might by taking part consciously in the national movement against outside forces.

The basic guarantee for repulsing the interference of outside forces and achieving the country's independent reunification is the great unity of the nation.

The strength for removing the basic obstacles in the way of reunification is the great unity of the nation, and only united strength can firmly guarantee the establishment of national sovereignty.

It is important for all the compatriots in the north and the south and abroad, I think, to place the one common idea, namely, the national idea, above the differences in ideology and idea, system and political view and, on this basis, achieve great national unity and form a great national united front against outside forces.

We could successfully remove any obstacles and realize the cherished desire of the nation only when we firmly rallied all the patriotic-minded compatriots on one united front, whether they believe in heaven or nationalism or are engaged in trade or industry.

CHOE TOK-SIN SPEAKS AT VIENNA MEETING ON KOREA

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--Choe Tok-sin, chairman of the Paedal National Council, made a congratulatory speech at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna. He said that the dialog carried great weight in laying a foundation for a dialog for reunification represented not only by Christians but also by all the believers including Chondoists and Buddhists and compatriots of all circles.

In recollecting that he left the south for an alien land, thinking that our nation could not display its greatness under the circumstances of the south, he stressed that when he visited the northern half of the homeland recently, he found that our nation had already become a great nation.

Choe Tok-sin further said: The north is a wonderful society where people can enjoy the highest dignity. I can say without hesitation that in the north the dignity of man is strictly guaranteed from the moment when he was born.

I confirm the faith that if we follow the direction of what is being translated into reality in the northern half we can build on the globe an earthly paradise which mankind has hoped and expected to see for hundreds of, thousands of years, in the near future. In this sense, I visited the north and confirmed the faith that our nation is a great nation.

I would like to stress in particular that, if a nation wants to become a great nation, it must be guided by a great leader. A nation can be a great nation only when it has a great sagacious leader, a tender-hearted venerable leader who gives fullest play to the dignity of mankind and loves equally not only his nation but also entire people and whole mankind. I stress this point because I felt something especially in the north after being received by respected President Kim Il-song.

I firmly believe that as our nation attends the great leader and the sagacious leader, it could become a great nation and will be greater in the future and all its aspirations will be realised more splendidly.

CHOE HONG-HUI SPEAKS AT VIENNA MEETING ON KOREA

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--Choe Hong-hui, publisher of PAEDAL SINBO and president of the International Federation of Taekwondo, made a congratulatory speech at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna, Austria.

Noting that the tragedy of 36 years of long division of the homeland is deplorable, indeed, Choe Hong-hui said: We can live only when the country is reunified. It is needless to say that when we fail to achieve the country's reunification our nation will either be destroyed or be forced into slavery. But, some people now say that it is better to sit still, as they cannot talk or move under the terrorism of Chon Tu-hwan. But I think that, as terrorism is intensified, we should take a more vehement action and let out louder cries.

I always consider the formula of reunification to be simple. Is it not the shortest cut to reunification to go and see the north? Why should we hesitate, if we can know things only when we see them at first hand, and we can understand each other only when we meet and have a talk with each other?

I say this on the basis of my own experience. Last year I went to the north called by some people a "forbidden land," leading my disciples. When I went and saw it, everything was instantly understood and unified.

I can say that the north and the south have already been unified as far as Taekwondo is concerned. Therefore, I believe that if the scope of dialog is steadily expanded in different domains in the future, not confining it to Christians, the day of the reunification which we hope for and the whole nation aspires after will come quickly.

In this sense I extend thanks to the sponsors who have led the present meeting to a success even under the difficult circumstances in which the murderous clique of Chon Tu-hwan, inferior to a beast and more vicious than cannibals, tried to obstruct even this meeting of Korean Christians.

Choe Hong-hui called for a unity in a struggle to punish at an early date Chon Tu-hwan who acts like a mad dog, sucking the blood of the nation and tightly clinging to outside forces, and to drive the foreign forces obstructive to national reunification out of our homeland.

U.S. RESIDENT KOREAN PROFESSOR ADDRESSES VIENNA TALKS

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--Congratulatory speeches were made by overseas personages of various circles at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna.

Dr Sonu Hak-won, professor at the Michigan University, the United States, said: Over the last 36 years the people in the south have all along languished under a system of dictatorship, their basic human rights violated. For the existence of such an undemocratic system, the sacred cause of national reunification, the desire of the whole nation, has been delayed till today. Worse still, the present military dictatorship of Chon Tu-hwan is preparing even a nuclear war, which the outside forces support.

Noting that after the publication of the 4 July North-South joint statement the direct military spendings of the south had augmented year after year to reach 37 percent, or more than one-third of the total budgetary expenditure, while the defence budget of the north had been on the decrease, he went on: As for the armed forces, the military strength of the south adds up to millions of men, the regular and reserved forces put together, who are armed with modern weapons supplied by the United States. Furthermore, tens of thousands of U.S. troops and hundreds of pieces of SAM missiles are deployed in the south. These facts indicate that the preparations for northward invasion, not southward invasion are being accelerated. Out nation should decisively reject internal and external forces carrying on such war preparations or creating a war atmosphere.

Noting that the south is a society of darkness where the popular masses are sacrificed for the interests of a tiny handful ruling quarters under the domination of outside forces, a society, ruled by "laws" which can hardly be called laws, he said: To stick to anti-communism means opposing reunification. Before arguing about nationalism and communism, we should, above all, be reconciled to each other and seek a peaceful life in unity as compatriots of the same blood. It may be the will of heaven to have the Korean peninsula reunified through President Kim Il-song, an atheist.

There are people who, professing themselves Christians, declare that they would not have dialogue with the communists. And these people say that they would not have dialogue either with Christians who do not follow their doctrine and creed.

Such bigoted way of thinking is a dangerous anti-democratic thinking. It, in the long run, serves for legalising a fascist "regime." Because, they believe that they can survive only by removing all the forces opposed to them by relying on outside forces.

Our national reunification cannot be achieved in this way. Urgently needed to us is a reunification for saving the nation. Judging from the present situation of the south and our surroundings, our country would be reduced to a colony of a great power and our nation would be ruined, if we failed to reunify the country.

Standing behind the flunkeyist traitors and splittists are outside forces, which give priority to the guarantee of their interests. They would not bat an eye, even though the Kwangju tragedy were repeated several times, if it were necessary for their interests.

Through reconciliation and unity, we should end the division created by other's will and achieve national reunification. This is the only way out for the nation and for each individual.

OVERSEAS CHRISTIAN ADDRESSES REUNIFICATION MEETING

[Text] Pyongyang, 14 Dec (KCNA)--Yi Yong-pin, section chief of the editorial staff of the Overseas Christians Association for Reunification of the Fatherland, made a keynote speech under the subtitle "Tasks of Christians for Reunification" at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna, Austria.

Noting that the Christians are members of our nation, not another nation within our nation, the speaker stressed: The entire members of the nation should join in reunifying the one country, one nation. The Christians should repent their past errors and make a new start, Yi Yong-pin said, and underlined the following tasks of the Christians:

Firstly, we must be reconciled. Some of our Christians say that they "cannot be reconciled with the communists in the north," though they may be reconciled with other enemies. They are unchristian and alien Christians who arbitrarily limit the "benevolence of love."

Secondly, we must be freed from foreign forces. It is our common task to liberate the south destitute of national identity and independence from outside forces.

Thirdly, we must join hands with the poor. Our Korean Christians should join hands with the humiliated people, as we are striving to build a country without a ruler.

Fourthly, our greatest common task is the reunification of the country.

Our Christians have believed the United States to be a "defender of freedom and democracy." This was our greatest mistake. We must reflect on the fact that Christianity has been an ideal alliance of foreign forces and domestic ruling forces down through history. Christianity in the south should reflect on the past when it tolerated without criticism the United States and Japan, neo-colonial foreign forces, and described the U.S. imperialist domination over the south as a "good thing" and an "ideal one."

When we Christians have a positive understanding of socialism, the reunification of the country will come nearer. The attitude against socialism, that is, taking those who demand equality in human society for an enemy, is a habitual attitude of the proprietors, the rulers holding power.

If we realized that we could not agree with capitalism, we should take part in social transformation fit for the existence of the popular masses, guaranteeing their right to equality. In other words, we should aspire after socialism, the society of equality for the people, a society without privileges, instead of capitalism.

CPRF LEADER SPEAKS AT VIENNA CONFERENCE

[Text] Pyongyang, 14 Dec (KCNA)--Chon Kum-chol, vice-chairman of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland [CPRF], made a keynote speech titled "Proposal for Founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo and National Task for its Realization" at the dialog between north and overseas Christians for national reunification held in Vienna, Austria. Those who are concerned for the destiny of the country have no objection to reunification, but it is the reality that they differ in their view and stand as to its concrete ways, he said, and continued: In seeking a way of reunification, we base ourselves on three principles.

Firstly, reunification must be realised by the independent force of our nation, not in reliance on outside forces.

Secondly, it must be achieved in a peaceful way, without recourse to armed forces.

Thirdly, great national unity must be promoted in disregard of differences in ideology, system and religious belief.

These principles formulated by the great leader President Kim Il-song were already clarified in the 4 July North-South joint statement and their validity has been recognised at home and abroad.

A reunification proposal worked out on these principles is none other than the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo. The key point of this proposal is to achieve national reunification by bringing the north and the south into a unified confederal state, leaving the two systems as they are. In other words, it is to accomplish the great historical task of national reunification through the establishment of a unified state of confederal form based on the two systems.

After giving a detailed account of the 10-point program to be pursued by the unified state put forward by the respected leader President Kim Il-song, he said: The program of the unified state, by nature, most strictly abides by the principle of fairness, not inclined to the interests of any side of the north and the south, socialism and capitalism, proletariat and men of property, atheists and theists, or to any group.

Underlying the whole system and each point of the program is the idea of independence, democracy, peace and neutrality, the universal political idea of all people. Clear now are the road we must take and the goal we must attain, I think.

For the accomplishment of the great historical task for the establishment of a confederal state, a great unity of the whole nation must be achieved. If the whole nation is to accomplish the reunification cause through unity, it must be rallied on the basis of national idea, transcending the differences in ideology and idea, system and religion.

The struggle for reunification is a struggle between patriots and traitors, not by any means a struggle between communists and nationalists, still less a struggle between atheists and theists.

The biggest obstacle to the realisation of national reunification through a great unity of the whole nation is anti-communism. Anti-communism is forced upon the people, always serving the tiny ruling group in South Korea, which does not want reunification, as its means of rule. In our country, today, anti-communism is a big cancer serving for division and hindering reunification.

The reunification of the country means achieving great alliance of the north and the south and it, in essence, means alliance with communism. Therefore, if reunification is to be achieved, anti-communism must be rejected and alliance with communism be achieved. There is no other way.

It is a common knowledge today that no question concerning the destiny of the nation can be solved with the communists of the north excluded. If the great unity of the nation is to be achieved, the repressive policy also must be removed together with anti-communism.

For reunification, not specific classes and those in power alone, but the entire patriotic forces must take part in it on a nation-wide scale and, for this purpose, a high degree of democracy must be displayed. Reunification without democracy is unthinkable.

For reunification, we must destroy the military rule of Chon Tu-hwan and organise and mobilise all the patriotic forces at home and abroad to establish on its ruins a democratic patriotic regime desirous of democracy and reunification. If the great historical task of national reunification is to be fulfilled, a stage must be set for dialogue and multilateral contacts between patriotic-minded people be achieved.

Needless to say, there would be no room for such murderer of fellow countrymen and splittist against reunification as Chon Tu-hwan at this sacred dialogue on the important affair of the nation.

Believing that this dialogue will make a precious contribution to the removal of the distress of national division and the sacred cause of national reunification, we consider it desirable to repeat such dialogue and expand its scope.

CHON DEMANDS REFORM IN NATIONAL EDUCATION

[Text] President Chon Tu-hwan stressed yesterday the need for never-ending renovation of teachers to build their new image in the new era, calling for a drastic departure from the pattern of education which has so far given first priority to the acquisition of knowledge. "The purpose of educational reforms is not merely to expand educational facilities. Its aim is to seek a change in the quality of education by carrying out the education of well-roumded persons," he said.

The chief executive said that it was a weighty mission of the current generation to lead the younger generation to become honorable masters of an open society by broadening the scope of their vision and thinking.

In his address during the national educator's convention at Chamsil Gymnasium on the occasion of the 13th anniversary of the proclamation of the national education charter, the president said, "When we have achieved this end successfully, the new generation will be a great generation contributing more to the prosperity of mankind. Therefore, we are urged to pool our sincerity and wisdom necessary to realize educational reforms with the same mind as we have when we plant apple trees not only for today but for tomorrow," he went on.

He demanded the establishment of morality among teachers whereby seriousness in study and morality would be maintained with exchanges of love and respect between teachers and students. "We must deeply recognize the point that mutual understanding and trust on a human basis are prerequisites to relations between teachers and pupils. Efforts should thus be exerted to build a consensus of personality between teachers and students," he said emphatically.

He said that the relations between them should neither be converted into a means of catering to popularity nor be transformed into corrupt morality. "Education is the task of cultivating a main body for creation, renovation as well as development. Accordingly, the success or failure of education is the key to the future of a nation," he said, calling upon the educators to do their best to establish educational authority and morality.

The convention was attended by about 12,000 persons from various educational circles, including presidents of universities and colleges fromacross the country. First Lady Yi Sun-cha also took part in the meeting.

President Chon gave various national medals to 15 persons representing their institutions. A total of 3,735 people received national medals and presidential citation.

The president, in his address, pledged that the government would make utmost efforts to improve both the environment and contents of national education with the financial financial sources to be provided by the adoption of an education tax system. "To develop the next generation as masters of the country devoted to creating a new history of revival, we must give the education of well-rounded personalities with intelligence, virtue and physical strength," he emphasized. He said that to meet the direction of the new era, a new wind and vigor should be injected into the educational field. He said the people should reflect on whether some young people were roaming about without sense of purpose, influenced by unhealthy elements in modern society.

VICE PREMIER CRITICIZED BY DJP OFFICIALS ON ECONOMY

[Text] The leaders of the Democratic Justice Party [DJP] were briefed yesterday morning at the party's headquarters by Vice Premier Sin Pyong-hyon on the "economic operation plan for 1982." Because of critical remarks and questions by the DJP officials, the briefing was reportedly reminiscent of National Assembly sessions at which lawmakers of ruling and opposition parties often criticize each other.

In their questions after the briefing, National Assembly floor leader Yi Chong-chan and Representative Na Ung-pae called for "a firm stand by the government," citing the "unsteady forecast for 1982 economic growth" which was previously heatedly discussed at a meeting of party lawmakers.

In response to the remarks, Vice Premier Sin again said ambiguously: "The forecast for economic growth is supposed to be correct. However, a forecast is a forecast. Therefore, it could be 8 percent or it could be lower. The DJP officials again criticized him, saying: "The government must not try to make excuses but give honest answers which can be trusted by the citizens."

Pointing to the content of the government briefing which called for patient and austere living by all citizens and a change of the people's way of thinking, party chairman Yi Chae-hyong said: "The idea is verygood. However, prior to making such requests of the citizens, the government must set an example first."

"For instance, in the past, when poor crops were a certainty, the government did not do anything. Then, belatedly, it hurried to import grains from abroad. Now, the government must abandon such an easy going attitude," Chairman Yi said. According to a DJP official present at the briefing, Chairman Yi made "a bitter condemnation" while pointing out the ostentatious ceremonies and gatherings of various kinds which are still continuing andthe old-fashioned attitude of the government officials who organize such things.

ROK ASSEMBLY TO ENHANCE PARLIAMENTARY DIPLOMACY

[Text] The National Assembly decided yesterday to increase the parliamentary diplomacy with the stress put on inviting foreign dignitaries rather than visiting overseas by its members.

This program was adopted in a meeting attended by Speaker Chong Nae-hyok, Vice Speaker Chae Mun-sik, floor leaders of major political parties and Hwang Myong-su, leader of the parliamentary fraternity club. The meeting was presided over by Speaker Chong.

Under this program, house speakers of 15 countries will be invited to visit Korea next year, an increase of nine over this year.

Speaker Chong, who made an overseas trip once this year, will do so twice in the new year.

This year, 166 foreign lawmakers were invited to Korea on 23 occasions. This will be increased to 30 occasions involving 180 legislators in 1982, according to the National Assembly.

However, the overseas tours by National Assembly members next year will be in the neighborhood of this year's 22 times, involving 178 persons. To ensure equity, speakers will be invited from all parts of the world--four each from the Asian-Pacific zone, North-South America and Europe, and three from the African-Middle East region. Comparable numbers of other parliamentary representatives to be invited to Korea will also come from these regions. The National Assembly, however, did not mention the names of the countries involved.

The assembly plans to invite a group of American legislators on the occasion of the centennial in the Korea-American relations next year. This invitation will be made in a separate program.

The "visiting diplomacy" will be made either by interparliamentary fraternities organized at the National Assembly or by house committees.

The National Assembly said that the 1982 parliamentary diplomacy will be carried out to further tighten the existing bond of ties with foreign legislatures, cement the "base of support" for Korea in international conference and check North Korea's diplomatic offensive abroad.

CURRENT NATIONAL ASSEMBLY SESSION CRITICIZED

[Article by Yi Chong-ik]

[Text] It is almost the end of the current session of the National Assembly. This was the first session of the new assembly and we have noticed there are many areas and problems which require refinement and improvement to fulfill its expected role. In general, however, we may admit that the fact there was a legislative session at all was significant, for it is usually vocal and put the government on its own toes for a while.

This session began in October and, as this session is usually called the budget session, most of its time was spent on the deliberation of the government budget for FY 1982. As the session is almost over, the National Assembly is faced with some fifty or more laws to be enacted or revised. It is almost unforgiveable that the government has to submit all laws to be enacted at so late a stage of the session and the typical excuse is the necessity of intergovernmental clearance among these concerned. But the obvious reason for these delays is their scandalous tactics of waiting until the last possible minute so as to force the National Assembly to merely accept what the government has submitted. In the past, this practice made the National Assembly nothing but a rubber stamp. It is a shame that, with the noisy slogan of new politics and the establishment of an effective legislative organ, the bureaucratic leadership has resorted to its old and easy gimmick. Although they are supposed to lead a new era and new politics, these bureaucrats have not only remained old but have also clearly disrupted the National Assembly's formal procedures and discouraged its good intent to create a different atmosphere.

Now what should the National Assembly do? The function of legislative deliberation should not be minimized, and if it becomes a matter of simple formalities we will face the danger of executive supremacy and bureaucratic dictatorship. The separation of powers of the government must be adequately maintained to bring about a stable government with the support of the general populace. In this respect each branch of the government is expected to respect the others' distinctive roles, and I would like to see the National Assembly play its given role adequately. But to play its proper role satisfactorily it needs good cooperation from the other branches and also should be provided with adequate time, money and staff. All the necessary supportive elements are, it seems, completely lacking in the current session and it is hoped that some careful study will be made of rectifying all these problems.

Speaking of the necessity for adequate legislative deliberation for the enactment of laws and budgets, the operation of the current session has shown many problems which need solution. As usual most of this session had to deal with the national budget, but this has been too superficial and most of the members of the assembly were excluded from any meaninful inputs in this process. This happened because of the new National Assembly Act which provides that only the Budget and Audit Committee members are allowed budgetary deliberation. While the budget committee was in session other committee members did not have much to do and they organized many field trips to fill up their time during supposedly hectic assembly sessions.

It am sure it would be most appropriate to extend the session of the National Assembly and allow all the standing committees to make meaningful inputs into the deliberation process. Further, the Budget and Audit Committee should be divided into two separate committees, which should become new standing committees so that they can gain expertise while members serve on them as on other standing committees. A so-called efficient assembly session does not necessarily assure the effectiveness of the assembly. We do not want our National Assembly simply to become efficient for the sake of and of keeping its busy time-table; rather we would like to see the assembly play its role effectively and establish a stronger political base within the government.

Somehow we feel the legislative branch is closer to the people than the other two branches of the government, and when we have a viable and capable legislators we will feel a little more comfortable about the total process of our government operation. In the next session, we want to see a more effective National Assembly and for this many improvements will have to be made beforehand.

ROK DAILY OBSERVES HUMAN RIGHTS WEEK

[Editorial: "Positive Human Rights"]

[Text] The human rights week that began yesterday takes on a special meaning here for the nation observes the annual occasion commemorating the anniversary of the universal declaration of human rights for the first time under the constitution of the fifth republic enacted to usher in a new political and social order.

Reassuringly enough, Justice Minister Yi Chong-won noted in his human rights week message that the nation is taking off from the old negative and restrictive concept of human rights toward a positive approach calling for promotion of human rights for the very sake of national security. The chief law-enforcement officer viewed increased human rights essential to public peace and security.

This is in line with the spirit and purport of our basic law which went a long way toward removing many constraints upon civil liberties and fundamental rights, while offering a significant boost to the legal protection and benefit to which the people are entitled in a democracy under rule of law.

Specifically, we may take note of a number of reforms undertaken in the new constitution. They include the revival of the judicials review of detention, provision for assumption of innocence pending criminal conviction and the abolition of the guilt by association which had infringed upon basic civil rights and liberties.

Our new legal system took a step further to establish and explicitly guarantee such modern aspects of human rights as the right to the pursuit of happiness, the right to optimum environmental quality and the right to receive adequate wage. These are significant departures from the old pattern of being preoccupied with mere absence of restraints of curtailments as voiced in the familiar expression, "freedom from" something.

The powers that be assumed vast responsibility and obligation for providing the citizenry with opportunities of lifelong education and full protection of consumer rights. It is indicative of the broader interest of the government in enhancing the welfare and better quality of life far beyond granting liberties.

Thus, human rights have entrenched themselves as vital and positive elements in the structure of our law and order. At the same time, the former are the direct outcome of the latter. These two mutually reinforcing pillars would not stand without each other. In this regard, Minister Yi was to the point when he pointed out that spontaneous respect for law and order will lead to practical safeguards for human rights.

In order to achieve a law-abiding and orderly society a revolution in our consciousness and style of life is definitely in order. A recent survey on changing values suggested that still a majority of the populace were prone to believe that observance of law, social norms and public virtues may not pay better than ignoring and shirking them.

This mistaken and demoralizing popular consciousness deeply rooted in part of our society must be shaken off and replaced by a sound and constructive notion of the relevance and imperative of law and order to build a society and nation in which rights of all men are well respected and upheld by all.

DAILY ADVOCATES GREATER ATTENTION TO HUMAN RIGHTS

[Editorial: "Human Rights Concept"]

[Text] The nation has observed the 33d human rights week, ending today. This annual event coincides with the anniversary of the declaration of human rights by the United Nations, making a solemn pledge to abide by the lofty goal of respecting the basic rights of human beings more than anything else in contemporary society.

We recall that the third General Assembly of the United Nations unanimously passed the declaration of human rights on December 10, 1948. It is construed that world nations then were probably keenly concerned about how to guarantee the fundamental rights of the human family, sobered by the wartime misery during World War II and thereafter.

In conformity with the peace-seeking ideal of the world body, the manifest goal of assuing basic rights was directed to the entire human family, beyond nationality, color and socio-economic status.

Turning our eyes to our own society, we should reiterate that this annual function is much more than a mere slogan concerning our basic rights, needless to elaborate.

In any fast-moving human society, this particular proposition which immediately affects human happiness and prosperity is constantly pursued based on ever-growing awareness of human rights within the context of given living conditions.

Specifically, we should refer to the fact that people are becoming more and more critical of torture and compulsory confessions in dealing with criminal suspects, which have aroused major controversy in our society.

Even though the incumbent constitution clearly bans such backward practices undermining the basic rights of people, it is considered most deplorable for the investigative authorities to have given the impression that they are forced to rely on such inhumane methods of handling criminal suspects merely for expediency.

Under the incessant pressure of public opinion based on the advanced concept of human rights among the people around us, however, it is all the more fortunate to discern that the police authorities seemingly intend to make concessions to what people really feel in this regard these days.

We should stress that human rights can hardly be dealt with in the dimension of efficiency and convenience in the course of managing investigative affairs or other things.

In other words, nothing can be justified unless absolute respect for the basic rights of the people is guaranteed in view of the utmost concern over human rights in the contemporary age, patterned after advanced societies.

On this occasion, we also call upon the related authorities to rearrange the legal provisions fully and faithfully in accordance with the constitutional spirit, so that the basic rights of the people will under no circumstances be infringed upon, running against the true wishes of the people as reflected in their supreme law.

We should admit that those in power can no longer justify high-handed disposal of matters concerning human rights by linking them to national security or order, for example, unlike in the old days.

What we mean by national security or social stability itself is none other than the impending call for guaranteeing the fundamental rights of citizens, most understandably.

We are once again reminded of this plain truth with respect to the most urgent human desire for a guarantee of people's inherent rights.

DAILY VIEWS 5-YEAR PLAN ON SOCIAL CLEAN-UP DRIVES

[Article by Pak Chang-sok]

[Text] The government has come up with a finalized five-year formula for its inspection and justice activity, designed to foster a scientific system for effective implementation of various social clean-up drives on a long-term basis.

The anti-corruption program has been drawn up on special instructions from President Chon Tu-hwan who underlined the need for never-ending implementation of social purification projects nationwide.

This is also in conformity with the political philosophy of President Chon who has dwelt on building a just society devoid of corruption and malpractices.

It is the first time since the birth of the republic that the government has drafted such a long-term anti-corruption program. The program calls, among other things, for measuring "degrees of integrity and purification" in all sectors of state and society including officialdom to establish a long- and short-term plan on a regular basis.

The government's intention is considered a drastic turnabout from its previous policies, which were focused on investigating cases involving irregularities and corruption.

To attain maximum possible efficiency in pursuing the anti-corruption plan, the government will conduct its purification drive on a gradual basis starting with "nuclei parts" of society. This government idea is aimed at reducing possible side effects liable to occur in the course of implementing the nation's purification drives.

The government will also carry out its anti-corruption projects flexibly, coping with changing social and economic conditions. This is interpreted as an expression of the government's intention to push the anti-corruption drives in a reasonable way.

In particular, the government will put high emphasis on renovating administrative procedures in the interests of citizens and reforming the public consciousness next year.

The major point of next year's project is a planned crackdown on various criminals and offenders troubling citizens' lives.

Next year's purification projects also include extensive improvement of various administrative systems for civil petitions, personnel management, and the management of various materials used in the administration.

DAILY PRAISES ACHIEVEMENT OF SAEMAUL MOVEMENT

SK100655 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 10 Dec 81 p 4

[Editorial: "Saemaul Undong Reoriented"]

[Text] Thousands of grass-roots leaders of Saemaul Undong or New Community Movement gathered in Taegu yesterday to renew their commitment to the cause of nation building and modernization through effective community development and moral revitalization. They were honored at the annual rally by medals and citations. By far the richer rewards for them were to be found in the appreciative nation deeply indebted for their selfless devotion and aggressive initiative.

The New Community Movement began as a rural community development drive in the early 1970s by increasing agricultural productivity and rural incomes. Countless success stories of poverty-stricken and indolent villages being brought to life and affluence have been produced in the course of evolving and accelerating the movement.

Phenomenal progress in building the infrastructure of our rural economy resulted from the bold planning and cooperative labor of the community. Most tangible are the laying out of over 60,000 km of farm roads, construction of bridges and dwellings, improvement of environmental sanitation and rural electricity supplies.

Conducted under the slogan of diligence, self-help and cooperation, the collective endeavors of the whole people went a long way toward streamlining the pattern of farming and boosting rural income by means of greater output and raising cash crops or livestock. The standard of living of our rural populace has taken a sharp upturn in housing, nutrition, sanitation and other amenities of modern life.

As President Chon Tu-hwan noted in his address to the Saemaul convention, the movement has since developed into, besides a sort of industrial revolution and reharnessing of nature, a moral regneration campaign. It taught us a lesson that the sweat of the brow is honest and rewarding. It served to create confidence in nature, in the nation, in the neighborhood community and in the potential of individual citizens.

Learning the spirit and meaning of joining hands and hearts toward a common purpose of the community is an important process and outcome of Saemaul Undong. This aspect of moral reawakening and rearmament commands higher priority in the maturing stage of the movement.

Though we have achieved much thus far, we cannot remain complacent over what has been gained from Saemaul Undong. Greater efforts should be made to give more solid content to the movement so that the base of our agricultural economy may be solidified for self-sufficiency. On the other hand, the New Community Movement ought to be extended and expanded to over more of urban communities and industrial plants.

One major defect of the campaign has been its relative inactivity in urban centers. Individualistic city dwellers are called upon to take active part in the movement. It may have little to do with earning their bread, but it has a lot to do with ameliorating the environmental quality of their life. The moral contribution of the movement to industrial peace and efficiency has to be sought on a larger scale.

Saemaul Undong has reached a turning point now. The time has come to reorient it toward increased private and grass-roots initiatives as the government desires. A movement from below will prove most effective in achieving sound work ethics, higher productivity, better quality control, law and order, harmony among the compatriots.

ROK-AUSTRALIA AGREE TO EXPAND EMIGRATION

SK120753 Seoul YONHAP in English 0735 GMT 12 Dec 81

[Text] Seoul, 12 Dec (YONHAP)--Korea and Australia Friday agreed to the expansion of Korean emigration to the Oceanic country, the Ministry of Health and Social Affairs here said Saturday.

The ministry said the agreement was reached Friday when Korean Health-Social Affairs Minister Chon Myong-ki met with Ian MacPhee, Australian minister for immigration and ethnic affairs, in Canberra. Chon is now on a five-day visit to Australia at the invitation of the government there.

During their meeting, Chon explained to MacPhee Seoul's new emigration policy which is designed to promote the exportation of Korean manpower, and the latter responded favorably to the Korean Government's request for the admission of more Korean workers into Australia.

The Australian minister said that his government will keep its door open to Korean skilled manpower, if they are needed by his country.

The two ministers also agreed to jointly train Korean technological workers who will emigrate to Australia. MacPhee promised that the Australian Government would inform Seoul about the details of the project later.

MacPhee, however, said there might be some difficulty in admitting short-term Korean workers and farmers because of domestic reasons.

The Korean minister also visited the Australian minister of health, Michael MacKellar, later in the day, to discuss bilateral health-related affairs. They exchanged views on the Korean Government's plan to send students' to Australia to study its medical and social security institutions.

EASING OF GRADUATION QUOTA SYSTEM CONSIDERED

[Text] Education Minister Yi Kyu-ho said Saturday his ministry was considering implementing the graduation quota system for colleges in a less rigid manner, allowing individual schools to decide how to eliminate those in excess of graduation quotas. He made the remarks in an informal discussion with President of Seoul National University Kwon E-hyok and President of Yonsei University An Se-Hui of wide-ranging matters concerning education.

The softening of the government stand on the implementation of the system was timed with mounting calls from professors and students to revise it. Yi made clear that schools, depending on their peculiar situations, might retain the surplus until graduation and less successful students in excess of graduation quotas would receive certificates proving their completion of the four-year course instead of diplomas.

He further said there was no reason for the ministry to stick to the principle set earlier in connection with the implementation of the system as long as the system helped students devote themselves to academic pursuits.

The earlier principle required the schools to eliminate 18 percent of the graduation quota after one year's attendance while prohibiting schools from allowing more than 10 percent of the quota to advance to the senior class. The minister said the number of those to be dropped each year and the way of eliminating them in accordance with the system could be decided by the schools themselves.

Under the graduation quota system which has been put into practice for those admitted this year, schools recruit their freshmen students 30 percent in excess of their respective graduation quotas and they are required to eliminate the surplus before graduation in order of academic records.

Yi further revealed that those to be recruited in excess of graduation quotas could also be determined by the schools in the future depending on their respective capabilities to accommodate students. "It is the basic position of the ministry to change any minor details in accordance with the changing situation while keeping the basic principles," he said.

DJP FAVORS ABOLITION OF GRADUATE QUOTAS

[Text] The majority Democratic Justice Party plans to urge the government to do away with the quota system for university and college graduates.

Rep Na Sok-ho, chairman of the policy deliberation committee of the party, said yesterday it was neither reasonable nor constructive for each higher learning institution to drop about 30 percent of its enrollments before graduation.

It would also be a great hindrance to the formulation of a manpower supply program, he said.

The party's stand was made public, timed with Education Minister Yi Kyu-ho's recent announcement that the ministry would not stick to the graduation quota system in a strict manner, but allow leeway in the operation of the quota system.

The minister said that his ministry was considering allowing each higher learning institution to issue certificates showing that the bearers had studied at the universities to "slow" students instead of dropping them from graduation. Of course, they would be denied regular diplomas.

Under the present graduation quota system colleges and universities can recruit students by 30 percent in excess of the authorized enrollment quotas. But they are obliged to pare down the excess students on the basis of study records before they graduate.

The graduation quota system was put into force this year to ease the sharp competition for university entrance and to produce sufficient numbers of educated persons.

However, the program faces stiff complaints from universities since many students are preoccupied with earning good marks on examinations only rather than a desirable manner of studying.

This will do only harm from a long-range view to education, according to university authorities.

Rep Na of the DJP said it was good that the Education Ministry planned to introduce flexibility in the operation of the rigid graduation quota system.

However, he charged that the ministry's idea of using certificates instead of graduation diplomas for "slow" students should be dropped. He said it would be better to grant graduation diplomas to all students deserving them without being tied to the graduation quota system.

DAILY SUPPORTS AUTONOMOUS STUDENT ACTIVITIES

[Excerpts] It seems that a breakthrough will be made in solving problems concerning students' extracurricular activities. At a recent meeting of the chiefs of departments of universities and colleges from all over the country, the Education Ministry promised to ease its policy for the campuses on matters concerning guidance of students. The Education Ministry has also issued a policy saying it will allow students to autonomously conduct extracurricular activities, including academic and ideological activities, unless these activities greatly disturb order on campus. This is a very encouraging step, reflecting an improvement in the situation. We appreciate this move because the Education Ministry authorities, by moving away from their makeshift and passive guidance for the students, have expressed a will to make positive efforts to correctly guide the students. In a sense, we believe this step represents a strong desire to improve the alienated and severed relations between students and professors and between students and the government authorities.

Extracurricular activities are conducted by the students in accord with their own free will and urgent demands. If the older generation unnecessarily meddles in extracurricular activities and views them suspiciously without understanding them, the maintenance of good relations with them will suffer because the older generation's natural distrust of the students created by the generation gap will not only worsen, but also will unjustly prevent the younger generation from developing to assume responsibility for the future of the country.

Unlike the past, students of the 1980's have developed into a group of intellectuals who have armed themselves with ideologies via extracurricular activities much different from those of the past. In light of this, we do not believe that the direction being taken by this sort of ideological extracurricular activity is desirable. Yet, we do not think these extracurricular activities are dangerous. We do not want students to receive education to become men of ideology. At the same time, we expect that students will freely indulge in ideological meditation.

We should not worry about what ideology students study and what books they read. We should not prevent them from doing so, but willingly create an atmosphere in which thoughtful students are encouraged to profoundly study ideologies.

We should understand that, since students control extracurricular activities on campuses, they should conduct them autonomously and it is important there exist an atmosphere in which they can freely exchange views and engage in study.

We hope that the Education Ministry policy encouraging ideological extracurricular activities will be successful.

ROK TO DISCLOSE SENIOR OFFICIALS' PROPERTY IN 1983

SK080155 Seoul YONHAP in English 0113 GMT 8 Dec 81

[Text] Seoul, 8 Dec (YONHAP)--The Korean Government will make known to the public a list of the properties of lawmakers and officials occupying minister-level posts or above, as a prelude to the enforcement in 1983 of a public servants ethics law.

Testifying before the National Assembly Home Affairs Committee Monday, Government Administration Minister Kim Yong-hyu said that the disclosure of properties would be limited to senior officials such as ministers and lawmakers.

Kim was responding to a question from Rep Pak Kwan-yon of the Democratic Korea Party about the rank of the officials to be required to register their properties with the government.

Kim said that Supreme Court judges and four-star general would fall within this category, under the new law, which will be put into effect beginning January 1, 1983.

The scope will be gradually expanded to include lower-ranking officials, and the government will set up a committee composed of members of the executive, legislative, and judiciary branches of government, some time in the second half of next year, to work out decrees designed to implement the law.

Under the new law, the president, the prime ministers, all cabinet members, lawmakers, the chairman of the board of audit and inspection, Supreme Court justices, appellate court chiefs, four-star generals and the secretary-general of the National Assembly will be among those whose properties will initially be made known to the public.

The government-drafted public servants ethics law, which was revised by the six-member subpanel of the home affairs committee, was passed unanimously in a meeting of the house panel Monday.

The bill will be referred to a National Assembly plenary meeting, for formal approval before the assembly adjourns December 19.

POLICE, TAX OFFICIALS DUE TO REGISTER PROPERTIES

[Text] The number of government officials subject to property registration will be expanded to low tax officials and police officers, according to a negotiated version of the government-drafted "public officials' ethics law" bill.

Amended by the majority and minority campus in the subcommittee of the Home Affairs Committee of the National Assembly, the amended version provides that all tax and customs officials at and higher than subsection chief level will come under the category of property registration.

In the original version, only those at and higher than section chief level among government officials were to have their property registered with the pertinent authorities as a means of helping stamp out irregularities and corruption in officialdom.

Pursuant to the new version, senior police superintendents will have to register their property with the pertinent authorities. In the original version, they were not to do it since the property registration was required only of superintendent-generals in the original draft.

The amended version also provides that the bill will be put into force beginning January 1, 1983 instead of January 1 next year.

The amended version provides that the registered property be kept secret in principle. However, it can be made public if a need arises in accordance with a presidential decree that will be formulated later.

Ethics committees will be established in the three branches of the government to handle the property registration business.

The justice minister will have the right to investigate false registrations upon the request of the heads of government organizations, but the requests should be cleared by the relevant ethics committee.

In case of an alleged false registration involving military personnel, the investigation should start upon the request of the defense minister, according to the amended version.

Operation of the ethics committees is to be regulated by presidential decree.

The Home Affairs Committee is to act on the negotiated ethics law bill on Monday for full parliamentary action during the current session of the National Assembly.

NATIONAL POLICE COMMENTS ON CURFEW

[Excerpts] The expected lifting of the four-hour curfew (from midnight till 3 a.m.) appears to be of great social and economic significance, but security authorities show a cautious attitude toward the move.

Senior officials of the National Police Headquarters (NPH), noting the expected increase inproblems from the stand-point of security and the maintenance of peace and order, opined that the government should closely study when and how the current curfew should be removed. Whether to lift the curfew throughout the nation at the same time or to remove it step by step is the most important matter, an official said.

Selection of the so-called vulnerable regions where curfew will remain will also require careful consideration, they explained.

The vulnerable areas, which are generally coastal and front line regions, in fact, include Seoul, Inchon, Mokpo, Pusan and other major cities, they pointed out.

They also stressed that thorough security measures should be taken before lifting the curfew, predicting that it would be premature to remove the curfew on January 1 next year.

Legal ground for the nation-wide curfew was given when the minor offences punishment law was enacted in April, 1954. Article 1-43 provided police detention or fines for curfew violators.

In the 1960's as the social order became stabilized, the government partially lifted the curfew in some areas. Cheju Island became a curfewless area on January 18, 1964, followed by the landlocked province of Chungchong-Pukto on March 1, 1965.

Then such tourism areas as Kyongju, Tongnae, Haeundae, Onyang and Yusong were released from the curfew system on May 5, 1966.

The Cheju and Chungchong-Pukto authorities disclosed that they had faced no serious security and social problems since the curfew was lifted.

Criminal offenses have shown a slight increasing trend, but the same tendency is seen in other provinces where curfew is imposed, they said, adding that the crime rate had nothing to do with curfew.

BACKGROUND FOR MOVES TO LIFT CURFEW DISCUSSED

SK210333 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 21 Nov 81 p 5

[Article by Kim Ki-sok]

[Text] The move to lift the 36-year-old curfew in 1982 shows the government's earnestness "in the new era" to remove all causes of inconveniences to people in their daily lives.

The "lift curfew" drive has been accelerated by the concerned cabinet ministries and some members of political circles ever since Seoul was chosen as the venue for the 1988 Olympic Games in late September this year.

Fundamentally, however, the issue has been well debated and dealt with by the government of the fifth republic which has pursued various "open" policies, including the liberalization of overseas trips, according to political observers.

Article 9 of the constitution stipulates that "all citizens shall be assured of human dignity and have the right to pursue happiness. It shall be the duty of the state to confirm and guarantee the fundamental and inviolable human rights of individuals."

In connection with "the right to pursue happiness," lifting the present midnight-4 a.m. curfew has been actively discussed since the constitution was revised in October 1980.

The move to lift the curfew by the government and the major political parties will bring about drastic changes in the life of the people, particularly in their economic and social life, the observers predicted.

At the same time, it will help renew the Republic of Korea's image in the world society.

They observe that the government's move shows its confidence in the political and social stability of the country for which it has exerted every effort since the October 26 incident in 1979.

The lifting of curfew also signifies the republic's superiority to North Korea in the defense capability, the observers view.

The curfew was first implemented in the Seoul and Inchon areas on September 7, 1945, some three weeks after the national liberation from the Japanese colonial rule, in accordance with a decree of the U.S. military administration.

However, the curfew was lifted from Cheju Island on January 18, 1964, and in Chungchong-Pukto on March 1, 1965.

Curfew-free areas have marked no major problems in security and social stability. On the contrary, it has helped residents there promote their economic lifes.

The curfew in the rest of the country has been lifted generally on the New Year's Day and some national holidary. The lifting of curfew requires no major legal procedures, except in approval by the cabinet.

The present curfew is based on clause 43 of article one of the misdemeanor punishment law, which empowers the minister of home affairs to impose curfew in time of war, natural calamity or potential social disruption, and subjugate violators to physical detention or fine.

Legal experts, however, point out that the stipulation runs counter to the spirit of clause one of article 35 of the constitution which says freedoms and rights of citizens shall not be neglected on grounds that they are not enumerated.

Many people also agree that curfew has caused such inconvenience in the daily lives of the citizens. People are not allowed out from midnight to 4 a.m. Curfew brings about a four hours' hiatus in the otherwise uninterrupted stream of economic activities every day. It also serves as a road block to a smooth allurement of foreign tourists.

All the vehicles race desperately toward their destinations toward midnight when curfew is imposed, triggering a number of traffic accidents.

A dramatic turnaround came early last month, when a Baden-Baden meeting chose Seoul as the venue for the 1968 Olympic Games.

Since then a possible removal of the curfew order has been persistently talked about, with pertinent government officials assuring from time to time appropriate action at a favorable time well ahead of the world sports event.

Moreover, the second minority Korea National Party (KNP) added to the momentum for a possible retraction of curfew late last month by initiating a motion for its abolition.

The KNP, recalling the partial removal of curfew has brought about no serious problems, demanded curfew be lifted throughout the country except vulnerable areas, effective January 1 next year.

The initiation of the motion was immediately followed by a continuous mass media campaign for the retraction of curfew.

The government has up to now studied the wisdom of abolishing curfew from various angles, it was learned.

Amid this mounting call for the abrogation of curfew, the government and the DJP have agreed to lift curfew in order to serve more interests of the people in the new era and to make effective preparations for the 1988 world sports festival.

The government and the DJP seem to be convinced that the removal of curfew will not endanger the national security and social stability.

DJP floor leader said Thursday that the majority party came to propose a joint initiation of a motion for the removal of curfew, because it should be lifted before 1988 Olympics and the partial removal has caused no grave problems.

The majority floor leader, in the meantime, stressed the need for an augmented security following the removal of curfew.

In this connection, pertinent authorities have studied way of strengthening the police force and equipment, sources said.

As the removal of curfew will have far-reaching effects on all spheres of people's lives, all the people are asked to render positive cooperation, the observers said.

NO TAE'U MEETS FRG LEADERS--Bonn, 11 Dec (YONHAP)--Korea's special presidential envoy No Tae-u Friday met with West German President Karl Carstens and extended President Chon Tu-hwan's invitation for the German leader to visit Korea, Korean officials here said. The officials said Carstens told the Korean minister of state for national security and foreign affairs that South Korea and West Germany share a common destiny as divided nations and commended the Asian country for its economic development and democratization efforts. Later in the day, No conferred with West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher at the latter's office for about 50 minutes and agreed to further expand bilateral cooperation. According to the officials, the two ministers share the same views on the threat represented by communist expansionism. 'STOP AT TWO' FAMILY PLANNING--Seoul, 15 Dec (YONHAP)--Koreans who have no more than two children will be given several benefits by the government, such as financing of school expenses for their children from middle school through college, plus tax breaks, according to South Korea's new population policy now under study. The new policy also calls for the revising of the inheritance tax law in order to strengthen daughters' legal heirship because the current law, giving sons priority against daughters in inheriting their father's properties, is considered as a factor in helping increase the country's population. The government is to launch actively the long-standing "stop at two" family planning campaign across the country, government officials said. South Korea's total population topped 38 millions and its population density was 385 persons per one square kilometer, placing South Korea third in the globe's population density ranking, according to a population census conducted by the government in 1980. COLLEGE SUPPORTED STUDENT ACTIVITIES--The Ministry of Education yesterday instructed universities and colleges in the country not to suspend or discontinue classes for minor disturbances caused by some students. The instruction was delivered at a meeting of deans of student affairs of the nation's universities, which was held at Chungnam University in Taejon Wednesday and yesterday to decide policies for student guidance for next year. The ministry ordered them that school authorities avoid direct interference in the activities of students' defense corps and encourage it to be operated by voluntary participation of students. The ministry pointed out that hobbies or recreation activities have been overly emphasized for student circles under the corps. This tendency caused some students to avoid the group activities and to formulate illicit circles instead, it said. Therefore, the ministry said, school authorities are expected to legalize and support the illicit circles to such an extent that the order of schools and the country will not be destroyed. Commenting on the "graduation quota system," it said the universities and colleges can voluntarily decide when and how many students will be dropped. DEFENSE OF SOCIAL INTERESTS--Chief Justice Yu Tae-hung yesterday appealed to the nation's judges that they should make concerted efforts in exercising judicial power in an appropriate and effective manner. In a speech delivered at a meeting of 53 senior judges from across the country yesterday, Yu further said that judges should work harder to meet the people's growing demand for better legal service. He called for judges to make the best use of some newly-enacted court regulations under which state-appointed judges are required to defend the interest of their clients more positively. Noting that as many as 8.9 million litigations have been filed with the courts between January and November this year, Yu said that red tape involving overall legal procedures should be eliminated for the convenience of the people. The nation's courts handled a total of 8.3 million legal cases last year, he said. The chief justice also called for all court personnel as well as judges to avoid using difficult legal terms and use layman's language instead as much as they can. A total of 53 senior judges, including 12 Supreme Court justices, attended the meeting which was held at the Supreme Court converence room early yesterday. Eleven of the participating judges met with President Chon Tu-hwan at Chongwadae later in the day, a spokesman for the Office of Court Administration said. SUPREME COURT ON TRIAL DECORUM--Seoul, 12 Dec (YONHAP)--The Korean Supreme Court has finalized a set of rules which provide for legal custody of up to 20 days or a maximum fine of one million won (about 1,449 U.S. dollars) for disorderly conduct by those undergoing trial, court sources said Saturday. The rules, which will come into force January 1, 1982, are designed to uphold the authority of the courts and ensure the smooth conduct of legal proceeding. They will apply to all defendants, plaintiffs, witnesses and observers attending civil, criminal, administrative and family trials, at the nation's courts. The rules make punishable disobedience to judges during trials, impeding of legal proceedings with emotional outbursts such as yelling and shouting, and downgrading of the authority of the courts. The rules will be enforced by the courts conducting the trials, but those who disagree with the courts' verdicts on their misconduct will be entitled to appeal to higher courts. EDUCATION TAX FUNDS BILL--The Democratic Korea Party (DKP) plans to ask the government to use some of the newly-introduced education tax money to be collected for five years from next year as a scholarship fund to help superior students from poor families. To this end, the DKP, which had strongly opposed the enactment of the education tax law, is working out a law bill tentatively named "National Scholarship Fund." The DKP law bill will be presented to the incumbent 108th regular National Assembly session in a couple of days, according to Rep Han Yong-su, chief party policy maker. The tentative draft calls for the creation of a scholarship fund with 10 percent of the total amount of education taxes to be collected a year for the next five years, government donations and donations by students who received scholarship from the fund after their graduation. After reserving the fund for five years, a fund management committee to be headed by the education minister would give scholarships to the students with profits from the reserved fund starting 1987, according to the party. DKP RESOLUTION ON ASSEMBLY SESSION--Lawmakers of the Democratic Korea Party (DKP) vowed yesterday that they would struggle in the days ahead against the ruling party to realize the restoration of the National Assembly's real function through amending the assembly law and the basic law on the press. Issuing a resolution after a general causus, the 82 First Minority Party lawmakers argued that their party was not able to obtain good results in the current 108th regular assembly session ending on Saturday because of the ruling party's tendency to reject "politics of dialogue." The DKP lawmakers also urged in the resolution that the assembly accept its recommendation for the removal of political ostracism imposed on former politicians during the current house session. "Without it, no climate for the realization of national harmony can be created," they claimed in the resolution. They further said that they were determined to speak for the people under any circumstances and to do their best to carry out their mission to guarantee the rights and interests of the people. The lawmakers' caucus was called to order to conclude the minority party's activity during the current regular house sitting, which is the first regular session in the fifth republic. Party President Rep Yu Chi-song said in the meeting, "We know well what the situation given to us is like. But, we must improve it in a calm manner through dialogue." GRADUATE QUOTA SYSTEM--The Education Ministry said yesterday that it had no intention of changing the basic framework of the graduation quota system for colleges and it had never been consulted by the ruling Democratic Justice Party on the matter. Ministry spokesman Chong Yon-chun made the comment in response to reports that the DJP would propose the repeal of the system in view of its many drawbacks. Chong said the only measure now being considered concerning the system was to enable colleges and universities to decide the number of those in excess to be eliminated in each class year by themselves. The basic idea of dropping those in excess of graduation quotas from the schools before graduation would not be changed, the ministry made clear. The ruling camp announced Saturday its plan to urge the government to do away with the controversial system. Under the system, all colleges and universities recruit up to 30 percent in excess of their respective graduation quotas on condition of eliminating all of those in excess of the quota before graduation. The system to be effective from those admitted this year, has been under harsh criticism from professors, students and parents mainly on the ground that it "dehumanizes" college education. LIFTING POLITICAL ACTIVITIES BAN--In a statement issued on 8 December on the occasion of the week of human rights, spokesman of the Democratic Korea Party [DKP] Kim Chin-pae said: We urge the government authorities to take epochal measures in order to truly support realization of a society of justice, instead of merely repeating annual events during the week of human rights. Spokesman Kim stressed: We want the National Assembly to promptly adopt the proposal to lift the ban on political activties put forward by the DKP. Summoning the people in the form of voluntary appearances at investigation authorities and forcible investigation should be limited to the minimum extent. Special consideration and social attention should be directed to the issue of guaranteeing human rights of the low-wage earners and disabled persons. U.S. AMBASSADOR CONFERS WITH FORMER PRESIDENTS--Richard Walker, U.S. ambassador to South Korea, called on former presidents Choe Kyu-ha and Yun Po-son on 9 and 10 December. Although Ambassador Walker said that he had paid courtesy calls on them, his visits have drawn attention because of the length of the talks. Asked by a reporter before he entered former President Yun's home in Anguk-dong on the afternoon of 10 December if there were any special reason for his visit, Ambassador Walker nonchalantly said: "Yes, I have one. He is a former president." Asked if he would visit another former president, he answered: "Yes, I visted former President Choe yesterday. These are unofficial courtesy calls." He read a calligraphic board reading in Chinese "National prosperity and the welfare of people" displayed on a wall of Yun's resident. Former President Yun greeted Ambassador Walker by saying: "During your service here, I hope ROK-U.S. relations will develop." After exchanging pleasantries, they talked until 1605. Former President Yun saw Ambassador Walker off at his front gate. Asked again by a reporter what they had discussed, Ambassador Walker simply said: "We had very philosophical discussions." DKP CALL FOR COLLECTIVE LEADERSHIP--The Democratic Korea Party [DKP] at the National Assembly held a general meeting of its lawmakers today and analyzed its activities during the regular session of the assembly. At the meeting, the DKP lawmakers exchanged opinions on the party's activities in the National Assembly for next year. Addressing the meeting, party President Yu Chi-song said: "You are fully aware of the situation in which we cannot exercise power. We must seek harmony and unity through a peaceful dialogue and try to overcome the difficulties facing us." At the meeting, some junior lawmakers contended that the one-man leadership system that requires the entire party to remain silent if the president remains silent has reached the limit. They demanded a revision of the party constitution to adopt a collective leadership system in order to meet the citizens' expectations of an opposition party and to demonstrate the party's strength. At the general meeting, National Assembly floor leader Ko Chae-chong, Secretary General Sin Sang-u, and policymaking committee chairman Han Yong-su reported on the matters within their areas of responsibility. At the meeting, the lawmakers of the party also had free discussions on the future of the party. [Text] [SK141227 Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 14 Dec 81 p 2]

DJP URGED TO LEAD CABINET SHAKEUP--Ko Chae-chong, flood leader of the Democratic Korean Party [DKP], today said that the Democratic Justice Party [DJP2 should take the lead in renovating the executive branch through an overall shakeup of the cabinet. He further said it would be desirable for many DJP lawmakers to join the cabinet and take advantage of this opportunity to foster responsible politics. Meeting the press this morning, floor leader K. noted: "We were disappointed with the DJP because it failed to propose any acceptable policy alternatives with firm conviction as a ruling party during the current regular National Assembly session. We prefer a responsible ruling party to a weak one. DKP floor leader Ko's remarks on a cabinet shakeup have drawn public attention in connection with recent remarks by DJP chairman Yi Chae-hyong that DJP lawmakers should be capable of carrying out whatever mission entrusted to them by the government. At a DJP lawmakers' meeting yesterday morning, Chairman Yi said: "DJP lawmakers should fully understand government policies related to other standing committees' affairs, as well as to their own. They should ensure they are competent, of good character, and politically skilled so as to carry out whatever mission they may be assigned by the government. This is the wish of President Chon Tu-hwan, who is also the party's president." [Text] [SK130650 Seoul TONG-A ILBO in Korean 12 Dec 81 p 1]

PRESS LAW REVISION BILL--The Democratic Korea Party introduced yesterday an amendment bill to the basic law on press aimed at, among other things, making subject o court trials the culture-information minister's orders for the revocation of the registration of periodicals. The amendment affecting six articles provides that branch offices of foreign periodicals operating here will face closedown if the media carry articles damaging the prestige of the state "severely" and "repeatedly." This means that the offices will not face closure if their periodicals simply carry articles detrimental to the prestige of the state. Under the amendment, the precondition for the repeal of the periodicals' registration is narrowed down to cases in which they are found to be acting contrary to their registered purpose. Under the present law, they are liable to the same fate if they carry articles against the public duty "severely" and "repeatedly." As to the right to government information, the amendment crosses out a clause which empowers the government to deny the supply of requested information if it will obstruct the normal performance of administration work. The amendment provides that reporters need not reveal news sources to protect them if the articles do not constitute crimes warranting more than one-year jail terms. In the present law, reporters are denied the right to remain silent if the articles are crimes. [Text] [SK050316 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 5 Dec 81 p 1]

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS PROPERTY REGISTRATION--Seoul, 4 Nov (YONHAP)--The National Assembly plans to enact a law requiring all civil servants to register their properties, sources at the assembly's Home Affairs Committee said Wednesday. Under the proposed ethics law governing public officials, the sources said, officials in the higher echelons and those concerned with tax and audit administration, regarded as being "vulnerable" to corruption, will be obligated to register their assets first. Property registration by the rest of officialdom will be implemented on a gradual basis, in accordance with the enforcement regulations of the planned legislation. The ruling and opposition parties agreed in principle to enact the ethics code within the current regular assembly session, which ends early next month. Properties subject to registration cover, not only of those of the official himself, but also those of his or her spouse, children and parents, according to a draft for the ethics law, worked out by the Home Affairs Committee. The assembly's legislation will take the form of an amendment to a government version, now under deliberation by the Home Affairs Panels. The government version confines the extent of property registration, a key portion of the projected measure, to cabinet ministers, national assemblymen, heads of government-affiliated organizations and officials of bureau director level. GNP GROWTH RATE ANALYZED

[Article by Pyon Sang-kun, reporter: "Major Factor for Favorable GNP Rise, Crude Oil Saved Us"]

[Summary] Economic indicators for a growth rate, prices, and the balance of payments have registered marked improvement far more than expected early this year. An annual economic growth rate this year was originally projected at between 5 and 5 percent. [as published] But it is now projected at between 7 and 8 percent.

An average price rise this year, originally projected to be between 20 and 25 percent, is now certain to be held down to a level of 17 percent. Deficits in the nation's balance of payments, originally projected at $5.5 billion, are likely to be reduced by $500 million to $5 billion. Even those authorities concerned seem to have been amazed at such an unexpected improvement in actual economic performance.

Crude oil prices were the crucial factor which largely served to bring about the economic upturn. The government at first estimated the annual rise in crude oil prices roughly at 15 percent. But the world crude prices remained virtually stable.

Second, the relative stability of wages is considered to have contributed greatly to economic stabilization. This year, wages have risen by 17 to 18 percent on the whole. The economic situation might have been different if wages had been raised by more than 25 percent. In other words, sacrifices made by workers have been a great help.

The agricultural sector was the driving force which has pushed the growth rate sharply upwards. In Korea, agricultural production shares 20 percent of GNP, mining and manufacturing 30 percent, and social overhead capital and other services 50 percent. Due to a bad crop last year,the ratio of agricultural production to GNP had dropped to 16.9 percent.

This year, agricultural production has increased by about 25 percent as compared with last year's bad crop. The agricultural sector has taken 5 percent in the projected overall economic growth rate of between 7 and 8 percent. This means that this year's economic growth has been largely led by agricultural production.

A growth rate of 7-8 percent is relatively high. It must be taken into account that last year, the growth rate was minus 5.7 percent, according to preliminary computation by the Bank of Korea. The final rate is understood to have been even lower than that.

For business recovery, economic activities in manufacturing and mining should be brisk. In these fields, however, the actual growth rates this year are projected barely at 1 and 2 percent, respectively.

Economic Planning Board officials say that an overall economic growth rate ought to be about 15 percent, in order to make business recovery felt widely among the general public. At least, it should rise 12 percent this year if the nation is to regain the 1979 level of national income.

In the balance of payments, the nation benefited much from the stable prices of imported raw materials. As of the end of October, exports have grown 25 percent at a steady pace, but imports stood at an increase of 16.6 percent. In the case of imports, more than 70 percent are capital goods; and such imports should rise if business is to take a favorable turn.

In October, a balance in the current account remained in the black for the first time this year. The slow increase in imports are attributable to the decrease in demand as well as the fact that gross amount of imports has decreased relatively since unit import prices have decreased. During the third quarter of this year, imports have grown 17.6 percent in quantity, but unit import prices have risen only 2.2 percent.

As of the end of October, the total amount of interest payments reached $2,830 million, an increase of 43 percent from the same period of last year. The monthly amount of interest payments has decreased from the peak of $330 million in September to $241 million in October.

Last year, price rose 44 percent, of which one-third is ascribable to the upward move of the Won-Dollar exchange rate. This year, the exchange rate has risen only 5 percent. As of the end of October, wholesale prices have risen 12.5 percent and consumer prices 13.7 percent.

Assuming that prices for petroleum products and electric rates are raised by 5 or 6 percent, respectively, they are expected to affect wholesale prices by 0.9 percent and 0.3 percent, respectively.

So far, the real value of salaries and wages has rather decreased in spite of continued wage increases because of the fast rise in prices. Should the salary and wage rates be raised between 17 and 18 percent on the average, the wage earners may escape that "virtual decrease in wages" resulting from the price rise. But a domestic price rise of 17 or 18 percent is too high.

[Text] While our domestic auto industry is drifting aimlessly, Hyundai [Hyondae] Automobile Co proposed an unexpected plan.

Hyundai attracted attention by proposing a large scale project in spite of the fact that industry has been suffering from repeated mistakes in selecting the type of autos, mergers and closings following investment readjustments, and from the unitarization of specialized autos [chonmun ch'ajong tanilhwa--government imposed specialization and monopoly on the type of autos--passenger cars, light and heavy trucks, etc--manufactured by each maker].

The plan is to import technology and carry out a joint venture, which is known to have been submitted by Hyundai to the government. It is an epoch-making and unexpected one. It is unexpected because Hyundai, which has committed itself to the development of an independent Korean-designed car, has suddenly announced a joint venture with Mitsubishi of Japan.

Pony passenger cars currently manufactured by Hyundai are valued as a unique Korean-designed model.

In policy confrontations, with Kia and Saehan automakers, who were once rivals, Pony always won because it was a domestically developed car.

Hyundai now plans to set Pony aside, and manufacture a Japanese car for sale in domestic and overseas markets. According to the plan made public, Hyundai, with Mitsubishi of Japan, will build a large factory in Ulsan with an annual capacity of 300,000 cars. Construction of the factory will begin next year, and will be completed by 1985. The car that will be produced from 1985 will be equipped with an engine of approximately the same quantity of exhaust emission as the one in Pony, front-wheel drive, and will be a fuel-efficient model.

The specifications of the car as described in the plan are better than those of Pony in many ways. The car is expected to be more competitive in the international market.

Hyundai explains that their plan to produce Mitsubishi cars is to conform to the auto industry growth objectives set by the government for the fifth five-year plan and to greatly enhance the reputation of Korean cars worldwide.

However, the construction of a large scale plant with an annual capacity of 300,000 cars requires enormous capital. Hyundai plans to invest 121.1 billion won of internal funds along with $394 million of foreign capital, a total of 396.9 billion won, on a 300,000-p'yong [1 p'yong = 3.24 m^2] site in Ulsan.

The capital will be raised jointly by Hyundai and Mitsubishi, and the latter will be allowed to invest up to 10 percent of the capital.

When the joint-venture plant is completed in 1985, Hyundai will become a large automaker with an annual production of 400,000 cars, including the existing facilities for Pony.

The automaker is expected to march into the world market on a grand scale with increased international competitiveness through cost reductions from mass production.

Hyundai aims to export 100,000 to 150,000 cars from the 300,000 produced annually. There are, however, many parts of this ambitious plan that must be carefully examined and reviewed.

It is necessary to have an analysis by specialists on whether it is wise to risk a new, large scale investment without being able to raise the efficiency of existing investment, particularly in view of the current trends of the world market for automobilies.

Also, one should consider whether the choice of a Japanese car will be welcome or not in the American and European market that Hyundai must explore in the future.

There is no problem with the reputation of the Mitsubishi brand name nor in the reliability of their cars.

But, Japanese cars are hated and shunned in the U.S. and European markets.

It is well known that Japanese cars, which not only chased Ford and Chrysler out but also push them to the brink of bankruptcy, have become the target of criticism by U.S. and European automakers.

Foreign buyers are likely to get the impression that Koreans are trying to sell Japanese cars that became inconvenient for the Japanese to sell themselves.

We recall that Korean [color TV] manufacturers were criticised for dumping on behalf of Japanese makers when Japanese color TV sets were rejected in the U.S. for dumping and disrupting the market.

We concluded that the joint venture with Mitsubishi must be carefully examined with emphasis on worldwide marketability.

We also note that the conditions [price] for technology import are very high, as the Mitsubishi brand is well-known internationally.

According to the plan, Hyundai will pay a royalty of $42 per car during the 7 years of joint venture.

It is unavoidable to import advanced technology at high prices. We also expect that the advanced technology will be digested and absorbed into our technology quickly by absorbing imported technology as best as we can while we pay the royalty. We are also confident that the joint venture with Mitsubishi will provide a decisive opportunity to improve fuel efficiency, safety, and reduction of the production cost through mass production.

How to coordinate the joint venture between Hyundai and Mitsubishi with regard to the still pending joint project between Saehan and GM of the U.S. remains an important policy question.

So far, the cars made by famous makers of the U.S., Japan, and Italy did not succeed in Korea. It will not be easy to choose between U.S. and Japanese cars to be manufactured again.

It is urgent that this time the choice be a final one, not be be changed again. Also, the investment should not be readjusted.

We can find an important significance in the joint plan of Hyundai and Mitsubishi because of the ever increasing private ownership of cars.

According to a government plan, there will be 1,220,000 passenger cars domestically and 80,000 cars exported by 1986.

To fulfill these policy objectives, a large plant with an annual production of 300,000 cars must be built. It is urgent to adopt a policy that will provide new vigor to an industry that operates below 50 percent capacity and at the same time insists on a unique Korean-designed model that has a low marketability in the world.

TOUGH CANADIAN POLICY TO AFFECT ROK SHIPBUILDERS

SK100306 Seoul YONHAP in English 0245 GMT 10 Dec 81

[Text] Toronto, 9 Dec (YONHAP)--South Korea's long-term prospects for breaking into Canada's shipping market appear to be dimming as Canadian shipbuilders step up efforts to curb foreign competition.

The Canadian shipbuilding and ship repairing association Tuesday issued a statement, pressing the Ottawa government for measures to discourage foreign shipbuilders from penetrating further into Canada's shipping market.

Henry Welsh, the association president, called on the government to formulate a policy aimed at fostering the domestic shipbuilding industry "so South Korea, Japan or European nations will not build ships and offshore drilling rigs for Canada," according to the Canadian press, a major wire service here.

He specifically called on the government to impose tougher duties on imported ships, to ban the importing of used vessels, and to formulate a policy that would require Arctic vessels for resource exploration and transportation to be built in Canada.

Welsh's call followed Monday's report that Dome Petroleum Ltd. of Canada has recently decided to go ahead with its earlier plan to build an East Coast shipyard at the cost of 350 million Canadian dollars to supply the vessels, rigs, and barges needed for the development and transportation of its huge Beaufort sea oil and gas reserves.

Dome, which has been the major oil explorer in the central Beaufort basin, believed to contain several billion barrels of oil, says that it is willing to risk a short-term financial deficit in building the proposed shipyard, despite the fact that it would be cheaper and easier to get the ships from Japan or South Korea, because it puts national considerations first.

Dome is known to need more than 100 ships including 25,200,000-ton icebreaker-tankers, costing about 330-million dollars each, rig, and barges in order to develop and transport its Arctic oil and gas reserves.

The South Korean Shipbuilding Industry, with its four million-metric ton capacity, has begun to look to the Canadian shipping market for new orders, particularly non-vessel orders, to take up the slack, stemming from the continuing slump in world shipbuilding.

GOVERNMENT TO SUPPORT HANDICRAFT INDUSTRIES

SK160243 Seoul YONHAP in English 0232 GMT 16 Dec 81

[Text] Seoul, 16 Dec (YONHAP)--The Korean Government has decided to extend financial aid to the handicraft industries to improve and increase the production of ceramics and other types of folk art, as a promising source of revenues during the 1986 Asian Games and the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul.

Under a handicraft industry promoting program released Wednesday by the Commerce-Industry Ministry, the government will lend five billion won (some 7.2 million U.S. dollars) to 200 handicraft manufacturers next year for the production of ceramics, Buddhist images and 50 other typically Korean artifacts by 1983.

The 50 objects include folk musical instruments, folk costumes, bows and arrows, metalware, stone ware, brass ware, imitations of ancient gold crowns, lacquerware inlaid with mother-of-pearl, and products made of dried sedge, grass and twigs.

The long-term, low-interest loans will be mainly used for the modernization of production facilities and quality improvement, ministry officials said.

The ministry will also set aside 500 million won (one U.S. dollar is worth about 695 won) from the medium business promotion fund next year, to help finance the development of model folk artifacts to be made on an experimental basis.

A special committee, consisting of scholars and experts, will be set up to develop model designs, according to the program.

A large folk artifacts sales center will be opened in January next year to sell quality products to foreign tourists at lower prices. Only artifacts which pass the quality tests will be displayed at the center.

Other highlights of the program include comparative studies of folk artifacts manufactured especially by Southeast Asian countries, and cities where the Olympic Games were held in the past.

LOAN, INSURANCE FIRMS TO FIX OWN INTEREST RATES

[Text] Secondary banking institutions including insurance firms and shortterm financing houses will be entitled to readjust interest rates on their own by the end of 1986 and commercial banks will follow suit later.

The government will not get loans from the central bank (Bank of Korea) beginning in 1983 and, if deemed necessary will issue bonds and treasury notes to cover its financial deficits.

During the 1982-86 period, the nation's savings are expected to increase at an annual rate of 27.4 percent to 61,561 billion won at current-account prices in accordance with the policy of making domestic funds available as much as possible to meet the need for economic development.

The secondary banking circles and the capital market will be "significantly expanded" to help domestic companies get 55.8 percent of their combined total fund needs during the coming five years.

During the same period, the nation's foreign exchange holdings are expected to increase by $800 million a year to $11 billion at the end of 1986 from $7 billion expected by the end of this year.

The government policy and predictions were disclosed yesterday by the Finance Ministry in its report on the "Detailed Performance Program in the Monetary-Finance Sector" during the Fifth Five-Year Socio-Economic Development Plan (1982-1986).

The ministry accented economic stabilization through sound monetary management protection of the international balance of payments, maintaining pertinent government revenues, fair taxation and promotion of the banking business.

The government will keep the annual growth of the total money supply at 22 percent and that of the money supply at 18 percent during the five-year period.

To help promote sound financing, the government will not depend on borrowings from the Bank of Korea starting in 1983 to make up for its budget deficits.

According to the ministry, the borrowings stood at 1,377 billion won last year. The figure is expected to rise to 2,056 billion won at the year's end and to 2,407 billion won next year.

Under the government program to manage private credit elastically, the current-account deficit will be reduced to $3,600 million in 1986 from $5,100 million. And net foreign assets (NFA) are also decreasing to $300 million in 1986 from $1,700 million.

To meet the prime policy of adjusting interest rates to realistic levels on a gradual basis, the first-phase plan calls for self-control of interest rates on call loans and commercial papers. Self-regulation of interest rates by secondary banking institutions is projected by the end of 1986 and the third and last stage calls for allowing commercial banks to set their interest rates on their own.

On the planned "epochmaking savings increase," the government set the total investment rate at 31.6 percent of the Gross National Product (GNP) to achieve an economic growth rate of 7.6 percent during the five years.

Domestic savings recorded an annual average increase of 23.9 percent during the Fourth Five-Year Plan (1977-1981). The rate is projected at 27.4 percent during the next five years.

The rate of savings from abroad will grow to 4.2 percent during the five-year period, compared with 6.1 percent registered during the previous five years.

The sum of foreign money the nation is required to secure is likely to total $46,500 million--$37,500 million on a long-term basis and $9,000 million on a short-term basis.

With rational management of foreign debts, the foreign debt servicing ration will drop from 13.9 percent this year to 11.1 percent in 1986.

The ministry-prepared tally shows that the principal of foreign loans will increase from $3,800 million this year to $7,570 million in 1996 and that the current-account earnings will soar to $68 billion in 1986 from $27,400 million in 1981.

IMPROVED BALANCE OF PAYMENTS STRESSED--Seoul, 27 Nov (YONHAP)--A ranking South Korean Government official said Friday that major economic policies for the next five years would be implemented with a view to improving the country's international payments position and overall industrial competitiveness to the fullest possible extent. Briefing private business leaders on the country's Fifth Five-Year Economic and Social Development Plan (1982-1986), at a meeting sponsored by the Federation of Korean Industries, Commerce-Industry Minister So Sok-chun emphasized the need for a significant development to improve the balance of international payments. Enterprises should combine efforts to strengthen their competitiveness at overseas markets through productivity improvement, So said. He pledged the government's support of such endeavors by making commodity prices, interest rates, and wage internationally competitive. So acknowledged the declining arrivals of export letters of credit, the reduced operation rates andthe acute fund shortages facing private enterprises, but clearly refused to resort to short-term pump-primming measures to envigorate business activities, because the government gives utmost priority to price stabilization. The minister urged the agricultural leaders to train farmers in advanced farming techniques so as to produce abundant grain yields in 1982. "All agricultural guides are required to do their utmost to achieve self-sufficient cereal output in the forthcoming years, as agriculture is the basic industry of the nation," Ko accented. He was addressing a rally of agricultural guides at the Seoul Sejong Cultural Center with the attendance of some 500 leaders selected from among exemplary farmers across the nation. Farmers as well as the participants should, the minister added, cope with expected adverse weather conditions next year by making the most of previous experience in surmounting all natural calamities. The agricultural leaders attending the rally resolved to bring about a plentious year with all-out force and expertise in close cooperation with farmers and government specialists. DOMESTIC VEHICLES SALES RECOVER--Seoul, 5 Nov (YONHAP)--The performance of automobile sales in South Korea, after struggling through a tunnel of sluggishness, has finally emerged into the light, it was learned Thursday. According to business sources, the domestic sales of automobiles amounted to 8,784 vehicles in October--1,104 vehicles (14.4 percent) more than sales for the same month last year--of which passenger cars accounted for 4,020, buses 862, trucks 3,582 and specially-equipped vehicles 282. Thus, the domestic sales of automobiles totaled 86,699

vehicles as of the end of October this year, slightly higher than the comparable number of 86,560 a year earlier. Of the January-October total, passenger cars accounted for 41,635 (a 8.1-percent increase over sales for the corresponding period last year), buses for 9,927 (up 9.9 percent), specially-equipped vehicles for 2,773 (up 25.5 percent), and trucks for industrial use for 32,364 (down 12.5 percent). MERGER IN AUTO INDUSTRY--Kia Industry and Tonga Motors formally entered into a merger agreement on Dec. 1, under which a new company will be incorporated through their merger. They have agreed, however, to decide later on their participation in the management and a name of the new company. Highlights of the agreement signed on the day are as follows. An adequate number of the new company's Board membership will be allotted to Tonga Motors by agreement between the two firms. Ha Tong-hwan, chairman of Tonga Motors, will be allowed to continue to operate Tonga's P'yongt'aek and Pup'yong plants under his personal management. The new company name will be given later by agreement between Kia and Tonga. The merger promotion committee will be entitled to give its authoritative interpretation of the agreement in case there should be a difference of views between the two companies. They also agreed on holding the stockholders meeting for the merger around next Feb 10. COLOR TV EXPORT--With the U.S. import quota for color TV sets expected to be scrapped in July next year, it is anticipated that local color TV manufacturers will engage in cut-throat competition with each other for the export of their products to the U.S., according to the Korea Electronic Ind. Cooperative on Nov. 27. This is particularly so because some local TV makers other than those large-scale producers as the Gold Star Co., the Samsung Electronics Co., the Taihan Electric Wire Co., and the Anam Electric Ind. Co. will begin shipment of their goods to the U.S. next year. The Cooperative has said that it will work out a series of self-regulatory measures to establish export order in the future, while adopting a check price system for the export of color TV sets to the U.S. It has been learned that the U.S. consumption of color TV sets is set at a total of 11.5 million for this year, of which some 2 million sets will be imported. It is estimated that some 1 million color TV sets will be imported from Japan and the rest from Korea and Taiwan. [Seoul MAZIL KYONGJE SINMUN in Korean 27 Nov 81 p 7]

TEXTILE INDUSTRY--The nation's textile business circles have tentatively set next year's export goal of textile products at some $7 billion. To attain this target, the business circles have decided to work out a series of comprehensive measures for the sustained development of the nation's textile industry. Highlighted in the measures are the expansion and modernization of facilities, the procurement of raw materials on a stable basis and the introduction of advanced technology for the qualitative improvement of textile goods, as well as the promotion of research and development, strengthening of information-gathering activities, and the positive exploration and diversification of export markets overseas. According to a plan for the modernization of textile industry for 1982, jointly formulated by the related business circles and academic circles on Dec 1, textile exports are targeted to reach $7 billion next year, up 11.1 percent over this year. The business circles plan to expand synthetic fiber and spinning & weaving facilities with a daily production capacity of 66.5 tons and 76,500 spindles, respectively. In addition, the business circles have decided to hold a textile machinery exhibition on May 6-11 next year and to take part in a U.S. Atme textile machinery display slated for next September. To secure the stable supply of raw materials, the related business circles intend to facilitate joint venture projects with Indonesia and Mexico. In addition, some $600 million will be provided for industries concerned to import raw cotton, the related business circles added. [Seoul HANGUK KYONGJE SINMUN in Korean 2 Dec 81 p 3]

CALL FOR 'BELT-TIGHTENING'--Seoul, 15 Dec (YONHAP)--The government Tuesday announced its economic operation program for 1982, calling for a seven percent growth rate in real terms, holding price increases below 14 percent and curbing deficits in the balance of international payments at 4.4 billion U.S. dollars. Vice Premier-Economic Planning Minister Sin Pyong-hyon, announcing the program, said priority would be given to the vitalization of the market economy, amelioration of the country's balance of international payments position and modernization of industries. Despite difficulties expected in carrying out the program, Sin said economic conditions next year could be much better than this year, if the people continued to tighten their belts and share pain thereof. The plan also requires total money supply to increase by 20 to 22 percent and to take measures to expedite business recovery. Sin said the foreign debt-service burden would be lowered from this year's 13.9 percent to 12.8 percent and that efforts will be continued to secure public loans to help defend the balance of international payments. NO LOWER INTEREST RATES--Prime Minister Nam Tok-u indicated yesterday that the government would not lower interest rates on bank loans or savings for the time being to revitalize the nation's economy, now in serious recession. He clarified the government position during the breakfast meeting with economic ministers and leading businessmen at the capital restaurant yesterday morning. On a request for entrepreneurs to lower bank interest rates, Premier Nam was quoted as saying: "The government does not envisage a cut in the bank interest as it had already taken such finanical measures on two occasions." Premier Nam also said that the government would place major emphasis on increased production by firms through betterment of product quality as well as diversifying export markets. He called upon businessmen to cooperate positively with the government for price stabilization and the enhancement of productivtiy through technical renovation. Attending the two-hour meeting were, from the government side, Vice Premier-Economic Planning Minister Sin Pyong-hyon; Finance Minister Yi Sung-yun; Commerce-Industry Minister So Sok-chun; Construction Minister Kim Chu-nam; and Cho Yong-kil, secretary-general to the premier. From business circles were Chong Su-chang, president of the Korea Chamber of Commerce and Industry; Chong Chu-yong, chairman of the Federation of Korean Industries; Yu Chang-sun, chairman of the Korean Traders Association; and Yu Ki-chung, president of the Korea Federation of Small Businesses. 1982 IMPROVED EMPLOYMENT PROSPECTS--Seoul, 12 Dec (YONHAP)--Korea's employment prospects for next year will be brighter than this year's. The Labor Affairs Ministry has recently conducted an employment status survey of 2,544 companies across the country, which employ more than 200 workers, and found that 1,032, or 40.5 percent, plan to employ 92,692 persons next year, 41.6 percent more than the planned number of recruitments this year. Kukje topped the list of the surveyed companies, with the largest number of new employees (11,000), followed by Hyundai Heavy Industry (1,330), Poonghan Textile (1,200), Samsung Electronic (1,020) and Haitai Confectionery (900). Companies which plan to pay more than 300,000 won (one U.S. dollar is worth about 695 won) as initial salary, to a new employee with a college education, numbered 15. They included six construction firms, three oil refineries and two mining companies. [Text] [SK120208 Seoul YONHAP in English 0204 GMT 12 Dec 81]

WON-DOLLAR EXCHANGE RATE--Seoul, 10 Dec (YONHAP)--The won-dollar exchange rate has surpassed the five-percent benchmark for this year. The Bank of Korea posted the basic official exchange rate at 693.40 won per dollar Wednesday, 33.50 won or 5.07 percent higher than last year's exchange rate. As a result, Korean banks dealing in foreign currencies sold one dollar for 703.81 won and bought one dollar for 682.90 won. The telegraph selling price was 695.50 won per dollar against the telegraph purchasing price of 690.80 won. The exchange rate rose by 3.50 won since the turn of this month, higher than the average monthly increase of one to two won during the January-November period. Bank officials attributed the steady rise in the exchange rate to the continued appreciation of the dollar at world money markets in recent days. Government officials earlier predicted that they would be able to keep the exchange rate rise to under five percent throughout the year. They claim, however, that an increase of five percent would mean an exchange rate of 710 won to the dollar. The present rate, therefore, is seen by them to be below five percent. OIL PRICING STRUCTURE BENEFITS--Seoul, 14 Dec (YONHAP)--Korea's oil bill next year will be reduced by 12 million U.S. dollars under the OPEC decision last Friday to lower by between 20 and 70 cents the per barrel price of some types of crude. Sources at the Energy-Resources Ministry said Monday that, in line with the oil cartel's decision which goes into effect January 1, each barrel of crude import from Kuwait and Iran will cost 70 cents less that its current price. The estimated oil price reduction of 12 million dollars accounts for one percent of the country's total oil bill for 1982, the sources said. EXPECTED GNP GROWTH IN 1982--Seoul, 8 Dec (YONHAP)--The Bank of Korea (BOK) Monday predicted that the country's Gross National Product would grow by six to seven percent next year, one percentage point lower than the original target, because the domestic business recession would continue through the first half of next year. The BOK, in a report on the outlook of the Korean economy next year, said that the country's international payments deficit would amount to some 5.3 billion U.S. dollars next year, up 200 million dollars from this year's and predicted a 14-percent hike in domestic wholesale prices. In the light of all this, the central bank recommended that the government seek a slow and steady recovery, rather than a drastic pickup of the overall economy. The BOK also urged the government to reduce financial deficits and to prevent excessive hikes of public utility rates, in order to revitalize the Korean economy. It stressed that foreign exchange rates and interest rates should be adjusted elastically, in accordance with business activities, but that the tight money situation should be sustained to prevent inflation. [Text] [SK080125 Seoul YONHAP in English 0056 GMT 8 Dec 81]

PRICE INCREASE RATE IN 1982--Seoul, 9 Dec (YONHAP)--The government will keep next year's price increase rates from exceeding 10 to 14 percent for wholesale prices, and 14 percent for retail prices, the Economic Planning Board (EPB) said Tuesday. To ensure this, the government will stabilize the money supply and expand supplies of food and other daily necessities, according to the EPB. A stable price structure will be sought, through strong price control policies for monopolistic and oligopolistic prices, and increased imports of consumer items. The government will also exert efforts to improve the distribution system, and institute effective policies for consumer protection. [Text] [SK090215 Seoul YONHAP in English 0103 GMT 9 Dec 81]

AUSTRALIA TO EXPAND COAL PROJECT--Seoul, 9 Dec (YONHAP)--Korea's Energy-Resources Ministry Tuesday authorized two local firms to increase their investments in the Drayton coal mining project being conducted in Australia's New South Wales State, according to ministry officials. The ministry's overseas resources development deliberation committee approved the request from the Hyundai Corp and the Daesung Mining Development Co to invest an additional 3.3 million Australian dollars each in the soft coal mining project. The two Korean firms have each invested 3.9 million Australian dollars in the project, under the contract with six foreign partners signed early October, in Sydney. Hyundai and Daesung, which hold 2.5 percent each of the project's total capital investment, requested the investment increase because of some changes in the project plans. The Drayton mine is reported to have some 500 million tons of soft coal, and the Korea Electric Co plans to import some 500,000 tons of coal annually for ten years beginning 1983. MONEY SUPPLY INCREASE FIGURES--Seoul, 14 Dec (YONHAP)--The Korean Government has decided to increase total money supply next year by 22 percent, two percentage points lower than originally projected in the country's Fifth Five-Year Economic and Social Development Plan, which starts next year. Government sources said Monday that the adjustment is necessary to keep money supply below the envisaged 23-percent nominal economic growth rate for next year and to hold commodity price hikes down to 10 percent. Accordingly, money supply will increase from this year's 3.1 trillion won (roughly 4.5 billion U.S. dollars) to 3.3 trillion won next year (one U.S. dollar is worth about 695 won). The move is expected not to aggravate the current shortage of funds facing many enterprises but to help contribute to price stabilization by calming down the excessive demand caused by inflation, the sources said. LIVING CONDITIONS, SALARIES REPORTED

Worker's Monthly Income

Seoul TONGA ILBO in Korean 28 Sep 81 p 5

[Text] The average South Korean worker is 28.8 years old, has worked 3 years, and 8 months at his present job, works 25 days a month, and earns 150,747 won per month.

According to the major labor and economic indicators analyzed by the Labor Department on September 25, there are 74,090 businesses which employ five or more workers, a total of 3,219,442 workers at the end of last year. Their average age is 28.8 years with 3.8 years of work experience, and their average length of service at one job is 2.8 years. In a month, they work an average of 25.1 days or 231.4 hours with an average wage of 150,747 won. In addition to the monthly wage, the average of special wages [bonus etc.] amounts to 268,842 won per year.

The average male worker is 32.4 years old with 4.8 years of experience, works 25 days (228.4 hours) a month and earns 192,589 won. In contrast, the average female worker works 25.1 days or 236.1 hours a month but earns much less than her male counterpart, 85,674 won. The average female worker is 23.3 years old and has 2.3 years of work experience, which is about half the male average.

There are great differences in the working conditions of these workers according to their jobs, industries, education, and experiences. Technical professionals, administrative managers, and office workers work relatively short hours, 206, 208, and 210 hours, respectively. On the other hand, salespersons, service workers, production workers in agricultural, livestock, and forestry industries and simple laborers work for longer hours, 224 to 240 hours, but earn (including special wages) much less, with large differences according to the job.

The average monthly wage of technical professionals is 321,500 won, 517,432 won for administrative managers, and 211,000 won for office workers. But, the average wage for salespersons is 116,000 won, 108,000 for service workers, and 130,000 won for production workers and laborers.

Regarding education, if we take the wage of 124,435 won for those who have finished middle school or less as the standard index of 100, then high-school graduates get 180,919 won or 145.4, and college graduates get over three times that, 413,317 won or 332.2. On the other hand, workers in construction, finance, and social and personal services earn 240,000 to 280,000 won, but those in the manufacturing industry earn only 145,000 won.

As usual, workers in Seoul earn the most money, 205,000 won, followed by those in Kangwŏndo with 195,000 won, in Chŏlla-Namdo with 176,000 won, and in Chejudo with 174,000 won.

Top Executives' Salaries

Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 28 Oct 81 p 3

[Article by reporter Yi Chae-hun in the column "Economic Topic"]

[Text] Chairman of Korean Airlines, Mr Cho Chung-hun, earned 11,469,800 won a day or 348,870,000 won a month.

His income last year was equivalent to the wages of 698 workers, each of whom earned 500,000 won per month.

This is the incredible income of the person who earned the most money in Korea.

The (combined income) tax he paid was slightly over one half of his income, 2,160,370,000 won, equivalent to the income tax paid by over 4000 workers, each of whom earned 500,000 won per month.

The income of Chairman Cho last year was far less than that of the chairman of the Hyŏndae group, Chŏng Chu-yŏng, in 1978 and 1979.

Chairman Chŏng was ranked No 1 for earning 25,941,000,000 won in 1978 and 15,699,000,000 won in 1979, far more than others.

The top position changed not because Chairman Cho suddenly earned a lot, but because the income of Chairman Chŏng dropped drastically.

The fact that Chairman Chŏng Chu-yŏng dropped to second place after having been the top money-maker for 3 years is big news from the combined tax returns filed last May.

The Chŏng family occupied four out of the five top positions in the tax returns of 1978 and 1979. This year, however, Chairman Chŏng and his whole family earned less. Chairman Chŏng was the only one in the top five rankings; his fifth son, Mong-hŏn, was 19th, his younger brother, Se-yŏng (president of Hyŏndae Automobile), was 18th, and the president of Kumgang, Chŏng Sang-yŏng, was 16th.

However, the fact that five members of the family are among the top 20 demonstrates the financial strength of the Hyŏndae group.

The main reason for the decrease in the income of Hyŏndae's chief is the decline in construction jobs in the Middle East.

The chairman of the Hanjin group, Cho Chung-hun, has risen rapidly by means of special procurements in Vietnam during the late sixties. His income was ranked highest in 1968 and 1970, second highest in 1979, and he demonstrated his financial strength again by being ranked first in 1980.

This reflects his influence, derived from the enormous airline business that he monopolizes.

The chairman of the Tonga group, Ch'oe Ch'un-mun, and his son, the chairman of Tonga Construction, Ch'oe Wŏn-sŏk ranked third and fourth, respectively.

This shows the steady expansion of the Tonga group, which grew through construction jobs.

The Ch'oes were ranked 10th for the father and ninth for the son in 1979, but their rankings rose rapidly and the positions were reversed.

Their income, however, is almost the same as in the year before.

The president of Hanyang Construction, Kim Sŏn-hwan, who has jumped from 67th to fifth, is not well known. He may be a new financial wizard.

Mr Yu Han-yŏl, who is ranked eighth, is an unusual case.

Last year he had bad luck to the extent that he had to turn over his business, Olympus Electronics, to someone else. His income was probably high because he was taxed on the income credited to him in the process of closing his business.

The chairman of Honam Refinary, Yun Tŏk-ju, who was ranked 30th in 1979 and 12th last year, is the wife of the late Chairman Sŏ Chŏng-kwi. Although the oil company is suffering from the recession this year, her income shows the power of the oil industry.

Chairman Yi Pyŏng-ch'ŏl of the Samsong group, which had earlier built a financial fortress, dropped to 20th from 16th in 1979, but his son, Yi Kŏn-hŭi, who is the vice chairman, rose from 20th to 11th.

We note that the chairman of the Taeu group, Kim U-jung, and the chairman of the Kukje group, Yang Chong-mo, who were both within the top 20 in 1978 and 1979, dropped below 20th, but this should be seen as a result of reduced dividends rather than that of shrinking businesses.

Eight of the top ten are chairmen or presidents of construction companies.

This proves that the Middle East construction market is a dollar box [lucrative business].

Mr Kang Sŏk-jin (Tongmyong Lumber), whose dominance was in the early seventies, has completely dropped out. It is also difficult to find Mr Yi Sang-sun (Wŏnp'ung Industries, fourth in 1970) and Mr Ŭn Sa-ch'ŏn (Korea Paper Mill, seventh in 1970) among the high-income earners. The financial stars [luck] must be shifting as time passes. It must be difficult both to start a [prosperous] business and to keep it going as well.

Police Detectives' Lives

Seoul TONGA ILBO in Korean 26 Oct 81 p 3

[Article by reporter Kim Ch'ung-kŭn: "Detectives: The Faded Flowers of the Police in the Storm of the Stealing Scandal"]

[Text] It was the afternoon of the 18th [of October] when Detective Ha Yong-ung of the Yongsan Police Station entered the criminal custody room of the Namdaemun Police Station to wait for a detention warrant after he was arrested and investigated by the Seoul City Police. Among the detectives who were busy with their assignments, mixed feelings prevailed momentarily, feelings of excitement, anger, betrayal, and sympathy.

"It Finally Occurred."

This was the moment when the detectives faced one of their colleagues who became a common "criminal" from a "detective," a betrayer who put 80,000 policemen to shame.

"Isn't he a crazy man? After 13 years as a detective, how come he was unable to detect a poison and stole the savings passbook of a victim?"

"Detective Ha is my classmate, and he is not the kind to do such things. He was swift and clever. He was one of the better known detectives in the Yongsan Police Station."

"I cannot forgive his behavior at yesterday's news conference. Why didn't he say 'I did it because I was hungry'? The water [milk] has been spilled already and 80,000 policemen already have been shamed. He should have exposed the [cold] reality that we are all in as well as himself. To be honest, when I heard the incident of Detective Ha, I felt that finally a case that was likely to happen broke out."

At first, the detectives didn't know what to say when they faced the stark reality, an unthinkable event that should not have taken place. But, a moment later, they found many things to say.

There were shameful events in the past, such as receiving bribes regularly from pick-pockets, skimming gambling stakes, stealing smuggled gold nuggets, etc. As time passed by, working conditions for the police worsened, with no adjustments for the "reality."

The complaints blurted out in desparation by Detective Ha's former teammates at the Yongsan Police Station, Detectives Kim (42 years old) and Lee (37 years old), who always worked together with Ha in investigative teamwork, show more vividly the hidden side of Detective Ha's unacceptable incident.

Last spring, when we were hiding in Namdaemun market to track down an organization of thieves breaking into empty houses, Detective Ha often left us to telephone someone. I became suspicious, and asked him if he had any problem at home during our lunch. Then, scratching his head, he told me "I must borrow some money, and I am looking for my high-school classmates." When he left home that morning, he knew his wife did not have any money although his son (age 9) was going to a school picnic the next day. I gave him my investigation allowance that I had kept hidden.

Our Etiquette Is Not to Ask About Personal "Life."

"It is an unspoken rule among ourselves not to ask about each other's personal life, because we all know the sad situation, we cannot do much to help each other, and because we only make ourselves sadder. Once in a while when we drank together, Detective Ha used to get rough and drunk. Now I think it was all caused by the disharmony and complaints being a 'detective' and the head of a household at the same time."

The storm raised by the incident of Detective Ha, which unfortunately happened just before the 36th anniversary of the national police, left an indelible record in the history of our police. We all hope that the police become more loyal "walking sticks [servants] of the people" by overcoming this painful scar. Let us listen to detectives, who are manning the front line catching criminals, about their reflections and new resolutions. Let us also think what our society should pay attention to among the realities the detectives face.

"We apologize to the people for this unacceptable incident. Because of this unfortunate incident of Detective Ha, difficulties and problems of the detectives for violent crimes have become known to the public. We are now discussing how to make our salaries and investigation allowances more realistic. Our wages are not that far behind those of other civil servants, but the investigation allowances must be made more realistic." (Opinion of Patrolman Chŏng Tu-bong, age 41, a detective at the T'aenung Police Station.)

"I have never had this much doubt about my own job. I am ashamed that we caused so much trouble to our society. Honestly, I feel uneasy about investigating even a larceny suspect. I will try hard to regain the peoples' trust by working with a better attitude." (Opinion of Patrolman Yi, age 42, a detective at the T'aenung Police Station.)

"Detective Ha stole the savings passbook of the Buddist nun Yun and became an embezzler but I have also misused public funds many times. I have seven dependents in my household, and I can barely maintain a minimal living standard only if I used all my salary as well as my investigation allowances which amount to 25,000 won every 10 days. Although I am supposed to use the allowances to catch criminals, I must also live. If I have to go on a business trip, I cannot handle my household needs and I must go into debt. This is the real life of a detective." (Opinion of Patrolman Yi, age 40, a detective at the Map'o Police Station.)

"I worked for 22 years as a detective, but it is becoming very difficult to follow cunning crimes such as fraud and violent crime because they are well planned and evidence is almost completely destroyed. We must use scientific equipment for investigation and improve our manpower as soon as possible. Only in this way can we improve on the bad habit of 'treating the suspects impolitely and oppressively'." (Opinion of Sergeant Chi, age 53, a detective at the Ch'ŏngnyangni Police Station.)

What is the opinion of police leaders who command and supervise these detectives?

"We have no excuse for the Detective Ha incident because he gave up his job as a law officer and became a criminal himself. We must change and improve so that we are not criticized for being rude and arrogant. But you must also understand the fact that we cannot carry out our work by very politely asking the criminals if 'they could have possibly taken any money'." (Opinion of Colonel Kil Pyŏng-kuk, Chief Detective of the Tongdaemun Police Station.)

Training of Detectives Is a Problem Too.

"There is a big problem in the present system of training detectives. We cannot carry out our special tasks by just picking up smart police officers from police boxes and appointing them as detectives. Detectives should be systematically trained in a specialized educational unit and they should be given better job security. At least, each detective team should have a car to reach the scene of a crime in an emergency and track down suspects. In this way, we can carry out our ever-increasing tasks." (Opinion of Chief Investigator Sŏng Hak-jun of the Sŏdaemun Police Station.)

The most urgent problem that all detectives and their leaders emphasized was that "remuneration by the government should not be based on the philosophy that 'since when did you live on government wages along?'"

BROADCASTERS URGED TO DIVERSIFY CULTURE PROGRAMS

SK090730 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 9 Dec 81 p 6

[Text] Broadcasters must be prepared to cover diverse culture-related activities, traditional and modern as well as international, and to contribute to enhancing the cultural standards of the people.

This assertion was made by Prof Yo Sok-ki of Korea University at a seminar on "Current Situation and Future of Korean Broadcasting" held yesterday at the Sejong Cultural Center in Seoul sponsored by the Korean Broadcasting System.

Prof Yo then said Korean broadcasting is still stepped in mannerisms in operating programs and lacks creativity. He further said broadcasting has also failed to pay due attention to proper sense of national identity in its programs and it has been intent on imitating programs of foreign countries, including the United States and Japan.

Unnecessary and even harmful commercialism has existed in broadcasting and such trends run counter to the origianl purpose of the cooperative role among broadcasting stations and channels under the public broadcasting system, the professor mentioned.

To throw away the factors making broadcasting stagnant, he also said, all persons concerned with broadcasting should do their best in communicating with each other to produce better programs and share responsibility for all programs.

Other main speakers at the seminar were So Yong-hun, secretary general of the Korean National Red CRoss, and Yi Won-hong, president of the Korean Broadcasting System.

So said broadcasting should be rooted in the general public and help promote Korean people's sense of democracy as well as bridging the gaps between old and young, the poor and the rich, and among those with different educational backgrounds.

Departing from the trends of focusing attention on entertainment in programs, he also said, broadcasting should play a more positive and significant role in establishing a sound culture in the future.

In particular, he said, it is urgent for Korean broadcasting to enhance the quality of shows and comedy programs which have been a target of criticism.

KBS President Yi said that in general broadcasting's role has been concentrated on culture, reports and education with the entertaining role being somewhat ignored.

However, he stressed as KBS president that not only the cultural, educational and reporting roles of broadcasting were important but the entertaining role contributed directly or indirectly to the nation's development.

POLL REVEALS CLASS IDENTITY, POLITICAL, SOCIAL ATTITUDES

General Survey Results

Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 22 Sep 81 p 1

[Text] Most Koreans live with middle-class consciousness. They may not be satisfied with the present, but they are living with bright hopes for the future.

According to a survey conducted by this paper in commemoration of the 16th anniversary of its inauguration, "A Survey on Life Consciousness," 48.3 percent of those polled regarded their standard of living as middle class; 7.7 percent as upper middle class; and 30.4 percent as lower middle class. Thus, those who regarded themselves as middle class in general occupied 86.4 percent of all of those who responded to the survey questionnaires.

Meanwhile, those who regarded themselves as upper class occupied 0.7 percent and those who regarded themselves as lower class occupied only 12.9 percent.

The fact that the percentage of those who regarded themselves as middle class was high means that the foundation of the society for stabilization and development is solid and sound.

Such a middle class consciousness is backed up by the fact that those who currently have savings accounts or regular-lay-aside savings accounts in the banks occupied 50.3 percent of the total number of those who responded to the survey questionnaires.

Thus, in general, those who have middle class consciousness occupied a high percentage. However, it is an alarming trend that during the past 5 years the number of those who have the consciousness of being upper, upper middle, or middle class continued to decrease, although the decrease rate was small, while the number of those who have the consciousness of being lower middle or lower class continued to increase, although the increase rate was small.

This trend is commensurate with the following: comparing last year with this year, the number of those who, in their responses to survey questionnaires, said that annoying things had increased (28.5 percent) is a little larger than the number of those who said that delightful things had increased (24.4 percent), while the number of those who said that their living had become harder (29.5 percent) is a little larger than the number of those who said that their living had become better (26.5 percent).

However, as for the perspective of the ROK in the 21st century, most of these polled said they had great hopes (52.4 percent) or they expected a little better days ahead than today (42.1 percent).

Regarding the prospective political changes in the coming 10 years, those who said that there would be some development in establishing the tradition of peaceful transfer of government power and in making democracy workable in this country (48.9 percent) were much larger in number than those who said that they could not tell for certain (37.2 percent) or those who said that there would be no improvement (11.5 percent).

The medium-range perspective is, meanwhile, that those who viewed optimistically that they would be better off in 5 years (77.7 percent) were much larger in number than those who thought they would be worse off (4.2 percent).

With respect to the current policies of the government, the percentage of those who took a negative attitude toward the establishment of an education tax was high. Regarding the policy of allowing free travel overseas, most of them regarded it as acceptable; however, some of them were worried about harmful effects of the policy.

Those who said that the education tax should be established immediately occupied 29 percent; those who said that the establishment of the education tax should be put off occupied 55.8 percent; and those who urged that an education tax not be established occupied 10.8 percent. The percentage of negative attitude toward the policy was high.

Regarding the policy of allowing free travel overseas, those who accepted and actively supported it occupied 35.1 percent; those who said "it is acceptable but" expressed reservation by saying that "it may cause some bad effects" occupied 57 percent; and those who were opposed to the policy occupied 4.9 percent. The positive attitude toward the policy was high in its percentage.

The enthusiasm for sending sons and daughters to colleges and universities tended to increase: for daughters, 73.4 percent (67.5 percent last year); for sons: 90 percent (89.3 percent last year). Regarding sending them overseas for study, a much higher percentage took a positive attitude (76.7 percent) than a negative attitude.

Regarding the fields in which they wanted the government to exert greatest efforts, 84.2 percent of them wanted the stabilization of prices. In the 1979 survey conducted immediately before the 26 October incident, it was 77.9 percent. The increase in this rate indicates the current pressure of high prices on the people.

Other tasks to which the government should give concentrated attention were: social welfare, education, elimination of the differences between rich and poor, and unemployment measures. The people's concern over social welfare has increased greatly, perhaps because of the government's catch phrase of realization of a welfare society.

Because of the policy of withdrawing the U.S. forces from Korea taken by Carter, former president of the United States, and because of the Pak Tong-son incident, in the 1977 and 1978 surveys the Korean people's sentiment toward the United States was very bad. In the 1980 survey, it became a little better, and in the recent survey, 63.6 percent of those polled said it had improved and 4 percent said it had deteriorated.

As for the people's sentiment toward Japan, in the 1980 survey it had deteriorated greatly in comparison with that in the survey of the previous year. But in the recent survey, 23.7 percent of those polled said it had improved and 23.1 percent said it had deteriorated. The sentiment that prevailed a year ago is still going on.

Regarding big business enterprises in our country, 57.5 percent of those polled agreed with the proposition that the big business enterprises were doing good for their country, 16.5 percent did not agree with the proposition, and 24.5 percent said that the big business enterprises were just so-so. Thus the number of those who agreed with the proposition was larger than that of those who said otherwise. As for women's penetration into the society, 46 percent of the housewives polled and 52.4 percent of the college students polled expressed positive hope for that. Regarding divorces, 50 percent of those polled said that a divorce might take place if there were sufficient grounds (it was 17.4 percent last year).

Regarding the male-female relationship, especially regarding the premarital relationship, the attitude of those polled was conservative in general. Only 7.4 percent of those polled said there could be sexual intercourse if they were engaged.

Details of Findings

Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 22 Sep 81 pp 12-13

[Text] Regarding the new administration's promises for democratization--the peaceful transfer of government power and making democracy workable--those of their thirties and forties responded affirmatively, while those in their fifties and sixties regarded the promises as unclear. Those who belonged to the middle class in terms of living standard regarded the development of democratization as a hopeful sign in their responses, and this indicates that the new administration is based on the support of the middle class. Those who had graduated from middle schools, high schools, or junior colleges responded affirmatively to the questions about political developments, while those who had graduated from colleges and universities took a skeptical view of political developments.

Regarding the multiparty system, those polled generally tended to accept it: 42.3 percent of those polled accepted the present 3-party system--Minjong, Minhan, and Kungmin Parties--and 53.1 percent, including 10.8 percent who preferred more than 3 parties, preferred the multiparty system. However, those who supported the 2-party system occupied 34.8 percent, indicating that the preference for the 2-party system is still strong. On the other hand, only 10.8 percent of those polled preferred the more than three or the more the better system, indicating that the limitless multiparty system is not preferred by the people. All these phenomena are almost same as the responses of the national assemblymen polled in the survey conducted by this paper last April: 3-party system: 49 percent; 2-party system: 32 percent.

Regarding the North-South Korean issue, the responses of those polled tended to accept the division as a reality.

The majority of those polled regarded reunification as "impossible forever" (15.7 percent) or "entirely unpredictable" (62.5 percent). And this attitude was rather strong in the postwar generation of those in their thirties or under, whereas 86.9 percent of those in their twenties or under regarded reunification as something in the distant future which they could reach. Regarding the scheme for reunification, the responses were "peaceful reunification through dialogue" (39.9 percent) and "reunification through attaining economic superiority" (36 percent)--thus the majority of those polled preferred peaceful means.

The people's sentiment toward the United States improved greatly thanks to the efforts of President Reagan of the United States, compared with the responses in the survey conducted last year. The sentiment toward Japan, which was aggravated last year, continued to stay that way, perhaps due to the current pending problems between the two nations.

And 15.3 percent of those polled--a rather low percentage--agreed to the idea that if Japan were to become militarily strong, it would be beneficial to the security of Korea. On the contrary, many of those polled agreed with the proposition that Japan's rearmament would be a dangerous thing (37.6 percent). Also, many responded that they would watch the military strength of Japan (37.5 percent).

The prevailing tendency was that the people should stop waste and try to save. This may have been the result of the hard-won lessons gained through the unprecedented recession which hit them hard.

Those polled who considered they were leading a comfortable life with their present income occupied 38.9 percent, whereas 36.7 percent of those polled thought their present income was not enough. Thus the living circumstances were still those of hardship, as they were last year.

However, the means of making up the deficit in family finances have become considerably more wholesome: 17.1 percent of those polled said their "family budget scale has been reduced," while 11.4 percent said their "side jobs help make up the deficits"--these figures in last year's survey were 15.2 percent and 8.4 percent respectively, so the increase is conspicuous.

Meanwhile, those polled who "borrow money" to make up deficits occupied 9.1 percent--in last year's survey, it was 11.5 percent.

Those polled who think their living is better off now compared with that of last year occupied 26.5 percent; however, 34.1 percent of them said that the improvement was attributable to the reduction of waste.

Regarding regional differences, in Kangwon Province, 50 percent of those polled said their present income was not enough, and that province is the region in which the people's living is the hardest among provinces. North Kyongsang Province is the region where the people's living is the best, and 25.8 percent of those polled in that province said their present income was not enough.

A strange finding was that none of those whose monthly income was 1 million won or more said that they had a "comfortable" living.

Among those polled who thought their living had become harder than that of last year; some distributed it to: the rise in prices (34.2 percent); increase in family spendings (23.4 percent); and failure in business (21.7 percent). Those who attributed it to the rise in prices occupied 30.1 percent of those polled in last year's survey, so the percentage increased this year.

Regarding the economic growth rate which the government is currently expecting, those polled who thought that "the rate will be attained easily" occupied 37.6 percent; those who said "I don't know" 43.9 percent; and those who said "we will be lucky if the economy does not go in the red" 17.3 percent.

As for the reasons for the expectation of attaining the growth rate easily, 39.1 percent of those polled cited the vitality and will of the people as the reasons, while 40.3 percent cited the gradual improvement of the international situation.

Answering questions about two major factors being considered in evaluating the ranking of business enterprises, 61.3 percent of those polled cited the enterprise's output of good quality goods; 46.6 percent cited the degree of cooperation between the workers and the employer; and 29.2 percent cited the amount of reinvestment of the business profits in social welfare projects.

These indicate that the people think highly of the social role and ethics-orientedness of the business enterprises.

Answering the question "Are the big business enterprises doing good for their country?," 55.5 percent of those polled gave affirmative answers, while 16.5 percent gave negative answers.

One of the items that caused the greatest annoyance to housewives' home finance recordkeeping was educational expenses. Educational expenses occupied 28.4 percent of the total home budget in last year's survey, and 30.4 percent this year. As oil prices rose, the worry about energy costs increased up to 6.5 percent this year from 4.6 percent last year.

Regarding the means of making a lump sum of money or accumulating wealth, regular or regular-lay-aside savings in the bank occupy 51.8 percent--this showed a gradual increase. Purchasing company bonds or short-term bills was also increasing little by little.

Those who wanted to join in mutual financial associations occupied 18.9 percent of those polled; and those who wanted to buy real estate for investment occupied 13.1 percent. These figures indicated a gradual decrease in their numbers, but they still occupied high percentages.

The problems with which Koreans were most concerned were: education of children (25.6 percent), housing problem (14.4 percent), and business or job (14.1 percent). To the aged, cares about health and prevention of disease occupied 22.1 percent. To college students, problems of intersexual relationship and marriage were the biggest. To high school graduates, business and job problems were the greatest concern.

Regarding the intersexual relationship, despite the fact that premarital purity is highly respected, 25.5 percent of those polled said that if engaged, the fiance might have a private talk with his fiancee; and 41.5 percent said that the fiance might walk arm in arm with his fiancee or hold her hand.

Of those polled, 23.9 percent said that the fiance might "kiss or hug" his fiancee, whereas only 7.4 percent said that the fiance might have "sexual intercourse" with his fiancee.

Those college students who said the fiance might "kiss or hug" his fiancee occupied 44.4 percent, while 23.8 percent said the fiance might have "sexual intercourse" with his fiancee.

Of those who graduated from colleges or higher schools, 40.8 percent said the fiance might kiss his fiancee, whereas 54 percent of those who did not go to school at all said that the fiance might only have a private talk with his fiancee.

There are not many differences between males and females in their attitude toward the relationship between the fiance and fiancee. However, 10.8 percent of males polled gave affirmative answers regarding "sexual intercourse," whereas only 4.5 percent of females polled gave affirmative answers--this female percentage was even lower than the percentage of the total of those polled--males and females--who gave affirmative answers. And all this coincided with the commonsense view that males are aggressive and females are defensive.

As for those 60 years of age or older, 31 percent of them said that the fiance might walk arm in arm with his fiancee, while 53 percent said that the fiance might have a private talk with his fiancee and no more than that.

Regarding job preferences, 24.5 percent of those polled most preferred that of businessman, which might meet their desires for wealth and successes. It was the top preference among the 25 types of jobs cited in the questionnaires.

The next preferences were scholars (11.6 percent) and teachers (11.2 percent). Many of those polled preferred teaching, including college professors.

The preference for being a medical doctor, which had been very popular until last year, dropped to 11th place.

Very few of those polled believed that their social life was influenced by luck, personal connections, or education.

Most said that effort and ability counted most. None of the college students believed that wealth, family prestige, personal connections, or luck would count in gaining success.

Of those polled, 46 percent of the housewives and 52.4 percent of the college students positively supported the idea that women should penetrate into the society. However, 35.3 percent of those 60 years of age or older believed that "women should stay home." Among those in their twenties, 51 percent believed that women need not stay home; so the young people accepted the idea of both husband and wife working as a matter of course.

Regarding the system of rewarding the person who reports a crime, 65.4 percent of those polled said that positive efforts must be made to prevent crime by accusing criminals severely.

However, on the contrary, 9.9 percent of those polled said that reporting other persons' wrongdoings in secret was not worthy of recommendation.

Regarding the measures that may be taken against unjustifiable harm done by others, 28.4 percent of those polled said they would appeal to the public organization that had jurisdiction over the matter; 19.8 percent said they would appeal to the judicial organization; and 4.7 percent said they would appeal to the press organizations. A considerable number, 21.4 percent, said they would appeal to the influential acquaintances; and 18.8 percent said they would just keep it to themselves and try to put up with it.

The fact that 21.4 percent would appeal to influential acquaintances or neighbors indicated the potential tendency of favoritism.

In terms of sex and age, more men than women and more young men than older people said they would seek reasonable means of solving problems, such as appealing to the organization that had jurisdiction over the matter or judicial organizations.

Regarding the policy of liberalizing overseas trips, overseas employment, emigration, and overseas study, those polled basically accepted this, but many were worried about certain bad effects of the policy.

In terms of the classification of those polled who responded to the questions on this policy, those who classed themselves as above upper middle class tended to give affirmative answers, while those who classed themselves as below lower middle class were rather worried about the bad effects of the policy.

However, regarding the planning of overseas trips, only 3.3 percent of those polled said they were going on a trip soon, 67.5 percent said they wanted to go but circumstances did not permit, and 24.1 percent said neither did they want to go nor did circumstances permit.

As for the places they would like to go, 35.2 percent preferred the United States, Canada--North America--and 34.6 percent preferred Europe.

Regarding the overseas study of the children of those polled, 76.7 percent said that they definitely wanted them to go--in the 1979 survey, the percentage was 70.1.

Regarding study overseas, the younger the person polled, the more positive the response. Of those polled in their fifties, 63.6 percent wanted to go--and this rate is not decreasing.

However, regarding emigration abroad, 57.5 percent did not want to emigrate overseas; 2.2 percent said they were planning to emigrate by all means; and 36.7 percent said they would emigrate if the opportunity arose. Those who did not want to emigrate were conspicuously larger in number than those who wanted to do so.

This trend may be attributable to the prevailing notion that even if you emigrate overseas, you should be "deeply rooted" in your fatherland.

Regarding the means of getting information about what is going on in the world, 48.9 percent of those polled said "primarily through television" and 36.2 percent through "newspapers." In last year's survey, the percentage of television was 50.3, which decreased this year due to the consolidation move among the press organizations. The percentage of newspapers as the means of getting information was 28.6 percent in last year's survey, and this rate increased this year.

As for the overall credibility of these means of getting information, 40.4 percent said that television was highest in credibility and 37.7 percent said that the newspapers were the highest. However, opinions about the credibility varied according to differences in occupation, age, sex, and education. Men placed more credibility in newspapers (43.6 percent) than in television (36.7 percent). Women placed more credibility in television (45.9 percent) than in newspapers (34.7 percent). Those in their twenties and thirties placed more credibility in newspapers, while those in their forties and older in age tended to place more credibility in television.

Those engaged in rendering service, unskilled labor, farmers, and housewives placed more credibility in television, whereas those engaged in office work, skilled labor, commerce and industry, government work, self-employed, and in college placed more credibility in newspapers.

In particular, those engaged in service rendering jobs placed overwhelmingly more credibility in television (television, 63.2 percent; newspapers, 15.8 percent). In the case of those engaged in government work, 52.9 percent placed more credibility in newspapers and 29.4 percent in television. It seems that such a trend as this may be attributable to the differences among those polled in the frequency of their contacts with the press of various kinds. Those who graduated from high schools or higher schools placed more credibility in newspapers. Those who were not married placed more credibility in newspapers than those who were married. These are rather interesting phenomena.

A fact of particular interest was that 11.3 percent of those polled tended to believe what they were told verbally through conversation or gossip, and a smaller percentage tended to trust radio broadcasts or magazines.

In particular, in the case of those who are self-employed, 30.8 percent placed as much credibility in dialogue with others as in television. And in the case of college students, 36.2 percent placed as much credibility in hearsay as in newspapers.

Newspaper subscribers, the survey indicates, would rather expect the press to report facts objectively (63.4 percent) than to provide educational information (17 percent) or to provide criticism or enlightenment (9.8 percent).

Regarding the college graduation quota system that was implemented this year for the first time, 41.1 percent of those polled said that it was a good system to encourage students to study harder--a pretty good percentage of support for the system. However, 40.8 percent said that all those students who are successful in achieving a certain designated academic standard should be allowed to graduate; and 5.7 percent said that 3 dropouts out of 13 students is excessive--voices recommending a partial replenishment. Meanwhile, those polled who advocated the limiting of the number of students to be admitted--the system that existed before--occupied only 9.3 percent--a percentage that may be ignored.

Regarding the plan for lowering the primary school age--one of the educational reform plans mapped out by the Ministry of Education recently--46.8 percent of those polled gave affirmative answers and 50.7 percent negative answers--the pros and cons were almost equal. However, regarding the plan for changing the primary school years from 6 to 5, the cons that occupied 56.4 percent of those polled were far greater than the pros that occupied 41.1 percent.

Regarding the admission by a draw system in the entrance examinations of high schools--a system that has been in effect for 8 years now--only 32.3 percent of those polled said it was acceptable, while 56.5 percent hoped that the competitive entrance examination system would be revived, and 8.9 percent said the competitive entrance examinations should be given at least at the private high schools, if not at all high schools.

Regarding the ban on extracurricular class lessons--which was imposed by the National Security Measures Committee in July last year--50.3 percent of those polled welcomed the measure and hoped that it would continue to be enforced, while some voices advocating a partial easing of the ban were also heard.

As for the proposed easing of the ban, 29.1 percent of those polled said the ban should be eased on extracurricular class lessons in artistic and physical skills, while 14.1 percent said the ban must be eased on all extracurricular class lessons.

The percentage of those polled who supported the ban on extracurricular class lessons were high among the low income class and those parents whose age bracket was in the forties.

The percentage of those polled who advocated the total abolition of the ban was only 4.1 percent, while 8.1 percent of college students, for whom it became harder to get part-time jobs, advocated the total abolition of the ban.

The enthusiasm for the education of children has been continuously intensified with each passing year. The percentage of those polled who wanted to send their daughters up to the college level was 73.4 percent--last year it was 67.5 percent. In the case of sons, it was 90 percent this year, whereas it was 89.3 percent last year. Furthermore, the percentage of those who would send their sons up to the graduate school level or overseas schools was 46.6 percent--it was 42.6 percent last year--and in the case of daughters, the percentage was 21.2 percent this year, whereas it was 15.1 percent last year--a rapid increase.

Regarding the enthusiasm for educating children up to higher school, mothers were more enthusiastic than fathers; those in their twenties and thirties were more enthusiastic than others; those of higher income brackets were more enthusiastic than others; in terms of occupation, those who were engaged in self-employment or office work or college courses were more enthusiastic than others; and those who were highly educated were more enthusiastic than others.

The idea of living separately from their children after becoming aged is prevailing more and more.

In last year's survey, 34.7 percent of those polled said "they had rather live together with their children," but it dropped to 28.9 percent this year. On the contrary, last year 39.7 percent of those polled said "they would rather live separately from their children," but it soared to 42.5 percent this year.

In the case of those of age 60 or older, 60 percent preferred living together with their children; 48.4 percent of the college students said they would live separately from the aged and 29 percent preferred living together with the aged. In the case of residents of the Seoul area, 55.4 percent--much higher than the average--preferred living separately.

Regarding the reasons for a quarrel between husband and wife, most of them said it was the money issue (32.8 percent). However, in the case of those couples in their late thirties and in their forties, the husband's coming home late at night was the reason.

Regarding the interrelationship between the husband-and-wife quarrel and their monthly income, an interesting phenomenon was seen around the level of 400,000 won monthly income. In the case of the family with a monthly income of over 400,000 won, the differences in "personal character" was the cause of quarrels, whereas in the case of the class of the monthly income of less than 400,000 won, "the money" issue was the cause.

As for divorce, in last year's survey, 17.4 percent of those polled said "they might get divorced if there were sufficient grounds," but it increased to 50.1 percent in the survey this year.

[Text] Methods of Investigation

The survey was conducted among 1,232 men and women who were 18 years of age or older (as of 27 July 1981). The total number of effective model pollees shown in the final statistical compilation was 1,084.

Seventy-seven survey workers, selected from among housewives who were formerly schoolteachers or from among current school teachers and who had previous experience in social surveys, visited model survey homes during the period from 30 July to 11 August. Answers to questionnaires were entered in survey forms either by the survey workers while interviewing those polled (65.8 percent) or else survey forms were distributed to those polled and collected afterward (34.2 percent).

The sampling methods were: random sampling based on stratified proportional probability and systematic sampling. After stratifying the population of the whole country in terms of cities, towns, and villages, a total of 77 survey areas were selected in accordance with the population proportions.

Next tongs, ris, and dongs were selected at random. And then 16 survey models were selected from each unit of the population register of tongs and ris with equal intervals between the selection points.

As for those who responded to the survey questionnaires, 48.1 percent were men and 51.9 percent were women. In terms of age, 2.4 percent were under 20 years of age, 29.1 percent were in their twenties, 25.9 percent were in their thirties, 24.7 percent were in their forties, 11.3 percent were in their fifties, and 6.5 percent were in their sixties.

In terms of the level of education of those polled, 20.1 percent were graduates of junior colleges or higher, 30.6 percent were high school graduates, 21.9 percent were middle school graduates, 21.3 percent were primary school graduates, and 6 percent had no school education. In terms of their living standards, 8.4 percent were upper class, 48.3 percent were middle class, and 43.3 percent were lower class.

The following table shows the distribution of those polled among cities and provinces:

SK160143 Seoul YONHAP in English 0123 GMT 16 Dec 81

[Text] Seoul, 16 Dec (YONHAP)--Korea's exports to Latin America this year will amount to about 800 million dollars worth at the year's end, up 65 percent over last year's, the Korea Trade Promotion Corp (KOTRA) predicted Tuesday.

According to the KOTRA estimate, next year's exports to Latin America will further increase to one billion dollars worth, a considerable rise when compared with 490 million dollars, export total for 1979.

The state-run trade promotion body urged local exporters to make further inroads into the region, indicating that last year's exports to Latin America constituted only four percent of the country's total exports.

Latin American countries are estimated to import some 113 billion dollars worth of commodities per annual, according to KOTRA.

Panama and Ecuador proved to be the largest market in the region for Korean goods this year, having imported more than one billion dollars worth.

The KOTRA said that Venezuela and Chile are expected to import more than one-billion dollars worth of Korean products next year. It attributed their optimistic forecast to the bright export prospects of heavy industries, including shipbuilding, and electronic goods.

PESSIMISM EXPRESSED ABOUT 1982 EXPORTS--Salesmen forecast a pessimistic outlook for Korea's exports next year. In a meeting held Friday at the Korean Traders Association, experienced employees engaging in trading firms said that the nation's exports were likely to increase little next year in terms of both volume and amount. According to a participant, Korea's export markets are being encroached on by other developing countries as well as by advanced ones gradually, so the nation will not be able to see a substantial export growth in 1982. Many industries manufacturing fertilizer, textiles, stationery, and machinery are losing bases for exports due primarily to the weak price competitiveness, also suffering low profitability, the salesman noted. Exports are expected to move upward in the latter half of next year, helped by a recovery trend of the world economy, but growth will be steady and slight. "Less developed countries including mainland China, Brazil and Pakistan will make inroads into our export markets with their "dumping sales" based on low labor costs," most participants foresaw. They pointed out that the nation had been compelled to hand off low-price commodity exports for the less developed countries, though Korea has not achieved enough development to vie with advanced countries in export markets. In this regard, the salesmen urged the government to decontrol the depreciation of the local currency so as to boost overseas trade. They also recommended that the authorities concerned help enterprises develop technical know-how to produce high-priced goods of superior quality. He urged the workers of the press agency to above all firmly prepare themselves as chuche-type communist revolutionaries and more firmly establish the work spirit of implementing the party's sole ideological system and of loyally following the party's leadership in news coverage work. He also urged the KCNA to mark a new, great change in news coverage work by thoroughly implementing our party's idea, theory and policies and further strengthen report and propaganda work so as to imbue society with the chuche idea.

He added: We should set the flames of a great revolutionary upsurge ablaze throughout the country by calling workers to join an all-out advance movement to accelerate the task of making the people's economy chuche-oriented, modern and scientific as set forth by the Sixth Party Congress and implement ahead of schedule the 10-point prospective plan of socialist economic construction for the 1980's and by strengthening report and propaganda work to implement the new economic policies which will be set forth by the party at every stage.

We should more aggressively carry out news coverage work to actively encourage the South Korean people's struggle for democratization and against fascism, implement our party's program for the fatherland's reunification and strengthen our solidarity with the international revolutionary forces under the slogans for independence and friendship.

The speaker said that, to enhance the role of our press agency, we should decisively raise the political and practical level of the workers in charge of this press agency and create an atmosphere of revolutionary writing activities.

He demanded that we glorify the 70th birthday of the great leader--the biggest national holiday--as a great political festival by enacting a new renovation in all sectors of news coverage by vigorously struggling to implement the militant task delineated in the message from the Party Central Committee. He urged the press workers, just as they did in the past, to brilliantly accomplish the noble duty of the KCNA in imbuing society with the chuche idea by resolutely safeguarding and protecting the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the glorious party center politically and ideologically and by remaining loyal to them forever.

In conclusion, he wished the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, the sun of the revolution and outstanding leader of the international communist and labor movement, a long life for the everlasting prosperity of the fatherland, for future happiness generation after generation and for the final victory of the chuche cause.

The meeting adopted a letter of pledge.

SK151052 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1036 GMT 15 Dec 81

[Text] Pyongyang, 15 Dec (KCNA)--A meeting commemorating the 10th anniversary of the publication of "On the Character and Tasks of the Trade Unions in Socialist Society," the speech delivered by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the Fifth Congress of the General Federation of Trade Unions of Korea [GFTUK], was held at the Central Workers Hall on 14 December.

A portrait of the great leader of our party and our people Comrade Kim Il-song was placed on the platform of the meeting hall.

Present were Comrade Ho Chong-suk and leading personages of the Central Committee of the GFTUK, trade unionists and trade union members in the city.

Chairman of the GFTUK Central Committee Kim Pong-chu made a report. He said that "On the Character and Tasks of the Trade Unions in Socialist Society," the classic work made public by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the Fifth Congress of the General Federation of Trade Unions of Korea on 14 December 1971, was an immortal classic document giving perfect theoretical and practical answers to all the questions of principle arising in building the trade unions after the establishment of the socialist system.

Proceeding from the basic principle of chuche philosophy that man is the master of everything and decides everything, the great leader defined the character of the trade union in socialist society as an ideological and educational organisation with emphasis laid on the work with people, with the result that a broad road was opened for the trade unions to truly contribute to the cause of the complete victory of socialism and the modelling of the whole of society on the chuche idea.

'NODONG SINMUN' HAILS KIM IL-SONG 1956 GUIDANCE

[Text] Pyongyang, 14 Dec (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN Sunday dedicated an article to the 25th anniversary of the publication of "For a Great Revolutionary Upsurge in Socialist Construction" and "Let Us Produce More Rolled Steel by Maximum Mobilization of Inner Reserves," historic works made public by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the December 1956 plenary meeting of the Central Committee of the Workers Party of Korea and at a conference of leading personnel and model workers of the Kangson steel works.

In the works the great leader made a scientific analysis of the situation within the party and advanced an active policy for effecting a new upsurge in socialist economic construction. He gave an all-round exposition of the plan targets for 1957, the first year of the five-year national economic plan, and ways for fulfilling it.

Under the title "Militant Banner that Called Forth Great Revolutionary Upsurge in Socialist Construction," the paper says: To boldly meet and surmount obstacles and trials by carrying through the revolutionary principle of self-reliance and the revolutionary mass line, is the main spirit running through the works and a revolutionary stand to be held fast to by our party and people.

The significance of the works lies, above all, in the fact that they helped effect a great revolutionary upsurge in socialist construction.

At that time, the internal and external situation of the country was made very strained by the intensified anti-"communist" row of the imperialists, manoeuvres of the opportunists and "march northward" clamour of the U.S. imperialists and their lackeys.

Materials and funds fell short of the need in fulfilling the vast five-year plan and the people were yet badly off.

By what means and in what way should those obstacles be surmounted?

A clear answer to this urgent, important question was given by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. He taught in his works that the obstacles should be boldly overcome and a new upsurge be effected in socialist economic construction.

In the course of the struggle to carry into effect the revolutionary policy of the great leader, a great change took place and miracles startling people were wrought one after another on all fronts of socialist construction.

Another significance of the works lies in that they helped carry through more thoroughly the revolutionary mass line of our party.

In the works the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song set it forth as an important way for the fulfillment of the plan for 1957 to give full play to the activity and creative ingenuity of the broad popular masses by implementing the revolutionary mass line.

After the December plenary meeting of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea, the great leader went down to the Kangson steel works and explained to the steel workers the difficult situation of the country, the demand of the revolution and determination of the party.

The teaching of the great leader became a powerful source of rearing the workers as performers of heroic feats and miracles.

The signal-fire of the grand chollima march flared up furiously in Kangson, the land of history, and its fierce flames spread to all parts of the country.

Another significance of the works lies in that they helped achieve the rock-firm unity and cohesion of our party.

In his works the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song made a scientific analysis of the counter-revolutionary moves of the factional elements and their grave consequences and put forward a militant task to wage a vigorous anti-factional struggle in a party-wide campaign.

It was thanks to the policy of strengthening the anti-factional struggle advanced in his works and to the wise guidance of the party for carrying it through that the filth of factionalism was swept away once and for all and a firm ideological and purposeful unity and revolutionary cohesion of the party ranks based on the chuche idea was achieved.

'NODONG SINMUN' ARTICLE PRAISES TAEAN WORK SYSTEM

[Text] Pyongyang, 11 Dec (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN Thursday carries an article headlined "The Taean Work System Is a Powerful Economic Management System of Operating Economy in a Scientific Way."

The article says: The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song founded the taean work system, the chuche-based economic management system, during his historic on-the-spot guidance to the Taean electrical machinery plant in December 1961, that is, 20 years ago.

The original taean work system founded by the respected leader Comrade Kim Il-song is an economic management system of our own style, which embodies the great chuche idea, and a communist economic management system under which the economy is guided and managed in a most scientific way to suit the intrinsic demand of the socialist system.

The taean work system is a powerful economic management system of operating economy in a scientific and rational way firstly because it is a scientific economic management system which makes it possible to gain a most correct grasp on the demands of objective economic laws and apply them.

Unlike all the former economic management systems, the taean work system, which embodies the revolutionary mass line, makes it possible to manage economy in a scientific way and meet the demands of economic laws by giving full play to the inexhaustible strength and creative initiative of the producer masses so they may play their role as the masters of economic management to the full.

The system of collective leadership of the party committee set up under the taean work system enables the functionaries to give priority to political work under the collective leadership of factory party committees and thus raise the producer masses consciousness of being masters so they may have a scientific view and analysis of all problems proceeding from the stand of masters.

The taean work system which embodies the revolutionary mass line makes it possible to gain a most correct grasp on the demands of economic laws and apply them in operating the economy because it closely combines guidance with the revolutionary enthusiasm of the masses.

Under the taean work system, the guidance and the revolutionary zeal of the masses are combined in such a way as to let the leading personnel always go down to production sites, explain the party policies to their inferiors and producers and bring the policies home to them, organize and enlist the masses in implementing them and solve knotty economic and technical problems in production and management, according to the work system of making the superiors help the inferiors. This enables the leading personnel and producer masses to give play to their merits and overcome their limitations in understanding the demands of economic laws and applying them.

The taean work system, unlike all the former economic management systems, strictly abides by the new principles of economic management--making a rational use of economic levers and actively mobilizing the masses, while properly combining it with economic and technical calculation, with precedence given to the political work in the whole course of economic management.

The article continues: The taean work system is a powerful economic management system of scientific and rational operation of economy secondly because it is a superior economic management system whereby we can fully meet the technical demands of modern production processes in the management and operation of the economy.

The system makes it possible to satisfy the demands of modern production processes, above all, by immensely strengthening technical guidance in production.

One of the main advantages of the system is that under it production guidance is given in a unified and concentrated way and technical guidance is strengthened immensely.

In the unified and concentrated production guidance system established under the taean work system production is directed by the factory staff with the chief engineer as the central figure.

Under the taean work system, scientific and technical problems arising in promoting production in its different processes are solved as factory-wide problems by the unified and concentrated production guidance system, so that the cottage-style method that may assert itself can be ruled out in the technical and production guidances and all work be done boldly in a big way.

The taean work system makes it possible to thoroughly meet the technical demands of the modern production processes next because it creates conditions for successfully guaranteeing the supply work for production in conformity with the demand of the large-scale industrial production.

The taean work system makes it possible to satisfy the demands of the modern production processes characterized by the massive and comprehensive consumption of raw and other materials of wide variety and concentrate all efforts on production.

The great advantages and invincible vitality of the taean work system, a scientific and rational economic management system, are fully testified in the practice of the economic construction of our country.

They are being given fuller scope by the system of industrial guidance established by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, stresses the article.

REPAIRS, REINFORCEMENTS OF RAILROADS ACCOMPLISHED

[Article by Staff Reporter Pak T'ae-song: "Proud Results Achieved in Railroad Work While Upholding the Party's Intentions"]

[Text] Three resolutions team members, railroad workers, and the combatants of the Youth Mechanization Mobile Company [YMMC] of many stations, all of whom vigorously uphold the intentions of the glorious party center from the bottom of their hearts, are achieving great innovations in railway work.

Actively using modern engineering facilities, the railway teams at various stations under the Ministry of Railways made railways far stronger than before by successfully replacing 108,000 old ties with new ones, spreading over 72,000 cubic meters of gravel, packing gravel under 4,657,000 ties, and by crushing 465,000 cubic meters of gravel in 4 months.

Also, the workers of the railway teams replaced light-weight rails with heavy-weight rails with lightning speed, and improved the railway conditions by extensively replacing defective tie bars, tie plates, and spikes.

These proud results were achieved through sacrificial efforts of railroad workers and the three revolutions team members, who vigorously launched a campaign to loyally respond to the wise leadership of the glorious party center and to the generous political trust and consideration of the party.

The great leader, Comrade Kim Il-song, taught us as follows:

"To successfully carry out new long-term tasks in order to build the socialist economy proposed by our party, the entire party and all the people should step forward, carry out an alert campaign, and continuously achieve promotions and innovations in all parts of the people's economy."

The glorious party center has recognized the importance of the role played by railroad, which is a forerunner of the people's economy, and has shown a deep interest and passionate consideration for railway projects. Recently, he assigned the honorable task of reinforcing the strength of railroads to railway teams.

The Political Bureau of the Ministry of Railways and the party committee of the Railway Bureau discussed measures to unconditionally and thoroughly carry out the intention of the party to reinforce the strength of railroads. They also set forth organized political projects to have the members of the YMMC and all transportation warriors vigorously launch worthwhile campaigns.

Railway teams, maintenance teams of the railway teams, and all related combat units in various stations had loyalty resolution meetings, and everyone participated vigorously in the campaign to strengthen railroads.

Under the guidance of the party organization, the functionaries of the planning staff set up exact short-term and long-term objectives and planned an economic organization project in order to make all railway segments into the "zero point" [yongohom] railways.

With passionate support for the intentions of the glorious party center, members of the YMMC, railway workers, party members, and workers of the railway maintenance teams and their supporters launched vigorous campaigns to carry out [the intentions] and effectively demonstrated their proud spirit in carrying out the revolutionary tasks entrusted to them.

Combatants of the YMMC of the Kilju railway team led the way for this worthy campaign.

The combatants, while earnestly upholding the revolutionary slogans of the party to "Produce, study, and live like the anti-Japanese guerrillas," set up tents at the railroad repair sites, studied and lived revolutionary examples, and carried on the railroad repair work with lightning speed.

In replacing ties, packing gravel, and other works, these combatants overfulfilled by 1.3 to 1.5 times--even a maximum of twice--their daily tasks.

The party committee of the Bureau of Ch'ongjin Railway has started a campaign to actively propagate the good experience of the YMMC combatants in setting new standards and records.

As a result, the railway teams of the Bureau of Ch'ongjin Railway, including the Ch'ongjin and the Paegam railway teams, successfully replaced over 29,000 ties and packed gravel for 940,000 ties.

The campaign to strengthen the railroad according to the intentions of the glorious party center was forcefully launched by the railway teams of the Bureau of P'yongyang Railway.

Railway teams, including those of P'yongyang, Sunch'on, Yangdok, Sariwon, Haeju, and Sinsongch'on, raised productivity in railroad work by over 1.4 times by greatly improving the rate of operation through appropriate examinations and maintenance of equipment necessary for repair work.

In particular, the railway team members and functionaries of the Namp'o railway team removed light-weight rails from some sectors and replaced them with heavy-weight rails in a short period. Also, they are performing over 300 percent of the daily tasks together with the combatants of the P'yongyang railway maintenance team by preparing plenty of concrete ties and planning the packing and crushing of gravel carefully.

Great innovations are also taking place in railway teams under the Bureau of Kaech'on Railway and the Bureau of Hamhung Railway.

The combatants of the YMMC and members of the railway team under the Bureau of Kaech'on Railway, who will unconditionally and vigorously carry out whatever projects the glorious party center desires, swiftly finished work inside tunnels following the format of an annihilation battle. In this way, the overfulfilled by more than 1.5 times their daily tasks, while guaranteeing normal train operation.

Many railway teams, including the Sinbukch'ong railway team, of the Bureau of Hamhung Railway have actively introduced many mechanized methods in railroad work, and they are repairing many railroads within the assigned time.

The combatants of the YMCC and members of railway teams under the Ministry of Railways are not conceited about their achievements to date; they continue to work vigorously.

NEW WOOD CHEMICAL INDUSTRY BASED DEVELOPING IN YANGGANG PROVINCE

Pyongyang NODONG SINMUN in Korean 26 Sep 81 p 3

[Article by Myong Hong-suk: "More Effort into Daily Necessities Production: At Yi Myong-su Forestry Works"]

[Text] Workers of the Yi Myong-su Forestry Works and members of the April 15 Technical Innovations Assault Team comprehensively use all wood without wasting any. They are managing very well by themselves a modern wood chemical industry base that produced all kinds of daily necessities needed for the people's lives.

The great leader showed very generous consideration by sending important equipment and materials so that the workers and engineers of the Yi Myong-su Forestry Works can manage the wood chemical industry base.

All the workers and engineers of the Forestry Works, which received the generous consideration bestowed by the great leader, are normally operating fiberboard, press-board, alcohol, and yeast production processes which have been completed already. They are also trying hard to complete production processes for paints, tannings, and tars, etc. as soon as possible.

When the great leader visited Yanggang Province for on-the-spot guidance, he said that the province had sufficient conditions to develop the wood chemical industry. He taught the functionaries that they must lead the way in organizing this work boldly.

The great leader, Comrade Kim Il-song, taught as follows:

"In the production of wood and the process of producing lumber, we must aggressively use small branches and trimmings to produce many processed products needed by the people."

The functionaries, laborers, and engineers of the Forestry Works worked hard earnestly upholding the teachings of the great leader.

They launched a campaign to dig frozen ground, lay foundations, and agressively raised buildings.

It was very difficult to build a chemical plant while carrying out a huge production schedule at the same time, but they did not hesitate.

The villagers in the nearby forest area gathered support teams and came to help when they heard the rumor that the laborers of the Forestry Works were vigorously working to build a chemical plant in earnest support of the teachings of the great leader.

Under these circumstances, the tasks of digging frozen ground, laying foundations, and erecting buildings were finished.

The laying of foundations and construction of buildings were only a beginning.

More important tasks were to build machines and equipment by themselves and install them.

The difficult task was undertaken by the loyal members of the April 15 Technical Innovations Assault Team.

The following incident took place when they built machinery by themselves and operated the alcohol production process.

The temperature of the alcohol tower did not come down as it should have according to their design.

The members of the assault team, who were all excited, were divided with many opinions.

But many comrades, including Yi Ch'ang-hwa and Pak Chong-ch'ol, did not waver. They resolved the technical problem satisfactorily by pooling their strength and wisdom.

Through this process, they soundly reaffirmed their belief that they would be able to solve any problem as long as they took a firm position in trusting their own strength and in solving problems to suit their own situation.

With this spirit, they agressively occupied [finished] new production processes one by one. They successfully solved problems encountered in the fermentation process and shortened the [plant] operation target date.

The party, which received a report on the achievements of these workers in the construction of the comprehensive wood chemical industry base, bestowed a great honor to the loyal April 15 Technical Innovations Assault Team by sending them a letter of appreciation.

The workers, who received profound trust and considerations from the great leader and from the party, are selflessly campaigning to complete the modern wood chemical industry base as soon as possible.

The fishermen of the fishery stations under the Pelagic Fishery Administration established a scientific fishing system and concentrically sent large-sized and modernly-equipped, multi-purpose fishing boats to the major fishing grounds to catch over 2 times as much fish as in the corresponding period of last year.

The fishermen of the fishery stations under the South Hamgyong Provincial Fishery Administration also overshot the daily plans 50-70 percent by giving precedence to fish shoal detection and properly combining the trawling and the circular mooring net fishing.

A new record was also registered by the fishermen under the Kangwon Provincial and North Hamgyong Provincial Fishery Administrations by hauling 1.7-2.2 times as much fish as in the same period of last year through vigorous mobile fishing operations.

Meanwhile, refrigerator factories and processing factories have achieved big successes in fish processing and freezing by operating all the equipment at full capacity.

[Text] Pyongyang, 13 Dec (KCNA)--NODONG SINMUN, 12 December, carried an article headlined "Proud Achievements in Construction of Chuche-Based Literature and Art" on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of the publication of the immortal classic work of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song "To Raise our Art to a Higher Level" on 12 December 1951. In his work the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song gave instructions on making our art an art of the people, national in form and socialist in content, and an art which fully meets international standards, recognized for its ardent internationalist spirit, profound ideological content and high artistic quality, the article says, and continues: The great leader propounded the idea of reflecting popular spirit and national characteristics and keeping national form alive in art creation and gave a profound exposition of the problems of principle arising for its impelementation. In order to raise our art to a higher level, he stressed, it is paramount that art workers raise their own political and ideological level.

The work of the great leader is a programmatic document which gives most correct answers to the questions of principle as to what kind of literature and art should be built by the party of the working class on the road of creating a new life and how they should be created. It became an inspiring banner which powerfully aroused our writers and artists to create revolutionary literature and art.

Along the road indicated by the great leader our literature and art has steadily developed on a sound foundation against all sorts of reactionary literary and artistic trends and positively contributed to the revolutionary struggle of the popular masses in each stage of revolutionary development.

The far-reaching plan of the great leader for raising our art to a higher level and developing it into an art which fully meets international standards has been brilliantly realized under the wise leadership of the glorious party centre.

Our party put forward an outstanding idea on a literary and art revolution and a unique literary and art policy on the basis of the immortal chuche idea and victoriously carried its historic cause to accomplishment, bringing about the great heyday of literature and art of chuche in the 1970's, and placed our literature and art onto the highest peak of socialist and communist literature and art.

The precious success achieved by our literature and art under the wise leadership of the glorious party centre is that a revolution was carried on in the content and form of literature and art and thus literature and art of our own with the features of chuche has been created and built.

Our literature and art filled its ideological content with the chuche idea by fully embodying the requirements of communist humanism in all works including those successfully portraying the glorious and brilliant revolutionary history of the great leader.

A great and signal success in the chuche-orientation of our literature and art lies in thoroughly embodying the chuche idea, the monolithic ideology of our party, in its ideological content.

Our party put forward a revolutionary policy of finally liquidating the leftovers of the exploiter society in literature and art and creating a new art of our own to suit the emotions and aesthetic sentiments of the people in our era on the basis of popular and national things and gave wise guidance to bring about a radical turn in all art genres.

One of the important successes in carrying out the tasks put forward in the work under the wise leadership of our party is that a large contingent of writers and artists well prepared politically and ideologically has been built up.

This is a great pride of our chuche-based literature and art.

Our literature and art has been placed onto a new high level without an equal, having developed into a most revolutionary and popular chuche-based literature and art, national in form and socialist in content and with a complete combination of profound ideological content and high artistic quality.

TRANSLATION OF YI DYNASTY CLASSIC COMPLETED

[Text] Pyongyang, 9 Dec (KCNA)--The National Classic Institute of the Academy of Social Sciences of Korea has of late successfully completed the translation of the typical national classic of the country "True Records of the Yi Dynasty" in Korean.

"True Records of the Yi Dynasty" is government diaries of the feudal state of the Yi Dynasty in which the historical facts over a period of 519 years from 1392 to 1910 are recorded in diary style.

Peculiar records of historical facts of more than 180,000 days with few omission, its original in Chinese characters consists of 1,763 volumes totalling nearly 900 books. Its Korean edition consists of more than 360 books containing upwards of 172 million letters.

It is not only vast in volume but also rare in the world in the diversity and detailed nature of its content.

It gives a comprehensive description of the political system of the feudal state of the Yi Dynasty and its home policies and measures concerning economic, cultural and military affairs, its external activities involving diplomacy, trade and cultural interchange, and arts including music, dance, fine arts and applied art, and natural phenomena such as astronomy, meteorology, earthquake and tidal wave.

It also contains materials about such neighbouring countries as China and Japan and some Southeast Asian countries and materials about Western countries including the United States, England, France, Germany, Russia, Belgium, etc. in modern history, and rich materials about neighbouring tribes which have not left their own records in history.

The translation of "True Records of the Yi Dynasty," which is a cultural wealth not only of our people, but of whole mankind, both in historical value and cultural significance, has left many emotional stories.

Four copies of the original of "True Records of the Yi Dynasty" had been preserved in the early period. But in the course of turbulent periods spanning more than 500 years, all but one had been lost, and the remaining one was in danger of being burnt any moment during the fatherland liberation war.

In those days of grim test, when the destiny of the country was at stake, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song personally sent men to save those precious books and saw to it that they were safely preserved at the supreme command.

He initiated the translation of it and newly expounded its purpose and principled requirements.

Upholding his noble intention, the glorious party centre formed a powerful translating collective by bringing together able scholars from all parts of the country while rearing intellectuals of new generation into dependable researchers of national classics in a short period.

And the party fully ensured necessary conditions for researches and provided sufficient scientific and technical foundations and gave wise guidance for ensuring the translation on the highest level both in speed and quality.

By translating "True Records of the Yi Dynasty," historical materials of vast scale, in a little more than 10 years, strictly respecting the original, without a letter or a sentence omitted or added, our scholars well guaranteed its value as historical materials.

The successful translation of "True Records of the Yi Dynasty" has created conditions for better studies of the national history on the stand of chuche and carry on the researches into national classic more energetically on a scientific foundation.
